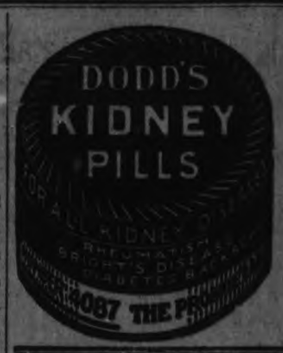
On Saturday last the regular C.P.R. westbound train No. 19, due ehre at 3.08 p.m. made its last stop in Brighton. This will be regretted by many as it was used a great deal not only by Brighton citizens but by people from the surrounding district. This train will omit stopping at Colborne as well.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER



THREE TO ONE AGAINST UNION AT MILLBROOK

Grace Church Completes Vote With 96 For and 32 Against.

GOOD VOTE.

Garden Hill, Outside Appointment, Voted Strong to Enter Union.

Grace Presbyterian Church completed its voting on the question of Church Union on Tuesday afternoon, the result being 96 votes for the anti-Unionists and 32 for the Union supporters — a majority of three to one against entering the United Church.

There are 191 names on the church roll, and of these, allowing for illness, absence, etc., 163 could have voted readily; 128 votes were actually cast.

At Garden Hill, the outside appointment of the Millbrook charge, only 8 votes were cast against Union, and 27 for, out of a possible 60 or more members having the right to vote on the question. The general feeling for entering the United Church was so strong, only a comparatively small number took the time or trouble to cast a ballot.

R. A. Linn, Financial Secretary, L. O.L. 2322; Alf. A. Barnum, District Treasurer, L.O.L., 2322; Orville Watters, District 1st Lecture, L.O.L. 108; Fred Grills, District 2nd Lecturer L. O.L. 108; R. J. Bibby, District of L. C., L.O.L. 526.

After the business was completed the gentlemen retired to Long's restaurant, where a banquet was served. Bro. S. A. Maguire acted as toast master. One of the toasts proposed was to the newly elected officers. He coupled the names of the District Master and the District Recording Secretary, both of whom responded and in a very efficient way brought out the principles of Orangeism and the good it was to a community. Several other toasts were given to which some of the other past masters responded. An enjoyable social hour was spent by the visiting brethren and local men.

Two upsets on the drifted roads occurred on Monday.

Mr. Gordon Fox, who was going his rounds on his bake sleigh, tipped over bread and all in the deep snow on Front Street, where they are building the sewer.

Mr. Rutherford, with his milk rig, also had an upset, and a little more damage done. He had a small coal oil heater in his rig, and this caught fire, but was soon extinguished. The weather was very severe, and he and his boy suffered with the cold while they were righting things.

Young People's League.

A very enthusiastic meeting of the Young People's League of the Methodist Church was held on Monday night, with a splendid attendance. S. A. Maguire, president, was in the chair, and Miss Keir, 2nd vice-president, had charge of the programme. The Scrinture reading and devotional topic, "The Stranger in the Land," was taken by Mr. Thos. J. Craighead. Miss Mary McGregor gave a piano solo, after which Miss Nevin gave the topic, "The duty of the Church to the heathen of the world." During the recreation period there was a contest, telling where to find certain things in the Bible. This was led by Miss Keir and Mr. Craighead, and Miss M. Forde chose sides. The sides were pretty evenly matched, most of them answering the questions well. The members of the League are divided into four groups. They being under the four vice-presidents and each group having a color. Group 1—Miss Sanders, color red, Miss Keir. Group 2 — Color white, Mr. Smith. Group 3—Color blue, Miss A. Simpson and H. ANTI-KIRKS TO ENTER.

Ottawa Pastor Says Congregations Will Come Around in Time.

MONTREAL Jan. 14.—Dr. J. W. Woodside, of Ottawa, addressing the Montreal presbytery yesterday, declared that many congregations voting themselves out of the United Church of Canada would not form a new Presbyterian Church, but would remain independent until such time as they could find their way into the United Church. He declared this was being done in order to prevent divisions in congregations.

Incidentally, Dr. Woodside made the declaration that the money-giving section of the Presbyterian congregations were entering Union, and gave as an illustration Toronto, where eighteen last year were in favor of union and ten churches that were against had contributed only $29,000.

Poured Alcohol On Wife To Make a Human Torch

HULL, January 14. — When Telesphore Demers, a temperance hotel keeper at Masson (20 miles east of here, had a "spat" with his spouse on Sunday last he emptied a bottle of alcohol from which he had been drinking upon her, and then tossed a lighted match on to her clothing, according to the evidence brought out at the court at Masson yesterday, when Demers appeared before a justice of the peace and was remanded until Wednesday.

Only the quick action of visitors in wrapping mats about Mrs. Demers saved her from serious burns and possible death, it was said. As it is, she is suffering from shock and slight scorching.

American Ambassador Halts Proceedings at Last Minute for Change.

TWELVE SIGNED.

(By A. L. Bradford, Unitde Press Staff Correspondent.)

PARIS, Jan. 14.—Accords whereby the United States shares in the proceeds of the Dawes plan to collect reparations from Germany were signed at a plenary session of the conference of Finance Ministers today. Twelve nations affixed their signatures to the protocol which comprises agreements on all outstanding reparations questions.

Colonel James A. Logan, who with Ambassadors Frank B. Kellogg and Myron T. Herrick, represented the United States, announced at the last moment that the conference had agreed to strike out that phase of the protocol which limited American war damage claims to $350,000,000.

Instructions from Washington were responsible for this change. American Charge D'Affaires Whitehouse rushed into the conference hall and halted proceedings just before the signing.

The plenary session convened at 9.15 a.m. and by 10.50 a.m. the signatures were completed.

Three nations, Brazil, Roumania and Italy signed with reservations.

Owing to the unusually early hour at which the conference began, many of the delegates straggled in unshaven and without having had breakfast.

One Japanese delegate hurried in half an hour later. This record for tardiness was eclipsed by that of a Roumanian, however, the latter galloping into the conference a whole hour late. He was loudly remonstrated with by delegates who were impatient to have the session over with.

FABLES ON HEALTH

REMEDIES FOR COUGHS.

There are few disorders more irritating to the sufferer and to those about him than a cough, Mrs. Mann of Anytown learned.

When a cold has been contracted and there is a cough with soreness of the chest, bed should be prescribed for fear of a severe attack of bronchitis or pneumonia.

Soak the feet in a pail of hot water in which is dissolved three teaspoonsful of mustard. Then rub the chest with warm camphorated oil.

Mrs. Mann had many recipes for home-made cough syrup. They were easily made, and inexpensive.

Here's one of them:

Roast a lemon, taking care not to burn it. When thoroughly roasted cut into halves and squeeze the juice upon three tablespoonsful of powdered sugar.

Mix and take a teaspoonful whenever the cough or tickling troubles you. This cough medicine is good as well as pleasant to take.

Mrs. Mann learned that a paroxysm of coughing may be arrested by sipping a tablespoonful of glycerin in a wine glass of hot milk.

TROTSKY IN MOSCOW.

Has Not Yet Left for Caucasus Health Resort.

MOSCOW, Jan. 14. — (United Press).—Leon Trotsky, it now appears, is not in a health resort in the Caucasus after all. He plans a trip south in the near future, however.

Premier Rykov, answering questions regarding Trotsky's illness, put to him at a teachers' congress, said the War Minister's illness was not dangerous, but would require time for curing. He reiterated that Trotsky was here and would go to the Caucasus soon.

USE CANADIANS IN A LABOR SHORTAGE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 — (Canadian Press).—Recent investigations in South America have convinced secretary of labour Davis that immigration from those countries as well as from Canada and Mexico should be placed on a quota basis as is the case with Europe.

Mr. Davis announced yesterday that he would press for legislation that would place immigration from Canada and latin-American on a selective basis but would give the secretary of labour authority to admit immigrants from Canada and Mexico during the labour shortage with the privilege of sending them back to their homes after the condition was relieved.

Splinters, driven into the flesh, often are very painful and dangerous, but Mr. Mann of Anytown learned a simple remedy for removing them.

Here it is:

Fill a wide-mouthed bottle almost full of hot water. Place the injured part over the mouth of the bottle and press tightly.

The suction will draw the flesh down and in a minute or two the steam will extricate the splinter and inflammation together.

Sometimes a wood splinter may be extracted by tweezers or forceps.

Ackerman, in the chair, and the following members present: Messrs. Edgar, Powell, Abraham, Stocker, Cormack, Hopwood, Rev. P. Costello, Rev. Dr. Blagrave and Mesdames Gibbs, Fanning, Welsh, Darcy, Kimberley, Hodgson, Holmes.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Mr. J. Edgar, who also gave the matron's report, showing 21 children in the Shelter during the previous month, with none received and two sent out. It is anticipated that the Shelter's quarantine, imposed for the mumps, will be lifted on Friday or Saturday of this week.

Superintendent's Report.

Mr. Powell reported 5 applications for children, with one brought in during the month (not a ward) and one (not a ward) placed on parole. He also reported on rental of two stalls in the Shelter stables for the sum of five dollars a month.

Mr. Powell was in receipt recently of a letter from a small ward of the Shelter, child of a man whose penitentiary sentence has just recently been completed. The little boy, whose letter was read to the Board, recorded a pleasant state of affairs in his new home, with two nice colts to feed, a popular school teacher, a healthy physical condition of his own, a supply of new clothing carefully itemized, from undershirts to rubbers, and a recent oyster supper whereat he was partaker of various oranges and chocolate bars. "I play a lot of games and win sometimes," was the optimistic conclusion of a happy letter.

From School Teacher To Great Eminence

A young man who was brought up on a farm in Western Pennsylvania studied diligently and qualified for district school teacher. Further pursuing his studies and teaching, he managed to save up enough money to put him thru medical college. After the Civil War, he began the practice of medicine in the new oil section of Pa., and often rode horse-back thru the woods to reach and relieve those who were seriously ill. He was a student of nature, knew and could easily recognize most of the medicinal plants growing in the woods.

Later, he moved to Buffalo, N.Y. where he launched his favorite remedies, and, in a short time, they were sold by every druggist in the land. Today, the name of this man, Dr. R. V. Pierce, is known throughout the world. His Golden Medical Discovery is the best known blood medicine and tonic. More than fifty million bottles have been sold. If your druggist does not sell the "Discovery," in liquid or tablets, you can obtain a trial pkg. of the tablets by sending 10c to Dr. Pierce's Branch Laboratory in Bridgeburg, Ont.

Hindus Raise Storm of Protest Against Export Of Monkeys to Restore "Senile and Debauched

LONDON, January 14. — Canadian Press. — Native extremist newspapers of India have started a campaign against the wholesale exportation of monkeys from India, says a despatch to the London Telegraph. The monkeys are worshipped by millions of Hindus. The despatch quotes a Calcutta paper as saying:

"The European craze for rejuvenation is denuding India of its monkeys, the sacred animals being slaughtered so that the senile and the debauched may win back problematical youth."

The demand is partly for monkey glands for medical purposes. The Calcutta paper warns the government if it does not stop "this devilish trade," it will have a terrible responsibility when the consequences of popular indignation become manifest.

Escorted by R. J. Fleming, the Prime Minister spent about half an hour at the home of his old supporter.

MUSICAL RECITAL AT CONSERVATORY

Pupils of Mrs. Dorothy Allan Park in Splendid Programme.

The hall at the Conservatory of Music was filled almost to capacity last evening by the audience assembled to hear the song recital given by the pupils of Mrs. Dorothy Allan Park. In a programme which was varied and interesting, and not too lengthy, the progress made by Mrs. Park's pupils was plainly manifested. Every number was given with that ease in singing which marks this teacher's work. Her pupils excel in phrasing and clear diction and produce pleasing tones with an absence of effort, that makes their singing delightful.

Three outstanding numbers were those of senior pupils: Messrs. Maurice Park and R. A. Brown giving in splendid style, the "Hunting Song," from "King Arthur"; Mr. Douglas Carlisle singing the "Wanderer's Night Song" and "The Bells of San Marie"; Mr. Maurice Park rendering in Italian two very pleasing operatic selections, "Bella del tuo sorriso," and "O Lola blanca"; Mr. R. A. Brown singing a double number, "The Two Grenadiers" and "Drake's Drum," and Messrs. Maurice Park and Douglas Carlisle giving in duet "Farings," from "Songs of the Sea," a bold-toned, forceful conclusion to a fine programme, that called for an encore.

A particularly pretty vocal number was that of Miss Geraldine Collins, who sang by request, in very sweet voice, the Bach-Gounod "Ave Maria," in Latin, and also sang "I Rise from Dreams of Thee. A violin obbligato for the "Ave Maria" was played by Miss Edwina Palmer, who also accompanied the solo numbers of Mr. Shannon McPherson, who sang "For You Alone," and of Miss Ida McBride, who sang "Time's Garden."

Other numbers on the programme were as follows: "My Dear Soul," sung by Miss Violet Davidson, "Melisande in the Wood," by Miss Geraldine Weatherhead, "Four by the Clock," by Miss Gladys Mulholland, "The Call of the Woods," by Miss Leah Black, "The Vagabond," by Mr. Kenneth Jarvis, "Miri Dye," (Mother Mine), "Romany Songs," by Miss Bertha Hill, "Where My Caravan has Rested," (Romany Songs), by Miss Ethelwyn Dix, "The Wind on the Heath," (Romany Songs), by Miss Alice Price, "Follow the Piper," by Miss Helen Lytle, "Love's a Merchant," by Miss Helen Lamb, "At Dunset," by Miss Frances Robertson, "Love Went a-Riding," by Mrs. Leila Spriggs.

Accompanists for the songs were Mrs. Park and Miss Agnes Logan.

At the conclusion of the recital, an informal dance, under the patronage of The Dorothy Park Studio Club, was give for the pupils and their friends. This was a jolly affair, attended by about one hundred people, with excellent music furnished by Roy Nickrenz, at the piano, and Ted McCarthy, with the traps.

CRITICIZE AFRICAN PLAN.

Suggestion to Create Separate Nationality in Union is Opposed.

LONDON, Jan. 14. — (Canadian Press)—Some misgivings are aroused here by the Pretoria cablegram stating the Union Government intended to introduce a bill dealing with the question of South African nationality and creating a Union flag.

The British press criticizes the proposal and points out that the effort to create a separate South African nationality is likely to further complicate Imperial relations. It is remarked in some London circles that it would be illogical and ridiculous if British subjects were sometimes granted recognition as such and sometimes refused recognition as British subjects as they journeyed around the Empire.

Portable 'Phone Coming.

Tests Already Made Astound Business Men With Possibilities.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—(United Press). — The time is not far off when newspaper reporters will carry portable telephones with which to keep in touch with their offices, Adolph Ochs, publisher of the New York Times, predicted in addressing the Columbia School of Journalism.

Ochs said he had heard that a great corporation had tested the practicability of such an invention and that "the manager of the company's stand aghast in contemplation of the vast scrapping of existing machinery that must follow its introduction to general use."

Herbert W. Piercy Entertained Large Audience in Murray Street Church.

(Contributed.)

The entertainment given by Herbert W. Piercy of Collingwood, reader and entertainer, at Murray Street Baptist Church, last evening, under the auspices of the Women's Association, was in every way a marked success. The audience was unusually good.

"Enoch Arden," Tennyson's masterpiece, was given entirely from memory, and presented in such a way as to make it live in the minds of all who heard it.

This is Mr. Piercy's second visit to Peterboro, and it is safe to say that if he makes a third, there will be many eager to hear him. He has an invitation to give, at an early date, one of his Bible readings: 'The Book of Job," or "The Story of Joseph," entirely from memory.

The musical numbers, vocal solos by Miss Florence Scott and Dr. S. J. Graham, were excellent. Mrs. W. A. Lowan accompanied with her usual ability.

SMALL NATIONS GAINED HEARING OF WAR CLAIMS

Conclusion of Paris Conference Delayed a Day by Insistent Demands.

BRAZIL'S LOSSES.

Protocol of Anglo-American Agreement Ready for Signing at Session To-day.

PARIS, Jan. 14, — (Canadian Press)—The protocol embodying the accord reached by Britain and the United States together with the other Powers, on the payment of the costs of the United States army of occupation and war damage claims to the United States will be signed at a plenary session of the Allied Finance Ministers' Conference today. The document consists of twenty-five typewritten pages, but only two pages are taken up with that section referring to the settlement with the United States which occupied five out of the seven days of the conference.

The definite and final provisions include payment to the United States of 55,000,000 gold marks yearly, beginning September 1, 1926 — this amount to apply on the occupation costs; the United States to share in the Dawes annuities at the rate of 2¼ per cent., beginning retroactively September 1, 1924 — these payments to amortize the war damage claims, which will not exceed $350,000,000; immediate release to the United States of $14,725,154 now in the Federal Reserve Bank, where it was deposited by the Allies under the Wadsworth agreement.

The United States agrees to waive any claim under the Wadsworth agreement of May, 1923, and also agrees that the 2¼ per cent. shall not apply on payments made on account of reparations by any former enemy power other than Germany.

Occupation Costs.

The payments against the United States occupation costs have priority in the cash payments of the Dawes annuities after the expenses of the Inter-Allied Rhineland Commission, the Inter-Allied Military Control Commission and the Reparation Commission have been paid. The United States makes an express reservation as follows:

"The Allied Governments cannot insert any other item in the priority clause hereafter without the consent of the United States."

One important item according to the United States delegation is the following: "The United States is recognized as having an interest proportionate to its 2¼ per cent. interest in that part of the annuities of the Dawes plan available for reparations in any distribution of railway bonds, industrial debentures or other bonds issued under the Dawes plan or in the proceeds of their sale."

The United States is also recognized as having an interest in any other disposition that may be made of bonds under the Dawes plan, if not sold or distributed. The agreement provides that should payments in any one year fall below 55,000,000 gold marks for the United States army of occupation and 45,000,000 marks for war damage claims, the balance due on each particular year would be carried over until the following year with simple interest at 4½ per cent.

Small Powers Heard.

The small powers, led by Brazil, had their innings at the conference yesterday. They presented their claims before the plenary session, even though this caused a delay of one day in terminating the conference. The entire day was spent by the experts' and drafting committees in putting their report in readiness for ratification by the conference last evening. The small powers, however, made such energetic protests that the conference had to hear them. A special session was convened for last evening while ratification of the protocol was postponed until 9 o'clock this morning.

Dr. Sousa Dantas, for Brazil, asked the conference that Brazil's claim for war damages be recognized in principle. He had a list of claims for losses sustained in the war, including ships sunk, cargoes destroyed and seamen drowned, the total amount of which he asked to be referred to the Mixed Claims Commission. This, the conference agreed.

Dr. Sousa Dantas made a reservation for his country which does not share in the Spa percentage reimbursements. He asked that a certain percentage, considerably under one per cent., be allowed Brazil when Belgium has abandoned whatever fraction of her eight per cent. under the Spa agreement is finally decided upon. The conference agreed that Brazil should be reimbursed for her war losses, but the method of reimbursement will form part of another discussion.

Winston Churchill, M. Clementel and Ambassador Kellogg will make the closing speeches, in which particular reference will be made to the Anglo-American agreement.

TRADE RETURNS SHOW INCREASE

But British Are Not Enthusiastic When Exports Fall Behind.

DISMAL VIEWPOINT.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—(Canadian Press).—British trade returns for 1924 show striking increases in both imports and exoprts compared with former years. Nevertheless they elicit mournful comments fro press because while the imports show expansion of £184,000,000, the exports increased less than £50,000,000 and the total excess of imports over exports reached £345,000,000.

The morning post views situation dismally and considers the showing throughout list unfavorable, declaring, "it is impossible not to regard the returns as indicating continued growth of internal consumption without a corresponding ability to buy for such consumption by exports.

The paper comments on the serious fact that despite the steady growth of an adverse balance there has been a remarkable improvement in Amrican exchange on London. It suggests various causes for this phenomenon, and concludes: "However welcome may be the practical expressions of renewed confidence on part of America in the European outlook, the necessity for improvement of our trade position, so far from being lessened has in reality been increased."

Are Pleased To Announce Their

JANUARY PIANO CLUB

Limited to 20. Every Member Receives Special Club Prices, Terms and Privileges

Club Opens Thursday, Jan. 15th, at 8 a.m. Closes Positively With 20 Members

It is fitting in a community like Peterborough to have such an extraordinary Piano selling event as the Greene Piano Club. It enables parents to give the children whose birthright it is to know and enjoy the inexhaustible beauties and delights of music, the opportunity to purchase a Piano—so conveniently NOW—when the child should be taking lessons, and not have to miss the golden age period through waiting for a more convenient time.

The Greene Piano Club gives every parent the opportunity to have the music study begin NOW. The earlier the better, but, start right, with a good Piano, having a good action and good tone, the proper foundation for the child's musical ear and an instrument that all in all it will be a pleasure to own.

The Greatest Piano in Canada

We have conducted this tremendous Piano event on six occasions. It has grown in volume and popularity because it is undoubtedly the most attractive Piano offer made in Canada. A great many families are owners of instruments secured through this Club. And they are pleased. Its low price offer, easy terms, no interest and special privileges are the magnet that draws them. You cannot equal elsewhere the value offered here.

An evidence of the public confidence in the old established firm of Greene Music Co. and their Piano Club is the fact that many people telephone or write in to join without ever seeing the Piano.

The Deal and The Instrument

The deal is a straight-out offer of 20 Pianos. The instruments are of the most reliable, trustworthy character—THE ENNIS (Boudoir style), in which the real value is put on the INSIDE rather than in fancy cases, although the cases are of genuine walnut mahogany or oak. We have known the instruments for years. We know them to be as reliable a Piano as was ever put in a home. They are made by good Canadian workmen in one of the best factories in the world.

Club Books Open On Thursday

The Club books open at 8.00 a.m. Thursday. In other words, Thursday will be the first day you can join the Club. The Pianos, however, are now on display in our warerooms, where you can see and hear them. You are cordially invited. The Piano will be delivered upon your becoming a member, making the initial payment of $6.00 and the two succeeding payments of $2.00 each. During the first few days of the Club's life we hope to give everyone their choice of two woods —mahogany, walnut or oak.

In other words, the big Greene Piano Club—with its 20 members participating in the big purchase—is intended to really celebrate our Twentieth Anniversary in a business way; to impress the importance and significance of 20 years of continuous business upon the public mind, and, most important, to make it possible for 20 families who really need Pianos to secure them under ideal conditions.

NORTH MONAGHAN COUNCIL MET

The North Monaghan Council held their first monthly meeting at the Court House, Peterborough, on Monday, January 12th, all the members being present. Reeve Rye presided.

Mr. Robert Byers was present and discussed the question of snowplowing of sidewalks in that portion of North Monaghan where city mail delivery was inaugurated a year ago. The particular area in question is that portion of the township between Monaghan road and High street on the east and west and Frank street and New Romaine street on the north and south. Mr. Byers reported that a large proportion of the residents were willing to pay him for snowplowing their sidewalks, while others refused to do so. A resolution was passed instructing the Clerk to interview the Township Solicitor and to have a bylaw prepared making it compulsory for all property owners within the defined area where sidewalks now exist to have this snow removed from the sidewalk in front of their property.

A bylaw authorizing the township of North Monaghan to enter into an agreement with the Bank of Nova Scotia to borrow money to meet current expenditures for the year 1925 was passed.

A bylaw was passed apponiting Mr. E. B. Fowler as Auditor for the Township Council for the accounts of the year 1924.

A letter was read from the Department of Public Highways Toronto, stating that in order for a municipality to participate in the Provincial subsidy it must abolish statute labor altogether and levy a general rate over the whole municipality. The Council at this meeting refused to pass the required bylaw abolishing their present system of commuted statute labor.

Two letters were read from the Ontario Municipal Association in regard to membership fees, and also in regard to proposed legislation for the revision of the Provincial statutes.

A communication was read from Mr. G. N. Gordon, M.P., Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons, enclosing a letter from the Deputy Minister of Immigration in regard to the deportation of former residents of the township of North Monaghan.

Mr. John McIntosh made application for the position of Tax Collector at the same salary as paid last year.

Mr. McIntosh was appointed Assessor for the year 1925 at a salary of $225.00.

The following bills were passed and ordered to be paid:

Robert Byers material for snowplow, $4.85; Treasurer, revenue stamps and postage, $7.54; Richard Patton, 260 yards of gravel, $39.00; County Treasurer, lots purchased by the municipality at the county tax sale, $18.00; Peterborough Examiner, printing, $279.13.

The meeting then adjourned. The next regular meeting will be held at the Court House, Peterborough, on Monday, February, 9, at 1 o'clock.

RYLSTON CLUB MEETING

Prominent Speakers and Illustrated Lectures Promise Good Programme.

The Rylston Community Club are holding their first meeting at the Rylston school house on Friday evening, January 16th at 8 o'clock. Two splendid speakers have been engaged for the evening. Mr. David Hunter of Grimsby, Ayrshire field man for the Dominion of Canada will speak on Dairy Condition in Canada. Mr. Hunter is in a position to give first hand information on this important subject. Mr. Ray Aikins, B.S.A. of Stirling, district representative will give an illustrated lecture using motion pictures. Musical selections, both vocal and instrumental and recitations complete what promises to be a very instructive and entertaining evening. Any one interested in the basic industry of the country is very cordially invited to be present.

TELEPHONES IN CANADA

One for Every Nine Persons —Ontario Has Largest Number.

TORONTO, Jan. 14.—(Canadian Press).—There is one telephone for every ninth person in Canada. A recent report of the Ontario Municipal and Railway Board gives the total number of telephones in the Dominion as 1,022,782. In proportion to population British Columbia has the most telephones, their being 15.9 'phones to every hundred persons in the coast province, while there are 15.1 to every hundred persons in Ontario. But the province of Ontario has the largest number of telephones 443,842, compared with Quebec's 185,410. The report shows the porportion of 'phones to population is considerably higher in Ontario and the four western provinces that it is in Quebec and the Maritime provinces.

CANADA LIFE SUCCESS IN 1924

OVER $100,000,000 NEW BUSINESS PAID FOR DURING THE YEAR

Mr. Herbert C. Cox Reviews Company's Affairs

RECORDS MADE IN HUNDREDS OF MILLIONS

The Canada Life last year passed the hundred-million-dollar mark in assets, and in new business paid for.

One hundred millions of dollars in the various funds of the Company, and the confidence shown by the public in applying for and paying for over a hundred million dollars of new life insurance, are the two items which deserve special mention.

In this connection, it is significant that the people insured for this new hundred million of insurance have in effect undertaken to build up such a fund for their protection throughout the coming years. In due time every policy continued in force reaches its face value as an asset for the policyholder, either by death or maturity, and new insurers are congratulated upon their acquisition of these policies. At the same time, they are strongly urged to maintain their interest in the transaction and determine that nothing shall ever induce them to discontinue their insurance.

The safety attaching to the hundred million dollars of assets now invested is shared by all in proportion to their payments. For the average person it is better to have a small interest in numerous safe investments than to have all his savings in one place. Life insurance accomplishes this "diversity of investment" in the best manner possible, at the same time providing for larger funds in event of death.

THE NEW GENERAL MANAGER

During the year Mr. T. G. McConkey was appointed General Manager of the Canada Life, and has gained in popularity and in the respect of his associates since assuming his new duties. He very naturally fell heir to the duties of General Manager after a lifetime spent as a life insurance man, commencing in the field work of a New York company, in which he rose to the position of Manager for Ontario.

His early knowledge of agency men and agency work was gained when for sixteen years he held the position of Superintendent of Agencies of a large Canadian company, during which time he travelled all over the Dominion and in the United States, until he became perhaps the best known agency man in Canada, and there was hardly a prominent field man connected with any company whom he did not know personally. His valuable work in the Life Underwriters' Association was a part of his activities at that time, and he was for some years Honorary President of that Association.

However, it is with the Canada Life he has done his best work, and the prestige which the Company has won in the Dominion, and particularly in the United States, has been very largely due to his tact and perseverance.

The growth of the Company's business during the past ten or fifteen years has been great, and it is a matter for congratulation that during that period of expansion a man of outstanding ability in agency work has been at the head of the "new business" production.

Mr. McConkey is well known in Financial as well as in Insurance circles, being a director of the Western Assurance Company, the British America Assurance Company and the Provident Investment Company. He is also a member of the Executive of the Life Officers' Association, and was one of the original founders of the Life Underwriters' Association.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

Toronto, January 8th, 1925.

The regular Annual Meeting of the Canada Life Assurance Company was held in the Head Office Building, with a large number of policyholders in attendance. This was the seventy-eighth annual meeting, and the age and stability of the Company was emphasized by the large number of prominent men in attendance, and particularly by the personal visit of Mr. Adam Brown of Hamilton, Ontario, who in his ninety-ninth year gave an excellent address on Canadian affairs.

Mr. Herbert C. Cox reviewed the business of the year 1924 as follows:

The continuance of more or less disturbed conditions throughout the world has retarded that full return to a generally active business which we have all been hopefully anticipating, but we are grateful for the measure of improvement which, though very gradual, would seem to be in progress, and which should shortly reflect the steadying influence of the German settlement, and of the recent general elections in Great Britain and the United States.

Canada to Share in Revival.

That Canada is ready to share in the revival when it comes is indicated by the important excess of her exports over imports for the past year. While her borrowings for commercial purposes have been many millions of dollars less than in the previous year, due to curtailed activities, these funds are in her banking institutions and immediately available to meet enlarged demands as they arise, and it is well established that Canadian bankers have never yet lacked the courage nor the will to support to the utmost the industrial and agricultural effort of the country. It is not my province to enter in detail into what that effort can be; suffice it to say that a study of the output of our factories and farms as revealed in available statistics will be intensely edifying to the average reader and will give him a new conception of the possibilities of his country.

National Problems.

It is true that the crops in the Western Provinces were disappointing in volume and were not as evenly distributed as we could have wished. They were, however, put in and harvested at a reduced cost, and the prices realized were much in advance of the previous year, so that the aggregate amount received by the farmers reached a most important sum. It is well to bear in mind that in addition to these field crops those Provinces are producing impressively in eggs, butter, cheese, honey, vegetables and live stock of all kinds, which justifies the persistent urging for the undertaking of mixed farming. There is a growing development in the movement of these commodities to the Pacific for shipment by water, which will be hastened and encouraged by the very excellent facilities already provided or in course of construction in Vancouver. These, together with those now long established at the head of the Great Lakes and in conjunction with the very extended service offered by the railways, are capable of caring for the output of a much larger population, the procuring of which is, perhaps, the most important problem confronting not only the Government and the railways, but all those who desire the progress and welfare of the country as a whole. Various agencies are at work on its solution, and they merit a sympathetic and strong support in their effort, but it has not yet been approached from a sufficiently broad angle. There is too great a tendency to throw the onus upon the Government for the time being and to make specious criticism of its action or inaction, while we should rather realize that upon the adequate populating of our great Western country, with the consequent increased production of foodstuff and creation of markets for manufactures, depends in a very large measure our national progress. It is also of prime importance to those institutions which have thus far provided so much of the working capital for those Provinces that the numbers upon the land should constantly increase. Is it not, therefore, the duty and interest of the various bodies of manufacturers, bankers and loaning corporations, including insurance companies, to direct to the subject their combined experience, initiative and effort so that a positive, logical and feasible method may be evolved and adopted for dealing with a matter which touches all of them so vitally? The time for such concerted movement has come, the necessity is pressing, and I venture to suggest that the right leader can consolidate the forces of commerce and finance and launch an undertaking which will have an incalculable influence upon our common future.

Loaning Agencies Hampered in West.

Meanwhile the companies lending money in those Western Provinces upon real estate mortgage are being hampered in places by legislation, the originators of which, it is only fair to assume, believe it to be desirable, but which is on the contrary irritating to the lender without being helpful to the borrower. It has already proved a deterring factor and may become a permanent barrier in the way between the demand for money and the sources of its supply, unless those responsible for it awake to the danger they are bringing upon their constituents. Government rural loaning has not been successful, and it is obvious that a complete stoppage in the supply of funds obtainable upon mortgage, through the menace of restrictive legislation, would be a calamity the onus for which no body of men should lightly undertake. It is hoped, however, that a more considered judgment will prevail, and that before long the disturbing clauses will be removed or agreeably modified.

For the safety of the lender and the comfort of the borrower it is essential at all times that the greatest care be exercised, and that due regard be had for the ability and energy of the latter as well as for the quality and location of the land he occupies. At times loans have been too readily available for indifferent borrowers, resulting in disaster for them and in trouble for the lender. The eagerness for dangerously high interest-bearing mortgages is, however, not so keen as it was, better judgment being used in selection, and lenders generally are falling into line with the methods and scale long ago adopted by the older and more conservative institutions.

Uniform Insurance Laws.

While life insurance companies as investors of money are directly concerned with any legislation bearing upon mortgage loans, they are also intensely interested in the various State and Provincial laws affecting the many aspects of their business as insurers. Up to the moment each State in the American Union and each Province in Canada has had its own peculiar code, making it very difficult and cumbersome for the companies to meet the varied requirements of the fields in which they desire to operate. In the United States no uniform laws have yet been promulgated, but during the past three years in Canada extensive and intensive thought has been spent upon the matter by the superintendents of insurance of the several Provinces in consultation with the officials of the companies and the life underwriters. As a result a uniform life insurance act has been agreed upon and has already become law in British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island. In Nova Scotia it has been introduced in the Legislature, but not finally acted upon, and it is expected that Quebec also will shortly consider it. The new provisions remove many ambiguities regarding insurable interest, rights of beneficiaries, admission of age, proof of claim, and other debatable points, all of which will simplify work and clarify matters for the insured. This common act in conjunction with the Dominion Insurance Act of 1917, so ably administered, since its inception, by the Federal Superintendent, Mr. G. D. Finlayson, serves to make Canada unique in the matter of insurance legislation, and already admiring eyes are turned upon us by other countries, seeking light upon a vexed problem.

Excellent Government Supervision.

Continuity of administration in a Government department exerting supervision over institutions is most desirable, and we are fortunate that in the past 39 years there have been only two incumbents in the office of the Federal Insurance Superintendent, which is a very responsible post at the head of a most important department immediately under and directly answerable to the Minister of Finance. All who have contact with this department recognize the ability and courtesy with which its varied business is conducted and its value to the undertaking with which it is particularly concerned.

Service to Beneficiaries.

While some phases of life assurance are subject to legislative control, others are not, and among the latter we find prominently in evidence the investment of policy proceeds by the beneficiaries receiving them. It is fair to assume that those who benefit under the extraordinarily large modern policy have either personal knowledge or capable advisers to guide them in the choice of investment channels, but it has been estimated that 90 per cent. of those insured are covered for $10,000 or less, and it is for their beneficiaries, to whom the $10,000 or less means so much, the companies are coming to feel an added responsibility. Of the three and three-quarter millions of dollars paid out by the companies of this continent each day, one million is paid to those in the above category, largely in cash, but more recently there are being offered the beneficiaries various facilities and methods for leaving the principal sum with the company, subject to a reasonable rate of interest, thus avoiding the temptations and pitfalls which beset those coming suddenly into possession of what may very well seem to them an inexhaustible sum of money. These new provisions offer a further fruitful avenue of usefulness to the underwriter in perpetuating the service inaugurated with the original sale of the policy, for it is to these millions upon millions of owners of small policies and their beneficiaries our main duty lies.

Business Gains Momentum.

I should like to tell you of the magnitude of life assurance, but it has been my studied effort each year to avoid wearying you with figures. May I impress upon you, however, that one-half the total people in Canada and the United States are insured, that the funds held in reserve for them amount to upward of $12,000,000,000, that these funds are helping in food production, in transportation, and in general public works everywhere? The undertaking is gaining momentum each year, but we are still very far from the ultimate goal, as it has been estimated that our people are as yet insured for only one-sixteenth of their capitalized earning capacity.

Canada Life Under Review.

For our own Company 1924 will go on record as the first year in which our new assurances taken up have exceeded one hundred millions, as they actually reached $105,528,845. In addition to this amount a further $21,602,881 were issued and are in course of adjustment, making the total issued $127,131,226. These figures evidence gains of 30 per cent. as compared with the previous year, and indicate unusual activity upon the part of the general organization. We have seized favorable opportunities of adding to our agency plant without extending the territory covered, and we are now better than ever equipped to take advantage of the steadily broadening market for life assurance. During the last two or three years the growth of many of our important branches in Canada and the United States has necessitated removal into much more commodious offices, and the recent occupation of our new home in London has provided the Great Britain Branch with important facilities and with the incentive to make full use of them. This branch paid for new policies of $10,597,856 in the year, in addition to annuity considerations of $1,640,000. Your Company is now thoroughly established in Great Britain and comfortably and suitably housed.

Executive is Enlarged.

While all this growth has been in progress your directors thought it desirable that the Executive should be enlarged to keep pace with it, and made provision by by-law, which you will be asked to confirm, for another Vice-President, electing Mr. Leighton McCarthy to the position so created. Mr. McCarthy has been a member of your board for 15 years, for many of which he has been your solicitor. He will now be known as Vice-President and General Counsel and will share the responsibilities of the Vice-Presidency with Mr. E. R. Wood, who has been so long closely associated with us and who is, as Vice-President, Chairman of the Committee on Investments. It is hoped that the Vice-Presidents will take an important part in the executive work of the Company.

New Appointments.

Mr. T. G. McConkey, who has been for 13 years a highly valued official of the Company, more recently as General Superintendent, was in May last appointed General Manager. This promotion came to him as a recognition of his splendid equipment and his place in insurance, and in the belief that in this capacity he will be better able to prosecute the business and interests of the Company.

At the same time Mr. A. N. Mitchell and Mr. A. Gordon Ramsay, who had been functioning so efficiently as Assistant General Superintendents, were promoted to be Superintendents and are very vigorously extending your business.

In October the board authorized the appointment of Mr. L. K. File as Associate Actuary. He has been for some years Assistant Actuary, and is a most capable officer.

Mortality Rate Very Favorable.

While we have been undergoing more or less readjustment in the Home Office, and while we have been undertaking the unusual amount of new assurances to which I have already alluded, we have also been most happy in our experience regarding death losses, which have been remarkably low. This argues not only freedom from all epidemic illness, but a general improvement in public health due in no small degree to the preventive measures being urged upon their members by many of the companies themselves. I am glad to say that we have ventured along this road, and with some success, but we have not been able to follow it as far as we should like because of the expense attached to it. The saving arising from this favorable mortality added to the earnings derived from other sources has given us a total surplus earning of $3,541,023.09 for the year.

Careful Investment of Funds.

Your investments have again been rigidly scrutinized and are presented with confidence for your approval. While the interest rate obtainable on desirable bonds has been tending downward we have been able to seize upon favorable moments for purchase so as to minimize the disadvantage. It will be only reasonable, however, to look for some reduction in the average earnings of institutions like ours if the price of money continues to become lower, because the daily accumulation of funds demands their daily employment, whatever the current yield may be. Judgment and foresight in the purchase of securities are of value in as much as they enable one to anticipate and prepare for changes in market conditions, and I think we may feel assured that the members of your Investment Committee are particularly well equipped to manage your funds so as to obtain the best possible return upon them.

Contingent Fund Maintained.

The unprecedentedly severe strain experienced through an unaccountable reversal of climatic conditions in the past two years by portions of the Western Provinces which have hitherto been most favored in this respect and which have been highly regarded from the mortgage-investment viewpoint, has brought about a situation more acute than looked for by the loaning companies. It has been found generally necessary by investment institutions to make provision to meet the unusual circumstances, and your directors have, instead of adding further to the contingent fund, as in former years, appropriated for this purpose a sum which, after exhaustive enquiry, they deem ample to meet all present contingencies without disturbing in any way the regular functions or practices of the Company.

An Efficient Loaning Organization.

Our cash payments of interest and instalments of principal are materially in excess of last year and will continue as the farmers are able to realize upon their wheat at the prevailing high prices. We have over the course of years built up a very strong and capable loaning organization who have always their fingers upon the pulse of the mortgage situation and are prepared at any moment to carry into effect any change of policy or method dictated by necessity or good judgment. To add to its effectiveness we have just appointed as Supervisor of Loans in Western Canada Mr. W. R. McConnell, who has been for 20 years a valued official of the Company in that country. His undivided time and thought will be given to the improvement of our already extensive means of personal contact with our borrowers and the solution of problems incident to an important mortgage business.

At the same time we are adding to the staff in the Home Office Mr. W. Hastie, who has been successful in establishing an active loaning department in Montreal. Mr. Hastie will not only be of assistance in the general work of the investment department, but will be charged with the wider development of our mortgage loaning facilities in the more important cities and towns of the Middle and Eastern Provinces.

Board of Directors Strengthened.

During the year your board has been strengthened by the addition of Mr. J. A. McLeod, General Manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, and Mr. W. E. Rundle, Vice-President and Managing Director of the National Trust Company, Limited. They both bring to your affairs keen and analytical minds trained by long years of experience in large matters, and we esteem ourselves extremely favored in having their co-operation.

Company's Ideal of Service.

It has become almost a habit at these annual gatherings to indicate our hopes or dreams for the more or less immediate future of our own Company and the great fraternity to which it belongs. Some of them have come true, some of them have proven chimerical, while others have not yet been fully demonstrated—but whatever fate attends them the mere uttering of them seems to commit us to a more definite endeavor which must, I am sure, be helpful. There is growing into the very woof of life assurance the conviction that the duty of the Company to the assured only really commences upon his becoming a member of it, and that that duty will be discharged only in the measure in which the Company, through its representatives from the President down, renders to him and his beneficiaries the type of service to which his membership in the institution of life assurance entitles him. I like to think it is the aim of every individual in this organization, not only "to render unto Caesar what is Caesar's," but to give also that intangible personal interest which converts a cold business relationship into a warm, human association which spells helpfulness for all who feel the contact.

This is by no means a new suggestion to Canada Life minds, as it was the fundamental principle behind the Company's inception, but we seek, as our opportunities expand, to extend it together with all the other facilities which were offered by those wise men who conceived in 1847 virtually every policy plan and advantage available today. Already in 1850 our predecessors were being complimented in the public press upon their courtesy to their clients and their expedition in the payment of claims, and we are today only endeavoring to carry on the traditions they bequeathed to us. If we succeed we shall have fulfilled some of the functions for which we were created and shall have helped to advance the great business and philanthropy of life assurance.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF REPORT

The total surplus earned during 1924 was $3,541,023, a new record being set in this respect.

New assurances issued and taken up amounted to $105,528,845, which was a greater amount by 30% than in 1923.

In Great Britain and the United States a steady growth was maintained. For annuities alone, people of Great Britain paid the Canada Life $1,640,000.

Death losses have been remarkably low, and these savings in mortality and earnings derived from other sources produced a record surplus.

The business in force was increased to nearly half a billion dollars, and the income from all sources last year was $24,727,554.

Cash payments of interest and instalments of principal were in excess of 1923.

The assets of the Company were increased to $103,208,000.

WHOLE FACTORIES NOW INSURED

Other Activities of Company

Group insurance on the lives of men and women in factories and offices, stores, and other organized bodies of industry, has been arranged in increasing volume during the past year. The men and women employed have themselves recognized the value of "group insurance" and frequently request the Employer to arrange it for them. Millions of dollars of life insurance now exists on this co-operative plan which would not have been possible otherwise, and many bereaved families have been taken care of under its benefits.

Business Insurance.

Many large policies have been issued on the lives of business men, the number for $50,000 or over issued in 1924 running into several hundred in this one Company. The safety of many a business concern is judged by the amount of protection afforded its creditors by this modern device, and it is becoming more in demand than ever.

Training of Men.

The specialized service required by the public has made necessary the individual training of men to represent the Canada Life, and during the past year educational work of a high order has been continued and extended to cover the needs of the situation. It has now become well known that the service by a Canada Life man is not perfunctory, and in connection with business insurance, insurance for succession duties or inheritance taxes, etc., some very valuable services have been performed for business men.

During 1924—

The Canada Life Assurance Company

(78 Years Old)

3. Continued to improve service to public by special educational training of field force, more representatives having benefit of this instruction than in previous years.
4. Placed more insurance with present Policyholders than in any other year, and increased public interest in Monthly Income, Business, Estates and Group Insurance.

HOW TO PRUNE YOUNG CHERRY TREES IN THE LATE WINTER SO THAT THE ORCHARD MAY START TOWARD ABUNDANT YIELD WITHOUT WEAKNESS DUE TO WASTE OF STRENGTH IN SPRING

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 14.—Late winter or early spring is the best time to prune the young cherry tree.

To prepare the farmer for this operation, where a cherry orchard is planned, or one is to be developed, the following detailed advice has been prepared.

Profitable orchard production requires a good stand of trees that bear fruit for many seasons. This necessitates having healthy, strong trunks and tree heads.

The principal trunk troubles that shorten the life of cherry trees are: Weak centres, splitting down, and "southwest" injury.

Southwest injury is probably not much affected by the way the young tree is headed. The remedy is to shade the trunk of the tree to prevent alternate thawing and rapid freezing in the late winter.

The other two trunk troubles can be greatly reduced by the care used in starting the young tree. Splitting of large branches is principally due to the use of narrow-angled branches as main limbs of the tree. If branches which arise at angles are used, and these are properly pruned later, splitting can be largely prevented.

Start Tree Right.

Weak centres can likewise be avoided by starting the tree correctly. If the branches are well spaced and then kept from growing stronger than the central leader, weak centres can be very largely eliminated.

Only one-year-old trees should be planted. They transplant better and can be developed into better trees. They should be heavily pruned at planting time to reduce the top in proportion to the reduced root surface resulting from digging.

Prune Heavily.

Considered from the standpoint of pruning at planting time, there are two classes of yearling trees. One is the tree with low branches. Trees of this kind should be trimmed up to a whip and headed so as to leave eight or ten good buds. The advantage of this tree is that the branches arising from the lateral buds have much wider angles than those which glow in crowded nursery rows.

The low branched tree is usually smaller than the higher branched tree. This is no disadvantage unless the smaller size is not due to nursery conditions but to a more dwarfish habit of growth of the stock. If this is the case then the larger tree would be the only practical one to plant, even though it has narrow-crotched, more crooked branches.

The second type of tree has branches at the desired permanent height. It is therefore necessary to head back and save some of them. The lowest branch should be high enough to prevent close passage of a disc harrow, about 20 inches.

Remove all narrow-crotched branches. These merely lead to splitting.

Thin out the number of laterals, leaving three to five. Cut back those left to eight or ten inches. If the branches are not well spaced, further selection and removal should be done the next season. Even when the leader has a good start, it cannot long survive if there are a large number of good sized laterals clustered about it.

Good Fruiting Wood.

The reason for leaving several laterals at planting time is that some branches may be lost in the close cultivation given the young tree. Also better spacing around the trunk is possible in the second season after new branches have arisen from the leader.

The leader should be left a few inches longer and, so, several inches higher than the lateral branches. This is to insure its getting a good start. There is, however, a tendency among growers to leave the leader too long. The result is that it soon outgrows the lower branches and, if these are weak, poor fruiting wood is produced.

The First Year.

If very little growth is made the first season, little pruning is needed except to see that no one branch greatly outgrows the other. Cutting off the strongest branch is often the best way to secure a balanced condition.

The pruning needed the first year is that following a good growth made either by a two-year tree which grew little the first year or by a vigorous one-year tree. Unless as much as 20 inches of growth was made no tipping will be necessary. Only thinning and balancing of the branches is needed.

From 18 to 22 inches seems the best length at which to head back to get the best spur development and lateral branch distribution.

Use only relatively wide-angled branches, for the variety of tree being pruned.

Never permit several strong branches to come at the same height or they will choke out the centre. Thin out the branches on the yearling tree and, if possible, leave branches that come out several inches apart. Never leave more than two close together.

While well spaced branches on a young tree may appear unnecessarily far apart, they will be all too close when they come to be several inches in diameter. The main branches should be distributed through a distance of 35 to 40 inches. This not only results in a strong headed, but a long-lived tree.

Strong Leader.

The fate of the leader depends largely upon the treatment given the one-year orchard tree. To insure the leader keeping ahead of the laterals, leave it a little longer than the laterals, measuring from where the branches arise from the trunk.

As in the case of the branched tree at planting time, there is also a tendency to leave the leader too long. The result is that the lower branches become dwarfted. Equal terminal growth is an index of equal thickening and uniformity of branch size.

Good crops depend upon developing uniformly growing branches in the tree. The care given in the second and third season largely governs the uniformity of branch growth. See that the branches have an equal chance when growth begins in the spring. Be sure to check the branches that are beginning to outgrow the others.

Second Year.

In the second year the full number of main branches usually can be started. Seven to eight main branches are not too many. It is much easier to develop uniform sized branches with many-branched trees than with trees having few branches. Also the trees will be lower and more spreading and generally better fruit producing.

Thin out excess and crossing branches.

Tip only branches longer than 20 inches, unless to check a branch.

"Modify" the Leader.

After the full number of branches is selected the leader can be cut back to the top branch. No definite time or height for this can be given.

First, get a long head and a number of main branches. Usually four to five feet is a good height at which to suppress the leader, if the lowest branch is 20 to 24 inches from the ground.

Do not hesitate to thin out the branches on a two or three-year-old tree which was not thinned enough earlier. There is some loss by heavily pruning the older trees, but not nearly the loss that results if the branches are left too close together.

ONE-YEAR-OLDS BEFORE AND AFTER PRUNING. LOW BRANCHED TREES, LIKE THE ONE AT LEFT OF EACH PAIR, SHOULD BE WHIPPED. THEY MAKE BETTER ORCHARD TREES.

HERE ARE THREE DANDY GAMES FOR THE ICE THAT ADD INTEREST TO THE FUN OF SKATING

Use a Bottle Instead of a Puck in One Contest.

SKILL REQUIRED.

Blocks of Wood Make Good Playthings in Ice Bowling.

A smooth expanse of ice always prompts the question, "What can we play?" True, sharp skates and strong legs give perhaps more fun than any other single thing; still, after awhile the interest dies down and it is then that the skaters would like to try something else.

The two games or contests mentioned in this article all fall under the head of amusements. Yet either contest requires some skill and practise. Perhaps there will be one of these stunts you will want to try.

The Bottle Game.

In this game, each contestant is provided with a hockey stick and a pop bottle. The hockey sticks can vary in style and shape but the bottles must all be alike.

Two lines are drawn parallel on the ice, 100, 200 or 500 feet apart. Upon one line the bottles are placed three feet apart.

At a given signal each contestant commences to move his bottle across the ice toward the other line, and the one who first crosses it with his bottle in an upright position wins. Any contestant who, in his eagerness to get ahead of the rest of the racers, upsets his bottle, is taken from the race. So you see one must exercise patience and a very steady hand as well as perseverance.

Bowling on the Ice.

Materials required for this game are ten blocks of wood, each four inches square, and two pieces of wood six inches square and one inch thick.

The blocks of wood are set up on the surface of a triangle. There are four blocks across each side and one in the center of the triangle. There is a clearance of about four inches between blocks.

One hundred feet from the blocks a line is drawn across the ice and the contestants are stationed behind this line. Each contestant, using a hockey stick, has two chances and a score of 100 is marked down if all of the blocks are moved with the two slabs or "balls" driven from the line. Should the contestant be fortunate enough to move all of the blocks with the first "ball" he will be credited with 200. If five or more are moved, only 50 is credited and if less than five are moved, the score is five. One man should be stationed near the blocks to retrieve the "balls" and also to act as umpire on close decisions. The score can run to 500. You'll enjoy this game.

It's Not Too Late Yet To Make Resolutions

For better success the coming season, farmers may find some good advice in the following rules:

Grow more legumes—alfalfa if possible, and grow them right.

Keep farm accounts.

Use only pure-bred sires of high-producing stock.

Study the farm organization to make the most efficient use of machinery and improved methods.

Use the best of seed and the variety best suited to your section.

Consider whether poultry, apples, small fruits or truck crops may not be worked into the farm organization with profit.

Study the family diet and plan to use all of the milk, green vegetables and home-grown fruits which health rules require.

Look over the home equipment and try to save steps and labor through improved methods or mechanical conveniences.

New Levels Are Reached In Sale of Livestock

It is not only in the grain crops that the farmers have had a very successful year, but also in the live-stock industry. During the year the volume of sales has been very much larger than for the previous year, except in the case of sheep. The total sales of cattle were 857,529 as against 816,578 for 1923. Sales of calves totalled 281,683 in comparison with 248,082 for 1923. Taking calves and cattle together, there was an increase of 74,552 animals over the previous year.

The largest increase of any took place in the case of hogs. The total sales of hogs amounted to 1,230,093 in comparison with 980,179 in 1923, an increase of 25 per cent. The price of hogs recovered somewhat toward the end of the year.

Sheep sales for the year were somewhat lower than those of 1923, the figures being 432,997 and 458,233 respectively.

The verse to be completed was:

"Bill Watson was clever, folks said;
On skates he would knock 'em all dead.
He was light on his feet,
But it sure was a treat

INTENTIONAL.

A cow puncher had applied for a policy and the insurance agent was catechizing him in the usual manner.

"Have you ever met with an accident?" he asked.

"No," said the cowboy, but added, in an effort to give some helpful information:

"A bronc kicked two of my ribs in last summer and a rattlesnake bit me in the ankle a couple of years ago."

"My word," faintly expostulated the insurance agent, "don't you call those accidents!"

"No," said the knight of the branding iron. "They done it on purpose!"

Poultry Meat Most Healthful If Well Chosen And Cooked

By MICHAEL K. BOYER.

Physicians say that of all the meats' poultry meat is the most healthful. But in order that the meat may be more tender, no fowl should be cooked and placed upon the table the same day it is killed. It will require at least 24 hours for the muscles to relax. The old country way of running out in the barnyard to kill a chicken for dinner, simply because the minister made his appearance all of a sudden, might be well enough for the minister, but not very appetizing for the old folks with poor teeth and an expert knowledge of what quality is in a carcass.

Fatted Flesh Is Desired.

There is a marked difference between white and dark meat. The former has much less fat, and a correspondingly large quantity of protein. The dark meat has a much larger proportion of meat bases, but as these bases are often considered of little value, it is to be seen that the white meat is to be preferred to the dark.

While still young, but full-grown, the chicken is best suited for food. As it grows old the flesh loses its flavor and increases in toughness.

The reason why fat birds are better than unfatted is that globules of fat are distributed throughout the muscles, displacing to a considerable degree the moisture found therein. The bulk is not only therefore increased, but also when the flesh is cooked the fat does not evaporate to the same extent as water, but, melting, softens the tissues, making it more digestible and finer in flavor.

Well-grown birds with good-sized masses of moderately fat flesh are more economical than either young or over fattened ones. At ordinary retail prices full-grown fowl is the only poultry which compares in real economy with the cheaper cuts of beef and pork. But young chicken, medium-sized turkey, goose, duck and guinea fowl are often as economical as the more expensive cuts of other meats. Some full-grown fowls can, by proper cooking, be made to equal the meat of young fowls.

Testing the Age of Poultry.

One way of testing the age of dressed poultry is to take the end of the breast bone farthest from the head between the thumb and finger and attempt to bend it to one side. If it bends easily, the bird is very young (the same applies to a green goose). If the bird is a year or so old, the bone will be brittle, and if the bird is old, the bone will be hard to bend, and is apt to break.

The feet of freshly-killed poultry feel moist, soft and limber, and if the head is allowed to remain on the carcass the eyes will look full and bright. As the fowl stales the eyes shrink and the feet become hard and dry. If the skin shows a bright, smooth surface, it indicates young age; but when the feet are shriveled it shows the fowl is old, and the body turns greenish and decomposition is under way.

The feet and bill of a young goose are yellow, but if the bird is old its feet and bill will be reddish in color, and brittle. If the feet of a dressed goose are not pliable, it indicates the bird has been dead a long time.

The flexibility of the windpipe in ducks and geese denotes youth. When the bird is young the windpipe may easily be squeezed and moved; in old birds it is rigid and fixed.

Turkeys under a year old have black feet. From then on, up to three years of age, the feet become pink, and after that they gradually turn gray and dull.

In squab pigeons the flesh looks whitish, as seen through the skin, but in older birds it becomes more and more purple. Older birds, too, have red feet.

COWS APPRECIATE SUCCULENT FEEDS

Cabbages and Potatoes, However, May Impart Flavor at Times.

Succulent feeds in the ration of dairy cows have come to have such importance that many crops not grown primarily for this purpose may enter into the ration. Cabbage and potatoes, though not generally grown for dairy feeds, are often fed to dairy cows as a means of supplying succulence and disposing economically of products that are otherwise unmarketable.

Like other succulent feeds, cabbage and potatoes may have a tendency to impart undesirable flavors and odors to the milk, if fed under certain conditions. Tests have been conducted to determine the extent to which these crops affect the flavor of milk and how they may be fed and the milk handled so as to minimize such effect.

If was found that, on the average, when dairy cows consume as much as 14.3 pounds of cabbage within one hour before milking time, abnormal and objectionable flavors are produced in the milk. An increase in the amount of cabbage fed intensifies these flavors. An average of 25 pounds of cabbage may be consumed immediately after milking, however, without having objectionable flavors in the milk become noticeable. Some of these flavors may be eliminated by proper aeration of the milk and other greatly reduced.s

CURING A CRIBBER IS AN EASY CHORE

Horse Can't Use a Toothpick So Human Ingenuity Must Help.

A horseman I know recently bought a fine specimen of horse-flesh at a bargain because the animal was a cribber. In less than a fortnight the animal was cured, and when I asked how, he said:

"Before purchasing this horse I examined his teeth and found, as I have often found before in the mouths of cribbing horses, that his front teeth had grown so that they crowded each other. To the horse this crowding caused very much the same sensation that you would experience were you to get a berry seed or some other hard substance wedged between your teeth. You would immediately find, or improvise, a toothpick, but as the horse is unable to do that, he seeks relief by biting some hard substance. In this he is temporarily successful, as the biting causes the teeth to spread apart, and before long the animal is sucking wind into his stomach with that grunting and groaning noise that we all dislike so much to hear.

"Overcoming the dental trouble should be the first step toward breaking the habit. This I did by sawing between the teeth with a small saw. To further insure against cribbing until he could realize that his teeth were again in normal condition, I tacked a strip of sheepskin (woolly side out) along the top of the manger. Few horses will bite upon this fuzzy and oily material and, consequently, the animal, relieved of his former annoyance, and discouraged against biting, forgot to crib."—G. E. Hendrickson.

SLACK APPLES COSTLY.

Liverpool market men deduct 90 cents from the regular price for a barrel of apples if it is found slack, or loosely packed. About half American shipments failed to meet the tests of the English markets last year.

Pinfeathers

Many women succeed in the care of poultry under adverse circumstances that would cause men to quit in disgust.

Make it a rule each night to count all the fowls to see if any are missing. This may lead to an investigation of the cause of the disappearance of missing ones and avoid further loss.

There is no success in poultry outside the beaten path of continued attention and perseverance.

HOW TO MAKE GOOD CONCRETE TO FILL THE USUAL FARM NE

...ncrete work as generally done falls far short of the possibilities which may be attained in strength, appearance and watertightness. The strength and other desirable properties depend upon two fundamental laws of proportioning which are:

1. With the same sand and gravel, that concrete will be the strongest which contains the greatest amount of cement.

2. With the same percentage of cement, that concrete will be the strongest which has the materials proportioned to give the greatest density.

The first of these laws, increase in strength with the increase of cement, is generally understood and followed. The second law, increase of strength with increase of density, however, is not so closely followed.

It is no doubt well understood that the material should be free from clay or an excessive amount of organic matter. Then giving clean material the importance of combining the proper sizes to secure the greatest density should be considered. The greatest density is secured when the size of sand and gravel grains is graded in all sizes from fine to coarse. Fine material may be as small as 1-200 inch and large pebbles may be up to 1½ inches in diameter for ordinary foundation work or the like. The usual rule is to make the large sizes not more in diameter than ¼ the thickness of the forms in which the materials is to be used.

It is somewhat difficult to choose material which has the proper gra...ing of sizes of sand and pebbles. It has been found that a screen having ¼ inch mesh may be used to divide the material in such a way as to get good proportions. By this method the material which will go through this size screen is called sand, and that which will remain on it is called gravel. As a general rule the materials are combined so that the sand used is one-half the volume of the gravel. The other element of strength, cement, is then added according to the requirements of the work and the proportions would be stated in three parts, as 1:2:4, meaning 1 part cement, 2 parts sand and 4 parts gravel. Bank run gravel will usually contain too much sand, often running as high as 4 parts sand to 1 part of gravel instead of 1 part sand and 2 parts gravel.

A bottomless box should be used to measure the materials. In mixing, where a machine mixer cannot be used to advantage, a board platform will be found much more satisfactory than a box. If the three-part mix is used as a 1:2:4, a good way of mixing is to measure the sand, spread it on the platform and then spread the cement over it. This is shoveled over not fewer than two times and spread out so that the gravel may be spread over it in a thin layer. The gravel will help hold the water which may then be added. The mixture should then be shoveled over again, usually four or more times, until it presents a uniform smooth appearance. Enough water should be used so that when mixed the material will begin to slump down when piled in a cone-shaped pile. Another test is that the pile will quake slightly when patted with the back of the ...

In no department of the game did Parkdale have the advantage. Dwyer and Johnstone both McAllister and Col- lins were used to the wear by the Paddlers, while Parker and Mc- Leod had a wide margin on the Parkdale rearguards both defensively and offensively. Parker's presence by the Club was a tonic to the Petes and their ...ttle and ...

At that Watson was the Parkdale star, and he kept on trying when some of his team-mates had nothing left, although the Petes held him scoreless.

Don Jeffrey was the most effective of the balance of the losers, getting one nice goal on a pretty individual effort, and threatening often. Moss Lount was never particularly dangerous—in fact the team seemed to be strengthened when Cawkell relieved the former Argonaut player. Sullivan, once celebrated pinch-scorer, was never in the picture, and the defence pair, Harris and Romeril, were badly shaded when compared with the Petes' defence. McAllister, the former Sarnia goaler, was between the posts for the first two periods, and then gave way to Ernie Collett, of the Olympic team. McAllister had a style all his own, and although he made plenty of stops, he did not look very certain, and the Parkdale management yanked him in favor of Collett, who was beaten three times in the last period, but on close-in shots in each case.

Petes In Great Form.

Dwyer in the Petes' nets has had more work to do in other games this season, but at that he had some difficult situations to deal with, and was as great as ever. Parkdale's two goals were scored at point blank range, and Dwyer killed off everything else in great style.

The Petes' defence has never looked better. Parker's poke checking wrecked rush after rush, and his stick-handling when he went down the ice was beautiful to watch. McLeod checked with cool judgment and he had a punch on the attack too, his dash for the fourth goal being a feature.

Bailey's wizard-like stick-handling and Collins' speed made that pair stand out on the forward line, but all five contributed to the complete victory. Bailey was responsible for some of the prettiest rushes of the night, and his play for the first goal in the last period was a masterpiece of clever stick-handling that took him right in for a counter. Collins contributed the fastest skating of the battle, and his checking has never been more effective. He rode Watson's tail all night, and he mussed up play after play, especially in the last period, when his work won him a big hand from the crowd.

Ray Rose, despite the handicap of a sprained ankle, played a whale of a game, checking well and going great guns on the attack, and he was rewarded by getting the last two goals in clever style.

Ranger was effective all the way, his good stick-handling keeping Jeffrey busy trying to look after him, while Burgess, although not used as much as usual, did nice work while out there.

The biggest amateur crowd of the season saw the battle, and the victory of the Petes seemed to be very popular, the bulk of the support being given to the blue and white.

The Teams.

Referee—M. J. Rodden.

Opened Fast.

It was fast hockey from the go-in, both teams cutting loose with all they had, and the fans settled back for a desperate struggle. Parker was the first to get into the limelight when he stick-handled the length of the arena to be foiled by McAllister. Bailey followed with another sensational dash, but failed to score. Parkdale came back with a nice combination play, but Jeffrey missed at close range after taking Watson's pass. McLeod sailed down in a pretty rush, but McAllister made a great stop.

The Petes were not to be denied, however, and six minutes after the start, Parker broke away, passed to Collins, who beat the defence with a pass to Ranger, and although McAllister stopped the left winger's shot, Collins dashed in and scooped the rebound into the net. Petes 1, Parkdale 0.

Stung by this reverse, Parkdale came strong for a few minutes. A Watson-Lount-Jeffrey combination looked dangerous, but Dwyer took care of the shot in sensational style. Parker relieved with a beautiful rush, but shot high. It was fast hockey at this stage, and feature plays by both teams were loudly applauded.

Finally, after nine minutes of fast going, Ranger put the Petes two in front when he broke up a Parkdale rush at centre and went down alone to drive a vicious shot from outside the defence. McAllister caught the rubber with his two hands, but the momentum of the shot pulled him off his balance, and he fell into the net with the puck. Petes 2, Parkdale 0.

A minute later "Scotty" Cawkell got that one back for Parkdale. Parker was checked at centre, and Cawkell picked up the loose puck and tore in, sliding the rubber past McLeod and beating the Petes defence man in a race for the puck, and completing a fine play by beating Dwyer at close range. Petes 2, Parkdale 1.

Harris drew the first penalty of the game for tripping Ranger. Shortly before the period ended Ranger was chased for elbowing Watson when the latter was making a dangerous rush.

The Second Period.

McLeod had the first shot of the second period after a nice rush. Jeffrey hooked Ranger and was penalized, but nothing striking happened while he was off. When he came back he proceeded to sew up the game by a spectacular rush, in which he worked in on top of Dwyer by good stick-handling, and scored neatly. Petes 2, Parkdale 2.

With the score knotted, the Paddlers came fast for the next few minutes, but the Petes held them off nicely, and then started an offensive of their own that soon got results. A rush started by McLeod and a pass to Bailey was converted into a goal by the right winger's bullet shot from the side, which McAllister got one hand on, but could not hold. Petes 3, Parkdale 2.

That was the beginning of the end for Parkdale, for the Petes were going great guns now, and the Toronto crew had begun to fade. The losers tried hard to stem the tide, and were dangerous more than once but could not work through for counters. A penalty to Bailey for tripping Watson gave them a chance, but Lount drew a rest almost immediately after for dumping Ranger, and with the teams playing five men a side, McLeod put the Petes two in front by a sparkling rush, in which he skated around the Parkdale defence, and going at top speed, ripped a fast one by McAllister. Petes 4, Parkdale 2.

The Petes apparently scored another in this period on a shot by Bailey, but the goal-umpire missed the play. However, it was not needed.

Two goals in front going into the last period, the Petes were not satisfied to hold that margin. They cut out such a fast pace from the start of the last twenty minutes that the Paddlers were soon skated into the ground. Bailey put the skids under Watson and company five minutes after the start when he broke away for one of the most spectacular efforts of the night. He went around Romeril and Harris by beautiful stick-handling, and although Collett dived to stop the shot, Bailey tucked him neatly and slid the rubber into the net. It was a wonderful play. Petes 5, Parkdale 2.

There was only one team out there after that, and it wasn't Parkdale. Watson used all his cunning and resourcefulness and never stopped trying, but Collins stopped him time after time, and the rest of the Paddlers could get nowhere.

Rose drew a penalty, but Lount followed him for tripping, so there was no advantage. When Rose came back he added to the rout by grabbing a rebound after a rush by McLeod and beating Collett at close range. Petes 6, Parkdale 2.

The Paddelrs were a well beaten outfit at this stage. Watson tried hard to respond to the entreaties of the Parkdale rooters for "Just one goal, Harry," but the Olympic star could not make the grade. And to add insult to injury, the Petes grabbed off the last counter when Rose was on the job to bat in another rebound. Petes 7, Parkdale 2.

The Paddlers made a last determined effort to score and failed amid great excitement. Watson took a pass almost at the mouth of the net, but Dwyer saved. A wild scrimmage followed, in which Watson hit the post with a shot, but the Petes finally cleared. Collins drew a penalty for lying down in the net during the mix-up. A little later Parker tripped Watson, and the Petes were two men shy, but only a few seconds were left to play, and Parkdale had no chance to take advantage of this opening before the final bell.

GROVE SCHOOL DROP GAME 5-3

Lakefield Team Led Lindsay Juniors to Home Stretch, Then Faded.

ONLY ONE PENALTY.

LAKEFIELD, January 14. — In one of the smartest exhibitions of hoskey ever seen here, Lindsay last night defeated Grove School by 5 goals to 3, after the students had set and maintained the pace through the first two periods. It was the opening home game in the junior series of the O.H.A., and with its speed and cleanness, delighted the capacity crowd.

"Snorts" Coombs' lads from the Scugog carried the extra poundage that enabled them to break away from the lighter Grove team in the final period, and run in three goals, turning an adverse score of 3-2 to a 5-3 victory. Lindsay had used their weight effectively and they had the reserve strength to deliver the winning thrust, when the school boys were fagged by their drive during the two earlier frames.

The teams were:

Lindsay: Goal, Eberts; def., Reeves and Cook; centre, Mills; l. w., Tripp; r.w., Wileman; subs., Sutton and Moore.

Lakefield: Goal, Griffiths; def., Christmas and Loosemore; centre, Rainnie; l.w., Young; r.w., Fawcett; subs., James and Morin.

Referee: Walter Jackson, Peterboro.

Rainnie started the scoring after 15 minutes had gone in the first period. Young made it two early in the second and Cook counted for Lindsay. Rainnie followed with another, and Moore raised Lindsay's tally to two just before the bell rang. The second period produced the fastest hockey, but the Grove's apparent advantage faded early in the third. Cook ran in two shots in a row and Mills tossed in Lindsay's fifth.

Griffiths, Christmas and Rainnie played exceptionally well for Grove. Christmas loosened several teeth and cut his lip, but pluckily stayed in the game. The whole Lindsay team played fine hockey.

Walter Jackson handled the game in fine style. He had little to do, only one penalty being handed out, and that one was for a minor infraction by Morin.

SAM CRAWFORD STAR TOO SOON

Detroit Slugger Would Have Rivalled Ruth in These Days of Lively Ball.

CHAT WITH EVANS

"I get a thrill any time Babe Ruth swings at a ball," remarked a fan to me recently while we were discussing the home-run king.

"It doesnt' matter whether he hits the ball or not. His cut at the ball is the poetry of motion even when he strikes out."

It takes co-ordination to be a great batsman and when Ruth is going good there is rhythm to his swing.

* * *

Yet to my way of thinking, no batsman I have ever seen in action compares with Sam Crawford, who years ago starred at Detroit.

* * *

An umpire as a rule doesn't appreciate many of the things that appeal to fandom. His work becomes mechanical, he does it more or less automatically. Partisan feelings do not sway his judgment. Despite this I never tired of keenly observing the style of Sam Crawford at the bat.

His timing was perfect, despite the fact he was a slugger, and there was always the same smoothness to his swing.

Sam Crawford was a star about 10 years too soon. In these days of the lively ball and so-so pitching he would have rivaled Ruth as a slugger.

* * *

"Who is the most graceful ball player you have ever seen in action and who is the direct opposite?" asks a fan.

Strangely enough, two of the greatest players of all time, Nap Lajoie and Hans Wagner, occupy the above position in my rating.

No two more accurate infielders ever played the game, yet their style was entirely different. Larry was grace personified, while the bow-legged, loose-jointed Wagner was just the opposite.

Larry made plays look easy by his style, while Wagner made them look hard. Yet both were equally efficient.

* * *

Proving that class is not always determined by style. Wagner and Lajoie are concrete examples of the truth.

* * *

Do you think Walter Johnson will be with Washington next year?

Fans by the hundreds have asked me that question since Walter expressed a desire to quit the majors and buy a minor league franchise.

Baseball enthusiasts hate to think that so lovable a character as Johnson is to pass out of the picture.

Manager Stanley Harris believes Johnson will be back to help him win another pennant. At least he is pulling that way.

Repeated failure to buy the minor league club desired makes it seem as if Harris might get his wish.

However, the spot for Johnson to capitalize on his baseball prestige is next season, if he is to be so fortunate.

* * *

The time for him is the present. He's now a hero. A year often makes quite a difference.

* * *

Troubles never cease for Babe Ruth.

When the Yankees purchased Pitcher Shocker from St. Louis the Babe figured he had finally lost his toughest jinx.

No pitcher in the American League made more trouble for Ruth than Shocker. Having him on the same club meant about 20 points more on the old batting average, figured Babe.

Then to erase all the joy caused by the purchase of Shocker, Connie Mack expressed the opinion that Ruth would find "Lefty" Groves a most troublesome pitcher.

Mack had recently purchased Groves from the Baltimore club of the International League.

* * *

"Connie's dope will hold good unless I get a different break against Groves than I did in exhibition games. I have yet to make a long foul off him," says Babe.

LEFTHANDERS HAVE EDGE.

Rogers Hornsby, champion batsman of the National League, says he loses at least 25 hits per season that he would beat out if he was a left handed batter. No doubt National League pitchers are glad he swings at them from the right side of the plate.

NURMI DRAWS CROWD.

Chicago Coliseum Sold Out —Running Game a Success.

CHICAGO, Jan. 13. — Paavo Nurmi, with his marvellous running, has turned indoor track athletics, always a financial "bust" in Chicago, into the prize indoor sport of the season.

The announcement to-night that all of the six thousand seats for Nurmi's race with Joie Ray and others at the Coliseum on Friday night had been sold caused scalpers to charge $10 apiece for tickets that sold for $1.50.

Ty Cobb Says Sam Jones Is Best Poised Pitcher

DETROIT, Jan. 14. — Ty Cobb says Sam Jones has more pitching poise than any other twirler in the American League.

By pitching poise, Cobb means baseball brains, rhythm of delivery and marked fielding ability.

In addition to poise, Cobb grants that Jones has plenty of stuff, including a change of pace that is unequaled by any other pitcher in the majors.

According to Cobb, Jones lacks only aggressiveness. If he was of the fighting type, that kept impressing the batsman with his great ability, he would be 25 per cent. more of-

PICTON JUNIORS WIN 5 TO 3 AT CAMPBELLFORD

Keep Pace With Belleville for Leadership of Group Two.

LOCAL HANDICAP.

Visiting Youngsters Showed Speed and Goal Tender Held Homesters.

CAMPBELLFORD, January 14. Picton Juniors kept pace with Belleville for the leadership of group two, when they defeated Archie Wood's kids here last night by a score of five to three before an enthusiastic crowd that filled Coverts Arena..

The locals were without Johnston their good little defence player, and Copperthwaite, got out of a sick bed to play, and did not show half his usual speed. When he did get down the ice with the puck, he hadn't strength enough left to lift the rubber off the ice. Cowell was good defensively, and showed some clever stick handling besides packing a wicked shot but was a little shy on speed. Saunders made some clever saves in goal and was decidedly unlucky on a couple of shots that beat him, one glancing in off his arm and another after he had flopped on the ice to save a close in shot, the rubber rolled over to a Picton player who shoved it into the empty net.

Front Line Better.

Up on the front line, Wood, Lemyre and Blue had a decided edge on the Picton trio, and only the good defensive play of Church and Henry and the wonderful display of net-minding by Young, deprived the local sharpshooters of many more goals.

Several times he left his cage and beat the puck carrier by flopping in front of the shot. Lemyre turned in another fine game at centre ice, using a poke check very effectively and carrying the puck well; his only fault being failure to pass the puck.

Wood, at left, is improving in every game, and he showed the fans some beautiful stick-handling that carried him right in on top of Young repeatedly. Blue also showed improvement over the last game, showing some good puck-carrying ability, and a rare turn of speed. Picton showed a well-balanced team with an outstanding defence trio and a forward line that play combination and back check persistently. Boye, who subbed at centre, is very fast and a good stickhandler. Referee Ross Burt handled the game well, and kept it clean each team drawing five penalties for small offences.

Play By Play.

Campbellford pressed from the first face off and Wood went around Henry and right in on top of Young, only to have the Picton goalie flop on his shot. Wood and Blue came back with a nice combination, but Young flopped again, taking "Woodie's" shot on the chest. Saunders was taking care of the Picton shots, mostly from outside the defence. Cowell relieved J. Young of the puck and started down the ice. He fell just beyond centre, but Wood, trailing, picked up the loose puck and slipped between the Blue Shirts' defence to beat Young with a shot into the corner of the net.

The cheering had hardly subsided when Boyle raced down the right boards alone, with only one defence man to beat and got right in on top of "Froggie" to even the score.

Second Period.

At the start of the second "Woodie's" kids pressed again and gave Young a busy time, but the Blue Shirts were playing careful and slipping away for dangerous rushes.

Saunders made a sensational save of Boyle's shot, only to have J. Young grab the loose puck and flip it in before he could get on his feet again. Lemyre got the equalizer when he poke-checked the puck away from Church in front of the Picton net and it alid right in. Church set out to redeem himself for his mistake in taking the puck across this own goal mouth and after several brilliant rushes finally beat Saunders. "Froggie" stopped the shot with his arm, but it glanced into the net.

Third Period.

With a one goal lead Picton started a defensive game, shooting the puck down the ice and one man following it. Campbellford kids fought desperately for goals and sent every man up on the attack, but could not score.

Boyle slipped away and outskated everybody to increase the lead. Rorke added another to make it sure when he slammed in the rebound off Boyle's shot.

Cowell brought back faint hope when he planted a sizzler in the high corner of the net. The Picton kids were hard pressed, but hung on till the final bell gave them victory.

INTERMEDIATE PRACTICE.

Nine Players Out at Opening Practice Last Night at Brock.

Peterboro has not only a fast senior team and a junior team but from all prospects they should have a cracking good Intermediate squad. Although a bad night for a practice on account of the big game in Toronto there was a number of enthusiastic players at the Arena last evening. Among those present were: Jack Turner, Frenchie Holland, Ike Batten, Mickey Williams, Eddie Williams, LaPierre, Lackey, Marchen, and Louie Sabatino. Besides these players there is also a number of promising looking puck chasers who have not turned out yet.

NEW CLUB GETS LOCAL FRANCHISE

Peterboro Baseball and Athletic Club Entry Accepted in Central League.

OSHAWA, Ont., Jan. 14. — The Central Ontario Amateur Baseball League held morning and afternoon sittings at its annual meeting yesterday with the following officers and delegates present: Past President, A. C. Kimmel, Peterboro; President, M. P. Duff, Belleville; Second Vice-President, Chas. M. Anderson, Oshawa; Third Vice-President, W. L. Kennedy, Kingston; Secretary-Treasurer, J. G. Nott, Oshawa; Delegates, Alex. Givens, Kingston; S. D. Hagerman, Belleville; J. Ewart MacKay and F. J. Bailes, Oshawa; G. S. Matthews and P. A. Johnston, Peterboro Baseball and Athletic Association, and W. A. Jackson, representing the Peterboro Ball Club.

At the morning session the suspension of Kingston and Peterboro, meted out last year, were raised, and the two representatives of rival interests in Peterboro, who were seeking the Central Ontario franchise, were given hearings. After considerable discussion the executive handed out the following decison: "That the Peterboro Baseball and Athletic Association, represented by Mr. Matthews and Mr. Johnston, be given the franchise of the Central Ontario Amateur Baseball League in Peterboro, and that the executive in session were influenced by the statements of Mr. Matthews that his association would deal fairly with the liabilities of the former Peterboro Club."

The election of officers was then proceeded with, when all were chosen with the exception of secretary-treasurer, which was left to the afternoon meeting. The following were those elected: Past President, A. C. Kimmel, Peterboro; E. Anderson, Oshawa, and M. P. Duff, Belleville; President, C. M. Anderson, Oshawa; First Vice-President, W. L. Kennedy, Kingston; Second-Vice-President, H. T. McFadden, Peterboro; Third Vice-President, N. P. North, Belleville. Executive members: F. J. Bailes, Oshawa; Alex. Givens, Kingston; Gordon Matthews, Peterboro, and Belleville to name one at its next club meeting.

Jack Nott Resigns.

After the afternoon session when nominations were called for secretary, Past President Kimmel placed J. G. Nott's name before the executive, but he declined, saying that so much reorganization had been going on in the League that he had the thought of "a new broom sweeps clean," and after five years of service he wished to be relieved of office. Newton W. Thompson, of Belleville, was chosen as his successor, and a vote of appreciation of the five years' service done by Secretary Nott was ordered recorded on the books, and that his resignation was accepted with regret.

President Chas. M. Anderson and Past President A. C. Kimmel were chosen as delegates to the annual meeting of the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association, to be held in Toronto in April, and the nomination of A. C. Kimmel of Peterboro for the vacancy caused by the resignation of J. J. Solomon, who has taken up his residence in the United States, was ordered to be sent on to Joe Walsh, secretary, at Toronto. The following four clauses were passed to be added to the constitution as to passing of certificate:

Certificate Committee.

1. That a committee, consisting of three past presidents, along with the president and secretary-treasurer, be appointed for the purpose of passing on all applications for playing certificates.

2. That this committee shall meet as soon as possible after the annual meeting of the O.B.A.A. and not later than May 1st, and at such subsequent times as the president of the C.O.B.B.L. may direct and shall pass on such applications for playing certificates as may be presented and grant such certificates as they may deem advisable.

3. That such certificates, when granted by this committee, shall be duly listed and forwarded to the secretary of the League for signature, after being O.K.'d by the president and chairman of this committee.

4. That such certificates shall be considered valid until cancelled and such cancellation shall only be made by this committee or by the O.B.A.A.

The League decided on a single schedule with the same number of games as last season with the first and second teams to play off for the championship and winner to enter the O.B.A.A. series. The League will open on Wednesday, May 21, with Oshawa at Belleville and Peterboro at Kingston. The games scheduled for the holiday, May 24, are: Belleville at Oshawa, and Kingston at Peterboro.

TEAM POPULAR WITH TORONTO

G. N. Gordon Lauds Clean Playing of the Senior Petes.

ADVERTISE CITY.

Mr. G. N. Gordon, M. P., returned from Toronto last night, and said that the Peterborough Hockey team is the most popular hockey team that has ever played in Toronto, if the declarations of the Toronto people indicated what they thought.

The Federal Member went on to say that practically every man he met, commented on the splendid success of the hockey team, and the support they are getting from all the fans by reason of their speedy team work and clean playing.

No better advertisement has ever been given the City, according to Mr. Gordon, than is being given by this splendidly balanced team, whose continued and growing successess have put them, in the position of being able to give the City of Peterborough, the prominence in the sporting circle that it has not attained for a number of years.

CURLERS MEET IN NEIL TROPHY

'Spiel Opened This Morning —Twenty Rinks Take Part in Tourney.

OPENING ROUNDS.

Twenty-one rinks composed the bonspiel for the Neill Trophy which is being run off at the local curling club to-day. The 21 teams are made up from 7 rinks from Peterboro; 5 from Lakefield; 3 from Milbrook; 3 from Hastings, and 2 from Norwood. Keene in former years were always strong contestants but this year they failed to participate in the bonspiel.

In the preliminaries played this morning, Steele of Millbrook; Chenhall of Peterboro; Edmunds of Millbrook; Sayles of Millbrook; Kemp of Norwood, were the successful skips, piloting their teams to victory. The results of the preliminaries speak well for the Milbrook rinks, and by the large scores they piled up on their opponents it looks as if they will go a long way in the race for the championship honors.

In the first half Webber of Peterboro, put Charlton of Lakefield, out of the race, when he defeated the northerner's rink by 16 shots to 7.

Foote of Peterboro, also put up a nice game in this round, but was nosed out by Strickland of Lakefield, by one shot, and obtained the right to meet Webber in the second round.

SENDING MONEY BY MAIL.

Coins May Break Through Envelope—Postal Notes Are Safe.

Never send money in a letter without registering it, and never send coins through the mail because you stand a chance of loss as the coins often break through the envelope.

The letter you send must pass through many hands before it reach the addressee and should an unregistered letter containing money become lost, it is next to impossible to trace it and find where the responsibility for loss lies.

On the other hand, if your remittance is sent by Postal Note or Money Order, and the letter is lost, a duplicate is furnished free of charge and you are also assured of the money being paid to the person intended to receive it, as the payee, if unknown at the Post Office must be identified before payment is made, so you see there is no danger of loss when sending money in this way.

CHEER UP, GIRLS!

Employment Agencies Say Brighter Things Ahead in Business.

TORONTO, Jan. 14.—(Canadian Press.)— Brighter times ahead for business girls. That was the statement made by several employment agencies when approached for comment on employment conditions among stenographers and office help. After several months of almost unprecedented slackness, the opportunities for experienced, highly paid business women are noticeably improving.

February and March can't come too soon for many business girls. For a time employment conditions were without a parallel in many stenographers' experiences. One highly trained stenographer with years of experience was heard to boast of an income of $10 a week, when she was fortunate enough to secure temporary work.

NOW IS TIME TO DEVELOP POWER

Says Premier Taschereau in Debate on Speech from Throne.

NO EXPORTATION.

QUEBEC, Jan. 14. — (Canadian Press).—In a debate in Parliament of the speech from the Throne last evening, Premier Taschereau said the address did not promise important legislation, but he felt that the time had come to consolidate what had been done rather than to rush ahead. He turned to the water powers and pointed out that only eight per cent. of the 15,000,000 horse power possible had been yet developed.

"Now is the time," he said, "the very hour in fact, when we must shape our policy and decide our future.

"For the moment, let it suffice for me to say that public opinion in Quebec is unfavorable to exportation and that it continues to grow still more so, and its pressure will soon be such that no government will be able to refuse to submit to it.

"I invite our neighbors beyond the 45th line to clearly understand that sooner or later an embargo will be decreed, and that if they count on Quebec to furnish them with electric power they will be sadly disappointed."

54 OFFICERS RESIGN.

Follow Resigning Minister—Other Churches May Follow Suit.

HAMILTON, Ont., Jan. 14.—The resignation of three Unionist ministers from churches which voted anti-Union is having far-reaching and unexpected effects here.

When Rev. S. Burnside Russell declared that he could not consider remaining at Erskine Church "because his own self-respect would not permit him to remain there until June, as requested," 54 officers of his church resigned, including fifteen elders, thirty teachers and nine members of the board.

Rev. Dr. W. H. Sedgwick still refuses to make any statement in reply to his congregation's request that he remain until June, and resignations are threatened at his church, Central Presbyterian, too.

Rev. J. A. Wilson's and the other two resignations will be fought by congregational delegates, now being appointed at a special meeting of the Hamilton Presbytery.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

"SINGLE WIVES" SHOWS HOW TO BE HAPPY THOUGH MARRIED

What of the woman whose husband has decided that he need no longer court her?

This is the intriguing theme of the First National production, "Single Wives," which comes to the Capitol Theatre today and Thursday, in which Corinne Griffith and Milton Sills are co-featured for the first time on the screen.

Earl Hudson, the author, had delved into the innermost recesses of the human heart and taken from it a story of its aches and desires; he has mad a subtle etching of a modern matrimonial tangle; he has painted a portrait of wedded folk that is said to be of wide appeal and true to latter-day life.

In the story of "Single Wives," the author has shown how a normal couple, loving each other and living a quiet life, may, through the agency of trifling incidents, drift apart—perhaps to the danger point.

Betty Jordan—played by Corinne Griffith — yearns for the little, thoughtful acts that her husband, Perry, seems to overlook. When he presents her with a pearl necklace on their wedding anniversary he unwittingly hurts her to the quick by his lack of enthusiasm or romanticism. When another man appears in the horizon and he gives her more attention than she receives from her husband she finds herself drifting away from her fireside. Her own mother, at the same, faces the same situation. How the two triangles are finally solved makes the unfolding of "Single Wives" an absorbing story.

In addition to Corinne Griffith and Milton Sills, the cast boasts of very prominent screen names, including Kathlyn Williams, Lou Tellegen, Henry B. Walthall, Phyliss Haver, Phillips Smalley, Jere Austin, John Patick and others. George Archainband directed the picture from a scenario by Marion Orth.

CORINNE GRIFFITH, with Milton Sills in "Single Wives," at the Capitol, to-day and Thursday.

AT THE ROYAL.

"ANOTHER MAN'S WIFE" AT ROYAL LAST TIME TO-NIGHT.

"Another Man's Wife," featuring James Kirkwood, Lila Lee, Wallace Beery and Chester Conklin, will be shown at the Royal Theatre for the last time to-night.

It is the story of John and Helen, whose matrimonial venture is unsuccessful because of his neglect, but who are finally united after many adventures and strange pranks of fate. The story is laid in San Francisco, in Mexico and at sea.

Splendid players appear in support of the co-stars. Matt Moore and Wallace Beery have important parts. Others in the cast are: Kate Price, Donald MacDonald, Chester Conklin, Ralph Yearsley, Russell Powell, Fred Kohler and Zena Keefe. Bruce Mitchell directed.

"SQUIBS" TO-MORROW AT THE ROYAL.

Betty Balfour, the Mary Pickford of England, is back at the Royal tomorrow in "Mary Finds the Gold," a production just out from the Old Country.

In the supporting cast Hugh E. Wright appears. He will be remembered locally as Squibs' father in the Squibs' series also for his clever work in "Me and My Gal" and "Better Ole."

Andy Gumps latest comedy is on the same programme to-morrow at the Royal.

AT THE GRAND.

"The World of Passion."

Tomorrow evening sees the opening performance in Peterboro of the much-heralded movie production, the massive spectacular presentation of "The World of Passion," a motion picture that portrays the baneful passions and the glorious victories of the races of mankind as seen in Spain, Italy, Syria and Jerusalem, the mighty world of passion. Every historic sight in this stupendous picture is guaranteed for validity and accuracy. Produced at a cost of a million dollars, The World of Passion" is absolutely without parallel or equal in the field of motion pictures. Egyptian, Turk, Christian, Mussulman, Hebrew, Caucasian, Hamite, Semite—all the races of mankind in their stark human passions, are here reproduced for this wonder picture, which has been showing at other places in Canada at top prices of a dollar and a half. In Peterboro, the evening prices will be 25, 35 and 50 cents, and for the Saturday matinee, 15 and 25 cents.

The prologue which accompanies the big picture will be one of its most important and interesting features. Contrived by Mrs. W. McKee Bingham, assisted by the Misses May Ferry, Martha Kirn, Jessie Hodgson and Helen Ross, it portrays in artistic fashion and with telling effect the manifestation of Woman in different countries,—in Spain, where she was Pleasure; in Italy, where she was Art; in Syria, where she was Religion, and in Jerusalem where she was Passion in the ays of old.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR.

When Jesus was praying to His Father, in His last words upon earth, He said: "Father, I pray not for the world, but for those whom Thou hast given Me." It seems strange that Jesus should not pray for the world, whom He came to save. The facts are: there was the work of gathering out the elect first to be done, after that the time will come when the Son of God will pray for the world; and when in the words of the second Psalm, the Father will say to Him: "Ask of Me and I will give Thee the heathen for Thine inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the earth for Thy possession." What will Christ do for His inheritance? False theology answers, "He will set it on fire and burn it up, while all who had not known Him as Saviour and Lord, would be turned into a fire which would always torture, but which would never consume." Truth answers: Jesus comes back to deliver His inheritance, and with power to make the wilderness blossom as a rose, to cause water to spring forth in the desert, to heal the sickness of mankind, to deliver from the bondage of death, so that even the graves shall give up their dead. He will lead men in the way of righteousness and bring them back into harmony with God.—M. T. Butcher. 1d12 8478

AGREEMENT WAS MASS OF DETAIL

Allied Conference Gathers Up Loose Ends in Last Day.

The agreement as signed at the Allies conference constitutes a mass of detail which gathers up the scattered ends of back accounts among the Allies, liquidates the Rhur occupation, limits future outlay for military occupation of the Rhineland, fixes the running expenses of the reparation organization including Dawes plan commissions, and determines the proportion of Germany's payments each and all are entitled to under the Dawes arrangement besides admitting United States to participation and assuring the payment of its war damage claims as well as the cost of occupation of the Coblenz bridgehead. During the next two years, the allies will be allowed a maximum of 160,000,000 gold marks ($40,000,000) for the maintenance of their troops on the Rhine. The reparation commission which was allowed 9,250,000 gold marks (about $2,300,000) for 1925 will have to cut down its outlays to 750,000 gold marks ($1,875,000) in the following year, at the same time providing from that total sum running up as a maximum to 3,700,000 gold marks ($925,000) for the Dawes plan organizat 12345 12345 12345 62345 2 organizations. The conference closed today.

Make Reservations.

The Rumanian delegates announced they were making reservations with a view to demanding an increased percentage of the reparations, while the Italians objected to the ruling of the conference on Italy's repayment of the excess she has received in reparations over the percentage to which she was entitled. The objections of these powers will be considered by the Allies later.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Non-Unionists Delighted.

The reports received in Peterboro to-day on the Church Union votes in Canada have been a source of pleasure to the local branch of the Presbyterian Church Association. In one Toronto morning paper the returns showed fourteen churches that voted out to five which had voted in. This, it is claimed, bears out what the Anti-Unionists have been asserting, that as the returns continued to come in from the Ontario and Quebec congregations, it will be found that more and more will vote against union.

Strong exception is taken to the claim of the Unionist Central Committee in Toronto, such as appeared in the Toronto morning papers, that 83 per cent. of the congregations reported, are for Union. It is claimed that several hundred of the congregations claimed as Union congregations, are really little mission congregations of 15 to 30 members, and that a few large Ontario congregations, such as St. Andrew's, Ottawa, and St. Andrew's, Stratford, which have just voted out, are sufficient to offset scores of these small congregations. St. Andrew's, Ottawa, is possibly the wealthiest Protestant Church in Canada. Its givings for missions and other cause have always been large. St. Andrew's, Stratford, is a very large congregation of great importance in that district.

Now that Presbyterians see that the Presbyterian Church is going to continue and be strong, and that the real objectives of the Church Unionists are impossible of accomplishment, it is claimed by the Peterboro Branch of the Presbytersain Church Association, that more and more of the Presbyterian congregations will vote against Union. In the Peterboro Presbytery three congregations have already reported against Union, namely, Hastings, Millbrook and Colborne.

PICTURESQUE SIGHT

Passage of Bank of England Guard—May Have a Band Soon.

LONDON, Jan. 14.— (Canadian Press.)—One of the smaller picturesque sights of the City of London any evening is the passage of the Bank of England Guard, from Wellington Barracks along the Embankment and Victoria Street and so to the Bank. The Guard, which consists of an officer and sergeants, and forty men, marches to the Bank every evening and spends the night on the premises. The officer draws a guinea a night for his services, with the privilege of having a friend to dine with him within the Bank. A proposal is now under consideration for the provision of a band to play the Guards through the streets each evening. The expense of providing the band would presumbaly fall upon the Governors of the Bank of England, who of course already pay a fairly substantial sum for the ordinary provision of the Guard. Since the time of the Gordon Riots in 1870 the Guard has marched to the Bank every evening without a band.

CHURCHES ENTER WITHOUT A VOTE

Hundreds of Congregations Come Automatically Into United Church.

NOT EVEN TALK.

Church leaders in Toronto call attention to the fact that in addition to those churches reporting their decisions to enter United Church by ballot vote and by resolutions, there are hundreds of churches which intend going into the union automatically, without holding even a congregational meeting. These churches are not included in the summaries appearing in the press.

Of those reporting definite action up to noon to-day, the number is 800. Of the 800 no less than 654(or 82 per cent.) are entering the United church, and 396 do so unanimously. Among the latest United Church gains are St. Andrew's and Cedar Cottage Churches, Vancouver, making eight Vancouver churches to enter the union. Bank View Church, Calgary, Knox, Saskatoon, have voted for union. In Ottaaw, Westboro Church goes unionist, making ten churches in the Capital city to go into the United Church. Other gains are Waterloo and Sudbury.

Outside of Ontario and Pictou Co., N.S., but a few churches have so far voted against union. Manitoba and New Brunswick, two strongly unionist provinces, will not vote until after June 10th.

COTTON AND MAIL POUCHES.

WASHINGTON (United Press). —Pima cotton, introduced into the United States as a domestic long-staple product to take the place of Egyptian cotton, makes better mail pouches than almost any other material, the bureau of standards has determined in a series of tests.

Two hundred pouches made of Pima cotton and 200 of ordinary cotton were made up by the bureau and put into identical use for a year in the hardest service. None of the Pima bags were torn after a year, but one-third of the ordinary bags were torn badly.

WOMAN PRIME MINISTER?

First Woman Barrister of England Predicts Rise of Sex.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.— (Canadian Press.)—Mrs. Helen Normanton, the first woman barrister in England, who arrived here recently thinks that by 1950 there will be a woman president in the United States and a woman Prime Minister in England. Mrs. Normanton has come to study American courts, while she lectures on divorce, marriage and law.

Commendation of women jurors was given by Mrs. Normanton. She believes in capital punishment for women as well as men. As to marital laws, she admitted they were in a tangle all over the world. But she remarked:

"I am in favour of married people trying to make each other happy. It is not law that rules life, but how you rule yourselves. I believe in reasonable divorce laws but only on rather serious grounds, and I believe in international marriage and divorce laws."

Mention of the tremendous fight being made against married women in England to force them out of their positions in business and industry roused Mrs. Normanton's first sign of aggression.

"I think it is ideal for both to work—a union of two people and both free, instead of one yoked and the other unyoked. Better to have a wife go out and make enough to bring up one or two children properly," she said.

It is hard luck for the eight million women in Europe who are not likely to marry because of the shortage of men, but it is a good thing for the race, Mrs. Normanton thinks.

FLUENT WOMAN M.P.

Maiden Speech in London Helen Wilkinson Makes House.

LONDON, Eng., Jan. 14—(Canadian Press).—When Miss Helen Wilkinson, the only woman Socialist M.P., made her maiden speech, she was very fluent. She wittily described herself as one of the "four orphans of the storm," a light allusion to the fact that there are only three other women in the House—the Duchess of Atholl, Lady Astor and Mrs. Philipson. She said women as a whole were very disappointed that there was no proposal to rectify the present franchise law, by extending the vote to women between the ages of 21 and 30.

"A flaming success," declared Commander Kenworthy, a sly allusion to Miss Wilkinson's red hair, which pleased the House immensely. On account of her diminutive stature, the Socialist M.P.'s have christened her "The Mighty Atom."

No Feminine Names on Finance Committee of Board.

TORONTO, Jan. 14. — (Canadian Press).—"The women of this city should be represented on the finance committee of the Board of Education," protested Dr. Caroline Brown, when the report of the striking committee showed no feminine names appearing. Both Dr. Brown and Mrs. W. E. Groves were re-elected in their January candidature.

NEW ART GALLERY

Lord Leverhulme Will Convert Grosvenor House Into Museum.

LONDON, Jan. 14.— (Canadian Press).—Lord Leverhulme has announced he will convert Grosvenor House, one of the most famous mansions in the world, which is just off Park Lane, into art gallieries and museums. A company with this object, and a capital of $500,000, has been formed; the directors being Lord Leverhulme and his son. By this, Lord Leverhulme, whose interest in art is not generally known, will have an opportunity of carrying out schemes for encouragement of art which have long been in his mind.

Details of the plan are not available until Lord Leverhulme returns from Africa, where he has had cable communication with London. The assumption is that there will be some kind of a permanent collection of pictures and objets d'art at Grosvenor House, as well as temporary exhibitions; and that the galleries will be placed on a thorough commercial footing, though financial interests will not be allowed to dominate artistic considerations. Lord Leverhulme a few years ago bought Stafford House and gave it to the nation, and it is now the London Museum.

OBSERVES ECLIPSE

Chronicled Passing of Sun's Shadow Bands in Australia.

TORONTO, January 14. — Mrs. Chant, wife of Prof. Chant of this city, gives in the last number of the Journal of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada, her Australian experiences in observing the "shadow bands" of the sun's eclipse. It should be of interest to those hoping to see these same bands on Jan. 24th, in Eastern Canada:

"The darkness was rapidly coming on and the landscape assumed a peculiar greenish hue, as if a storm were approaching. Suddenly, and before I expected it, the shimmering, elusive, wavelike shadows began to sweep over me and the sheet. I grasped the rod and moved it back and forth until it was parallel with the crest of the waves as they moved forward. (Mrs. Chant had been assigned the task of observing these bands, the rod being used to determine the line taken by the shadow crests.) At the same time I began counting seconds. The bands continued to move over me for about ten seconds, and then they were gone! They were faint, thrilling, ghostlike, but definite enough for me to be sure I had seen the shadow bands."

ANTI-UNIONISTS OUT OF CHURCH

Will Arrange Separate Services—Build Up Presbyterian Church.

TODAY'S VOTING.

TORONTO, Jan. 14.—(Canadian Press).—The policy that non-concurring Presbyterians who are in the minority in any congregation are likely to follow was indicated at a meeting called by the anti-Unionists from Deer Park Church last night in the Parish Hall of Christ Church (Anglican). Some five hundred people attended from several churches. A committee was elected to make arrangements for services next Sunday and also for Sunday School classes. It was felt that immediate action was necessary in order that the children might receive proper instruction and in order that their contributions should go to the building up of the continuing Presbyterian Church.

THREE ACCUSED IN GIRL'S DEATH WERE SET FREE

Arthur Evans and Alex Sweezy Held on Murder Charge After Enquiry.

MONTREAL CASE.

Spectators in Court Applauded Discharge of Two Men and Woman.

MONTREAL, —Jan. 15. — John Corrigan, Montreal athlete; T. Hicks Miller, director of athletics for the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association; and Imaida Bourgeau, telephone operator, were acquitted here yesterday afternoon by Judge Perrault after enquete into the death of Miss Mary Kelly, Hamilton, Ont., the girl who was found dead in a St. Matthew Street apartment on the afternoon of January 5, following what is alleged to have been an illegal operation. Arthur Evans, member of the 1924 M.A.A.A. rugby squad, and Alexander Sweezy, a brakeman, were held on a charge of murder in connection with the same case, and sent up for voluntary statement on January 22.

The decision dismissing the three was received with applause by the spectators in court.

At the hearng yesterday testimony was given regarding the $25 which Corrigan had passed on to Miller as a means of assisting Miss Kelly out of her trouble, and Miller had handed this over to another party for the same purpose.

R. L. Calder, K.C., for the defence, advanced that there was nothing to implicate any of the three accused; there was nothing unnatural in young men getting together and helping to provide for a young woman in such difficulties with a room and the necessary comfort for confinement. There was no proof that they suspected anything more than an ordinary confinement was to take place.

At the close of the argument, Judge Perrault announced his decision dismissing the charge against Corrigan, Miller and Miss Bourgeau and holding Sweezy and Evans for trial.

GRAIN EXPORTS SHOW DECREASE

Canada's Shipments During Last Five Months Fall Off Except Barley.

TOTAL VALUE LESS.

OTTAWA, Jan. 15. — (Canadian Press).—Canada's exports of wheat to the United States, British Isles and other countries during the five month sended December 31 last totalled 89,568,394 bushels, valued at $133,224,983 showing a decrease of 77,794,328 bushels over the same months in 1923, when the total exports were 167,363,722 bushels. A reduction is also shown by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics in the total quantity of wheat flour exported, 4,471,544 bushels being shipped out of the country from August 1 to December 31, 1924 while the exports for the similar five months in 1923 was 5,016,100 bushels.

Barley exports for the same period during last year were 15,639,394; oats 10,641,297 and Rye 4,638,571 bushels. Oats and Rye show a decrease, compared with the same period in 1923, but the quantity of barley exported was approximately 6,000,000 bushels more than that shipped during the same five months in 1923. While the total values, on the whole, were consequently lower in 1924 than in 1923, for the period in question, the value per bushel was higher.

ANNEX MUNICIPALITIES.

Montreal Legislative Committee Proposes to Take in Smaller Corporations.

MONTREAL, Jan. 15.—Without a dissenting vote, the legislative committee of the city council accepted tonight, the principle of annexing to Montreal all municipalities under the control of the metropolitan commission.

These would include Westmount, Outremont, Verdun and twelve other small corporations.

This amendment to the charter will be included in the proposed bill which will come before the legislature.

ROSEN RELATES VOTE STEALING

Worked Three New York Polling Booths in One Night.

USED HIS RING.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15. — George Rosken, self-styled "king of election fixers," here relates how he brought into play his "magic ring" and his own peculiar ability to change elections undetected in three places in a single night. This was in the contest for Congress in November, 1922, between former Sheriff David H. Knott, Democrat, and Nathan D. Perlman, Republican.

Rosken, who asserts he has done service for Democrats, says in this particular election he was serving Republicans.

The story, as told by himself, follows:

"I was first sent to the barber shop run by Max Gross at No. 124 Second Avenue, used as a polling place. I was a tally clerk. There I was up against a tough bird in the Democratic captain, so all I could steal was about 13 or 15 votes. I would tally only for Congress, and then I would beat it.

Used Official's Car.

"A well-known official picked me up in his car and took me back to headquarters at Stuyvesant Casino.

"'Word came that the help of a good man was needed at the polling place in the Hudson Hat Shop, Third Avenue, near Thirteenth Street. The same official took me in his car to that place.

"In order to find an excuse for my being put to work, our gang staged an argument and some of the Election Board walked out. This gave my people their opening to put me in. Here the workers were disgusted and mad, and I could do pretty near as I pleased.

"I had no trouble grabbing from Knott 125 to 150 votes, which I switched to Perlman.

"The counting of the vote at this place took until the next day, so when I had got the Congress count out of the way I was asked to run over and see what I could do at still another election polling place at Ninth Street and Avenue B.

Clerk "Had a Cramp."

"To give me a chance to monkey with the tally the regular tally clerk set up a howl that he had a cramp in his hand. I took his place to give him a rest. In about two hours I grabbed off eleven votes.

"I signed at least two of the tally sheets. I might have signed all three. I may be wrong as to the number of votes I switched that night. But we were getting flashes all along the line as to how the vote was running, and I know I grabbed enough to cause the defeat of Sheriff Knott.

"Anyhow, the records with the Board of Elections will speak for themselves. Whether I signed my own name or not, my handwriting will, I believe, show in at least two cases.

"During all the time that I was operating I kept in touch with some one higher up."

Rosken mentioned names freely.

WILSON URGES LOCAL OPTION

Windsor Member of Legislature Advocates Relief for Wet Voters.

ASKS PREMIER.

WINDSOR, Jan. 15.—If Premier Ferguson accedes to the request of Frank W. Wilson, Windsor M.L.A., the most important pronouncement to be made in the speech from the throne at the forthcoming session of the Ontario Legislature will be about the Ontario Temperance Act.

In an interview yesterday Mr. Wilson stated that he had urged the Premier to introduce a local option measure at the opening of the session.

It is not necessary to confine your attention to the border city in reviewing the enforcement of the O.T.A., difficulties in that line having been found elsewhere," Mr. Wilson stated.

He expressed the view that something must be done for those 40 per cent. of the electors who voted for government control at the plebiscite last October, and stated that he would concentrate his efforts to obtaining relief for them in the form of a local option measure.

Mr. Wilson's statement concerning the difficulties in enforcing the Ontario Temperance Act were taken as a veiled reference to statements issued in the past by Attorney-General Nickle.

A WORD TO THE WISE IS QUITE SUFFICIENT

Saturday, January 17th, marks the end of the second year in the clothing business of Irwin's Men's Wear, 337 George Street. We, therefore take this opporunity of extending our warmest appreciation of that very generous patronage which has rewarded our best efforts to serve men with the highest grade of clothing and furnishings at prices within reason.

We purpose celebrating each recurring business anniversary with a genuine stock-reducing sale, when every line of our distinctive men's wear will be marked down to prices which, combined with quality, constitute value suppreme. Our second anniversary sale starts on Saturday morning, at 9 o'clock, and will continue up to and including January 31st.

This outstanding selling event should not be confused with ordinary sales, for which special merchandise is not infrequently purchased, as it is a real determination to substantially reduce existing stocks of high-class, always dependable men's wear to make room for new spring goods.

Irwin's, the most modernly equiped men's wear store in Peterborough is the home of better clothes for discriminating dressers, who there find the last word in style and material, and tailoring which excels.

"Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded," is our policy. See Tomorrow's paper for sale values.

CANADA'S SHARE IS $25.000 LESS BY DAWES PLAN

Annual Reduction from German Reparations Payment Under New Pact.

IS SATISFACTORY

Canada Receives 4.35 Per Cent. of All Monies Paid to British Empire.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 15 (Canadian Press).—Canada will receive 5,000 ponds sterling per year less annuities payable under the Dawes' plan, as a result of the agreement signed at the inter-Allied financial conference, which provides for the United States being paid two and one-quarter per cent. of all payments, it was stated in official circles here yesterday.

Generally speaking, the belief is expressed that the whole question has been dealt with very satisfactorily, insofar as Canada is concerned. When the matter was investigated, personally, by an official of the Dominion Government in November last, the position of Canada did not appear to be at all clear. In the first place, the amount paid for the benefit of the Empire was very difficult to estimate, on account of the cost of the armies of occupation, and the priorities of Belgium and Italy. Furthermore, it was not settled whether the amount received by the United Kingdom, under the German reparations recovery act, would be taken into consideration, and payments made to Canada. This also applied to delivery in kind.

Canada receives 4.35 per cent. of all monies received on behalf of the British Empire, whether paid under the German reparations recovery act by delivery in kind, or by direct payment of cash from what is known as the transfer commission, at Berlin.

The date of the first payment of the Dawes' annuities coming to Canada, and the amount, will not be known until the policy of the government with respect of the retention and liquidation of private properties is decided, and the amount of the liquidation has been debited against this country.

DAWES PLAN ECONOMIES BLAMED FOR COLLISION

Reduction of Railway Employees Menace to Security of Passengers.

BERLIN, Jan. 15.— (Canadian Press).—The Dawes plan was blamed yesterday for the railway wreck Tuesday at Herne, Westphalia. A Communist deputy in the Prussian Diet charged that the collision, in which 32 persons were killed and 86 injured, might have been avoided if the trains had carried sufficient flagmen to lay signaling torpedoes on the track during the heavy fog, which prevailed, obliterating the regular signals.

The speaker claimed that the wholesale reduction in the personnel of the German railways since the adoption of the Dawes plan constituted a permanent menace to the security of passenger traffic.

Bobs Her Hair At 106, Defying Daughter Of 70

WEST CHESTER, Pa., Jan. 15. — Mrs. Elizabeth Pierce Yerkes, who will celebrate her 107th birthday July 22, is nothing if not up to date. As a result this city now claims the oldest bob-haired girl in the country.

Mrs. Yerkes's daughter, Mrs. Ellsworth Darlington, 70 years old, strenuously opposed her mother's wishes. Mrs. Yerkes waited until her daughter was absent and then summoned Mrs. Mary Cheyney, a barber, and had her haid trimmed to the style.

Mrs. Yerkes, who each year spends six months here and six months with another daughter at Markham, Delaware County, occupies much of her time in knitting and sewing, at both of which she is adept. Her faculties are retained to a remarkable degree, with the exception of her hearing, which is growing poor.

SMALL NATIONS SEEK GUIDANCE OF THE LEAGUE

Several Countries in Central and Eastern Europe Ask Advice on Problems.

ROUMANIA LATEST

Economic Help Needed in States Remodelled by War —Loans Required.

GENEVA, Jan. 15.—The receipt of a memorandum from Roumania by the League of Nations, suggesting the desirability of international economic and financial help for the countries of Eastern Europe generally, instead of confining it to former enemy countries like Austria and Hungary served yesterday to reveal the fact that several countries in Central and Eastern Europe are regularly seeking advice from the technical organizations of the league.

Although Roumania herself makes no specific request for assisstance, she is the first country to come out openly and emphasize the growing need of economic help for those European states which were either created or remodelled by the Great War. It was learned yesterday that countries from the Baltic to the Mediterranean are systematically profiting from the experience mechanisms built up by the league to ask advice on the handling of a great variety of national problems, including difficulties arising from the government of the minority peoples placed under the dominion by the peace treaties.

None of the countries taking this initiative desires the fact to be known, fearing that it may lead to a misunderstanding at home and abroad about internal conditions and thus block the chances for loans in the international markets. Some of them have been told by League experts, who have visited their capitals on invitation, that the United States in the matter of European loans would undoubtedly follow the lead of London, and that London before acting would want to know what the financial committee of the League of Nations thought about the stability of the particular country asking for a loan.

This has brought about a general move towards the League's technical organizations, with an evident desire to re-organize finances so as to satisfy the League experts.

The reduction of land armaments, which constitute perhaps the great financial burden of many countries, was said by league officials to be imperative for any rapid reconstruction. They declare that their recent experiences with Eastern Europe convinced them of the urgent need of a disarmament conference.

Whites Fail To Find Burial Place Of Chief

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo., Jan. 15.—(United Press).—McCook, 100-year-old Ute Indian chief, failed to lead a group of white men, as he promised, to the body of his illustrious brother, Chief Ouray.

Now McCook, saddened by his failure, has shrouded himself in silence. Grave robbers or a defective memory have robbed him of the knowledge he held—the whereabouts of his brother's grave.

Chief Ouray was as much a pioneer of Colorado as the settlers with whom he lived. He was a peacemaker. Through him, early settlers made peace with the Utes and prevented many raids. Ouray was also wise in the ways of the white man. When homesteaders encroached upon his tribal lands, he went to Washington and succeeded in having the greater part of those lands set off as an Indian reservation. When he died he was buried in true Indian fashion, but no white man knew his burial place. His picture has been shaped in a stained glass window in the state capitol building, cities and mountains named after him, but no marker erected over his grave.

Chipeta, his squaw, died six months ago, and raised anew the question of his burial place. With Chipeta gone, only McCook knew, and he, understanding why the white men would honor Ouray, consented to lead them to his grave. But the canyon sepulchre McCook thought held the body of his brother was as barren as any other rock crevice.

It was intended to bury Chipeta and Ouray side by side and erect a memorial over them.

BRITISH FREIGHTER LOST WITH ALL CREW

Stranded on Rocks in Gale and Soon Broke Up.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—(Canadian Press).—All hands on board the British freighter Cardiff Hall were lost when the steamer Tuesday night during a heavy southerly gale struck the southern point of Seven Heads, Clonakilty, and immediately went to pieces, according to Lloyd's Queenstown correspondent who visited the scene of the disaster yesterday. The Cardiff Hall, which was a vessel of 2,540 tons and was bound from Buenos Aires for Cork, hit the rocks at nine o'clock in the evening.

Nothing of the ship was visible Wednesday, although some wreckage, a small quantity of maize and two bodies were washed ashore.

LEGAL ECHO OF RIOT AT WITLEY

Judgment for 1250 Pounds to Owner of Store Raided by Canadians.

1919 INCIDENT.

LONDON, Jan. 14. — (Canadian Press Cable).—In the court of the King's Bench yesterday Mr. Justice Findlay gave judgment for £1,250 in the case of Charles Arthur Jarvis, who claimed damages against the County Council of Surrey under the Riot Damages Act of 1886, for loss which he sustained when Canadian soldiers raided his store at Witley Camp in 1919. Jarvis, who is now living in Melbourne, Australia, estimated that his loss amounted to £2,000, but his counsel stated that the Canadian military authorities had paid him £750.

The defendants argued that the plaintiff was barred by the Civil Procedure Act of 1833 from maintaining the action because it had not been brought within two years after the occurrence.

Plaintiff's counsel contended that his client was within his rights and declared that the time limit for action was twenty years. His lordship supported this contention, holding that Jarvis was not precluded by the statute from maintaining action, and entered judgment for £1,250 with costs. He granted a stay of execution pending an appeal by the defendants.

NO LEGAL ACTION

Brockville's Multiple Tragedy Regarded as Due to Accident.

BROCKVILLE, Jan. 15. — Officials of the Public Utilities Commission state that they have received no intimation of the launching of an action against that body by Mrs. Henry Yeldon, of Syracuse, N.Y., claiming damages for the loss of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse W. Gray and her four brothers, all of whom were asphyxiated by illuminating gas which enterede their home here from a broken gas main on January 3. It is declared that a Syracuse attorney interviewed the commission in this respect, but after an investigation, which disclosed the purely accidental circumstances, gave an assurance that it was not his purpose to take legal action. The funeral expenses were borne by the commission.

THE WEATHER

There was another sudden cold dip last night, or, more correctly, early in the evening. Eleven below zero was reached. The temperature then rose somewhat, as the sky became overcast. This morning it was still at zero, but rising. Severe cold still continues throughout the north and west.—W. P.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 14.—(Canadian Press Cable via Reuter's).—Officials of the Seamen's Union have been ordered to appear before the Court of Arbitration on Jan. 21 to show cause why the registration of their organization should not be cancelled.

The newspapers of the commonwealth warmly endorse the action of Premier S. M. Bruce, in proceeding against the union.

Premier J. A. Lyons of Tasmania, has informed Premier Bruce that there are 1,333 Australians stranded on the island because of the tie-up in shipping and that Tasmania requires 900 tons of foodstuffs weekly.

FRANCO-GERMAN TRADE PROPOSALS EXCHANGED

Negotiations for Resumption of Commercial Relations in Progress.

PARIS, Jan. 14—(Canadian Press) —Dr. Trendelenburg, chief of the German delegation which has been negotiating with the French for a resumption of Franco-German commercial relations, yesterday submitted to Minister of Commerce Reynaldy, a counter-proposition to the French proposals for a temporary accord. The French delegation is expected to make its reply to-day.

Dr. Trendelenburg and members of his delegation arrived at the ministry of commerce at three o'clock yesterday afternoon and were received by Minister Reynaldy and his associates.

LUTHER CABINET READY ON FRIDAY

Stresemann Likely to Return Portfolio of Foreign Affairs.

BERLIN, Jan. 15.—The formal appointment of Dr. Hans Luther as chancellor of the new government was postponed until to-day, although it was stated at government headquarters last night that Dr. Luther had informed President Ebert that he was prepared to accept the nomination, his negotiations with the parties to be included in the new cabinet having progressed sufficiently to warrant his undertaking the formation of a ministry.

The only point on which a definite agreement has not been reached concerns Dr. Luther's demand for a specific vote of confidence at the hands of the Reichstag, and on this issue he was still awaiting last night the decision of various party leaders with respect to the phraseology of such a motion.

An official communique issued shortly before midnight indicated that the long drawn out crisis would soon reach a definite conclusion. While Dr. Luther is said to have prepared a list of his cabinet, its ultimate composition has not yet been determined upon.

Dr. Luther will probably present his list to the Reichstag Friday. It is known that at least four members of the retiring ministry will retain their portfolios—Dr. Gustav Stresemann, foreigen affairs; Dr. Otto Gessler, defence; Heinrich Brauns, Labor, and Count Von Kanitz, food.

Martin Schiele, chairman of the German Nationalist delegation in the Reichstag is named as prospective minister of the interior. He ranks as a reactionary "die hard," as does Dr. Neuhaus, formerly under secretary in the ministry of economics, who is slated for a post in Luther's cabinet.

The clerical party, in addition to being represented by Dr. Brauns, will probably also receive the ministry of justice for which post it has recommended Dr. Scholen, well known jurist of Dusseldorf.

Important Political Result of Conference in Paris Which Concluded Last Night.

COMPLETE ACCORD AT FINAL SESSION

Draft Agreement for Distribution of Reparations Signed by Eleven Powers.

ALL SATISFIED.

PARIS, Jan. 15.— Eleven powers participating in the Paris conference of allied finance ministers yesterday signed the protocol for distribution of the Dawes plan annuities. The final plenary session of the conference at the Quai D'Orsay occupied two hours.

It was a week ago since the meetings of the finance ministers began and it was the first conference of twenty-nine held since the armistice to come to an end before the date scheduled, and the only one in which every delegation returned home apparently satisfied.

The most notable achievements of the conference were:—First, the determining of the distribution of the Dawes annuities between the allies and their associates; second, the obtaining of the United States as a partner with the allies in the collection of payments from Germany under the Dawes scheme and third, the liquidating of the Rhur occupational account.

The question of the United States claims was the hardest for the conference to settle. These claims were the subject of long and tense but always friendly, bargaining and a compromise was reached that satisfied all concerned.

Important Event.

The fact that the United States is joining the allies in the reparation syndicate for the entire period of the Dawes plan is regarded here as an event of the first political importance.

No reservations of any importance were made by any of the powers in affixing their signatures to the protocol. The final session, which was expected to be a mere formality of signatures—a complete agreement on all questions having been reached on Tuesday night—was marked by one of the most important developments of the entire conference when James A. Logan, Jr., of the United States delegation sprang a surprise by obtaining a further concession to the United States during the closing minutes of the meeting.

The agreement before the conference provided that the amount of war damages which should go to the United States should not exceed $350,000,000. Mr. Logan succeeded in having this clause stricken from the protocol.

Kellogg Congratulated.

Following the final session, United States Ambassador Kellogg was singled out by M. Clementel, French minister of finance and by Winston Churchill, British chancellor of the exchequer, for congratulations upon his appointment as the successor to Secretary of State Hughes.

In his address to the conference Ambassador Kellogg was optimistic about the rehabilitation of Europe, but his hearers discovered no hint in his speech concerning his future policy toward United States participation in European affairs.

Before the affixing of the signatures to the protocol, the United States delegation made the technical reservation that the phrase "allied powers should be used throughout the document without mention being made of "associate." Brazil and Roumania also made slight reservations in the interpretation of the instrument.

Mr. Churchill left for London at noon, Premier Theunis of Belgium boarded the train for Brussels, at 2.15 p.m.

The conference is now a thing of the past, its conclusion only awaiting the formal ratifications of the various governments interested.

MOSCOW, Jan. 15.—In the presence of George Tchitcherin and Maxim Litvinoff, respectively foreign and deputy foreign minister, and other members of the Soviet government, Jean Herbettee, the new French ambassador to Russia, yesterday presented his credentials to President Kalanin in an elaborate ceremony in the Kremlin Palace.

A Russian guard of honor was station in front of the palace to greet the new ambassador. Inside, cordial speeches were exchanged.

MAKE SNOW STORMS.

Institute Manufactures Snow Storms to Entinguish Fires.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 15.—Manufactured "snowstorms" to be used in extinguishing fires, and produced through the use of carbon dioxide, have been developed at the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research, officials have announced.

Dr. Charles L. Jones, who made the discovery after three years of research, is authority for the statement that the "snow" is effective when used to put out fires in places so enclosed that an extinctive atmosphere can be maintained, such as in mines, ship holds, cargo spaces, engine rooms, cellars, warehouses, dust collectors and electric generators.

Speaking of the discovery, Dr. Jones said:

"When liquified carbon dioxide is passed from cylinder pressure to atmospheric pressure, the liquid boils, its latent heat of vaporization being supplied by the cooling of the gas and the residual liquid, the liquid is solidified to a snow.

Death of Miss Minnie Scarlett.

Miss Minnie Scarlett, a former well known school teacher in this locality, daughter of the late Inspector and Mrs. Scarlett of Cobourg, died very suddenly in Toronto, where she has resided of late, at the weekend, and her remains were brought here for interment in the family plot in Coborug Union Cemetery. She is survived by two brothers, William, of Toronto, and Edward, who is in the west, and by two sisters, Miss Ella Scarlett, Toronto, and Mrs. Annie Bastedo, of Detroit. Rev. R. F. Stillman conducted the funeral services. A brother of deceased, the late R. F. Scarlett, who was a prominent minister of the Methodist church in Western Canada, died a few years ago.

On account of a very recent bereavement the marriage took place quietly at the home of the bride's mother on Saturday, at noon, of Miss Marion Pringle, younger daughter of the late Hon. Clive Pringle, and of Mrs. Pringle, Cobourg, to Mr. J. D. Cameron, of Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cameron of Scotland.

The bride entered the room on the arm of Mr. N. G. Guthrie, K. C., former law partner with her father.

Rev. Canon F. J. Sawyers, M.A., officiated, and Miss K. Warner played the wedding music. Only members of the family, including Mr. and Mrs. William Baker and Mr. Raphael Albertine, Toronto, were present.

Bloodhounds Help Solve Sussex Murder Mystery

CROWBOROUGH, Eng., Jan. 15.—(United Press).—The slow but sure methods of Scotland Yard, so despised by Sherlock Holmes, today solved a murder mystery in the heart of the Sussex countryside, where Conon Doyle's great detective roamed on many of his ficticious adventures.

Led by bloodhounds to a spot on the poultry farm of Norman Thorne, the police started digging and soon came on a woman's suitcase. A bit further on they found her clothing, and when a pair of eye-glasses were dug up, the authorities had sufficient evidence to warrant their arresting Thorne for the murder of his fiance, Elsie Cameron, a London stenographer, who disappeared on December 5th.

The girl came to Crowborough, which is the home of Sir Arthur Conon Doyle, announcing she was to marry Thorne, and would not return to London until she did. She was seen crossing a field on the way to his farm, and then disappeared.

Thorne had claimed Miss Cameron never arrived at the farm. Scotland Yard finally put bloodhounds on the trail.

OMEMEE GUILD HELPED LOCAL NEEDY PERSONS

Changes System This Year of Mission Work—Start at Home.

MANY MEETINGS.

Dr. Agnes Carmichael Makes Name For Herself in United States.

OMEMEE, Jan. 15.—At the annual meeting of the Women's Guild held at the rectory the following report was read by the Secretary:

"During the year the Guild held ten meetings, nine regular meetings and one special meeting, with an average attendance of thirteen—the largest one was twenty and the smallest one nine. There is a membership of twenty.

"The hostesses for the year were: Mrs. Weir, Mrs. Jamieson, Mrs. G. McQuade, Mrs. G. Fee, Mrs. F. Bent, Mrs. F. Clemett, Misses E. Robinson and C. Cornwall.

"It has been the custom for the Guild to do mission work for the Deaconess' Home in Toronto during the early part of the year, but this year the attention of the President was drawn to the need for social service work in our own parish.

"After discussing the subject with the Guild members, it was decided to do that work and ask the aid of the W. A., with the result that at Easter a large box containing all sorts of warm clothing was made up and given to the needy ones.

"From Easter until fall the time was spent in preparation for our annual bazaar, which took place on December 2nd, and was a financial success. The proceeds amounted to $157.00. This sum is more than was realized on any previous occasion. Much of the success of the bazaar was due to the efforts of the President, Mrs. G. Fee, who has been an indefatigable worker all through the year.

"During the year 1924 the Guild paid out for repair work in the rectory the sum of $140.00 and gave a cheque for ten dollars to the Sunday School at Christmas."

Missionary Society.

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church was held at the home of Mrs. Robert Wilson, with twenty-two members and two visitors present. The President, Mrs. Rowland, presided. Following the devotional exercises, the Treasurer, Mrs. T. C. Ivory, gave a full report of the finances of the bazaar, and also of several fees paid since last meeting. Letters of appreciation were read for flowers sent to the bereaved, and also to shut-in members at Christmas.

Mrs. R. Bradley read the Scripture lesson, followed by a devotional leaflet on "The Almightiness of the Prayer of Faith," by Miss Annie Douke. A solo, "Open Your Windows, the Light Will Shine," was very effectively rendered by Miss Lila Parsons, after which Mrs. E. Bradburn gave an excellent report of the district convention held in Cambridge St. Church, Lindsay, in December. A solo, "Jesus Knows," was sung by Miss Rita Kennedy. The birthday box was remembered by two donations.

A social half hour was then enjoyed, with Mrs. Thomas Newman, Mrs. G. N. Earle and Mrs. R. Wilson as hostesses.

Responsible Position.

Dr. Agnes Carmichael, sister of Dr. Hugh Carmichael of Omemee and daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Carmichael of Peterborough, who some months ago was appointed superintendent of the large Psychopathic Hospital at Bangor, Maine, has just passed the State examination for physicians, taking 85.5 per cent. Previous to taking this examination, one of the largest hospitals of a similar kind in the United States offered her three thousand dollars per annum in access of what she is paid now to become superintendent for them. As she had accepted her present position on the understanding that she would remain for a certain period, Dr. Carmichael declined, considering that such a change would be against the dictates of honor and business ethics.

Dr. Carmichael is a graduate of the Toronto Medical School and is the second Canadian girl within a week to receive mention as having been appointed to positions of great responsibility in the United States.

Re-appointed Janitor.

At a meeting of the School Board Mr. Isaac Glenny, who has held the position of janitor for the past forty-three years, was again given the position at the same salary, although there were three other tenders. Mr. Glenny has passed the four-score mark, but having grown accustomed to the work feels that he is still capable of filling the bill.

Young People's League.

On Friday evening last the Young People's League of the Methodist Church and many others, making up three sleigh-loads, journeyed to Reaboro and presented their play, "Willowdale," to a full house. The large gathering was loud in its praises of the performance, and at the close served dainty refreshments which, although entirely unexpected, were very much appreciated by the Omemeeites.

Submit Church Union.

The annual congregational meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church will be held on Friday evening, January 23rd, when the reports from the different organizations of the church will be presented; also the question of church union will be submitted to the members.

ARE YOU TORTURED WITH ECZEMA?

Eczema, or Salt Rheum, as it is commonly called, is one of the most agonizing of all skin diseases.

The intense burning, itching and smarting, especially at night or when the parts are exposed to heat, are almost unbearable and relief is greatly welcomed.

The most reliable and effective remedy for this trouble is

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

Mrs. J. R. Johnson, R.R. No. 1, Oshawa, Ont., writes: "For years I was troubled with eczema, and had that terrible itching and burning sensation, and could find no relief for it. Finally, I was advised to use B.B.B., and after my second bottle I began to see a great difference, and I can, now, advise anyone troubled as I was to use this wonderful remedy."

JEWS POUR INTO PALESTINE

Dr. Weizmann Tells Berlin 9,000 Monthly Reach the Colony.

BERLIN, Jan. 14.—Chayim Weizmann, international president of the Zionist movement, who is on a visit to the German capital, draws an optimistic picture of the Palestine colonization movement.

"The Jewish immigration into Palestine is the largest in Jewish history to any country," he says. "Behind the 2,000 Jews immigrating monthly stand 10,000 desiring to immigrate. I believe we are not only building up a material home in Palestine but are also there creating a spiritual unity of Judaism."

"BANDIT CHIEF"

"You have the wrong kitten." Della Mangers, alias Alma Johnson, of Oklahoma City and Kansas City, Mo., told Wichita (Kas.) police when they arrested her. But the detectives insist she has been identified as the girl who, dressed in overalls and driving a borrowed flivver, directed a bank robbery in Kansas City.

GRACE CHURCH DEBT REDUCED

Financial Affairs Improve in Rev. G. S. Gervan's Pastorate—Union Defeated.

CHURCH ANNUAL

MILLBROOK, Jan. 15.—One of the most successful meetings ever held in connection with Grace Presbyterian church took place on Tuesday afternoon, the attendance being most encouraging.

The pastor, Rev. G. S. Gervan, presided, and a spirit of the utmost harmony and good fellowship, prevailed. Reports from the various organizations in the church, without exception, showed progress, excellent work being accomplished during the twelve months, giving occasion for an optimistic outlook for the current year.

During the past year the Ladies' Aid Society, which has been indefatigable in its activities, not only gave the Board of Managers eight hundred dollars, but reduced the debt on the Manse by four hundred dollars. Fourteen hundred dollars was owing on the Manse when Rev. Mr. Gervan assumed the pastorate of the church in the fall of 1921, and this has been reduced until a very much smaller sum is the remaining obligation. In the interval the interior of the church has been thoroughly renovated and beautified, a new roof has been put on the building, and the up-to-date, commodious church shed built.

The Woman's Missionary Auxiliary reported a total of three hundred dollars raised in 1924, this representing an increase of considerably over two hundred dollars above the amount raised three or four years ago, each year since marking an enlarged income for this organization.

The Sunday School reported an increased membership roll, and finances in good condition. The 'teen age groups are all well organized and being successfully carried on.

At the conclusion of the business period, Mr. J. R. Eakins announced the result of the vote whether or not the congregation should enter the United Church next June, the final balloting having taken place earlier in the afternoon. The vote stood 96 for the anti-unionists, and 32 on the side of the union.

On account of illness among the members, and because of other intervening causes, it was decided to omit the usual congregation tea this year, the pastor dismissing the gathering in the usual manner.

Cavan L.O.L. Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Cavan District L.O.L. was held in the Orange Hall, Millbrook, on Tuesday afternoon, the attendance being good considering the severe weather.

The bride wore a nigger brown satin gown, richly embroidered, and carried a bouquet of cream roses.

A wedding dinner was served at the conclusion of the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Carmichael will reside at 10928 79th Avenue, and will be at home after January 20.

MOTOR SLEIGHS RUN TO WARSAW

Eddie Payne of the Village Said to Have Originated Device for Winter Travel.

SLEIGHING GOOD

WARSAW, Jan. 15. — Sleighing on the Dummer Road is splendid. Towards the end of the week cars were running. On Thursday at different places, cars had to be helped alon with teams. Mr. McFarlane, the county road inspector, was stuck with his sedan.

Hilliard Clements went to Lakefield with his winter motor on Friday.

Mr. Duffus had his new snow motor in the village twice last week. It created a little sensation. The cars the young men around here drive have the runners in front and two wheels side by side on the back. The stranger one has the front runners and four wheels at the back, two on each side, connected by a caterpillar chain.

The credit for these winter cars belongs to one of our village men, Eddie Payne. He conceived the idea. He with Elmo Hendren worked on it but did not get it to work at once. Hilliard Clements got the idea and was able to get one going well first. Shortly after Payne started his word came that some one in France was trying to get a motor with runners and wheels to work in the snow, and before the winter was over some one in the west had a contrivance with much of the weight of the back on a sleigh, as well as front runners, with the driving power in the hind wheels. Mr. Payne's idea has gone far. It is just another case of someone clever enough to start something and, not realizing how great it is, make nothing out of it. There is now quite a demand for these motors. The stage went with horses several days last week.

Produce Prices.

Quite a few eggs are coming to the village. They bring from 48c to 60c according to the size. Dairy butter is 32c. The 60c eggs are very extra; 50c is the average.

No Place for Travellers.

Mr. Covert from Roseneath, with another man and two teams, arrived in the village last Wednesday. Warsaw has no real accommodation for travellers, and Mr. Covert hunted the village for meals and bed for himself and man and shelter and fodder for his teams, until about eight o'clock. He got supper and a place for his horses at Percy Lloyd's, and bed and breakfast at Mrs. Dunsford's. He was on his way to Highland Grove, where he has several thousand feet of birch lumber.

Messrs. Garfield Burley and Elmer Dimsdale spent the week end with friends in Warsaw.

Miss Emma Darling was laid up a few days last week with a crushed thumb.

The many friends of Master Archie Crowe will be grieved to know that he has had to return to the hospital.

Allan and Hilliard Edwards are drawing telephone poles to Indian River.

Miss Lena Miller is attending the continuation school at Allandale.

Robert Tedford, Norwood, was in the village on Tuesday.

E. Brown of Smith U.F.O. buyer, was in the district last week.

Frank Kidd, of Zealandia, Sask., son of Ed. Kidd, who went west about 21 years ago, is visiting in this vicinity just now at Mr. Allan Payne's.

BURN HANDS OF SLEEPERS

Victim Says Saloonkeepers Drop Hot Coins Into Palms of Inebriates.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 15. —Atlantic City Hospital surgeons, called upon to attend numerous patients suffering from burns in the palms of their hands, led to the discovery that saloonkeepers were responsible for the injuries.

One victim, who made four trips to the hospital for treatment, revealed that saloonkeepers, to rid themselves of those who indulged too heavily in prohibited liquors, dropped hot coins in the hands of patrons while they were "sleeping it off." The method was said to be effective.

STERLING COUNCIL APPOINTS OFFICERS

Casting Vote of Reeve Needed to Decide Clerkship.

STIRLING, Jan. 15.—At the first meeting of the village council, considerable business was gone through with, all the members being present. This is an important meeting as all the officers are appointed for the year. There was quite a stir amongst some of the ratepayers, and it was stated there might be a change made in the clerkship. There were three applications for the position and by the casting vote of the Reeve, Mr. G. H. Levery was appointed as clerk for the ensuing year. All the other old officers were reappointed without any opposition.

NEW BUILDINGS IF NEEDED FOR UNITED CHURCH

Where Anti-Unionists Win the Unionists Will Be Provided for.

INSPIRED STATEMENT

Union Will Carry in Canada Whatever Individual Congregations Do.

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 15.—The following statement was issued by the Church Union Bureau of Information. One feature of the present voting that should be borne in mind is that this is not a plebiscite or a referendum on the question of Union of no Union for the Presbyterian Church in Canada. All this voting will decide is the number of congregations that will remain outside of the Union and the returns so far go to show that these will be very small in number compared with the United Church in Canada which will undoubtedly come into being on June 10 next with a vast majority of Presbyterian congregations within its fold.

Not all of the churches that have voted out will be lost to the Union, since every Presbyterian Church that votes against Union by a narrow majority will be substituted by a United Church in the same vicinity. Minorities in these local centres will undoubtedly find their way to the nearest United Church. Anti-Unionists may organize or propogandize a church building out of Union, but the church is not the building. It is made up of the active working force of the congregation which will without complaint leave the "shell" to those who desire to take the building into anotehr Presbyterian body.

No local vote can change the national outlook of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. The United Church of Canada will be national in its chaarcter and operations and whatever individual congregations may decide as to their future affiliations the Union of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, Methodist Church and Congregational Churches will be consummated on June 10th and the United Church of Canada will be established.

Japs In Trouble With Soviet At Vladivostok

TOKYO (United Press). — Reports have been current recently from Vladivostok that action on the part of the Soviet Government has made it impossible for Japanese business interests to continue their maintenance of offices there.

Houses that have had representatives there for years are recalling their men and closing their offices. The returning merchants and commercial men report that the mistreatment of the Soviet Government as regards Japanese interests has made the latter's position in Vladivostok impossible.

Heavy increases of taxes, it is reported, are being resorted to without warning. One firm declared recently that documents in its Vladivostok offices had been confiscated on the allegation that their representative was a Japanese spy. Only one Japanese company remains, according to reports published copiously here, out of a formerly flourishing group there. Foreign trade at Vladivostok has slumped almost to nothing as a result, it is said, although before the revolution in Russia it was a thriving port.

WOMAN OF FORTY VICTIM OF CONSTIPATION

Mrs. Fannie White of 678 Marcy Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"Almost every morning, for the last five years I suffered with sick headaches, I felt this was due to nervousness, never dreaming that faulty intestinal elimination caused my suffering. I felt wretched, my appetite was gone, I lost interest in preparing my meals, life was not worth living. A few days' treatment of Carter's Little Liver pills worked wonders. They are small, easy to take—no griping — and leave pleasant after effects."

THE EXPENSES OF DEPUTATIONS.

Ald. Crowe's attempt to have the accounts in connection with the expenses of civic deputations sent to the Finance Committee instead of being handled by the Mayor, did not receive any support from the Council, but may not have been far off the mark nevertheless.

The present system, of course, is perfectly safe with a chief magistrate of Mayor Turner's stamp.

Citizens are satisfied to accept his guarantee that their money is not being spent extravagantly on junketing expeditions.

But there have been municipal bodies who were much too fond of journeying round the country at the public's expense, organizing deputations to go here, there and everywhere, and Ald. Crowe's plan of having the Finance Committee deal with the out-of-town expeditions of the Council might provide an additional safeguard in years when the Mayor might not happen to view his duties as conscientiously as the present occupant of the office.

Later on Ald. Crowe might have better luck with his proposal.

AN IMPORTANT ADDRESS.

One of the most important public utterances for some time was the address of Sir Herbert Holt at the annual meeting of the Royal Bank of Canada.

The President of the Royal Bank dealt with some of the serious problems of Canada in a frank, straightforward manner, and with the earnestness of a financier who realized the necessity of dealing with such questions courageously.

It is to be hoped that the politicians of all parties have read his remarks, and have been impressed by his declaration that Canada's tax burden must be reduced if this country is not to be placed in a most unfavourable position, as compared with the United States where taxes are steadily being reduced.

Sir Herbert argued that sales and income tax should be cut and a way found to enlighten the burden of the people all along the line.

With industry stagnant and men with capital afraid to take a chance of investing in new enterprises under the present conditions, the only remedy was to lift some of the handicaps, and this was possible only by drastic economies in public expenditure.

The President of the Royal Bank was speaking not as a politician but as the head of a great financial concern, and the sober nature of his address cannot be passed over lightly.

The remedy is not an impossible one if the Government is given the co-operation of the public in an earnest endeavour to eliminate waste and extravagance, and to reduce for a time at least the spending of public money to that required for bare necessities.

Canada has the resources necessary for a great development, and if the people have faith in their country and support a drastic programme of national retrenchment the outlook is good.

INSPIRING CONFIDENCE.

Recognizing that the commercial travellers of Canada, by reason of their constantly moving about, can be made important factors in giving the Canadian people that confidence in themselves and their country that is most essential, Mr. W. D. Robb, the Vice-President of the Canadian National Railways, has wisely addressed to them a letter that should be of interest not only to the travellers but to Canadians generally.

Pointing out that commercial travellers, travelling countless miles in the quest of business, penetrating every city, town and village in the broad Dominion, can wield a remarkable influence in the moulding of public opinion, Mr. Robb reminds them that it is in their interest to inspire the public with confidence.

Unless the people at large express greater confidence in the future of this country, than they appear inclined to at the present time, it will have the effect of retarding immigration, settlement and general development, the message continues. The expansion of domestic trade is largely dependent upon increased population and development, a matter of paramount importance to the commercial travellers of Canada and the Canadian National Railways alike.

What is needed is more faith and a profound optimism. I believe more in faith than in optimism, but when both prevail and are based on the sound foundation of what has been accomplished in the past, and the incomparable potentialities of this country, they are an augury of what the future holds in store; for the events of the past are the best prophets of the future.

Let us review a few of these events, for the true romance of Canada is written in figures and in facts. Less than thirty years ago, in 1896, Canada exported less than ten million bushels of wheat; today we count our exports in hundreds of millions and our production of grains has passed the billion bushel mark.

In 1890, our export of pulp and paper products was one hundred and twenty dollars; in 1923 it was over $135 million. Thirty years ago our water power development was only one hundred and fifty thousand horse power; today it is about three and a half million, with a capital investment of $800 million. During the same period, our mineral production has risen from twenty to two hundred and fifteen million dollars in value, from $4.04 to $24 per capita, and this is only the beginning. Some day in the very near future the rapid development of mining now taking place and remarkable discoveries of gold, particularly in new areas, will create an unparalleled sensation that will direct all eyes to Canada and place this country in a new light before the whole world.

It is unnecessary to proceed with the countless comparisons that can be made, such as the remarkable advance of our foreign trade, now treble the per capita foreign trade of the United States, and the marvellous increase in the deposits in the savings banks. Sufficient has been said to enable us to realize how overwhelmingly the march of events in Canada during the past thirty years has outstripped the swiftest wings of early optimistic dreams.

There are many signs that we are arriving at the stage when our internal economy will be more properly balanced, when the markets of urban industry and agriculture will become reciprocal, forming a favourable cycle of prosperity and expansion.

Let us, therefore, push forward in confidence, inspired by the fact that perhaps no people of proportionate population in the history of the world, have had a greater task or have accomplished more than the people of Canada.

A FINE OLD CHAP.

(Kansas City Times.)

After all, you have to hand it to John Bull. At least he is never foolishly sentimental, as Uncle Sam often is. He is always on the job to see that his interests are protected. At the same time he lives up to his obligations. If he has protested against America sharing in the reparations, he paid ninety million dollars principal and interest on his indebtedness to America this week. He has set an example to the world of a high sense of honor. If he borrows, he will pay. If he expects all there is coming to him, and perhaps a little more, he is equally ready to do justice himself. A pretty fine old chap, John Bull.

THE TOURIST INDUSTRY.

A special Ottawa dispatch to the Financial Post (Toronto) carries the interesting information that while Americans are reaping an estimated profit of $125,000,000 from their Canadian investments, the American tourist traffic is worth about $150,000,000 a year to our country. This is a very gratifying condition of affairs and obviously the thing for Canada to do is to increase this tourist business as much as possible. We need American capital for Canadian development, but the more profit that we can bring back to this country, in the shape of tourist or other expenditures, the better.

There are certain factors that must be taken into consideration in our plans for increasing the popularity of the Dominion with American visitors. One of them is that of easy admission at our borders. We must have a minimum of red tape, the removal of every unnecessary bar to the free coming and going of visitors. More important still at such a cross-over point as we have here, is the question of transportation. Thousands of tourists are using the Border Cities-Detroit ferries every year, but it is safe to say that the number would be greatly increased were a bridge available. Forgetting entirely the way it would speed up and assist traffic, think of the advertising value of such a structure and of the thousands who would drive even great distances out of their way in order to use it.

Another important factor in the attraction of tourist business is that of driving regulations. In the United States an effort is being made to secure uniform motor laws to apply in the various States. Up to now these laws have presented a variety so great as to cause much confusion, a great deal of unpleasantness and many expensive delays. It is hoped to secure a set of regulations that will be acceptable to all the States, and put them into effect everywhere at once. Here is a suggestion for Canada. Is there any good reason why this country should not adopt the same set of regulations that will be chosen for the States. If we are to attract American tourists in greater numbers, such an act—the use of the standard Rmerican road regulations—would be of great assistance to us. The motorists of the United States could be informed of the change and many of them who now hesitate to come because of their ignorance of local ordinances on this side of the border, would feel entirely free to drive their cars across, knowing that it would not be necessary for them to acquaint themselves with a new set of laws, different from their own and changing in the various Provinces. Driving conditions in the States and Canada are approximately the same. A good road regulation there should be a good road regulation here. Is there any sound reason why we should not have uniformity between the two countries on this question?

Too many of us have not appreciated the importance of the American tourist business. It is really only in its infancy, but already it has developed gigantic proportions as the estimate carried above shows. It must be clear to all, then, that Canadians should use every legitimate effort to increase this form of revenue. Making it easy for Americans to come in, treating them well while they are here, and generously advertising our country and its advantages—motoring and otherwise—throughout the United States, will do the trick.

There is much ground for encouragement in the announcement of the Essex Automobile Club that tourist traffic into Canada will be doubled this year. It is only natural that Essex should be an attraction to motorists from the States and other parts of our own country. There is everything here to please the tourist—good roads, excellent climate, lovely scenery and high-class accommodation. The visits of these thousands of holiday makers are inspirations to prosperity. The family which starts out on a motor tour goes for a good time. It is prepared to spend a reasonable amount of money along the way, and the districts which hold out the strongest invitations get the bulk of the patronage. The result is greater prosperity for the whole community. Much of the credit for the influx of tourists through this port is due the Auto Club. The club, with its literature, its information bureau and its courteous treatment of strangers, has done much to popularize the local route.—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Peterborough Hockey Club continues to be the best advertising medium the city has known.

Providing coasting facilities for the youngsters does not necessarily mean that the City Council is letting things slide.

People who believe that Canada should cut down its national expenditure should be the last to ask the Federal Government to spend money.

The Liberal meeting in Toronto was a novelty inasmuch as it proved it was possible to talk of something else to a Queen City audience than the Ontario Temperance Act.

As the Ottawa Journal puts it, the vote on church union reveals again the Scotch as the most resolute of the human race.

If it is true that gold has been found in Glengarry, it is a safe bet that outsiders will never get much of it.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Jan. 14.—The draggy tendency in evidence in the cattle market at the Union Stock Yards yesterday was aggravated by the arrival of close to 1,200 cattle for today' market, to which were added 1,000 leftovers from yesterday. Trade was especially dull on this grade, having several hundred steers ready for shipment late in the week. Buyers were offering 25 cents to 50 cents a hundred lower on all grades of butcher cattle with the result that there was very little trading in the early hours of the market.

Local butchers picked up an odd load of good to choice handyweight steers and heifers at $6.50 to $7.10 a hundred, but the packers had not begun operations. Cows and bulls moved slowly at a quarter decline with good butcher cows ranging from $4 to $4.75 a hundred and with good heavy bulls at $4.25 to $5 a hundred. There was also a dull feeling in the store cattle division. Indications pointed to a draggy market with a large holdover for tomorrow.

The small supply of calves sold readily at steady prices, with tops at $13 for a half dozen and with the bulk of vealers at $9 to $11 a hundred. Buffalo buyers were picking up a load or so of fair to good calves for export. Small lots of heavy grassers went at $3.50 to $4.50 a hundred.

Hog Trade Uncertain

The hog run is fairly large and the buyers are again endeavoring to cut a quarter off current prices, bidding $10.75 off car for the thick smooth grade. Morning trade was uncertain, with prospects $10.75 to $11 off car, with select bacon hogs at $11.78 to $12.06.

Lambs held steady at $14 to $15 a hundred for choice kinds weighing under 100 pounds. Heavy lambs were, as usual, draggy at $11.50 to $13.50 a hundred. A light offering of sheep sold firm at a range of $3 to $8.50 a hundred.

Receipts for the day were 1,121 cattle, 215 calves, 3,060 hogs and 425 sheep and lambs.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Jan. 14—Wheat prices shifted rapidly to-day but averaged lower, affected to a notable extent by large spreading operations in which May delivery was sold and the July delivery was bought. There was also much calling of wheat against buying of corn.. Wheat closed easy at a range varying from 1 5-8 cents net decline to 3-8 cent advance with May 1.84 1-2 to 184 5-8 and July 157 1-8 to 157 1-4. Corn finished 7-8 cent to 1 5-8 cents up oats half to 3-4 cent down and provisions 7 cents higher to 47 cents lower.

MONTREAL GRAIN.

MONTREAL, Jan. 14. — A feature of the export trade in Canadian grain here to-day was the renewed demand from foreign buyers for Canadian western barley and as prices bid were in line with exporters views a fair amount of business was done. There was some demand in the cash grain market from exporters for Canadian western barley and sales about 40,000 to 50,000 bushels were made at a flat price track Fort William. The demand from country buyers for oats was slightly better and a moderate trade done. Ontario No. 2 white goods being quoted at 66c cents, No. 3 grade at 64 cents and No. 4 grade at 62 cents.

The export business in spring wheat flour was slow owing to the millers not being in a position at the present time to compete with other exporting countries on account of the high prices ruling for Canadian wheat. The market for winter wheat flour was firm but the trade volume was small.

A fair volume of business was transacted in all grades of eggs in a wholesale jobbing way and the undertone was firm. The butter market was weaker and prices for all grades were reduced 1-2 cent per pound. A stronger feeling continues to prevail for cheese and prices are tending towards a higher level with sales of early makes reported at 22 1-2 cents per pound, and current receipts of fodder made good at 18 1-2 to 20 cents per lb. for No. 1 grade, and 18 1-2 to 19 cents per pound, for No. 2 goods.

Crop beans were quoted at $2.70 to $2.80 per bushel.

STERLING RATES.

MONTREAL, Jan. 14. — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here today as follows:

Sterling demand $4.79.

Sterling cables $4.79 3-8.

EGG PRICES.

OTTAWA, Jan. 14.—There is no particular evidence at the present time of increased receipts on the large markets with the possible exception perhaps of British Columbia There is reported to be some accumulation of British Columbia fresh extras. The demand having apparently fallen off for this grade from both Prairie Provinces and from the east.

PETROLIA INDIGNANT

Alleged Reflection by W. S. Haney, M.L., on Town's Progress.

SARNIA, Ont., Jan. 15.—(Canadian Press).—The Petrolia Board of Education has passed a resolution asking the Petrolia district Chamber of Commerce to demand some explanation from Wilfred S. Haney, M.L.A. of Wes Lambton for his remarks at a luncheon held recently at London at which Mr. Haney erroneously stated that Petrolia had decreased in population 1,000 in the short period of four years.

It is claimed records show that Petrolia's population, although having suffered like all other small towns has only decreased 650 in fourteen years. The present increase in the local school attendance was cited as illustrating the fact that Petrolia is not decreasing in population.

SNOW SHOVELLING COSTS TOO MUCH

Say United Counties as They Make Endeavour to Save.

COBOURG, Jan. 15.—To keep the cost of snow shovelling on county roads down to the least possible cost, is the task which Mr. Geo. Greer, County Road superintendent has set himself for this year. Last winter the counties' bill for snow shovelling was $5,000, which appeared to many to be a large outlay. So far this season the snowfalls have been as heavy as last, and it appears as if there will be considerable labor of some kind required throughout the winter season. There is one thing it puts a considerable amount of money in circulation at a time when it is needed. The removal of some of the old stump and rail fences is helping to keep the county roads in better condition.

The County Humane Society which met at Port Hope recently has a plan formulated for the encouragement of special interest in working horses in this district. Mr. F. Sculthrope, Inspector, reported having had horse, suffering from sore shoulder taken from work, putting delivery horse, that was in cold shed in proper shelter; visited abandoned poultry farms and fed hens. Also horse was taken from work, homes were found for two stray dogs, old horses were ordered destroyed, several drivers were warned about using horses on slippery streets without shoes, visits were made to stock on farms, etc.

Four Villages In Ruin; 140 Killed By Quake

LONDON, Jan. 15—Four villages have been destroyed and 140 persons killed in an earthquake at Ardahan, in Trans-Causia, says a despatch to The Daily Mail, from Constantinople.

The despatch adds that 2,000 persons are homeless with the temperature 22 degrees fahrenheit, below zero. Earth shocks are continuing intermittently.

A THOUGHT.

THE EVIDENCE.

Have you ever thought how vicious and insidious is hate? Have you ever realized that here is a poison so deadly that those who bear it suffer more potently than those on whom it is vented?

Perhaps you call this destroying element a grudge, and do not classify the symptoms it generates with the affliction that hate inflicts.

Well, grudge or hate, as you will, feelings of bitterness and resentment, of scorn and contempt, are excess baggage that you cannot afford to carry long.

It is no more difficult to forget than it is to forgive, and you should do both if you want to get anywhere and be happy in the going.

To forgive and forget is not nearly so charitable and high minded an action, as it is an evidence of good common sense.

Where true friendship lays its hand,

FIFTY-SIXTH ANNUAL MEETING OF THE ROYAL BANK OF CANADA

Sir Herbert S. Holt, President, Insists That Country Must Now Deal With Serious Problem of Over-Taxation—Suggests Establishment of Central Budget Bureau and Committee of Experts to Investigate Railway Situation—Believes Canada Should Return to Gold Standard at Once.

C. E. Neill, General Manager, Reviews Growth and in Commenting on Increase of $40,000,000 in Deposits Points Out That in 1924 Bank Opened More New Accounts Than in Any Other Year of Its History—Expansion in International Business.

The annual general meeting of The Royal Bank of Canada held at the head office in Montreal not only marked the conclusion of one of the most successful years in the Bank's history, but was also featured by most interesting and forceful addresses by Sir Herbert Holt, the President and C. E. Neill, the General Manager.

Sir Herbert, in his address, pointed out that Canada was confronted with such serious problems that it would be unfair to pass over them lightly. On the other hand, they had to be faced courageously and a solution found, otherwise the damage may become almost irreparable.

Foremost among these problems is taxation. He regarded the situation in this respect as very serious indeed, and stressed the necessity for reducing our tax burden in order that Canada might not be placed in too unfavorable a position as compared with other countries, notably the United States, where taxes are steadily being reduced. As a remedy Sir Herbert recommended drastic economies in public expenditure, and to assist in this suggested the establishment of a Central Budget Bureau similar to that in operation in the United States, directed by an efficient and non-partisan officer who would understand that so long as many of our citizens and companies are struggling to make both ends meet, public funds must be spent on bare necessities alone. Not only should sales and income taxes be cut, but a way should be found to lighten the public's burden all along the line. He emphasized the fact that it is not the wealthy who are the greatest sufferers from high surtaxes on incomes, but the rank and file of the people who find it difficult to secure employment when industry is stagnant and the men who should be risking their money in new enterprises have no incentive to do so.

The Tariff Question

On the tariff situation in Canada he pointed out our responsibility to the great number of men and women who depend on our factories for a livelihood and noted that these factories could not operate properly under the menace of tariff reductions. The urgent need for stability was stressed.

Immigration

In touching on the immigration question the speaker said that the first people to enter Canada in any number must be farmers, and these would only be attracted if farming could be carried on at a profit. While farming in Canada during the last few years had not been generally profitable, he hoped that from now on it would give reasonable returns. In this case, a proper immigration policy would be well rewarded. If Canada secured a good number of new farm settlers, the way would be again open for our factories to operate satisfactorily, the exodus of Canadians to the United States could be stopped, and eventually the country would be able to absorb newcomers of the industrial class. A general revival of business in Canada is almost entirely dependent upon development along these lines.

Sir Herbert came out strongly in favor of a change in our policy in regard to the export of pulpwood. As Canada urgently requires every dollar of earning power it can possibly secure he thought it foolish to export large amounts of pulpwood in the raw state. While an embargo on exports was perhaps too drastic a measure, he did advocate an adequate export tax which would result in the further development of the paper making industry in Canada and the provision of more work for Canadians.

The problem of our excessive railway mileage was referred to and the appointment of a commission of experts to investigate and make a report on the whole railway situation, with the object of lightening the stupendous burden under which we are now laboring, was suggested.

On the subject of bank amalgamations, Sir Herbert stated that one of the reasons for such changes was the lack of profit in banking in Canada today. Opportunities to reduce overhead costs through amalgamation were, therefore, taken advantage of. Income and business taxes paid by The Royal Bank of Canada increased from $120,000 in 1914 to $805,278 in 1924 exclusive of any amounts paid on lands and buildings.

Gold Reserve Adequate

The President referred to the world's need for greater stability in business, and in this connection remarked on the handicap arising from fluctuating exchange rates. He believed that the question of a return to the gold standard would be prominent in 1925, and that if England were to take the lead in resuming gold payments, many other countries of the world would follow suit within a reasonable time. So far as Canada was concerned, he believed that such action could be taken immediately, that our gold reserve is adequate and any fear that we could not maintain gold payments is groundless.

In concluding his remarks, the President said, "I have never been more optimistic in regard to the possibilities of this country than I am today. We have been held back by agricultural depression since 1920, but this should disappear as normal conditions are restored throughout the world. I have firm faith in the future of the Empire, of which we are a part, and hope to see good results obtained as its varied resources are properly developed. Moreover, a factor conducive to Canadian prosperity is our close proximity to a country of 113 million people, increasing in number at the rate of perhaps two million per annum. I feel sure that great prosperity is ahead of the United States in the next ten years, and that we shall find in that country a market not only for larger amounts of lumber and paper, but for increasing quantities of foodstuffs as well. Good as our prospects are, it must not be forgotten that we are faced with the necessity of finding a solution for some very urgent problems, and that the improvement which we are justified in expecting can be retarded by the mishandling of our affairs, by failure to reduce taxation, by neglect of immigration, or by the development of a spirit of sectionalism, with its resultant instability, damaging the reputation of Canada in the countries to whom we look for new citizens and fresh capital.

General Manager's Address

C. E. Neill, the General Manager, in his address, dealt with the changes in the bank's financial statement for the year, notably the growth of over $40,000,000 in deposits, and the increase in investments in Government securities. He stated that the bank had opened more new accounts in 1924 than in any year of its history, and intimated that the increase in deposits was due to the natural growth of the business, rather than to any specially large deposits.

The decrease in commercial loans in Canada was accounted for by the general slackening off in business and the absence of demand for credit for new enterprises. In this connection Mr. Neill stated that the bank had made a special effort to provide all borrowing customers with their legitimate requirements, that liberal support had been given when justified, and that everything reasonably possible was being done to provide credit for the development of the agricultural, manufacturing and other important industries of the country.

Mr. Neill pointed out that net profits for the year were satisfactory, due to the increase in assets and to the substantial profits arising from the bank's international business.

Speaking of the bank's holding of Government securities, he said, "You will be interested to know that our present holding of short term Government and Municipal securities exceeds $78,500,000, and I am sure you will approve of our policy of holding such a very substantial liquid reserve."

Outlook Is Encouraging

In referring to conditions in Canada and other countries where the bank is represented, he stated that while 1924 had not been a good business year in Canada, the outlook for the future was encouraging, chiefly because of the rise in price of agricultural products, notably wheat. As for the foreign business of the Bank, it was particularly satisfactory and profitable.

Speaking of the South American countries in which the bank has branches, he said, "These countries produce necessities which are bound to be required in increasing quantities by the outside world as time goes on, and I believe that not only is their prosperity assured, but that some of them will develop remarkably during the next twenty years. The quality of the business we accept in South America is exceptionally high, a prominent feature being the purchase of documentary bills of exchange representing export of commodities. Our experience has been unusually satisfactory, and I look for even better results in the future."

NEW YORK GLIMPSES

City's Ugliest Winter Mood is at 7 A.M. at Cold, Grey Dawn.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—New York is in its ugliest winter mood at seven o'clock in the morning. Then the lights are turned off and the sun has not yet battled its way through the gray shroud that envelopes the city.

Then the electric luster is gone and the face of the city seems like some faded jade without rouge and lip-stick, seamed, soiled and repulsive.

It is the hour of penitence. The swinging flesh pots have come to a stop. Lackeys are hurrying to clear away the debris of dissipation before the sun reveals its sordidness. Sackcloth and ashes replace cap and bells. Romance has fled before the cloud of gray.

Out of the grayness there trickles a thin stream of men to throw in the switches, to speed up the whirling wheels, to start the changing, throbbing bobbin-and-shuttle that weaves its human skein into brilliant fabric for the night. The torrent of humanity which follows never sees the gray.

When day turns to night there is no grayness. Lights are turned on before the sun is down. New York lives for the night.

And so it is that many here live on from year to year only in a bright-lighted turmoil, knowing no tranquil moment, knowing nothing of the seven o'clock hour of gray ashes, of penitent meditation, of the drabness of life that underlies all of the glitter.

Maybe they see only a small part of life, but, after all, they see what they want to see—and are happy in that.

One of the New York papers invites readers to review shows. A weekly theatrical publication keeps a box score, showing the averages of the newspaper critics as to their productions of shows' successes. The paper that uses readers to review shows stands next to last in the list, while one of the best known critics in town tops the list. This, despite the fact that his estimate of a play entirely disregards the box-office angle.

A wealthy widow recently lost $80,000 backing a musical show that lasted only a week on Broadway. She was desirous of having her daughter appear as prima donna and lost a big gamble. On the other hand, "Rose Marie," a musical show, took in $52,500 in one week. That's a new box-office record.

REAL ESTATE MEN TO DECLARE WAR AGAINST THE LOAN SHARK

DALLAS, Texas, Jan. 15 (By United Press).—Adoption of a nation-wide building code and proposed warfare against the loan "shark" formed the keynote of the annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards opening here to-day. The convention closes Jan. 16.

Five hundred member boards in the United States and Canada were represented. Retiring President H. R. Ennis, Kansas City, Mo., called the convention to order. President-elect Chas. G. Edwards, of New York, and other officers elected at the 1924 convention, will be installed Thursday night.

Seven round-table gatherings, representing real estate finance, homebuilding and sub-dividing, industrial properties, farm lands, property management, real estate brokerage and organization—the important divisions of the profession—were called simultaneous with the convention.

Other problems before the convention were: National, State and Municipal tax adjustment; financing homebuyers; development of outlying territories of large cities to prevent obstruction of development of the city plant and zoning of a city to protect real estate values.

Little change has occurred in the level of living costs since the surveys were started, so these figures, according to labor department experts, may be accepted as typical of those prevailing, at least in the states mentioned, today.

Loan sharks will be crushed and expelled from the profession, leading realtors told the United Press.

The convention was expected to endorse regulations adopted by the Texas association, requiring realtors to pass qualification examinations before they are licensed.

This regulation, it was pointed out, eradicates the "quack" realtor and safeguards unsuspecting investors.

Co-operation between landlord and tenant to lower taxes by tax participation leases, was stressed in resolutions placed before the realtors.

Suburban development was urged by the New York delegation in resolutions recommending state-wide planning of rural districts.

Five specific recommendations were made and unanimous adoption was expected.

1. An amendment to general municipal laws giving all planning commissions created under the law supervision over all sub-divisions within the municipalities.

2. Urging of all real estate boards to work for the appointment of planning commissions where commissions are non-existent.

3. Co-operation with commissions in contiguous areas for co-ordinate development on boarder regional lines.

4. Appointment of county planning commissions.

5 Provision in all large sub-divisions for parks, recreation grounds and automobile parking centres.

Convention headquarters were at the Adolphus Hotel. Frank L. McNeny, Dallas, general chairman of the committee on arrangements, had charge. The programme of entertainment arranged included a national realtors' golf tournament, a realtors' revue, music, teas, luncheons, sight-seeing tours, and golf and theatre parties for the women.

A board of directors meeting Friday will bring the convention to formal close.

Following the convention many of the realtors will go to New Orleans, La., where they will begin a cruise of the Caribbean Sea. Cuba, Panama and Costa Rico will be visited. The party will leave New Orleans Jan. 17 and return Feb. 3.

CURED HIS RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me, Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, 489L Marcellus Avenue, Manasquan, N. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

OXFORD COUNTY STARTS BETTER HOGS CAMPAIGN

Record of Quality Production Begun by Agricultural Representative.

WOODSTOCK, Jan. 15.—(Canadian Press).—The production of select bacon hogs in Oxford County has received an added impetus since the commencement of a campaign begun by G. R. Green, district representative of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Over 300 boars have been listed in the county to date and a record is being kept of the percentage of selects among their progeny.

Mr. Green is formulating plans whereby a record of performance of boars will be kept along similar lines to the records of performance of bulls now widely in use in Oxford County.

He declares his plan will tend eliminating those boars which consistenly produce low grade hogs and would thereby increase the percentage of selects.

FRANCE PLANS AIRSHIP LINES TO THE AMERICAN CONTINENT

Minister of Education Explains Plans for Commercial Expansion Through Air.

IN NORTH AMERICA

Minister of Aviation Believes That This Year Should See Improvements.

By M. LAURENT EYNAC

PARIS, Jan 15 (United Press).—In the development of her commercial transport by air, France is engaged in the study of two great projects; regular service with North Africa and with America, both North and South. Already much progress has been made toward linking the country with our possessions in Africa, and we believe that technical improvements now being tested will bring this aim to happy realization.

The junction of France with the United States seems, in the present technical state of aviation, more delicate and distant than a successful liaison with South America, so we are counting first on extending our service to Argentine, but we envisage the time when air lines will be in operation between Paris and New York, by way of Bordeaux, the Azores and the Bermudas. We are concentrating on commercial air expansion, convinced that the future of flying offers untold opportunities.

Since 1919, the year of its creation, commercial aviation by air has made considerable progress. In Europe most of the great capitals are connected by a network of air lines, which are bing exploited with great success, France, in particular, is in an excellent position. Its capital is connected by air lines with London, Brussels, Amsterdam, Prague, Warsaw, Vienna, Budapest, Belgrade, Bucharest and Angora. France has been the first to assure communications between continent and continent, connecting Europe and Africa across the Mediterranean, and between Toulouse and Casablanca, also Marseilles to Oran by way of Perpignan and Alicante. Very soon we expect to have air liaison with Tunis.

In North America.

In North America an air postal line is functioning between New York and San Francisco by day and night. In South America we are watching with sympathetic interest efforts to connect the capitals by air.

All these lines are only links the sections of great international airways which will bind, in the future, the great capitals of the entire world, for aerial navigation will not be complete, will not cease in development until long commercial lines are in operation.

From a technical point of view at present, liaisons across continents are comparatively easy of realization, but further improvements must be made to cross seas and oceans. However, trans-Atlantic liaisons have already been envisaged. Projects are in course of study, and their realization will depend upon technical progress with hydraplanes capable of carrying heavy loads and with dirigibles.

In 1925, the line between Toulouse and Casablanca will be extended to Dakar. Dakar will become in the near future the point of departure for a service to Pernambouc, and from there it can be continued on to Buenos Aires. To promote this scheme a mission from the Societe Generale d'Entreprises Aeronautiques has already left France for South America to study the necessary development of the line.

Dirigibles vs. Airplanes.

In France opinion differs from that in England and Germany, where it is believed that the immediate future of commercial air transportation lies with the lighter-than-air machines, such as dirigibles, but we think that the dirigible is not sufficiently developed to assure a regular service without danger. Our conviction is based on the fate of the several rigid dirigibles constructed so far, and the fact that most of them have met with catastrophe.

Does this mean that France is entirely disinterested in the dirigible and in trans-oceanic liaisons by dirigibles. Certainly not, but these machines must prove themselves worthy before she will ever consent to utilize them.

France is devoting herself more and more to the study of hydroplanes and of heavy load-carrying multi-motor airplanes, including machines driven by four and five motors. We have four types of machines carrying two motors of 500 or 800 h.p. with which we are experimenting. A very heavy five-motor machine of 2,000 h.p. is now being constructed, and machines of intermediary power are being constructed and experimented with. In 1925 an overseas course will be organized by the Aero Club with the technical and financial co-operation of the Under-Secretariat of Aeronautics, and these tests will enable a comparison of the values of the various types of machines already constructed. It may be and we hope that these machines will prove worthy for liaison between France and Africa and between France and America.

Such is the position realized by French aeronautics for the establishment of trans-oceanic liaisons from the point of view of organization of lines as well as development of material to assure their exploitation.

NAVY MANOEUVRES IN PACIFIC WRONG

Liberal Leader in Japan Thinks U. S. Action is Injudicious.

TOKIO, (Canadian Press), Jan. 15.—In view of the second disarmament conference being considered by President Coolidge, the approaching naval manoeuvres of the American Pacific fleet in the waters adjacent to the Hawaiian Islands are exceedingly unwise, in the opinion of Yukio Ozaki, one of the most prominent of the liberal leaders in Japan and a member of the Diet.

The Singapore naval base project of Great Britain is regarded in the same light by Mr. Ozaki, inasmuch as Great Britain, as well as the United States, is sincere in its efforts for world peace and is looking forward to the success of the conference.

The American fleet's operations in the Pacific, according to Mr. Ozaki, cannot fail to foment an unfavorable feeling towards America among the Japanese people. It is really no more than the Japanese navy is doing, but it is bound to create a bad impression.

"For a nation such as the British, the establishment of a naval base is nothing extraordinary," said Mr. Ozaki.

"It was only through the Pacific platform of the Labor government that the project was abandoned and now that administration has fallen it is only natural that the British Government has revived the plan.

"Nor should the American proposal to hold naval manoeuvres with Hawaii as a base be regarded as a manifestation of a particularly bellicose spirit of the part of America. It is only that in the Pacific America's hypothetical enemy is Japan. America must have naval manoeuvres occasionally to keep the fleet in trim for an emergency, and she chose the coast of the Philippines and Hawaii as a matter of course.

"Since there is no other strong power in the Orient, Japan's assumed enemy is either America or Britain. It goes without saying that the Japanese manoeuvres have been conducted with such a possible enemy in view. Thus, all the nations concerned are adopting much the same tactics and there is no particular reason for the Japanese to interpret the intention of the American government as being calculated to irritate the Japanese people.

"The people, however, do not always look at such matters from an entirely rational standpoint. And the Japanese mind has been considerably irritated by the recent relations between Japan and America. Considering this present state of mind, therefore, the American proposal will not fail to arouse a greater animosity in this country. The Japanese may be wrong to regard the event as unfriendly, but they will entertain a bad impression of America, nevertheless.

"It is these little things that frequently lead nations into serious conflict. I do not mean to say that war is inevitable. War can be avoided easily if one nation takes into consideration the feelings of its neighbor, and the American naval manoeuvres are a case in point."

Shot Mother to Death When Gay Life Opposed

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif, Jan. 15 (United Press).—Dorothy Ellingson, 16, confessed today that she shot her mother to death because of parental opposition to the gay life she desired to lead, police announced.

The girl was arrested in a rooming house here. At first she denied even knowing her mother was dead; then under questioning she told a story of a drug addict coming to her home and killing Mrs. Ellingson.

Then she suddenly cried: "Call the police woman I did it myself—I killed mother."

WATERWAYS ARE SUBJECT REPORT

Recommends Complete Sewage Treatment at Chicago —Welland is Sufficient.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—(Canadian Press). — The Niagara River, lying between "two friendly nations," presents the question of joint ownership and control and the necessity for team work for the preservation and further utilization, says a report by Samuel S. Wyer, associate in mineral technology of the United States National Museum. The report was made public to-day by the Smithsonian Institute.

Power problems and water diversion from the Great Lakes as proposed in the drainage projects, particularly that at Chicago for sewage disposed and a deeper waterway to the gulf, are discussed in the report.

In regard to the Chicago problem, it suggests "complete sewage treatment," which it estimates would cost $157,000,000.

As to plans for any further diversion at Niagara Falls, the report says that these must cope with the "sentimental situation" surrounding the beauties of the Falls.

Concerning the proposed additional canals between Lakes Erie and Ontario, the position is taken that the "Welland Canal, wholly under Canadian control, but available to both Canadian and United States vessels on equal terms, can handle all the traffic."

ARTICLE No. 15

There are certain hands on which the best of players will always differ and it is a lucky thing for auction that this is so. It is this very variety of opinion that makes the game interesting. No doubt it is a fine thing to agree about some things, but life would soon lose its savor if we all were of the same opinion about everything. Arguments are stimulating and keep the interest alive. This is particularly true of auction and the very fact that some hands cause endless discussion and a wide variety of opinion, shows why the game is so fascinating. The following hand is a good example. It was recently submitted to the writer as a hand on which no good players seemed to agree as to the proper bid. What do you think?

: Y :
: A B :
: Z :

Hearts — A
Clubs — 9, 7, 6, 5, 3, 2
Diamonds — A, 8, 7, 2
Spades — A, 2

No score, rubber game. What should Z as dealer bid with the foregoing hand? The writer will give his opinion in the next article.

There is one type of hand on which the well-known writers and players of the game still disagree. When partner has bid one no-trump and second hand has passed, what type of hand justifies a take out? If you want to get into an argument, just start a discussion of this subject and you will probably find as many opinions as there are players. It is the same thing with the writers on auction. They all disagree and the result is a wide diversity of opinion. The following hands illustrate the principles of the take out and the writer will give his opinion in the next article. In the meantime think it over and discuss your opinion with your friends. It is an interesting subject and so far still an open game.

Hand No. 1

Hearts — J, 10, 8, 3, 2
Clubs — J, 7, 3
Diamonds — 9, 5
Spades — K, 6, 5

: Y :
: A B :
: Z :

No score, first game. Z dealt, bid one no-trump and A passed. What should Y now bid with the foregoing hand?

Hand No. 2

Hearts — 8, 2
Clubs — J, 9, 8, 2
Diamonds — 10, 2

: Y :
: A B :
: Z :

No score, rubber game. Z dealt, bid one no-trump and A passed. What should Y now bid with the foregoing hand?

These "take outs" cause endless discussion but the writer is becoming more and more convinced of their soundness. In the 1924 edition of his book on Auction Bridge, he has summarized the "take outs" as follows: "When partner has bid no-trump, his partner is obliged to over-call under certain conditions: (a) Having an original bid in either major suit; (b) any six or more cards in either major suit; (c) any two five card suits; (d) any five card major suit if the hand contains a singleton or no help for partner's no-trump." The game of auction is still developing and no writer is in a position to say that his opinion is final.

The following hand has recently been brought to the writer's attention and the proper play is so interesting and instructive, that it is given as

Problem No. 7

Hearts — A, K, Q, 4
Clubs — J, 10, 9, 4, 3, 2
Diamonds — 7
Spades — A, 4

: Y :
: A B :
: Z :

Hearts — 10, 9, 5, 2
Clubs — A, K, Q, 7
Diamonds — 9, 6, 3
Spades — Q, 6

No score, rubber game. Clubs are trumps and Z is playing the hand. A opens the king of diamonds and all follow suit. He then leads the trey of spades. How should Z play the hand so that he can make game no matter how the remaining cards are distributed? Solution in the next article.

CHURCHILL DID MUCH AT PARIS

Accomplishments in Inter-Allied Debt Question Are of Great Importance.

BRITAIN'S POLICY.

LONDON, Jan. 15. — (Canadian Press).—Winston Churchill's accomplishments at Paris in connection with the inter-allied debt question are understood to be of much greater importance than the public is aware of.

Mr. Churchill attended the Cabinet meeting this morning and presented a detailed report of his work at Paris, dealing particularly with the inter-allied debt matter. The British Government, it is stated in official quarters, has no fixed policy regarding the allied debts, but the Cabinet is considering the question of a policy, and probably will be able to make a formal announcement shortly.

The Cabinet is expected, however, to adhere to the main point stated in several notes—that Great Britain is vitally interested only in payments by her debtors of amounts sufficient to balance her debt to the United States.

Demand From France.

Correspondence that passed between Mr. Churchill and Finance Minister Clementel of France on the debt question deals with what in the main is understood to amount to a request from France for a definite statement of the British attitude on the debt settlement and an expression by France of willingness to settle the whole question as soon as possible.

ANARCHISTS KILLED.

BAY OF QUINTE SCHOOL OPENED

Rev. Newton Powell, of Toronto, Lecturer at School Entertainment.

OTHER SPEAKERS.

COBOURG, Jan. 15.—The fourth annual Bay of Quinte School for the study of the Bible and Missions, young people's work and for training young men and women in Christian leadership opened here on Monday evening. There was a short address by the president, Rev. E. Harston, Woodville, in which he voiced the opportune questions, "What Are We Here For," "What Do We Expect to Carry Away With Us?" Capt. Harston brought these and other questions home with vital force to those present. Among the young people assembled are representatives from every district of the Bay of Quinte conference. Up to date about one hundred have registered, and others are expected.

Rev. Harold Young Here.

Rev. W. Harold Young, Peterboro, is one of the most valued leaders here. He gives an address at the vesper service each evening and, with President Rev. E. Harston, conducts the morning worship each morning. These inspirational addresses by Mr. Young are among the rich treats of the winter school.

Each evening a different programme is put on and there is always one hour or two of rare enjoyment. On Monday night the meeting was held in the church auditorium, when a number of Cobourg people were present with the delegates to enjoy a good programme.

Rev. Newton Powell's Address.

Rev. Newton Powell, Toronto, was the lecturer at the first evening entertainment held by the Bay of Quinte winter school. Rev. F. J. Horwood, Mus. Bac., presided at the organ and gave an enjoyable recital including some original compositions. Solos that were much enjoyed were sung by Rev. T. G. McKee, Baltimore; Rev. Roy Rickard, Northfort, and Miss Lena Taylor, Hamplor.

The chairman of the evening was the indefatigable promoter and president of Bay of Quinte winter school, Rev. E. Harstone Woodville. Capt. Harston in brief remarks paid a fine tribute to the staff of the school mentioning especially the secretary Rev. H. A. Bunt and the business manager Rev. F. J. Horwood the ministers of the Bay of Quite conference who are actively associated in the work of the school Miss Youmens Mr. Taylor Statten, Rev. Frank Langford and others.

The lecturer of the evening upon being introduced, paid a fine tribute to the work of Capt. Harsten, during the four years of progress since the school was first inaugurated under his instrumentality. He regretted that he could not have the privilege of remaining throughout its sessions, to share in the benefit to be received from the able teachers and leaders in young people's work who were present to conduct the sermons. Mr. Powell took as the subject of his lecture, "Pictures; Their Value in Instruction, and as Aids to Memory."

A choir of young people from the winter school ably led the service of song, which was one of the inspiring features of the meeting.

Some of the Speakers and Leaders.

Among those who are assisting in the study groups and other features of young people's work are, Rev. J. S. I. Wilson, Brighton, president of the Bay of Quinte conference; Rev. W. R. Tanton, Canborne; Rev. Roy Rickard, Northfort; Rev. R. T. Richards, Cavan; Rev. H. A. Bunt, Canton, secretary of the school; Rev. F. J. Harwood, Canborne; Rev. Prof. Maine, Albert College, Belleville; Mr. Taylor Statten, Toronto; Miss Nina Youmans, Toronto; Rev. Frank Langford, Toronto, general secretary of young people's societies, and others. Rev. Archie McLaughlin Keene is here, also Rev. Dewey Stinson, formerly of Omemee. Rev. Mr. Tanton is taking up the study of home missions, and Rev. Mr. Mortimer, returned missionary from China, that of foreign missions.

The officers of Bay of Quinte conference winter school are:

LAVENDER NEW SHADE FOR MEN

Prince of Wales Set Style of Baggy Clothes, Say Designers.

BROAD SHOULDERS

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—The "he man," he who comes from the place where men are men—from out where the west begins, will be with us this spring. His shoulders will be broad and his clothes loose. His wide trousers will allow for comfort and ease.

The International Association of Clothing Designers, in its thirtieth semi-annual convention at the Drake hotel, last week outlined the fashion tendencies for the well-dressed man of the spring of 1925, and then set to work deciding on the styles for fall.

But if a he-man cut will characterize spring clothes for men, "cake-eater" colors will offset the effect to some extent. Delicate gray is the shade for suit. And if lavender isn't becoming, you're out of luck. Powder blue is "dead!" London lavender is the new shade.

The style tendencies for spring wear for men are as follows:

Broader shoulders.

Coats shorter and looser.

Trousers wider, both at top and bottom.

Waistlines larger.

Prevalence of grays, sprinkled with lavender, in suitings.

The return of formal evening dress.

Wales Is Responsible.

"The Prince of Wales is responsible for the new styles. H. R. H. came to America wearing clothes that pained American tailors by their bagginess.

"Clothes that positively didn't fit," said one designer. But now all America's manufacturers of men's clothing are planning to dress American men in clothes of similar roominess and comfort this spring.

"Getting away from the skin-tight clothing will please American men, because they want ease and comfort," said G. E. Ferek, spokesman for the association. "Fifteen years ago very broad shoulders and peg-top trousers were the thing. We're not getting back to that exactly, but the general tendency is in that direction.

"The Prince of Wales is the strongest influence in the new styles. When he was in Chicago he wore a Glen-Urquhart plaid suit. The very next day Chicago clothiers had calls for suits of Glen-Urquhart plaid. And every smartly dressed man was turning his hat down in the fashion affected by the prince."

Lapels on Vest.

The soul of the extreme dresser will be delighted by a model that has a one-button coat and a double-breasted vest with lapels. Pleated top trousers make the ensemble. Top coats with shoulders slightly wider than formerly will measure forty-five inches in length. Tweeds and flannels for sport wear will show more simplicity of cut. And the tuxedo, the wearing of which has been overdone in the last few years, is to be relegated to strictly informal occasions, when there are no ladies present. Formal evening dress only will be correct for social functions.

BROUGHT THE PATROL WAGON, NOT A BIBLE

CHICAGO, Jan. 15 (United Press).—Donald McClough, 23, embryo thug, is convinced you can't trust a woman.

McClough, brandishing a shiny, new gun, confronted Lillian Johnson, 26, stenographer, in front of her apartment here as she was returning from work, and demanded her purse.

"If you need it worse than I do, take it," Lillian told the bandit, explaining that her mother had died that day and she needed the money for a funeral. McClough declined the purse.

"Give me your gun," she commanded. "I think I can save you from a life of crime." He handed over the weapon.

"Wait here," she directed. "I'm going in the house and bring you a Bible. I know you'll go straight then."

McClough waited. Fifteen minutes later the patrol wagon pulled up to the curb and took him away.

McClough was a farm hand working near Elmhurst, Ill., before he took up his latest profession.

WATER DIVERSION BRINGS PROTESTS

City Councils and Business Organizations Gather to Formulate Plans.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Jan. 15. — (Canadian Press).—Representatives of scores of cities on the United States and Canadian shores of the Great Lakes met here to-day to protest against the proposed legislation intended to legalize the diversion of lake water at Chicago. Those attending the meeting include mayors, city council members and representatives of commercial bodies, shipping and industrial interests.

The conference ends on Friday, when a vigorous protest against Chicago's diversion of water will be offered by the Resolutions Committee.

Addressing the morning meeting, Mr. Bruce said the Chicago sanitation scheme with its diversion of water is not only illegal but "constitutes the most gigantic blunder of modern times."

BRIGHTON DISTRICT ORANGEMEN GATHER

Striking Address Given by Worshipful District Master.

BRIGHTON, Jan. 15 — (Canadian Presss).—The officials of the Brighton District Loyal Orange Lodge convened in this town yesterday.

The business of the past year was reviewed showing that the district's financial standing is good. Much important business was put through during the session. The Worshipful District Master touched upon all current matters in connection with the Order and also gave his hearers some sound advice. In a word, his address was the best ever submitted by a district master.

L.O.L. No. 186, Brighton, gave notice that the coming July 12th would see a celebration in this town second to none in the province.

Bro. W. A. Goodfellow, District Master, then vacated the chair and asked Bro. R. J. Ross, Past District Master to install the officers, which was accomplished in a very able manner. Addresses were delivered by the newly elected officers.

The recording secretary was instructed to draft a letter of sympathy to Bro. Wm. Bawden, who was so ill as not to be able to attend the session to fill his office as chaplain. The lodge then closed and retired to the Clarendon Hotel, where an excellent banquet was served by the genial proprietor, Mr. D. C. Harrison.

SCARF COLLAR.

The scarf collar is liked on all types of frocks this season from fragile chiffons to the heaviest of wools.

DECORATIVE SLEEVES.

Very wide sleeves gathered into a tight, narrow cuff are very decorative, particularly when they are embroidered or trimmed lavishly.

Dear old Peggy,
What a treat you are! I'm fast will be so glad to see you will be at the station to meet you with the Beatle (if we can get it going!) Martha just left, so bring your apron and Campana's. But no, no, dearie, you won't need your apron, and I have simply oodles of Campana's Italian Balm. It keeps my face and hands so wonderfully smooth and white when doing my own work that I wouldn't be without it for worlds. Love, Marie

DOG-TOWN.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir: Is this town going to be dog-town again? It looks like it, for it is over run with savage dogs, which people, especially women and children, are afraid of. Airedales are particularly numerous and savage and I know of cases where it required hard work to prevent the attacks made by them from doing serious damage. Then the continual barking and yelping is most annoying.

Some people are so selfish that as long as they have a dog to play with occasionally they do not care a pin what others have to put up with. If the council does not take the matter up the people will.

—For a Woman who was Attacked.

WHO IS MARKET FOR?

Dear Sir: — Kindly allow me space to ask the question, "Is the upstairs market hall for farmers' wives or fruit vendors?"

Now on Christmas week most farmers faced the bitter cold of early morning and rode miles to get a stand on the upstairs market, and all the tables were taken by 8.30. Then one fruit vendor came along at 9.15 and made every woman remove her goods. He had that table engaged. There were no less than three of them there that morning, with the result that the women had to beg chairs to put their goods on. In fact quite a few had to put their baskets on the floor and then stand guard over them. Now is it not an understood thing that the outside market is for meat, fruit and vegetables. Our husbands have to stand there—why not these men?

Now, another thing—there are notices up "No smoking," yet you can see these same vendors smoking their cigarettes in the face of these notices, and hear them yelling "Sweet oranges, nice and juicy."

Now, farmers' wives, what have you got to say; perhaps you were standing over your basket Christmas morning, so let's hear from you?

A FARMER'S WIFE.

DRAWING FOWL.

The Editor, Peterboro' Examiner:

Sir,—In your issue of Jan. 9, Mr. W. H. Howard draws the attention of the city fathers to the marketing of undrawn fowl in Peterboro, and advocates that they should enact a law prohibiting same.

For the benefit of Mr. Howard, the city council and the public generally, I wish to quote from a reliable authority regarding the marketing of poultry meat:—

"Drawn carcasses do not keep nearly as well as undrawn, if the latter are from birds properly starved before killing. An unopened carcass offers little opportunity for the entrance of bacteria that might cause decomposition, while it is impossible to keep a drawn carcass sterile for any reasonable length of time. This explains the very general practice of marketing poultry undrawn. Whether or not the consumer receives it drawn varies with the community in which he lives and whether he cares to pay the extra charge that must be made, either directly or indirectly, for this service."

Another important point which must be taken into consideration is that of disease in poultry. Tuberculosis will do for an example. In the early and intermediate stages of this disease, the symptoms are to be found only in the entrails which, when drawn, would allow the carcass to pass as good meat.

Mr. Howard compares the prices charged on the local market with those of smaller centres. Why not go farther and compare our prices with the still larger market quotations which are all the way from ten to twenty-five cents per lb. above the local charges?

Without doubt there are some very dubious looking birds brought to market but it is not necessary for Mr. Howard, or anyone else to purchase what does not suit his or their fancy.

There are many grades of poultry meat to be found on any market, with just as many prices and quality considered, these prices should, and do, fit the article offered for sale.—Yours truly

ALLAN R. MACNAB.

R.R. 3, Peterboro'.

THE SPEECH OF PREMIER KING.

(By J. H. Burnham.)

Massey Hall witnessed on Monday evening a great pre-election gathering of the Liberal Party, which may be taken by all interested in Canada and Canadian affairs, as summing up the platform of that party for an appeal to the people. While no one officially announced that an election was in the immediate offing, these meetings are not held for nothing. Their object is the solidarity and enthusing of the Liberal Party and the education of those in whose hands lies the fate of governments.

The time approaches, and as it approaches suitable moments are looked for by those responsible for an appeal to the people, and most Liberals think next year the time for the plunge. The Liberal party's opponents are not in the best shape. One is taking the count at Belleville still, and has not been heard from since. But what has Mr. King to give us? Mr. King is a crafty and an able, and, I believe, an honest man. He is, above all, a wary, watchful man, one in no way obsessed with any one idea, but ready to read all signs and, in a political sense, to profit by them. He is, moreover, a fearless man—witness his defiance of the no-party or all-party propaganda by which some seek to wipe out all parties and others to multiply them. Parties are natural growths, and will arise when and wherever needed. It is not the theorists who make or unmake them. Political parties are a good thing—the fewer the better—but political theorists are a curse and rank with the boll-weevil and the Hessian fly. They would destroy what has been grown with great labour and substitute nothing in its place.

Mr. King was also definite. He pointed out that 1,650,000,000 dollars of our debt was war-debt and that it had to be paid off. He was less satisfying in his reference to the new system of nationalising railways, which means that the taxpayer, and all who earn a penny that may be seized for taxes, have to pay for the unprofitable national railways which, so far, are $250,000,000 behind in three or four years. The taxpayers have to pay that huge sum. The taxpayer of this country is a fool. He is being killed with taxes and does not seem to know it. There are lots of things we might like to have, but, when too expensive for us, we do not have them, and new railway systems are some of them. If the country were run at a loss of $250,000,000 in three years, how long would the people put up with it? And why are they hypotnitized by public ownership at such a shocking sacrifice? If it is kept up, as it seems likely to be, the taxpayers will all be exodised to the United States or to any other country that will save them from their home-grown friends. Now, $250,000,000 in three years, for 10 millions of people is $25.00 for every man, woman and child in the Dominion. And there is no escape from it. If you haven't property, you pay it in what you buy. And, moreover, all the interests are howling for more government railways. The railway question has been made a political one. I need say no more. If you are satisfied with making public utilities into political bribes and places for the employment of vast sums of money with the best security and at high rates of returns to the money interests, then just go on with it. You will understand the question better some day. But Mr. King said nothing of trade relations. There is where I differ from him. He should have nailed Reciprocity to his masthead. This country's relations have changed since 1911. Then we had a prosperous foreign trade. Now we have a poor one. Our great industrial concerns are merely marking time. The outlook is bad. The United States, however, has nearly all the gold of the world and was made actually rotten rich by the war. I do not mean this as a reproach, but merely as a fact. And yet we put up the shutter against them and they against us. We must be crazy. They can stand it, but can we? We have determined to prevent the circulation of the flood of trade between these two countries. But Mr. King says nothing of it, nor does Mr. Meighen. If they don't look out, there will arise another party—The Reciprocity Party—and then look out!

CRITICIZES KING.

Peterboro', Ont.,
January 15, 1925.

To the Editor.

Sir: The Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King endeavours to assure us that all is well in the land while the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, at Ottawa, in its Employment Review for 1924, gives us the following facts:

Canada.—"But on the whole manufacturing was dull during the year."

Employment of Provinces.

Maritime Provinces.—"Activity was less throughout the whole of 1924 than in the preceding year, the index number averaging 86.1 as compared with 94.2 in 1923."

Quebec.—"Textiles, lumber, iron and steel, pulp and paper were not so fully employed."

Ontario. — "Employment averaged nearly four points lower in 1924 than in 1923, Manufacturing was generally quiet."

Prairie Provinces.—"Activity was not as great as in 1923; the index was on the whole between two and three points lower than in 1923. Manufacturing as a whole was very slightly busier than in 1923. Textiles, iron and steel recorded reduced activity."

British Columbia.—"The index number of employment averaged 100.97 in 1924 as compared with 98.49 in 1923. (This includes stevedoring and port work.) Employment in manufacturing was quieter than in 1923. Firms in the lumber, pulp and paper, and textile industries reported smaller payrolls, but iron and steel, and other manufactures showed gains."

Employment by Cities.

Summary.—"On the whole employment in all the cities for which the separate tabulations are made, except Vancouver, was lower than in 1923."

History relates that Horatio Nelson, when the enemy ships were approaching his fleet, "clapped the glass to his sightless eye" and exclaimed. "I can't see them." The dauntless spirit demonstrated by the little admiral is one that will be always highly commended, but when the navigator of the Ship of State directs the man at the helm, regardless of the impending danger and the many warning sounds on either side, to steer straight into the fog, full steam ahead, without a chart, he is courting disaster and in accordance with established maritime practice must lose his certificate.

Our worthy premier is that navigator and from his speech in Toronto would have the passengers believe that although the ship has taken a heavy list to port and in spite of the fact that she is taking more water than the pumps can discharge, it will, under his skilful seamanship, be perfectly safe to continue the cruise in the uncharted seas, strewn with unknown shoals and girded by rockbound coasts, in which he has been drifting.

What of the other Ships of State and their navigators during this stormy period? In some cases we find the command of the ship has changed hands several times but the vessel is still safely sheltered in the "roads" and is in a thorough seaworthy condition. Their crews are being carefully trained for the big cruise that is ahead of them which they will take when the storm subsides.

What of the Canadian crew? The precariousness of the calling is making it increasingly difficult to fill the gaps caused by the loss of life and already there is talk of mutiny and treason, some even threatening to desert their ship and sign up with another master who is noted for his readiness to protect them from these dangers.

Who are these Crews, Ships of State and Passengers?

The crews are our various manufacturing concerns up and down country and the people employed therein whose ranks are being depleted, due to the constant intake of water (the unchecked flow of imported goods), through the holes in the ship's sides (the loopholes in our tariff).

Our Ship of State is Canada and the cruise is the destiny to which it will be led if allowed to remain in the hands of its present navigator.

The passengers are the people of this country whose future and safety, whilst on this ship, are entirely in the hands of the crew and its master but they are complaining and placing themselves on record as determined never to put to sea in her again under such trying conditions.

How does the old saw run? An ounce of facts is worth a ton of reason.

We cannot, forever, exist on idealisms, no more than we can continue to import manufactured goods to the detriment of our work people. That the consumer must of necessity also be a producer is overlooked and if deprived of his livelihood and the means with which to purchase how can he be expected to buy?

What will be the ultimate result?

The end of the cruise will come, either by dropping the master and changing the ship's course or by allowing him to throw the helm hard to port where she is listing, thus bringing about certain disaster. Which shall it be?

This is not a "whisper of death" but a murmuring of plain unvarnished facts.

Yours very truly,
D. G. MELTON.

WHO MAY VOTE ON UNION.

Editor, The Examiner:

Sir,—The question having arisen as to who have the right to vote on the question of Ghurch Union in Presbyterian congregations, the Peterborough Branch of the Presbyterian Church Association has applied to the central office in Toronto for information, and is asvised as follows:

All members of a Presbyterian Church who were members on July 19, 1924, are entitled to vote. While Sessions are expected to revise the list of members each year, no names can be removed from the membership roll except through death, through transference of membership to some other congregation or through valid cause. Names can be removed from the membership roll only after the Session has communicated with absentee members, if these can be found. Names may be classified for congregational purposes and absentees placed on a separate list on the roll, but their right of membership may not be taken from them except from a grave cause or presumption of death.

Whether or not a member has been in attendance at communion services within a given time does not effect that person's membership. There is no rule in the Presbyterian Church that permits of members' names being removed from the membership roll for any such cause. There may be valid reasons for absence for a long series of communion services which afford no reason for ex-communication from the Church.

The fact that a person has moved their place of residence does not mean that their membership has been forfeited. Many people leaving the home church do not take their "lines" till assured of a permanent church home elsewhere. These retain their membership till they receive their certificates. They may vote in their home church if they can be present at the meeting to cast their votes.

Whether or not, also, a member has been contributing to the church funds is not a valid reason for a loss of membership. While all members are supposed to maintain ordinances by both attendance and contributions, according to their ability, there is only one condition of membership in the church: this is a credible profession of faith in Christ.

Thus a member of a congregation may have been non-resident for years, may not have attended a communion service for the same length of time, may not be contributing to the financial support of the church, yet, if his or her name was on the roll on the 19th of July, 1924, they have the right to vote.

Any change made in the roll since July 19, 1924, is contrary to the Act. If a vote is either refused or given illegally the validity of the congregational vote is open to question. Every roll, therefore, should be carefully examined before voting is begun.

If a name has been illegally removed from the roll, the member may apply to the nearest judge for an order to have his or her name restored. As such removal involves ex-communication from the church, it may be considered actionable in the Civil Courts.

MORE ANTI-UNION CONGREGATIONS.

Editor, The Examiner: A telephone message received in Peterboro this morning, from the Central office of the Presbyterian Church Association in Toronto, reported a number of additional strong churches from Prince Edward Island to Alberta, which have voted against Union. These included St. James' Church, Charlottetown, P.E.I., one of the largest churches in Prince Edward Island; Knox Church, Midland, a wealthy congregation; McNabb St. Hamilton; Knox Church, Mitchell, Ont.; Bethel Church, Orangeville; Knox Church, Stratford, and St. St. John's, Medicine Hat, Alta. Most of these were by large majorities.

Knox Church, Stratford, is one of the outstanding Presbyterian Churches in the Dominion. It has 1171 members, and raised for mission purposes in 1923, over $8000. The two big churches in Stratford now are both out. McNabb street, Hamilton, makes the tenth Hamilton congregation which has voted ont.

The cities of Toronto and Hamilton are probably the two main strongholds of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. In these two cities the total Union and Anti-Union votes cast to date show a considerable majority for the Anti-Unionists.

Vote Analyzed.

As the vote recorded to date is analyzed it becomes more and more evident that the claims of the Unionists that approximately 83 per cent. of the churches heard from to date have voted into Union is most misleading. For instance, in the returns of the votes as given on Wednesday, it was claimed that 654 congregations had voted in favor of Union and 146 against. When these returns are examined it is noted that 286 are from the Province of Saskatchewan. According to the Presbyterian Blue Book there are only 218 pastoral charges in the whole of Saskatchewan. Thus the Unionists are claiming more congregations than exist in the province. The explanation of these figures lies in the fact that a minister or missionary in Saskatchewan may have four or five small outlying charges, of ten to thirty members each. These are each being reported as though they were separate congregations, and thus are made to swell the returns. It is manifestly unfair to compare these small mission charges and outstations with a large congregaton, such as Knox Church, Stratford, with 1171 members. Yet that is what is being done.

In Regina almost one-third of the Presbyterians in five churches voted against Union although all five churches entered Union. Approximately 500 of these Presbyterians have now formed a new church in Regina. Yet the vote from Regina is being taken as five to nothing without regard to the actual votes cast or to the new Presbyterian congregation that has been formed. The public is advised, therefore, to accept with great caution the summaries of the votes cast as issued by the Unionist Committee in Toronto.

MIDNIGHT PROWLING

No doubt you have eaten your full three square meals, as most folks are likely to do, but nibbling at night is a thing that appeals and the ice-box is calling to you.

Perhaps in pyjamas or bathrobe or such, out into the kitchen you steal. You may find but little, or possibly much, of what's left of the suppertime meal.

A corner of pie and a small piece of cheese; a cracker with generous jam; a cold baked potato, if that's what you please, or maybe a slice of boiled ham.

There's grease on the chop that is tempting your eye and the olives are shrivelled a bit. A sogginess, maybe, has ruined the pie, but these cold bites at night make a hit.

So into the kitchen, with appetite itchin' you travel and turn on the light. And shortly you're munching; on left-overs lunching. It's fun to go prowling at night.

LIBERAL WOMEN GIVE LUNCHEON AT NOON TO-DAY

Mrs. Charles H. Thorburn, of Ottawa, Was Guest of Honor.

LAUDS MEMBER.

Women Should Be Informed on Public Questions—Need Co-operation.

A very pleasant luncheon was tendered at the Green Parrot Tea Room today, by the Women's Liberal Association of the city, to Mrs. Charles H. Thorburn of Ottawa, Honorary Commissioner for Canada at the recent Wembly Exhibition and government representative at the Labor Conference at Geneva.

The pretty tea rooms made an effective setting for the dainty luncheon served at a long table centred with pink carnations and white narcisus. Mrs. C. Perry, president of the local Liberal Women's Club, welcomed Mrs. Thorburn in the name of the society. A hearty vote of thanks to their guest, who spoke briefly at the conclusion of the repast, was voiced by Miss Luella Jobbitt and seconded by Mrs. Perry.

Mrs. Thorburn, who declared during the lunch hour that she had never been to a moving picture show, and had no fondness for "dummies," as represented on the silver sheet, spoke for a few minutes on political matters, at its conclusion. She said that she felt it a great honor to be the guest of the Women's Liberal Association, by whom she would rather be entertained than by any other organization.

Referring to the impetus given to Liberalism in the House of Commons by the achievement of Peterboro riding in sending G. N. Gordon to represent it in the historic by-election of some years ago, and to her own enthusiasm when she saw Mr. Gordon march down the aisle of the House on his first appearance there, Mrs. Thorburn said that a similar demonstration would probably take place when Mr. Hanna of Belleville made his initial bow to the House.

Women should be informed on public questions, said Mrs. Thorburn, recommending as the best means of accomplishing this the discussion of political matter in their clubs. "We should remember to work together. It is said of women that they cannot keep appointments, and some of us can't—that they exaggerate and some of us do—that they cannot co-operate. This we should strive to learn to do. Co-operation is the greatest thing in the world. And another thing is the keeping out of politics of religious differences."

The speaker paid a warm tribute to the character and work of the Hon. Chas. Murphy, saying that he was the best post-master Canada ever had, and also repeated the credit given by the Premier and Mr Murphy to Mr. Gordon's work in the House. She recommended strongly to the attention of her hearers, for educational purposes, a book entitled "Hobhouse on Liberalism," as a splendid text-book of Liberal principles.

Speaking of the "round dozen of don't" which she is in the heart of enumerating for the benefit of women in political clubs, Mrs. Thorburn recounted two of them; "Don't enter into a discussion about something you know nothing about," mentioning this connection a speech made in the House at the time of the Nova Scotia labour troubles, by Miss Agnes McPhail, the woman member, who did splendidly as long as she stuck to something she was in touch with; the condition of the women and the children and the home in the disturbed areas, but who spoiled her address by entering into a discussion of an unknown subject; the watered stock of the Nova Scotian coal-companies.

The second "don't" was greeted with applause; "Don't quarrel among yourselves until one minute after the polls close on election day."

"Loyalty is the main thing," particularly in a political club," concluded Mrs. Thornborn. "We should have faith in our leaders. Without loyalty we could have no natural life, no family life, and no personal friendships. Loyalty should be placed at the head of the list."

OPERATTA DREW BIG ATTENDANCE

Tweed Methodist Choir Entertains Havelock Audience —Village News.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

HAVELOCK, Jan. 14.—A large crowd attended the two-act pastoral operettat entitled "A Harvest Romance," presented by the Methodist Choir of Tweed in the town hall on Monday evening last, under the auspices of the Havelock Methodist Choir. The characters taking part were all exceptionally good, and they were costumed in the style of the 18th Century. The musical part of the programme was under the direction of Mrs. H. C. Kindred, a former resident of Havelock, and was well rendered and thoroughly enjoyed by all present. At the conclusion of the programme the visitors were entertained to luncheon served by the ladies of the church.

The many friends of Dr. Kindred were glad to see him again and to learn that his health continues to improve.

Elect Officers.

The Ladies' Aid of Knox Church held their ann al meeting on Wednesday afternoon in the school room of the church. The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. (Dr.) Thompson; vice-president, Mrs. C. W. Chiles; treasurer, Mrs. L. Cuthl ertson; secretary, Mrs. W. Hitchins.

The secretary read the reports for 1924, which showed a very successful year's work.

Several plans were suggested for the purpose of gaining new members and increasing the contributions to the society. It as decided to appoint canvassers to call on all the ladies of the congregation who are not members of the Aid, asking them to subscribe the sum of 25 cents every three months, and this contribution would make them a member of the society. The town was divided in three sections; Mrs. W. Hitchins appointed collector for the east section; Mrs. F. J. Squire and Mrs. Yuill for the centre section, and Mrs. J. Diaiper and Miss K. Anderson for the West section.

Mrs. Emerson of Almeda, Sask., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Davidso

RECORD PHOTOGRAPH.

Airman Develops and Prints Picture in Air—Astonishes General.

DAYTON, Ohio, January 15. — What is believed to be a record in printing a photograph was made here recently.

When Brigadier General William A. Mitchell boarded a train at Dayton for Washington, he was photographed from the air by a McCook field aerial photographer.

Continuing in the air the photographer printed the picture that he had taken and dropped it off at Xenia in a message bag. The station there received the bag and presented it to General Mitchell when his train passed through the town.

The McCook field photographer was half way back to Dayton when he passed General Mitchell's train. Xenia is about 17 miles from Dayton.

BUSINESS RECORDS OF UR OF CHALDEES

Most Ancient Book-keeping Books Found by Archaeologists.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 15.—(Canadian Press).—What are believed to be the most ancient business records ever found by archaeologists—one of the records a ledger similar to those used to-day—have been unearthed by a joint expedition of the British Museum and the Museum of the University of Pennsylvania at Ur of Chaldees, buried city of Abraham.

The first report from Cleonard Woolley, head of the expedition, was received in this city yesterday. Archaeologists have also uncovered, the report said, "a hall of justice," erected in all probability by Nebuchadnezzar. A striking architectural find, according to Mr. Woolley, was an arch in the facade of one of the buildings uncovered, which he believes moved back the history of architecture in this respect to the remotest antiquity.

STEAMER LEAVES ON WORLD TRIP

Hero Ship of War Given Send-off From New York.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—With flag flying and confetti the order of the day, the Canadian colony of New York, saw the Empress of France away from the docks of the North River at sharp noon to-day under command of Comander Griffiths, R.N.R. The giant Canadian liner left the port for a four months cruise of the world with a happy family of Canadians and Americans. The general expression of opinion among those on the pier was the tremendous advertising to Canadian enterprise to see one of the hero ships of the war leaving an American port to show the world to an interested audience.

MADE FIRST FLIGHT.

Carried Mail 212 Miles in One Hour and Ten Minutes.

CORNWALL, Jan. 15.—(Canadian Press).—Laurentide Air Services, Limited, made their first aerial flight between Three Rivers and Ottawa and to Larder Large and the goldfields yesterday, coming by way of Cornwall.

The plane, in charge of Captain Wilsher, carried a letter from Thomas Hall, president of the company, to Mr. Duquette. The letter left Three Rivers at 12.30 noon, and at exactly 1.40 p.m. was dropped within three feet of the Post Office corner, showing how accurate was the shot of the airman. The distance from Three Rivers to Cornwall is 212 miles.

WAS FOOLED TWICE.

Stole Wrong Case and Confederate Money—Pleaded Guilty.

HAMILTON, Jan. 15. — (Canadian Press).—As "Boigler" William Martin is a failure.

He admitted it in police court yesterday, when he pleaded guilty to entering the homes of two prominent citizens, James Crooks and Col. William Butler. At the residence of Mr. Crooks, Martin stole a case which he mistook for something else. It turned out to be tableware. At Col. Butler's residence Martin seized a large sheaf of bills. These, alas, were confederate money issued when the great Martyr was president. Col. Butler came by them when he served in the American Cival War. Martin was remanded for one week.

WEDDING BELLS.

DAVIDSON—UPTON

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 15.—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. J. Ppton, Sebastapool Street, was the scene of a pretty, but quiet, wedding, on Wednesday, when their younger daughter, Agnes Merrell, was married, at 11 o'clock, to Mr. Frederick Charles Davidson, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davidson of Trent River. Only the immediate relatives were present. Rev. W. Elliott of the Methodist Church performed the marriage ceremony. The groom's sister, Leatha Davidson, was the flower girl. The bride, who was dressed in a beautiful dress of ancient blue cut velvet trimmed with rhinestones and ostrich trimming and carrying a bouquet of pink and white carnations, was given away by her father. The ceremony was performed under an arch of yellow, blue and white, in the centre of which was a large bell. The house was decorated in the same colors. Miss Opal McMullen of Burnbrae played the Wedding March. The flower girl was dressed in rose duvetyn The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful leather purse. The bride received many beautiful presents. After the ceremony and congratulations, a dainty wedding breakfast was served. The young couple left on the 1.30 train for Toronto, Markham and Manilla. The bride's travelling dress was of turquoise blue, with taffeta hat to match. They will reside on their farm near Trent River. Mrs. Davidson is well known in Campbellford, and her many friends wish for her and her husband many years of happy wedded life.

GIRLS SHOULD KEEP MEN AWAY BY TAKING "HANDS OFF" POLICY SAYS WOMENS INSTITUTE SPEAKER

Warsaw Gathering Hears How to Improve Life on the Farm.

ADVICE TO PARENTS.

Mother Should Remain Handy When Visitors Call on Children.

WARSAW, Jan. 15.—The regular meeting of the Women's Institute was held on Thursday last. The business was to make final arrangements for the pie social and debate to be held on January 20. There was a paper on "Social Life on the Farm.' The speaker contended that the very best social life on the farm (or anywhere else) is the social life in the home; there, the father, mother, children and perhaps a guest, gather in the evening each with his or her worok or studies.

There may be reading aloud, games, music, dancing, conversation and such like all under the parents' supervision.

When guests are present the mother should not retire, but should stay and make herself one of the young people and guide the young in the right way. Meal times are social gatherings, and disagreeable things should not intrude; table manners should be taught.

At these home gatherings, courtesy and all that it implies should be taught, the girls should be taught to make men keep their distance—"hands off." The boys should be taught to reverence and esteem women.

Then there are the larger invited parties—good in their place, lectures, concerts, debates, skating, sleighing parties, picnics sand so on. In all cases the young people should be home in reasonable time, and the mothers should accompany their daughters. Church work and community work fall upon ever one. There should be a community hall, but NOT just as a gathering place for young people.

Oyster Supper.

The U.F.O. and U.F.W.O. had an oyster supper and social evening in Warsaw town hall last Friday evening. Just the U.F.O. members and their wives, and U.F.W.O. members and their husbands were present. The only invited guests were Dr. and Mrs. Munro, Mr. and Mrs. Brethen Norwood, and Mr. and Mrs. E. N. MacDonald from South Dummer Club. Most of the U.F.O. men's wives are U.F.W.O. members and the U.F.W.O. women's husbands are U.F.O. men. The evening was very much enjoyed. Miss Cressa Crowe and Miss McQuaig recited, also Messrs. Fred Crowe and Wallace Anderson. Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Payne and Mrs. E. R. Hamblin sang solos. Dr. Munro gave some violin selections. Community singing was led by Rufus Payne and Mrs. E. R. Hamblin. Dr. Munro spoke of the value of these meetings to the social life of the community. Mr. Brethen spoke of the organization and its need of life.

These gatherings gave life, he said. There was a time when the U.F.O. was very popular. Nearly every one laid claim to the country, if it were only because he used cow's milk. But there must not be the feeling that nothing is good in the town and all is good in the country. The country is the backbone of the nation.

Mr. Brethen was glad Dummer had voted so strongly temperance. He also reminded those present that if they had to do something, do it the best way possible, without apology. Mr. E. N. MacDonald told some jokes which were appreciated, and wished to be on a debate opposing Mr. F. Crowe. He spoke on the good of debates, and especially the one bearing on single taxation, held in Union School on Thursday evening.

IT HAD TO COME

The latest now in feminine fixings is cross-word stockings; such as Miss Ethelind Terry (above) is wearing. And they are liable to make it mighty interesting for the boys who like cross-word puzzles.

HAPPINESS COMES WITH HER CASTLE

Portland Miss Who Won $15,000 Prize House Gets Thrills.

DREAM COMES TRUE

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 15. — Do dreams ever come true?

Here in Portland a very pretty, eighteen-year-old high school girl awoke one day to find that her dream of fairy castles was soon to become a reality.

For Julia Sutherland Groo is the winner of a $15,000 electrically-equipped home, grand national prize offered in the Lighting Educational Committee's home lighting essay contest. She laid claim to being the happiest young woman in America the day that she was informed that she was to be the "first lady" of the "castle of lights."

When a woman reporter of a local paper told the attractive high school senior of the award she was so over joyed she kissed the scribe and d need with joy.

Rewrote Essay Six Times.

Julia, like 1,000,000 other high school students of the United States and Canada, had entered the essay contest. She rewrote her essay six times, toiled and worried over it — hopeful that she might get one of the many prizes offered. Perchance back in her mind was the thought of the beautiful home—but that was a dream, she said—and "dreams never come true."

Her first big thrill was a check for $200 received at Christmas for having won the district prize in the contest. She was then to compete for the grand prize. Yet it seemed so far away. But Julia's work was not in vain and the "house of lights" is soon to be built for her near the present home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jay S. Groo, on Portland Heights.

Thrills and Thrills.

The thrills had only started for the talented young girl. Reporters interviewed her, movie and camera men snapped her prettiest smiles. Mayor Baker of Portland, made a personal call, civic clubs placed her on their programmes to learn all about her home. And admiring "swains" suddenly became more ardent.

And at the auditorium of Lincoln High School—before more than a thousand students—she received the formal notice of the magnificent award. Life she says, has become just one grand dream to her which will reach zenith some few months hence when she touches the button to set aglow her magic "dream castle."

Miss Groo intends to enter the University of Oregon next Fall and study art under Avard Fairbanks, a sculptor.

ARTIFICIAL SPEECH FOUND PRACTICABLE

Three Mutes Found Able to Speak With New Device.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—(Canadian Press)—Use of an artificial larynx to restore speech to mute persons has been found practicable, it was learned to-day. Three persons who had lost the power of speech, and who had undergone special operations in order that the artificial larnyx might be applied to them, were able to speak at a recent clinic held here. One of them had not spoken since October, 1923, and another has been mute for three months. They both spoke distinctly. The third lost his power of speech seventeen years ago. In his case the use of the instrument was not so successful because he was awaiting an operation but he was able to form a few words. All three were over 50 years old.

The device is applied externally and consists of a pad strapped over an aperture in the patients neck at a spot where the windpipe terminates. From the pad a rubber tube leads to a small mechanism placed in the mouth. Air forced from the lungs is set in vibration and the vibrations are carried through the tube into the speaker's mouth. There they are modulated in much the same manner as if they were produced in thet hroat.

JANETVILLE SOCIETY SERENADES NEWLY-WEDS

JANETVILLE, Jan. 15. — Sixty members of the Y.P.S. met in the basement of the Methodist Church and prepared to serenade R. J. Burn and his wife, who recently returned from their honeymoon. When the order of attack had been duly arranged by the president and officers each male member of the society secured a chair, and the march began to the Burn residence, Reaching their destination, the young people lined up from the street to the veranda, and as they sang, "For He's a Jolly Good Fellok," they were graciously received by the bride and groom.

Assembled in the house, they were called to order by the pastor, who occupied the chair, the chairman then calling upon Cecil Robinson, who read the following address to Mr and Mrs. Burn.

To Mr. and Mrs. Burns:

We have gathered together this evening to perform a duty which is pleasing to all of us.

During the last month you passed one of the most important milestones of your lives, that of marriage, with its sacred trusts and relationships and we are taking this opportunity of expressing to you the esteem and respect with which your are held by the young people of the community. In the past years your pleasing personalities have pervaded the atmosphere of Janetville Methodist Church and especially the Young People's Society with which your are closely associated.

In you we have found two capable leaders, always ready to take a fair share of the work and responsibility. Two leaders to whom we have learnt to look as examples of honesty and good conduct, qualities so necessary in these modern times of changing ideas and customs.

We, therefore, ask you to accept this token of our regard for you. With it goes our best wishes for a future life, stored with joy and happiness.

Mr. Burn replied for himself and the bride in a neat, pithy address, after which he and his wife handed over their entire residence to the young folks for the evening.

Three hours were spent in the most delightful amusements, after which lunch was served.

Doubt Hospital Increase.

Provincial Secretary Considers Proposed Allowances Can Not Be Granted.

TORONTO, Jan. 15.—(Canadian Press).—After hearing representatives of the Ontario Hospital Association as to why the Government should make increases in allowances for patients in public hospitals in organized and unorganized districts, Provincial Secretary Goldie stated that, before giving any definite answer, he would have to ascertain the total amount involved annually in the suggested increase.

The Provincial Secretary, however, stated that the proposed increase in Government hospital allowances appeared to him at first sight to involve a fairly considerable sum of money, and intimated his feeling at the moment that the increase could not be granted.

STRAW HATS SHOWN

Pre-season Display in Chicago for Tourists Going South.

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—Straw hats have beaten the robins to it. Both are considered excellent prognosticators of balmy days to come but this year the hay helmet has reached the wire with a comfortable margin to spare. In fact, it might be said that the summer chapeau was brimful of dash at the finish.

A loop department store has a window display of straw hats for those who are fortunate enough to take a run down to Miami, Daytona Beach or other tropically climated resorts in Florida. If the pre-season styles are indicatory of what the male Chicagoan will wear this summer, it might be well to add a few pounds of fleah to the manly frame ere the first of June—offically the opening day—rolls around. For the brims are to be wide, crowns low and dashing blue and white bands will predominate.

"While few stay-at-homes purchase their straw hats at this time of the year, 'said a salesman, " the men who go south for the winter months usually get theirs in Chicago We have these selections to fill their orders.. The milan roll brim sailor-senett and the two old favorites, the leghorn and the panama, seem to be the most popular. From now until the middle of February, yhen the southern season begins to wane, we sell straw hats. After that they are repacked and placed away until the middlue of May."

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Editor of Examiner: Sir: In your issue of January 9th, there appears a letter in which W. H. Howard, Rubidge street, suggests that the newly-elected council pass a bylaw compelling all fowl sold in the city to be drawn. Mr. Howard evidently does not realize that a fowl that is drawn does not hold its color or maintain its flavor nearly as well as the undrawn. Mr. Howard's letter is not only a falsification of the real facts but is an absolute insult to the farmers and poultry producers. It maybe that Mr. Howard would want a bylaw passed to compel the farmers' wives to come and gather up the bones from the table and put them in the garbage can after the meal.

If the average wife of the poultry eater did as much work as the poultry raiser's wife does in a day, there might be some reason for complaint.

Yours very truly,
V. E. CREBAR,
Ideal Poultry Farm, Peterboro.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

When Back Hurts Flush Your Kidneys As You Clean Your Bowels.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about 4 ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

LADKIN SOLD.

Conqueror of Epinard on Block with Stable Mates.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—Ladkin, conqueror of Epinard in the second international special at Aqueduct last summer, and two other leading racers of the late August Belmont's string, together with seventeen two-year-old, all sons of Fair Play, were sold today, but the name of the purchaser was withheld by the estate.

The four-year-olds in the deal, besides Ladkin, were Lucky Play, now at Tia Juana, and Blind Play.

The value of the three is placed at $100,000.

Chance Play and Festival were the stars of the two-year-olds, according to their trials last fall. The former would have brought $35,000 at auction, while Festival's value has been placed at $20,000.

FIRE HALL FALCONS BEATEN BY UNKNOWNS

Youngsters' Game at South End Rink Decided by 2-1 Score.

The Unknown's Hockey Club made their 1925 season debut last evening at the Cog Arena, when they defeated the speedy Fire Hall Falcons by 2 to 1, in a game that was chuck full of fast hockey, good stickhandling and few penalties.

The first period ended 1-0 for the Unknowns.

The second period was a fast one. The Hosemen, smarting under the one goal lead, played great hockey, their stickhandling and back-checking earning their great applause. With only three minutes of the second period left to play, Lewis, the Falcons good right-winger, secured a loose puck in front of his own net and skating the length of the rink, beat Goldie with a bullet shot. The period ended 1-1.

The third period opened fast, but near the end the teams slowed up a bit. The Falcons carried the play for the most of the third period in the Unknown's territory. It was not until the period was near over that McDuffey, the Unknown's good defence player took the puck up the ice and beating the Falcon's forwards and defence, came right in on top of Warde and gave him no chance to save.

The game ended 2-1 for the Unknowns.

Both teams showed some good players and they all turned in a good game from the net guardian out.

The teams lined up as follows:

Falcons.

Goal, Warde; right defence, Gimblett; left defence, Naish; centre, McNeely, right wing, Lewis; left wing, Hayes; subs, Lundy and Smith.

Unknowns.

Mr. Rowe refereed to the satisfaction of both teams.

TALLEST PITCHERS.

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—The Chicago Clubs with 16 pitchers on the roster, boast the tallest twirling staff in the major league for 1925. Headed by Nick Dumovich and Eulas Morgan, each of whom measures six feet two inches, the Cubs have ten moundsmen, all six feet tall or more.

SKI-GOLF—VERY LATEST

Despite Awkward Stance Imposed By Use of Skis, Golf is Played.

KAY CLARK, CADDY FRANCIS REGAN

Leave it to the ladies fair to introduce the latest innovations. Here we have Miss Kay Clark of New York City playing a round of golf at Poland Springs, Me., on her skis.

The fad has gone over big at Poland Springs, Me., and Lake Placid, New York, where there is always plenty of snow for ski-golf.

Despite the rather awkward stance made necessary because of the use of skis, some surprisingly low scores have been made. The caddy, Francis Regan, is also similarly equipped and follows Miss Clark with ease.

COMMENT ON PETES' VICTORY

(From Toronto Telegram).

On figures Peterboro have not cinched the group, but present indications point that they will be on top when the schedule is finished. Their three victories consist of one at home against Hamilton and two in Toronto against Aura Lee and Parkdale. Tuesday night they turned the trick on the Paddlers 7 to 2, and four thousand fans witnessed a contest that had an abundance of good hockey and plenty of thrills.

Winners Were Smart.

Peterboro showed their best performance here this season, and they have played good hockey before. They had all the requirements, a stout defence, a fast forward line, good passing, close checking, splendid marksmanship and ability to act quickly on any and every opportunity. Every man was dangerous on the attack, the subs. did not weaken the team when on, and all fitted in perfectly. There was a finish to the Peterboro play that Parkdale lacked.

Smart Front Line.

Bailey, Collins and Rose looked good on the Peterboro front line. Bailey turned in a high-class performance, and had oceans of speed. Collins was a source of work in centre. The Peterboro attack was real effective close in on the goal. Dwyer played his usual steady game while Parker and McLeod formed a stout defence, and both were dangerous on rushes. Romeril and Harris did not measure up to the Peterboro pair.

With Peterboro victors over Parkdale it sure looks like two outside teams in the Senior O.H.A. finals this year. Still, Toronto with her thousands of hockey players may come back after she has supplied the outside pro teams with enough material to make St. Pat's look like "never-wuzzers."

Harry Watson is still a wonder hockey player. Still he needs more help than even Jeffrey can furnish to beat a team that plays fast hockey for 40 minutes and still faster hockey for the other twenty.

Toronto Star says:

It was a lightning fast game, replete with brilliant plays and as clean as a whistle. The Petes won absolutely on their merits. They were much the better team on the night's play and outlasted their opponents, smothering them with speed in the closing stages of the game.

Parkdale had no excuses for their defeat. "They gave us a good lacing," said Coach Tom Melville, "and we give them credit for having a fast and well-balanced team. We will try and return the commliment when we visit Peterboro. Our team were outplayed and outlucked. We had many chances for goals we didn't get, but those are the breaks of the game and we have no alibi to offer for our defeat. The result will only mean harder practice and better team play for the games yet to be played."

In the last period Ernie Collett, the Olympic goaler, was in the Parkdale net—at least he started in the net but those whirling Dervish Peterboro forwards came down so fast in bunches that they had Ernie jumping like a grasshopper trying to stop the avalache of pucks they threw at him from all directions. The upshot of it all was that the visitors drove in three more goals while Ernie was endeavoring to resume his equilibrium after some spectacular stops.

Petes Were Good.

The Petes looked a real high-class team. Their forwards — Collins, Bailey and Ranger — were fast, tricky and combined beautifully on the attack and checked back. Their substitutes, Rose and Burgess, were just as good as the regulars, so they were always at full strength. Their defence was excellent. Joe Dwyer in goal stonped them from all angles, and Parker and McLeod were a hard pair to get by. The former played a magnificent game defensively and his rushing was a feature. His poke-check demoralized the Parkdale attack.

Pick the Petes.

It begins to look like Peterboro and Niagara Falls for the O.H.A. Senior final. The Petes have yet to be beaten in Group No. 1, and Niagara Falls is sailing along out in front in Group No. 2 with a safe looking lead. The Petes certainly deserved their victory of Tuesday night over Parkdale, "the team to beat in Group One." They were all over the tired Paddlers on end. Just what team will take the measure of the galloping Easterners is the question. They seem to play better away from home than they do at home.—Toronto Star.

STILL CLAIMS TITLE.

Strangler Lewis Considers Legal Action Against Wayne Murin.

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—Billy Sandow, manager of Ed. (Strangler) Lewis, arrived to-day to confer with his attorney on plans to enjoin Wayne Munn, former Nebraska football star, from using the title of world's heavyweight wrestling champion. Munn defeated Lewis in a disputed match at Kansas City last Thursday and is now demanding the $10,000 diamond studded championship awarded Lewis when he won the title three years ago at Kansas City.

Munn and his manager are expected to be here to start action to obtain the championship trophy from Lewis.

Because Munn is said to have fouled Lewis by throwing him out of the ring for the second fall at Kansas City, Sandow refuses to admit that Lewis has lost his title and refuses to give up the belt.

DE LAVAL DEFEAT OMEMEE OUTFIT

Visitors Pile Up Three Goal Lead and Hold Homesters Scoreless.

OMEMEE, Jan. 15.—The De Laval hockey team of Peterborough came to Omemee to battle with the local team here. Both teams worked hard and the subs. were all brought into commission. The goalkeeper for Omemee, H. Overholt, is a new one, and with a little practice will prove a splendid net guardian. At the end of the first period the score was Peterborough 1, Omemee 0. During the second period neither team scored a goal, although much speed was brought into force, but both goalies were on the alert and succeeded in warding off the puck to another area. At the end of the third period Peterborough had succeeded in landing 2 more goals, making the score 3-0, but not without some hard plugging.

Mr. Walter Mitchell of Omemee handled the bell to the satisfaction of all.

Athletic Association.

A meeting of the Executive of the Omemee Athletic Association was held on Monday evening, when it was decided to put on a concert during the month of February. A committee are now at work to look up the programme and the nature of same will be decided later.

Busy Hot Dogs.

On Saturday evening last the proprietor of the skating rink established a lunch counter at the rink containing hot dogs, cocoa, tea and coffee, which proved a drawing card not only to the many skaters but to the younger generation in general. The demand for the hot dogs was greater than the supply, and long before closing time was completely exhausted. It is the intention of Mr. Parsons to continue the practice frequently during the coming weeks.

WON TRAPSHOOTING.

Samuel Vance, of Tilsonburg, Ont., Best at Reading.

READING Pa., Jan. 15.—Samuel C. Vance of Tilsonburg, Ontario, captain of the Canadian trapshooting team in the 1924 Olympics, won the Reading live bird special here yesterday, killing 48 out of a possible 50 birds. He was given the Jacob Daubert Memorial Cup. Philip Miller, Dallas, Texas, took second honors with 47, Frank Troeh, Vancouver, was third high man, with 46 birds.

Only twelve trapshooters out of the field of 50 in the Great Eastern Handicap Tuesday remained for Wednesday's event. The Reading Special closed the three days' shooting.

ST. PATRICKS WIN.

Senators' Winning Streak Ended—Score 3 to 2 Against Them.

TORONTO, Jan. 15.—(Canadian Press).—All good things must come to an end, and the Senators' winning streak which started here three weeks ago, and took the Ottawas from fifth to third place, was no exception, as it ended where it started at the local arena with St. Patrick's as their opponents and the final game was won by the same margin as was the one that started them on their steady climb, one goal, the score being 3 to 2.

The game was one of the best of the local season. Dye's goal, which marked the end of a great up-hill struggle by the Irish, was followed by th egreatest outbreak of cheering that has prevailed in the arena in some years.

HASTINGS HAS FIFTH VICTORY WITHOUT BREAK

Defeats Tweed 6-2 in a League Game at Home.

FAST HOCKEY.

Visitors Put Up Splendid Exhibition of Playing—Homesters Had Edge.

Hastings, Jan. 15.—The first home game of the Trent Valley Hockey League series was staged at the Hastings Arena on Wednesday night, when Hastings defeated Tweed to the tune of 6—2.

This is the second league game that the locals have played and won this season, and the fifth straight win all around without a loss.

The game was called at 8.15 and commenced on time, and from the drop of the puck to the last minute of play a good brand of fast hockey was exhibited. The spectators were furnished with plenty of excitement as not a moment of laggy hockey was presented by either of the teams.

The visitors are deserving of great praise, as the kind of hockey they exhibited was first class and their sportsmanship was not to be excelled.

The first period opened up with the visitors having the best of the play, and after ten minutes of hard hockey A. Geraldi scored on a long shot from the centre ice. Lyon Hill evened up the score by slipping in a close-in shot two minutes later. To break the tie, S. Stevenson secured the puck from a squirmish near the net, and the period ended 2 to 1 for the home team.

Game Speeded Up.

In the second period, the game opened up much speedier than the first, the visitors working hard to tie again. In seven minutes of play A. Geraldi put Tweed upon even footing with the homesters again. This made the Hastings boys press harder than ever, and five minutes later Joe Gould broke the second tie of the game by a nice individual rush from centre ice. Both teams gave all they had until the period ended, the remainder of the allotted time for play being scoreless, leaving the score 3 to 2.

The last period both teams worked effectively. Through accident by being hit with the puck, Bert Houston, the Tweed centre man, was carried off the ice, but soon recovered from his injury and resumed his position. Shortly after this the Hastings centre man, Lyon Hill, received a nasty rush over his left eye, which disabled him for the remainder of the game.

Gould then replaced Hill and the pace was set by the homesters, Stevenson, A. Clapper and Bruce Clapper each getting one goal before the rinal ring of the bell, thus leaving the final score 6 to 2 for Hastings.

The game was handled by W. Jackson, of Peterboro, as referee, who is to be complimented on the excellent way in which he handled it. The score by periods:

Tweed—1 first, 2 second, 3 third.
Hastings—2 first, 3 second, 6 third.

The line-ups:

Hastings—Goal, N. Scriver; right defence, I. Doonan; left defence, A. Clapper; right wing, S. Stevenson; left wing, B. Clapper; centre, L. Hill. Subs.: J. Gould, J. Wave, C. Baker. Manager, I. Doonan. Coach W. Clapper.

TORONTO, Jan. 15.—(Canadian Press).—St. Patrick's encountered some success in their attempt to strengthen their team last night when Michael Neville, of the London Senior O.H.A. team signed a contract with the Irish and will be out for practice. Neville is a right wing and centre player, and will be used to relieve Jack Adams, while Bert McCaffery will be kept to help out Dye and the defence men. Neville is from Grandmere, Que.

VARSITY WON 7 TO 1.

Lack of Combination Gave Hamilton No Chance Against Toronto.

HAMILTON, Jan. 15.—(Canadian Press).—Minus Louie Hudson and Roger Plaxton, their stars, Varsity defeated the Rowing Club in a senior O.H.A. fixture at the arena last night, 7 to 1. Lack of combination play kept the total of the locals down, but they made a better showing than the score indicates, having the best of the opening period and succeeding in holding the Toronto team in check in the final 20 minutes of play.

CANADIENS DREW.

Twenty Minutes' Overtime Fails to Break Tie With Montreal.

MONTREAL, Jan. 15.—(Canadian Press).—Canadiens and Montreal, for the second time this season, battled 20 minutes' overtime to a 1-1 draw. Playing at the Forum last night before a crowd of 10,500 spectators, the teams were unable to break their previous deadlock. It was a much more open game than the one previous, with both teams attacking throughout, and both goals continually in danger until the final minute of the overtime period.

NO TRUTH IN RUMOR.

Vernon Forbes Will Still Hold His Place With the Hams.

HAMILTON, Jan. 15.—(Canadian Press).—Hamilton officials of the National Hockey League team were surprised to hear yesterday of a report circulated that an effort was being made on their part to secure Joe Ironstone, of Ottawa, to replace Forbes in the nets for the remainder of the season. Forbes was shaken up in a mix-up at Boston on Monday night, but not injured enough to keep him out of action. They say there is absolutely no truth in the rumor.

HE HANGED 15

Hungarian Tells Police Was "His Greatest Pleasure."

BUDAPEST, Jan. 15.—Declaring his "greatest pleasure is to hang people," and that he had hanged more than fifteen persons and "always put on white gloves for the ceremony," Lieutenant Lederer's confesssion, just made public, is the one topic of conversation throughout Hungary.

The confession was elicited after investigation by the police of the murder of a Herr Koudelka, sausage maker, in Budapest recently, the slaying of whom is, in the confession, admitted by Lederer and his wife.

In the days of the famous Pronay Division and the White Terror the officer was known for his heartlessness and developed a mania for hanging people, taking special pleasure in his original system of hiding corpses, it is said.

In those days, few inquiries were made when people disappeared.

Lederer also served in the Red Army, but afterward went over to the counter revolution.

Police are still developing fresh clues of murders committed in Hungary, the previous mystery of which was never solved.

Crime of 45 Years Ago Sends Man to Jail for 10 Years.

MOSCOW, Jan. 15. — (Canadian Press).—Ivan Okladski, 65-year-old man who has been on trial on a charge of assisting the Czar police in the extermination of a notorious organization known as Naarodnaya Volio (people's freedom), which 45 years ago sought the liberation of the Russian people from the Czarist Oligarchy, was yesterday found guilty and sentenced to death. In view of the age of the defendant, and the fact that the crime was committed so many years ago, the sentence was commuted to ten years' imprisonment.

Hockey

The Peterboro Senior team are playing an exhibition game in Belleville to-night, the team leaving at noon. In addition to the regulars, Eddie Foley and Grover Halpin will be used against the Quinte crew, who will also employ more than the usual number of subs. Walter Jackson will referee.

The Examiner is being flooded with the usual number of hockey pools for settlement. The only system The Examiner will use in deciding the winners is the percentage method, which is the only accurate plan and recognized as such by all leading sporting authorities. Those who do not want this plan of deciding a winner are only wasting their time and ours by sending the scores to The Examiner.

BANKERS' HOCKEY.

Opening Game Won by Nova Scotia and Dominion Teams.

The opening game of the Bankers' hockey schedule was played at the Brock Street Rink on Wednesday at 5 p.m. The Bank of Nova Scotia and Dominion defeating the Bank of Montreal, 3 to 0.

The participants all being on their toes, though rather short of wind, staged a lively fracas, and managed to scratch up the ice and their opponents' shins with all the ardor of a professional team.

Notwithstanding the valiant defence of the Montreal nets by Messrs. Hudon, Phelan and Cummer, Heaney of the Dominion staff registered a count of two, whilst Freeman followed in the last few minutes of the game, with a single.

DEATH RATE LOWER.

Records Show 1924 Smallest Ever—Causes of Death.

That the general death-rate for the year 1924 will be the lowest on record is forecasted in the statistical bulletin of a life insurance company doing business in Canada as well as in the United States. The prediction is based on the cumulative death-rate of more than fifteen million industrial policyholders calculated up to December 15th, 1924.

The principal causes of death, in order of magnitude, were: organic diseases of the heart, 123 per 100,000 population; tuberculosis 101; cancer 89; pneumonia 89; chronic nephitis 65; cerebral hemorrhage 59. As compared with the preceding year there has been a markable decline in the death-rate from diphtheria, measles and scarlet fever.

NURSING AND FIRST AID.

Classes Open in Y.W.C.A. Under Red Cross Society Auspices.

A meeting of those interested in the Y.W.C.A. Home Nursing class, under the auspices of the Red Cross Society, was held at the "Y" last night.

Mrs. (Dr.) Wood, who will lead the class in its study, outlined the course, which is going to prove very interesting, the lectures being on "The Bedroom, Signs of Sickness, Care of the Patient, Feeding the Sick, Treatments, Communicable Diseases, Emergencies, Health in the Home and Care of the Child." Twenty members registered for the class last night. It is expected many more will wish to join and another class will likely be formed next week. For those who took the Home Nursing course last year and who would like to continue, a St. John's Ambulance First Aid course will be started at the Y.W.C.A.

TEN BEST PICTURES OF 1924

For the Sake of Variety and Competition, Let's at Least Pretend to Disagree.

By JACK JUNGMEYER.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—A timid soul would shrink at setting down in irrevocable black and white a list of the ten best motion pictures of the year. The movie critic, or one so designated, is not a timid soul. The ten best movies of 1924, then, are, not necessarily in order of their comparative excellence:

"The Thief of Bagdad."
"Greed."
"The Sea Hawk."
"Dramatic Life of Abraham Lincoln."
"The White Sister."
"Beau Brummel."
"Man Handled."
"Girl Shy."
"The Enchanted Cottage."
"Secrets."

It is not to be implied that these are faultless, but each has some outstanding element, a distinction in feeling, imagination, treatment; a whimsy, a humor, a poignancy, or a biting veracity; something elemental and impressive.

"The Ten Commandments," "Woman of Paris," "The Marriage Circle," "Anna Christie" and "Scaramouche" — these extraordinary films, while not viewed by a large part of the public until this year, were listed among this writer's ten best last year.

And by way of explaining this year's selection, I must admit that there are several pictures of high repute released during 1924 which I did not manage to see. Some of these might have jostled for place among those named.

Box office listings were not considered. Nor was mere technical merit, which is apt to be overstressed by those in the industry and those professionally close to it.

Quiz Yourself.

Ask yourself ::What are the ten best pictures I've seen this past year?" and at once you evoke a certain number of vivid memories. Five, six or seven will undoubtedly leap up from the mental caverns.

You do not question their superiority. And the likelihood is that the great majority of photoplay goers will agree on these few—even movie critics. They have universal appeal. They reach down and touch what is common to us all, both in what they present and how they present it.

The remainder of your ten best will probably indicate your individual bias, your temperament, associations, environment, your mood in looking at life and its representation. Here there is divergence of opinion. Here is where you can pan your neighbors, and your movie commentators, for differing with you, as is your inalienable right and privilege.

If all folk were to agree on the ten best pictures, or the best twenty, this year and next, the producers' problem would be solved. We would be doomed forever to see formulistic replicas of these approved examples. So for the sake of variety and experimental competition, let's at least pretend to disagree.

Cut Extravagance.

The past year of picture making has been marked by diminution of extravagance, by closer adherence to schedule, by less initiative among the so-called independent producers. The scare of last year's slump was largely responsible.

Despite this, however, there have been notable pioneering ventures, especiall yDouglas Fairbanks' leap into the realm of fantasy with his "Thief of Bagdad," and Erich Von Stroheim's daring innovation in filming the noval "McTeague" under the name "Greed"—a picture which, as exhibited, in no wise indicates the scope and power and sinister dignity of his original faithful transcript.

Incidentally, the above list of "ten best," nor any man's list, is more than an approximation of just "what the public wants" in pictures. The poor producers will simply have to muddle along—like the rest of us who don't always shoot straight in our aim to please.

CATHOLIC DOCTRINE TO BE BROADCAST

First Step in Programme to Cover States—Station Costs $40,000.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—(United Press).—At the suggestion of Cardinal Hayes, a powerful broadcasting station will be installed here soon by the Paulist Fathers to acquaint the public with the Catholic viewpoint of current affairs.

Other stations in Chicago and San Francisco are under consideration.

The plan is the first step in a programme to spread the doctrine of Catholism throughout the United States. It will be a part of the celebration of the jubilee year declared by the Pope for 1925. The local station will be known as WPL, and is to be installed by the Western Electric Company at a cost of $40,000.

Two other religious sections have already adopted the view of broadcasting the Zionists at Zion City, Ill., and the Seventh Day Adventists at Berrin Springs Mich., operate sending stations.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

"Single Wives,' the interesting picture at the Capitol for Wednesday and Thursday of this week, offers an excellent opportunity to observe Corrinne Griffith, one of the beauties of the screen, in some of her famous gowns. Her dresses are beautiful in every instance, but some of them are really gorgeous, and the star wears them well.

Many predict that a new mode will be established following the first glimpse of an unusual dinner gown that she wears in part of the picture. This particular gown is a white velvet trimmed in pearls and lace with a hoop-skirt effect trailing on the floor on either side, the underskirt clinging to the body and being visible between the two trains.

"Single Wives," is eminently a modern drama, dealing with the problems of the ultra rich. The trials of loving wives neglected by their husbands are protrayed.

Corinne Griffith plays the role of Betty Jordon, a "Single Wife," a phrase coined to designate wives who have been neglected by their husbands and who have wandered from their hearths. The picture from an original screen story by Earl Hudson, strikes a new note in the narration of domestic triangle—that of a married daughter and her mother.

Milton Sills plays the husband who ,although he loves his wife dearly, becomes engrossed in his business and practical problems to such an extent that he fails to continue his courtship tactics, thus wounding the pride of his wife and allowing her to resopnd to the attentions of another man.

"The other man" is played by Lou Tellegen, famous as one of the screen's great lovers. Betty's mother is enacted by Kathlyn Williams, whose affair with Franklyn Dexter (Henry B. Walthall) furnishes one of the high lights of "Single Wives."

The balance of the cast includes such prominent names as Phyllis Haver, Phillips Smalley, Jere Austin and John Patrick. Thelma Morgan Converset, well known society girl and twin sister of Mrs. Reggie Vanderbilt, also has an attractive role. The picture was directed by George Archainbaud under the supervision of Earl Hudson.

The usual good comedy and entertaining short reels accompany the programme.

AT THE ROYAL.

BETTY "SQUIBS" BALFOUR IN "MARY FINDS THE GOLD."

A New Production From the Old Country at Royal To-Night.

Betty Balfour, England's Mary Pickford, in a new production recently arrived from England, "Mary Finds the Gold," is the big attraction at the Royal to-night.

Betty is supported by Hugh E. Wright, who will be remembered as "Squibs" father in that successful series. He also appeared in "Me and My Gal" and "The Better Ole."

As usual, this is a comedy drama of London coster folk, and gives Squibs lots of opportunities for her own style of comedy.

A new Andy Gump comedy is on the same programme.

CAREY LIKES TO PLAY WESTERNER.

It's Because He Portrays the Kind of Man He Is Off the Screen.

"I'll never get tired of playing Western roles," declared Harry Carey. "I like them and the public likes them, too. Some people claim that the 'Western' will gradually die out—but there's little chance of it, so long as audiences get excited over wild horse-back rides and fast gun-play.

"Of course, the 'Western' of today has to be made of different stuff than those that went over in the old-time nickolodean. There has to be a story and a good story or folks will ask 'what's all the shooting for?' and it won't be long before the picture will be put in the junk heap.

"But when the 'Western' is good the public will 'eat it up.' That's what they're going to do to my latest one, 'Tiger Thompson.' It has the action, thrills and fights that one expects, but it also has a big mental conflict. It's the first picture made on my own ranch, too, so altogether it's the real thing.

"I like to play in 'Westerns' not only because they call for the things that I know how to do, but because they typify the spirit of this great country which I love. When I portray a Westerner I portray the man I am at heart—I am doing the thing that I do by choice every day at my own ranch and so I naturally love my work."

"Tiger Thompson" is the third of the Hunt Stromberg productions, starring Harry Carey. It will be shown at the Royal Theatre Monday and will stay there for three days.

AT THE REGENT.

How would you like to be going about seventy-five miles an hour on a narrow mountain road ,racing up to the very edge and then stop within a few feet, having your front wheels looking into a valley hundreds of feet below?

That's what Fred Thomson does in his latest picture,"The Fighting Sap," coming to the Regent Theatre To-day and that's only one of a hundred daring things he does in this picture.

How would you like to be riding a horse at full speed, chasing another rider, minally catching him, then, as you come to him, leave your saddle, bulldog the other rider from his horse, both horses going at top speed, then, as you hit and hold him, both leaving the saddle, falling, and twisting, turning over and over down a steep mountain side, fully two hundred yards below?

How would you like to be sent rolling down an iron floored rock slide with a whole carload of rock following you and then, as you hit the bottom, be forced to do a jump overhead just as the rock comes crashing after you?

Fred Thomsoin does all of these thing and many more equally hazardous in "The Fighting Sap," and people who have seen the picture are marvelling how he manged to escape with his life.

AT THE GRAND.

"THE WORLD OF PASSION."

An advance showing of "The World of Passion,' the picture which opens at the GRAND Opera House, this evening, for three evening performances, with Saturday matinee, revealed it as a production extraordinary in its theme. It is seldom that Peterboro theatre-goers are privileged to see a picture which has the scope and range of "The World of Passion."

It is the story of the Wandering Jew, one of the most notable and interesting characters in all history, the Godless One who mocked the Master on the Golgotha road and was condemned to walk through the years of time seeking rest. "The World of Passion" traces his progress through the ages, giving to each appearance a companion in the women whom he loved. In Jerusalem, in Syria, in Italy, and finally in Spain, he appeared always, until the very last, the atheist, mocking the Christ and sending from him the love of living creatures. To finally win the love of a good woman and the light of God on a tortured brow brought him to the gate of death and rest. And the woman who loved him finally and sought to rescue him from the tortures was, like the Magdalene who followed Christ, a wayward, sinful creature, the most beautiful of all the women of the picture, Ollala of Seville.

Adequate description of a picture like this is almost impossible. It has to be seen to be appreciated. Oswald Stoll has gone a step ahead of D. W. Griffiths in his subtle inclusion in his production of tiny ways and means of suggesting emotion, and backgrounds. There is something rather marvellous in the effects he gets with minor details. Although "The World of Passion" is a big picture, it contains no big, stupendous, spectacular scenes. The art of the producer seems to have been lavished an exquisite settings that round out pertectly the impressions gained from various scenes. A bit of lovely natural scenery from the different countries depicted intro duces the various sections, and the pictures in each are examples of the art of the silver sheet lifted to the highest degree. For sheer beauty of production, from the moment that a drifting cloud across a rippling lake precedes the opening, to the last bit, where a mailed hand across the way alone suggests the barrier between Ollala and the man she loves. "The World of Passion" is outstanding and memorable. There are many who will go back for a second performance to catch glimpses of a subtle, beautiful type of picturization. It is worth the price of admission alone to observe the way in which this producer delincates the Christ in the opening scene. There is no earthly figure presented. The radiance of the Cross falls on the leper, marked with loathsome disease, and instantly he is a whole man Across the mocking Jew, also falls that same white radiance and he goes forth to his age-long quest, to wait through the centuries for the cross of Christ to mark his brow once again in forgiveness.

Matheson Lang plays superbly the role of the Wandering Jew. As Mathathias, the Atheist of Jerusalem he opens the productions, and goes forth at the end of a dramatic interval, with the sentence, "Thou shalt not die' on his head. Again he appears, this time in Syria, and again a woman claims his passionate regard. Joanne, the wife of the leader of the Crusaders, is his love this time. Again there is the leper included in the passionate scene.

In Italy, another love story is enacted and the child of Matteos, the wealthy Jew, dies by the bite of a serpent the cross clasped in his hand, to reproach the father.

And for the last time in Spain, the man appears, this time as a doctor of Seville, winning the regard of Ollala, and finding rest in penance and pain.

It is a picture that takes a wonderful character, the Wandering Jew and depicts his progress in marvellous fashion, with beautiful settings and a four-fold love-story. Passion and religion are the themes of a production that has to be seen to be appreciated and will be long remembered. There are some who will regret the atmosphere of the final section, which injects an element into a picture that would otherwise have a universal strong appeal, but it is probably only a side-light on a period of history when fanaticism reigned supreme. The zeal for creed that ruled that era has been duplicated in other forms and other faiths through ages, and still exists. The zealots of the Cross of Christ were logical instruments for the redemption of the mocker.

The prologue arranged by Mrs. W. McKee Bingham forms a harmonious interlude in the screening of the picture. The keynote of the production is the search for the woman who will help to redeem the accursed one, and the prologue depicts in artistic fashion Woman in her various manifestations.

As with the picture, there are four sections to the prologue, incorporated in two separate portions. At the conclusion of the fourth reel of the picture, which is only eight reels in length, the second portion of the prologue is given, both fitting in admirably with the spirit of the big picture..

Although the prologue has been somewhat elaborately designed, the settings are simple and effective. A Spanish garden forms the background for the epening scene, which is presented in Spanish costumes, with Mrs. Bingham singing "The Secret of Bliss," and a very dainty Spanish dance by the Misses May Perry and Martha Kirn. In this scene with Woman as Pleasure, Mrs. Bingham wears a beautiful Spanish shawl, valued at five hundred dollars by its owner, Mrs. Carrie Hodgson. Mrs. Hodgson is composer of the music which accompanies the Dance of the Veils, by Miss Jessie Hodgson, in the following scene, that depicting Woman as Religion, and set in Syrian atmosphere.. Mrs. Bingham as the worshipper, in trailling white, lights the tapers at a tiny shrine and sings "Just as the Daylight is Fading," turning to bestow her amulet on May Perry, as the Crusader, in cross-emblazoned tunic and flowing mantle.

The third scene shows a Roman garden, with throwing the Golden Apples from the Garden of the Hesperides to Atalanta and her maidens. This scene depicts Woman as Art.

Passion is the theme of the final scene, with a Judean Hill as a background. Miss Helen Ross does a dainty little dance, "The Pipes of Pan," Miss May Perry and Miss Martha Kirn, in scarlet have a Salome number and Mrs. Bingham as the Enchantress, in trailing flame-colored robe, sings the lovly "Enchantress" song.

PIONEER DAYS.

Interesting Story of Early Days in Ennismore District.

A reader, who signs as "A Pioneer Friend," sends us some interesting information relative to the life of Mrs. Bridget Collins, who died on the 7th instant, at the advanced age of ninety-seven years.

The late Mrs. Collins came to Ennismore in 1836, a year before the Mackenzie Rebellion. There was no floating bridge over "Mud Lake" in those days, and a scow or the birch bark canoe of an Indian was the only means of reaching the Ennismore shore. The vicissitudes endured by the early settlers are more easily imagined than described in these modern times. Their very existence often depended upon mutual co-operation and assistance in moments of need and stress. The late Mrs. Collins was always ready, night or day, at a moment' notice, to strike out into the wilderness and risk her life to help a neighbor in distress. She was a youngwoman when married Patrick Collins and settled in Ennimore, a year after coming out to Canada from County Kerry, Ireland. Twenty-three years ago, on the death of her husband, she took up her residence with her daughter, Mrs. John O'Brien, 179 Lake street.

"The kind deeds and self-sacrifice of these old pioneers are lost in the mists of time, but to many now living, particularly in Ennismore, the name of Mrs. Bridget Collins will pass down as that of an angel of mercy, who smoothed, regardless of creed, the paths of the early settlers of Ennismore, accepting no remuneration for her sacrifice, and feeling amply repaid by a sense of duty performed."

Hockey

The Peterboro Senior team are playing an exhibition game in Belleville to-night, the team leaving at noon. In addition to the regulars, Eddie Foley and Grover Halpin will be used against the Quinte crew, who will also employ more than the usual number of subs. Walter Jackson will referee.

The Examiner is being flooded with the usual number of hockey pools for settlement. The only system The Examiner will use in deciding the winners is the percentage method, which is the only accurate plan and recognized as such by all leading sporting authorities. Those who do not want this plan of deciding a winner are only wasting their time and ours by sending the scores to The Examiner.

Notwithstanding the valiant defence of the Montreal nets by Messrs. Hudon, Phelan and Cummer, Heaney of the Dominion staff registered a count of two, whilst Freeman followed in the last few minutes of the game, with a single.

DEATH RATE LOWER.

Records Show 1924 Smallest Ever—Causes of Death.

That the general death-rate for the year 1924 will be the lowest on record is forecasted in the statistical bulletin of a life insurance company doing business in Canada as well as in the United States. The prediction is based on the cumulative death-rate of more than fifteen million industrial policyholders calculated up to December 15th, 1924.

The principal causes of death, in order of magnitude, were: organic diseases of the heart, 123 per 100,000 population; tuberculosis 101; cancer 89; pneumonia 89; chronic nephitis 65; cerebral hemorrhage 59. As compared with the preceding year there has been a markable decline in the death-rate from diphtheria, measles and scarlet fever.

NURSING AND FIRST AID.

Classes Open in Y.W.C.A. Under Red Cross Society Auspices.

A meeting of those interested in the Y.W.C.A. Home Nursing class, under the auspices of the Red Cross Society, was held at the "Y" last night.

Twenty members registered for the class last night. It is expected many more will wish to join and another class will likely be formed next week. For those who took the Home Nursing course last year and who would like to continue, a St. John's Ambulance First Aid course will be started at the Y.W.C.A.

TEN BEST PICTURES OF 1924

For the Sake of Variety and Competition, Let's at Least Pretend to Disagree.

By JACK JUNGMEYER.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—A timid soul would shrink at setting down in irrevocable black and white a list of the ten best motion pictures of the year. The movie critic, or one so designated, is not a timid soul. The ten best movies of 1924, then, are, not necessarily in order of their comparative excellence:

"The Thief of Bagdad."
"Greed."
"The Sea Hawk."
"Dramatic Life of Abraham Lincoln."
"The White Sister."
"Beau Brummel."
"Man Handled."
"Girl Shy."
"The Enchanted Cottage."
"Secreta."

It is not to be implied that these are faultless, but each has some outstanding element, a distinction in feeling, imagination, treatment; a whimsy, a humor, a poignancy, or a biting veracity; something elemental and impressive.

"The Ten Commandments," "Woman of Paris," "The Marriage Circle," "Anna Christie" and "Scaramouche" — these extraordinary films, while not viewed by a large part of the public until this year, were listed among this writer's ten best last year.

And by way of explaining this year's selection, I must admit that there are several pictures of high repute released during 1924 which I did not manage to see. Some of these might have jostled for place among those named.

Box office listings were not considered. Nor was mere technical merit, which is apt to be overstressed by those in the industry and those professionally close to it.

Quiz Yourself.

Ask yourself ::What are the ten best pictures I've seen this past year?" and at once you evoke a certain number of vivid memories. Five, six or seven will undoubtedly leap up from the mental caverns.

You do not question their superiority. And the likelihood is that the great majority of photoplay goers will agree on these few—even movie critics. They have universal appeal. They reach down and touch what is common to us all, both in what they present and how they present it.

The remainder of your ten best will probably indicate your individual bias, your temperament, associations, environment, your mood in looking at life and its representation. Here there is divergence of opinion. Here is where you can pan your neighbors, and your movie commentators, for differing with you, as is your inalienable right and privilege.

If all folk were to agree on the ten best pictures, or the best twenty, this year and next, the producers' problem would be solved. We would be doomed forever to see formulistic replicas of these approved examples. So for the sake of variety and experimental competition, let's at least pretend to disagree.

Cut Extravagance.

The past year of picture making has been marked by diminution of extravagance, by closer adherence to schedule, by less initiative among the so-called independent producers. The scare of last year's slump was largely responsible.

Despite this, however, there have been notable pioneering ventures, especiall yDouglas Fairbanks' leap into the realm of fantasy with his "Thief of Bagdad," and Erich Von Stroheim's daring innovation in filming the noval "McTeague" under the name "Greed"—a picture which, as exhibited, in no wise indicates the scope and power and sinister dignity of his original faithful transcript.

Incidentally, the above list of "ten best," nor any man's list, is more than an approximation of just "what the public wants" in pictures. The poor producers will simply have to muddle along—like the rest of us who don't always shoot straight in our aim to please.

CATHOLIC DOCTRINE TO BE BROADCAST

First Step in Programme to Cover States—Station Costs $40,000.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—(United Press).—At the suggestion of Cardinal Hayes, a powerful broadcasting station will be installed here soon by the Paulist Fathers to acquaint the public with the Catholic viewpoint of current affairs.

Other stations in Chicago and San Francisco are under consideration.

The plan is the first step in a programme to spread the doctrine of Catholism throughout the United States. It will be a part of the celebration of the jubilee year declared by the Pope for 1925. The local station will be known as WPL, and is to be installed by the Western Electric Company at a cost of $40,000.

Two other religious sections have already adopted the view of broadcasting the Zionists at Zion City, Ill., and the Seventh Day Adventists at Berrin Springs Mich., operate sending stations.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

"Single Wives," the interesting picture at the Capitol for Wednesday and Thursday of this week, offers an excellent opportunity to observe Corrinne Griffith, one of the beauties of the screen, in some of her famous gowns. Her dresses are beautiful in every instance, but some of them are really gorgeous, and the star wears them well.

Many predict that a new mode will be established following the first glimpse of an unusual dinner gown that she wears in part of the picture. This particular gown is a white velvet trimmed in pearls and lace with a hoop-skirt effect trailing on the floor on either side, the underskirt clinging to the body and being visible between the two trains.

"Single Wives," is eminently a modern drama, dealing with the problems of the ultra rich. The trials of loving wives neglected by their husbands are protrayed.

Corinne Griffith plays the role of Betty Jordon, a "Single Wife," a phrase coined to designate wives who have been neglected by their husbands and who have wandered from their hearths. The picture from an original screen story by Earl Hudson, strikes a new note in the narration of domestic triangle—that of a married daughter and her mother.

Milton Sills plays the husband who ,although he loves his wife dearly, becomes engrossed in his business and practical problems to such an extent that he fails to continue his courtship tactics, thus wounding the pride of his wife and allowing her to resopnd to the attentions of another man.

"The other man" is played by Lou Tellegen, famous as one of the screen's great lovers. Betty's mother is enacted by Kathlyn Williams, whose affair with Franklyn Dexter (Henry B. Walthall) furnishes one of the high lights of "Single Wives."

The balance of the cast includes such prominent names as Phyllis Haver, Phillips Smalley, Jere Austin and John Patrick. Thelma Morgan Converset, well known society girl and twin sister of Mrs. Reggie Vanderbilt, also has an attractive role. The picture was directed by George Archainbaud under the supervision of Earl Hudson.

The usual good comedy and entertaining short reels accompany the programme.

AT THE ROYAL.

BETTY "SQUIBS" BALFOUR IN "MARY FINDS THE GOLD."

A New Production From the Old Country at Royal To-Night.

Betty Balfour, England's Mary Pickford, in a new production recently arrived from England, "Mary Finds the Gold," is the big attraction at the Royal to-night.

Betty is supported by Hugh E. Wright, who will be remembered as "Squibs" father in that successful series. He also appeared in "Me and My Gal" and "The Better Ole."

As usual, this is a comedy drama of London coster folk, and gives Squibs lots of opportunities for her own style of comedy.

A new Andy Gump comedy is on the same programme.

CAREY LIKES TO PLAY WESTERNER.

It's Because He Portrays the Kind of Man He Is Off the Screen.

"I'll never get tired of playing Western roles," declared Harry Carey. "I like them and the public likes them, too. Some people claim that the 'Western' will gradually die out—but there's little chance of it, so long as audiences get excited over wild horse-back rides and fast gun-play.

"Of course, the 'Western' of today has to be made of different stuff than those that went over in the old-time nickolodean. There has to be a story and a good story or folks will ask 'what's all the shooting for?' and it won't be long before the picture will be put in the junk hean.

"But when the 'Western' is good the public will 'eat it up.' That's what they're going to do to my latest one, 'Tiger Thompson.' It has the action, thrills and fights that one expects, but it also has a big mental conflict. It's the first picture made on my own ranch, too, so altogether it's the real thing.

"I like to play in 'Westerns' not only because they call for the things that I know how to do, but because they typify the spirit of this great country which I love. When I portray a Westerner I portray the man I am at heart—I am doing the thing that I do by choice every day at my own ranch and so I naturally love my work."

"Tiger Thompson" is the third of the Hunt Stromberg productions, starring Harry Carey. It will be shown at the Royal Theatre Monday and will stay there for three days.

AT THE REGENT.

How would you like to be going about seventy-five miles an hour on a narrow mountain road ,racing up to the very edge and then stop within a few feet, having your front wheels looking into a valley hundreds of feet below?

That's what Fred Thomson does in his latest picture,"The Fighting Sap," coming to the Regent Theatre To-day and that's only one of a hundred daring things he does in this picture.

How would you like to be riding a horse at full speed, chasing another rider, minally catching him, then, as you come to him, leave your saddle, bul-dog the other rider from his horse, both horses going at top speed, then, as you hit and hold him, both leaving the saddle, falling, and twisting, turning over and over down a steep mountain side, fully two hundred yards below?

How would you like to be sent rolling down an iron floored rock slide with a whole carload of rock following you and then, as you hit the bottom, be forced to do a jump overhead just as the rock comes crashing after you?

Fred Thomsoin does all of these thing and many more equally hazardous in "The Fighting Sap," and people who have seen the picture are marvelling how he manged to escape with his life.

AT THE GRAND.

"THE WORLD OF PASSION."

An advance showing of "The World of Passion,' the picture which opens at the GRAND Opera House, this evening, for three evening performances, with Saturday matinee, revealed it as a production extraordinary in its theme. It is seldom that Peterboro theatre-goers are privileged to see a picture which has the scope and range of "The World of Passion."

It is the story of the Wandering Jew, one of the most notable and interesting characters in all history, the Godless One who mocked the Master on the Golgotha road and was condemned to walk through the years of time seeking rest. "The World of Passion" traces his progress through the ages, giving to each appearance a companion in the women whom he loved. In Jerusalem, in Syria, in Italy, and finally in Spain, he appeared always, until the very last, the atheist, mocking the Christ and sending from him the love of living creatures. To finally win the love of a good woman and the light of God on a tortured brow brought him to the gate of death and rest. And the woman who loved him finally and sought to rescue him from the tortures was, like the Magdalene who followed Christ, a wayward, sinful creature, the most beautiful of all the women of the picture, Ollala of Seville.

Adequate description of a picture like this is almost impossible. It has to be seen to be appreciated. Oswald Stoll has gone a step ahead of D. W. Griffiths in his subtle inclusion in his production of tiny ways and means of suggesting emotion, and backgrounds. There is something rather marvellous in the effects he gets with minor details. Although "The World of Passion" is a big picture, it contains no big, stupendous, spectacular scenes. The art of the producer seems to have been lavished an exquisite settings that round out pertectly the impressions gained from various scenes. A bit of lovely natural scenery from the different countries depicted intro duces the various sections, and the pictures in each are examples of the art of the silver sheet lifted to the highest degree. For sheer beauty of production, from the moment that a drifting cloud across a rippling lake precedes the opening, to the last bit, where a mailed hand across the way alone suggests the barrier between Ollala and the man she loves. "The World of Passion" is outstanding and memorable. There are many who will go back for a second performance to catch glimpses of a subtle, beautiful type of picturization. It is worth the price of admission alone to observe the way in which this producer delincates the Christ in the opening scene. There is no earthly figure presented. The radiance of the Cross falls on the leper, marked with loathsome disease, and instantly he is a whole man Across the mocking Jew, also falls that same white radiance and he goes forth to his age-long quest, to wait through the centuries for the cross of Christ to mark his brow once again in forgiveness.

Matheson Lang plays superbly the role of the Wandering Jew. As Mathathias, the Atheist of Jerusalem he opens the productions, and goes forth at the end of a dramatic interval, with the sentence, "Thou shalt not die' on his head. Again he appears, this time in Syria, and again a woman claims his passionate regard. Joanne, the wife of the leader of the Crusaders, is his love this time. Again there is the leper included in the passionate scene.

In Italy, another love story is enacted and the child of Matteos, the wealthy Jew, dies by the bite of a serpent the cross clasped in his hand, to reproach the father.

And for the last time in Spain, the man appears, this time as a doctor of Seville, winning the regard of Ollala, and finding rest in penance and pain.

It is a picture that takes a wonderful character, the Wandering Jew and depicts his progress in marvellous fashion, with beautiful settings and a four-fold love-story. Passion and religion are the themes of a production that has to be seen to be appreciated and will be long remembered. There are some who will regret the atmosphere of the final section, which injects an element into a picture that would otherwise have a universal strong appeal, but it is probably only a side-light on a period of history when fanaticism reigned supreme. The zeal for creed that ruled that era has been duplicated in other forms and other faiths through ages, and still exists. The zealots of the Cross of Christ were logical instruments for the redemption of the mocker.

The prologue arranged by Mrs. W. McKee Bingham forms a harmonious interlude in the screening of the picture. The keynote of the production is the search for the woman who will help to redeem the accursed one, and the prologue depicts in artistic fashion Woman in her various manifestations.

As with the picture, there are four sections to the prologue, incorporated in two separate portions. At the conclusion of the fourth reel of the picture, which is only eight reels in length, the second portion of the prologue is given, both fitting in admirably with the spirit of the big picture.

Although the prologue has been somewhat elaborately designed, the settings are simple and effective. A Spanish garden forms the background for the opening scene, which is presented in Spanish costumes, with Mrs. Bingham singing "The Secret of Bliss," and a very dainty Spanish dance by the Misses May Perry and Martha Kirn. In this scene with Woman as Pleasure, Mrs. Bingham wears a beautiful Spanish shawl, valued at five hundred dollars by its owner, Mrs. Carrie Hodgson. Mrs. Hodgson is composer of the music which accompanies the Dance of the Veils, by Miss Jessie Hodgson, in the following scene, that depicting Woman as Religion, and set in Syrian atmosphere. Mrse. Bingham as the worshipper, in trailling white, lights the tapers at a tiny shrine and sings "Just as the Daylight is Fading," turning to bestow her amulet on May Perry, as the Crusader, in cross-emblazoned tunic and flowing mantle.

The third scene shows a Roman garden, with throwing the Golden Apples from the Garden of the Hesperides to Atalanta and her maidens. This scene depicts Woman as Art.

Passion is the theme of the final scene, with a Judean Hill as a background. Miss Helen Ross does a dainty little dance, "The Pipes of Pan," Miss May Perry and Miss Martha Kirn, in scarlet have a Salome number and Mrs. Bingham as the Enchantress, in trailing flame-colored robe, sings the loevly "Enchantress" song.

PIONEER DAYS.

Interesting Story of Early Days in Ennismore District.

A reader, who signs as "A Pioneer Friend," sends us some interesting information relative to the life of Mrs. Bridget Collins, who died on the 7th instant, at the advanced age of ninety-seven years.

The late Mrs. Collins came to Ennismore in 1836, a year before the Mackenzie Rebellion. There was no floating bridge over "Mud Lake" in those days, and a scow or the birch bark canoe of an Indian was the only means of reaching the Ennismore shore. The vicissitudes endured by the early settlers are more easily imagined than described in these modern times. Their very existence often depended upon mutual co-operation and assistance in moments of need and stress. The late Mrs. Collins was always ready, night or day, at a moment' notice, to strike out into the wilderness and risk her life to help a neighbor in distress. She was a youngwoman when married Patrick Collins and settled in Ennimore, a year after coming out to Canada from County Kerry, Ireland. Twenty-three years ago, on the death of her husband, she took up her residence with her daughter, Mrs. John O'Brien, 179 Lake street.

"The kind deeds and self-sacrifice of these old pioneers are lost in the mists of time, but to many now living, particularly in Ennismore, the name of Mrs. Bridget Collins will pass down as that of an angel of mercy, who smoothed, regardless of creed, the paths of the early settlers of Ennismore, accepting no remuneration for her sacrifice, and feeling amply repaid by a sense of duty performed."

CHARGE WAS WITHDRAWN

The Examiner desires to correct a mistaken impression which may have been gathered from an article referring to William A. Murphy. The charge made in the Police Court against Mr. Murphy was completely withdrawn and no conviction was entered against Mr. Murphy. The accusations made against Mr. Murphy, in the charge referred to, are completely denied by him.

EVICTED MINISTERS ARE NOT SQUEALING

Conference of Church Leaders in Toronto—Suffer For Principles.

TORONTO, Jan. 15.—(Special to The Examiner). — "We are on the side of the martyrs, but we are neither squealing nor boasting." This was the attitude of several "evicted" Presbyterian Unionist ministers who attended a conference of church leaders, lay and clerical, in Toronto this morning to consider the organizing of Unionist minorities in churches which have voted against Union. Satisfaction was expressed regarding the results of the voting throughout the Dominion. Messages from a number of Unionist minister who, for the principle of Union, have suffered the loss of their churches and manses were read. In every instance these Unionists ministers declare emphatically that the working and paying members of their congregations were in the Unionist minority, and were outvoted in many instances by members who were largely non-attendants at public worship and non-givers to the church funds. In this connection a story was told of a man asking the way to a certain Knox Church where he had to vote.

One elder from a leading church in Hamilton stated that the Unionists had decided to withdraw and leave the anti-Unionists to run the church. He felt confident that the anti-Unionists could not carry on, and was sure that if another vote were taken the church would go strongly Union. Unionist minorities going out from churches were also determined that the budget of the Presbyterian Church would not suffer, but that they would bear the financial burden and responsibility which the anti-Unionists had repudiated.

Methodists Would Share.

One Unionist minister whose congregation had voted him out, stated that the neighboring Methodist minister had offered to share his parsonage and salary with him. This was of course declined, but it was cited as an illustration of the self-sacrificing and fraternal spirit that had been among the Unionists throughout the country. The returns of voting in congregations up to noon to-day show 676 voting for entering the United Church and 155 voting non-concurrence.

TRENT WATERWAY EXHIBIT AT N. Y.

Exhibit Responsible For Considerable Amount of Tourist Traffic.

A striking tribute was paid to the attractiveness of the Trent Waterway exhibit at the National Motor Boat Show, New York, by a request made by the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce that the exhibit be transferred to their exposition in Brooklyn to be held January 16th to 24th. It was considered by the Brooklyn Chamber to be the most attractive and educational exhibit at either the Motor Show or the Motor Boat Show.

This request emphasizes the desirability of having available an exhibit from Canada which could be moved from one exposition to another.

On interviewing the secretary of the Peterborough Chamber he stated that there is no doubt whatever that the yearly Trent Waterway exhibit at New York is responsible for a considerable proportion of the tourist traffic to this district. The attendance at the Motor Boat Show was approximately one hundred thousand and during the last two days there was a shortage of advertising litetrature.

A large number of Americans were met by the attendants and without a single exception all claimed that this district satisfied their desires in which to spend a summer vacation, and their influence could be recognized amongst other visitors.

Two of the most prominent publicists in the Eastern States for the Trent Waterway as an ideal summer rresort were found to be the commodore of the Rochester Yacht Club, Mr. H. Steyenson, and Dr. W. Plummer of Buffalo.

The best advertising this district is securing is from the satisfied tourist, who on previous occasions have been treated with every courtesy and fairness.

The Chamber of Commerce in its effort to form the provincial tourist association will recommend the increased use of travelling exhibits of Ontario and the courteous treatment to be accorded the visitor.

"Popular Mechanics," the well-known American magazine, in its February issue contains two pictures and a description of the Peterborough hydraulic lift lock; one picture being the first full-page illustration in the magazine. This magazine is noted for its publicity on new ideas and inventions. Classing a lift lock that has been in operation for twenty years under this category, substantiates the fact that publicity of outstanding features in this district has not been taken advantage of.

JUDGE REFUSES BOYS' EVIDENCE

Trial of Mrs. Baytoizae For Murder of Her Husband Halts.

AGES 9 AND 7.

HAMILTON, Jan. 15. — (Canadian Press). — The question of prosecuting Annie Baytoizae along with three others on a charge of murdering her husband, Joe Baytoizae, is still in the air, and will not be decided until to-morrow morning. When the trial opened yesterday, Judge Mowat refused to hear the evidence of the two little sons of the dead man on the ground that they were too young to testify, and as these were the main witnesses the prosecuting attorney, W. A. Boys, K.C., announced that he would be forced to drop the prosecution. The matter, however, was adjourned until to-day, and a final decision was adjourned until to-morrow.

The grand jury who heard the evidence was dismissed this morning and a stay of proceedings granted. At the next sitting it will be definitely decided whether or not the prisoners are to be discharged or held in custody or under bail for a later hearing. It will also be decided whether the second indictment, that of being an accessory after the fact, can be traversed to the next sitting of the assizes.

The three men arraigned are Panko and Yackim Shabaha and Mike Robysh. The fifth accused is Bill Shermett, now in Nova Scotia.

When the prosecutor yesterday prepared to take the evidence of the boys, Mr. Justice Mowat first called Walter, aged 9, and in a friendly manner questioned him, but the lad soon broke down and wept. Tony, aged 7, was then brought forward, and the Judge questioned the boy about the importance of telling the truth. The Judge then said he did not think the boys understood the effect of the oath, and that their evidence would not be taken.

PILGRIMS FLOCK TO SEE MIRAGE OF VIRGIN MARY

OIL CITY, Pa., Jan. 15:—(United Press).—Pilgrims from far and near continued to flock to St. Stephen's Church here to-day to view the mirage of the Virgin Mary and the Child, visible in the glow of a sanctuary lamp.

The apparition to-day was somewhat fainter, but the outlines of the head of the virgin and the child was plainly discernable. The vision is several inches in height.

More than 12,000 persons, Catholics and Protestants alike, have visited the church to see the mirage since it first became visible, last Saturday. Pilgrims came to-day from Buffalo, Erie, Cleveland and other distant points.

Rev. J. F. Fielding, rector of St. Stephen's, is unable to explain the apparition.

BALL PLAYERS MAY GET A UNION WAGE

Congress Urged to Take Charge of American National Game, Baseball.

NEW YORK Jan. 15.—(Canadian Press). — Into discussions of the diamond game yesterday came a petition headed by a letter with the name of B. B. Johnson, president of the American League, attached, which urges the Congress to take charge of the American national game, license managers, players and umpires and pay union salaries.

The paper circulated here is believed to have come from Cleveland, as President Johnson's letter was addressed to Joseph A. Collier of that city.

The petition calls for a commission of "three honest men," the men to be appointed by the President of the United States to administer the law but not to administer the game.

Jail penalties and fines are suggested for any violations of the law.

The letter signed by Johnson reads:

"Your position relative to the regulation of our national game is correct. It is my firm conviction that we can only secure adequate and satisfactory results through the medium of a commission created by the Government."

COLLECTING TOLL FROM TRUCKS REJECTED AS PLAN OF TAXATION

Proposal at Municipal Convention Regarded as Reversion to Obsolete Method.

MOTIONS SIFTED.

Present System of Township Representation in County Councils Is Approved.

TORONTO, Jan. 16.—(Canadian Press).—The Ontario Municipal Association representative of municipalities in Ontario Thursday considered many recommendations for changes in the municipal law which will be passed on to the provincial legislature for consideration. Others upon which opinion was divided were sent to the executive committee of the association for disposal.

A resolution that county council representation be made on a basis of municipality equalized assessment instead of on a population basis as at present evoked much discussion but was finally lost. At present, townships with more than a certain population have besides the reeve, deputy reeves to represent them in county councils. The majority thought that to get away from this principle would be undemocratic. A resolution brought in by the Niagara Falls delegation that the right be given to tax public utilities was passed.

Income Taxation.

The convention also decided a recommendation to the Ontario Government that for municipal income taxation the exemption for each child be $500 instead of $200. Assessment Commission Forman of Toronto said that Toronto might not object to a $300 exemption although even that would mean a loss of $4,500,000 in Toronto assessment. The $500 exemption would mean six million loss in assessment. Other Ontario municipalities would suffer in comparison he stated. Another delegate pointed out that the taxes lost through such an exemption would fall largely on the small paid householder.

Mayor Livingstone of Grimsby wanted the right extended to municipalities from the Ontario government of collecting tolls from heavy truck users who "broke up the streets' or to have the Ontario government return a certain amount of such taxes to the municipalities. K. Homuth, M.L.A., representing Preston town said that it was a revival of the toll gate to suggest such a tax. He thought a checker board system of taxation the worst kind and therefore opposed the resolution.

"Well then let the government make good and let us have some of the auto taxes for maintenance of good streets and roads in our municipalities," retorted Mayor Livingstone. The resolution was lost after there had been apparent approval of the suggestion that six ton trucks be the maximum allowed by the government.

Scarboro toswnship wanted a limit on the amount of land held by institutions which could be exempted from municipal taxation. This with a resolution that cemeteries controlled by private corporations for profit be made subject to municipal taxation was left for consideration by the executive committee.

Tax Sales on Lots.

Another resolution that all hotels whether with standard Ontario licenses or not be subject to business tax was also left with the executive The convention approved the resolution that in all tax sales the whole lot be sold instead of simply enough to cover the amount of the unpaid taxes. It was passed, as was also the proposal that taxes must be paid on a piece of land before it could be subdivided into lots. A resolution that church property being used for recreation grounds be subject to taxation was defeated. Another resolution that there be a course for Ontario municipal assessors to learn all the details of their profession was referred to the executive.

A deputation from the convention which continues today will meet Hon. Lincoln Gouldie, Provincial Secretary Saturday morning to submit the finally settled policy of the association as contained in approved resolutions.

FATHER RECENTLY LOST WIFE AND DAUGHTERS

Tragic Aspect of Appointment of New German Chancellor.

BERLIN, Jan. 16. — (Canadian Press).—Dr. Hans Luther, Germany's eighteenth Chancellor and tenth to occupy that post since the revolution, is a comparative newcomer to national politics. His reputation as an able administrative official which wholly acquired in the municipal service, especially as Lord Mayor of Essen, which post he vacated in October, 1923, to become Minister of Finance in the second Cabinet headed by Dr. Stresemann.

The new Chancellor, who is unattached officially to any of the big parties in the Reichstag, and who ranked as a non-partisan expert in the recent Cabinet, early earned the sobriquet of the Watchdog of the German treasury. Through the determined manner in which he pruned appropriations and otherwise authorized attempts by legislators and Federated states to raid the national exchequer.

Dr. Luther is a man of robust personality, a good speaker, and has become familiar to Reichstag members, who served on the finance and budget commissions, as an indomitable fighter. He is 46 years old. When the French and Belgians occupied Essen in January, 1923, at the time Dr. Luther was Mayor of that city, he defied them with spurts of patriotic oratory, but he was soon forced to quit his post as Lord Mayor.

The Finance Minister's elevation to the Chancellorsrhip is not without its tragic aspect due to the fact that he recently lost his wife, who was 44 years old, and his two daughters, aged 3 and 10 years, respectively, his only children.

"4. No applications can be received from ladies who wish to be presented, their names must be forwarded by ladies who have already been presented.

FRENCH DEBT TO BRITAIN TO BE ATTACKED NEXT

British Cabinet to Deal With Proposal from French Minister of Finance.

STUDY SOLUTIONS.

Churchill Says It Will Be Discussed in Spirit of Loyal Comradeship.

PARIS, Jan. 16.—An official renewal of the proposal for settling the inter-allied debts contained in the Balfour note of 1922 is made by the British cabinet in the reply which Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer, has given to the recent letter of French Finance Minister Clementel on that subject.

M. Clementel's letter, dated January 10 ,besides dealing with conference matters in general ,stated:

"The French government desire all other problems arising from the liquidation of the war to be also approached and dealt with effectually. Knowing the cordial feelings animating the British government, they are confident of obtaining that government's help in the search for and study of practical solutions whereby divergent interests may be brought into agreement."

Friendly Settlement.

The communication then proceeds to state that the French government is prepared to resume the examination of the debt question with a view oi reaching a friendly settlement. In this connection the letter says:

"But in order to continue this investigation, the French government would wish to know whether the Britsh government will adhere to the principles sent out in their previous notes, particularly that of Lord Curzon dated August 11, 1923, and how it would apply then."

Mr. Churchill's reply, dated January 13, says:

"During my visit here you have raised in unofficial and tentative form the question of repayment of the French debt to Great Britain and expressed the desire that the matter shall be the subject of future conversations. I have received these intimations with pleasure. His Majesty's government has been inclined to expect the question would be raised and it certainly is more appropriate that the initiative should have been spontaneously taken by France.

Referred to Cabinet.

"I had not contemplated that on this occasion any question of methods, terms or conditions, would present themselves, and therefore, have not so far obtained any instructions from the British cabinet in this sphere. I have transmitted your letter to my colleagues and can assure you that as soon as I return to London we will take the whole matter into prompt and earnest consideration and will endeavor to send you an answer which will place the French government in a position to present us with definite proposals."

In conclusion, Mr. Churchill's letter says:

"Meanwhile I can only repeat that the Balfour note remains for us a dominating guide of principle set up freely by our own hands. We shall approach the discussion in the same spirit of loyal comradeship which led us safely through the agonies and perils of war."

MUSSOLINI HAS BECOME MENACE TO KING VICTOR

Anti-Dynastic Agitation Is Stopped by the King's Show of Firmness.

CHECK ON PREMIER.

King Refused to Sign Decree Dissolving Chamber of Deputies—Fascist System.

NEW YORK, January 16. — The following account of the political crisis in Italy is by C. F. Bertelli, who visited Rome and cabled his story from the Swiss-Italian frontier.

King Victor Emmanuel saved his own throne last Friday, 9th January, when he refused to sign a decree dissolving the Italian Chamber. Had he signed that decree, he might even now be on his way to England in the footsteps of other dethroned monarchs.

This show of firmness on the part of the Italian King, the first he has displayed in two years, stopped just in time the dangerous anti-dynastic feeling which was rapidly spreading throughout the country, even in the southern provinces and Piedmont, where monarchical traditions have existed for more than three centuries.

Thus the Mussolini regime which proclaims its defence of the traditions of the country has reached just the opposite result and is the menace which drives the people toward the dynastic revolution.

Italy to-day is a perfect Eden as the home for 700,000 Fascisti and their sympathisers, and a perfect hell on earth for the other 38,300,000 citizens of Italy.

To an American observer, the situation is amazing and almost incredible. The entire nation has been disarmed with the exception of Mussolini's men, who are provided with the best weapons and munitions devised during the War. Armed resistance, therefore, is impossible.

The cardinal basis of civilisation —protection for the individual and his property, safeguards for the lives of citizens, freedom of the press and opinion, and parliamentary representation has been ruthlessly abolished. A system of spying and pitiless repression has been instituted. Murder and near murder happen daily and are excused under the trumpery phrase "for reasons of State."

Dictator Made Master.

Robber barons of feudal times could teach nothing to Benito Mussolini.

Incredible as it may seem, Italian rule to-day rests on an armed force of some 75,000 irregular volunteers, maintained at the expense of the State. Many of them, although wearing the black shirt, still are members of the Socialist Party, and as war veterans are familiar with the weapons with which they are profusely provided, including machine guns.

Premier Mussolini explains that the country is running dangerously near to red revolution, and, therefore, needs the militia to operate the return to normalcy. Anybody who dares to remonstrate is beaten up and made to "drink a quart of castor oil."

On assuming office, Mussolini camouflaged his Government as "constitutional" by taking into his Cabinet members of the Liberal, Democratic, Populist, and Conservative Parties. But to counteract the moderating influences of his first ministers he declared it necessary to constitute a "committee of public safety" which would have supreme power even above the Government and the Fascisti Party.

Of this committee Mussolini constituted himself chairman, while the other members were leaders of the Fascisti. The chief of police was a general commanding the black shirt militia.

Thereafter, the Italian Cabinet had to bow to all decisions taken by this committee.

Tcheka Spreads Terror.

Later, in 1924, finding it impossible to squash altogether the opposition, Mussolini perfected a secret committee called the "Tcheka," with the purpose of getting rid of some of the members in a summary way.

JUST A LITTLE DEMONSTRATION OF STRENGTH.

BOARD OF ARBITRATION UPHOLDS TELEGRAPHERS' SCALE OF WAGES

James Simpson, in Minority Report, Recommends Increase for C. N. R. Operators

EQUAL WITH C.P.R.

Says Government-Owned System "Cannot Afford" to Pay Employees Less.

OTTAWA, Jan. 16. — (Canadian Press).—The present scale of wages to commercial telegraphers in Canada should remain unchanged, in the opinion of the majority of the Board of Conciliation which recently considered the dispute the telegraphers have had with their employers, the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Telegraph Companies.

While F. H. Phippen, K.C., representative of the employers, would have a decrease in the present schedule affecting wages and overtime, add that "for the sake of avoiding a disagreement which would render our work futile," he accepts the finding for a "statu quo" settlement recommended in the report of the chairman of the board, R. Home Smith, K.C., of Toronto.

A minority report by James Simpson, of Toronto, representing the men, agrees with his colleagues in recommending that employees and company get together to adjust apparent injustices to the clerical staff of the Canadian National Telegraphs but Mr. Simpson goes further and recommends that the wages of the latter be advanced to the wage levels of the Canadian Pacific Telegraph clerical staff "as a Government-owned system cannot afford to pay its employees less than a privately owned system for similar services."

Minority Claims.

Mr. Simpson, in his minority report, differs with the majority report on several recommendations, the most important of which are as follows:

That no action be taken to remove the existing differential between rates of pay as obtain in Western and Eastern Canada, if the standard is to be the higher rate now paid west of Winnipeg.

That Morkrum and other automatic telegraphic operators should not be paid the Morse schedule.

That recognition of the union and of the closed shop should not be granted.

That there should be no increase in the general and clerical wage levels.

That full public holidays in place of the half-holiday rule now in force can not be granted, because it would mean an increase in overtime. The majority report, however, recommends that employer and employee endeavor to arrive at a working arrangement which would permit of a full holiday to a portion of the staff on statutory holidays.

Mr. Simpson finally disagrees with the majority of his colleagues in their rejection of the proposal that percentage ratings be reduced from three to two.

Maintain Wage.

The majority report finds that existing rates of pay and overtime are not unreasonable, and having in mind depressed business conditions and unemployment, cannot recommend any increase. But it also meets the companies' demands for a decrease with a reminder that while the rise in the cost of living was continuous, the men were necessarily late in securing their two increases and they should now have the benefit of the reverse condition, and (secondly) because it is by no mean certain that the cost of living is not now showing an advancing tendency.

Some recommendations in which the board is unanimous include a ruling that employees be entitled to two weeks' leave of absence after one year's service instead of after two years' service as the present rule provides.

The board refuses the request of the employers for a straight eight-hour "trick" and a six-day week in place of the seven, seven and a half and eight-hour "tricks" now obtaining. This is one of the findings with which Mr. Phippen prefers to disagree.

The board recommends a rule limiting the employment of married women if their husbands are able to support them.

Woman of 32 Is Cutting A Third Set of Teeth

SANDY, Oregon, January 16. — For three years Mrs. Anna Hennessey, 32, has been cutting a third set of teeth, and is still suffering such pain as babies suffer during the teething period.

Seven teeth are trying to pierce her upper gum above her natural teeth, all of which she still retains.

One eye-tooth of her "third set" was pulled about a year ago, and the other one is almost through the gum. Dentists have not been able to give her relief.

SAVED FROM FREEZING HE ATTEMPTED SUICIDE

Norwegian Seaman Found Hanging in Police Cell.

ST. JOHN, N.B., January 16. — Jacob Piasani, a 24 year old Norwegian sailor, attempted suicide at the central police station on Thursday morning. Police Sergeant Dikeman found him in a bad condition. He had tied his belt about his neck and to a bar of the door. Piasani was found wandering about West St. John early in the morning and was taken in by the police to save him from freezing as he apparently had no lodging place. He is in a critical condition at the hospital.

CREW IN JAIL FOR DISOBEYING ORDER

Refused to Sail Without Complement of Firemen.

MELBOURNE, Australia, January 16. — (Canadian Press Cable via Reuter's. — The thirty four members of the crew of the ocean liner Moeraki, who were placed under arrest here, and charged with wilfully disobeying the lawful commands of the master of the vessel, appeared in court here on Thursday, and were sentenced to two weeks' imprisonment.

The men refused to sail on the liner for New Zealand because the complement of firemen on the ship was short as a result of six men refusing to work.

The federal government has taken over the steamer Nairana in order to maintain communication with Tasmania, and at present is advertising for a crew. Tasmania is greatly in need of supplies owing to the dislocation of the shipping service, brought about by the strike of the waterside workers in the commonwealth, and the action of the Bruce government is in response to many representations made to it by the government of the island for relief.

More than 1300 Australians are stranded in Tasmania.

DR. HANS LUTHER SOLVES GERMAN CABINET CRISIS

Appointed Chancellor by President Ebert—Assured of Majority in Reichstag.

CABINET MEMBERS.

Parties Forming Coalition Restricted to One Member Each in Council.

BERLIN, Jan. 16.— (Canadian Press).—Dr. Hans Luther, former lord mayor of Essen and recent minister of finance in the Marx-Stresemann cabinet is the new German chancellor. He received his appointment yesterday afternoon from President Ebert after he had assured the president that he had evoked a workable solution for the long drawn out cabinet crisis.

The new government, the first straightaway Conservative Bourgeois cabinet since the republic was founded, officially appeared before the Reichstag this afternoon.

The cabinet named by Dr. Luther is as follows:

Foreign secretary, Dr. Gustave Stresemann.

Minister of finance, Herr Saemisch.

Minister of the interior, Martin Schiele.

Minister of economics, Dr. Karl Neuhaus.

Minister of food, Count von Kanitz.

Minister of Labor, Heinrich Brauns.

Minister of justice, Dr. Scuhmacher.

Minister of posts and telegraphs, Herr Stingle.

Minister of defense, Otto Gessler.

Six Days Negotiating.

Six days were devoted to ironing out the badly ruffled parliamentary situation which has caused trouble in the ministry since last May and which ultimately developed into a hopeless parliamentary impasse because of the indecisive results of the recent general elections for the Reichstag.

Chancellor Luther has been able to limit each of the participating parties to one ministerial post although his non-partisna cabinet colleagues are largely recruited from the nationalist or German peoples parties. The cabinet's political structure is also received as an index to the brand of politics which the German Nationalists and their political allies propose to introduce as a prelude to next spring's elections for president.

Pronounced shift to the right shown in the advent of Dr. Luther's government already presages a bitter struggle between the forces of reaction and the Liberal elements in the forthcoming balloting for a successor to Ebert.

For the time being the new cabinet will be in no danger of over throw as it enters upon its career with nominally 303 out of 493 votes pledged to it.

DE LUXE TRAVEL TO CALIFORNIA

Modern travel leaves little to be desired in comfort and luxury. The most recent innovation is the introduction of Lady's Maid Service on the California Limited, the Los Angeles Limited, and the San Francisco Overland Limited, operating daily between Chicago, Los Angeles and San Francisco over their various routes. It has also been announced that the California Limited has been equipped with new all-steel drawing room compartment sleeping cars with specially designed ladies' lounge. Such improved services signify the strides being made to satisfy every conceivable desire of the long distance traveller.

These famous trains are already associated by connections with the Canadian National double track system to Chicago and the trip from Toronto to Los Angeles or San Francisco is thus made one of unequalled pleasure and satisfaction throughout.

Full information and tickets may be obtained from Canadian National Ticket Offices, and personal service in arranging reservations, etc., will be rendered by any Canadian National Ticket Agent.

LADY M.P. SPEAKS.

LONDON, January 16. — "Nonsense," was the terse comment of Miss Ellen Wilkinson, Labor M.P., for East Middlesboro to-day, in alluding to the recent criticism of Ramsay MacDonald, by Mrs. Ethel Snowden, in a speech at Montreal.

"There is a film running in London entitled 'He who Gets Slapped,' said Miss Wilkinson, "and I would christen Elsie Snowden, 'The Woman who wants Slapping.' I would say to the women of Canada whom Mrs. Snowden is addressing that Ethel does not represent any body of organized Labor in this country."

INCREASE IN TRAFFIC ON CANADIAN CANALS

Decrease of 624,398 Tons Registered at Sault Ste. Marie in 1924.

OTTAWA, Jan. 16.— (Canadian Press.)—The traffic handled on the Canadian canals in 1924 was increased by more than a million tons as compared with 1923. The summary of canal statistics for the season of navigation last year just issued by the Bureau of Statistics, shows that except for the decrease of 624,398 tons, registered at Sault Ste. Marie, and a trifling decrease at Ottawa and Murray Locks, there was a general increase in traffic locked through Canadian canals. The decrease in tonnage handled through the Canadian lock at the Sault was in iron and coal. The Welland Canal handled 5,037,412 tons, an increase of more than one and a quarter millions. The St. Lawrence registered 5,536,374 tons, an increase of nearly a million.

A sharp decrease is noted in the total freight handled through combined Canadian and American locks at the Sault, while grain and flour passing through the locks was the highest on record. Decreases in other lines, chiefly iron, ore and coal, brought the total record tonnage from 91,376,831 in 1923 to 72,034,828 in 1924.

COMMENT ON TARIFF.

Manufacturers' Association Blames Depression on Tariff and Sales Tax.

HAMILTON, January 16 (Canadian Press).—Inadequate tariff protection and the sales tax are responsible for the present industrial depression in Canada was the opinion of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, expressed here yesterday at a meeting of the executive division.

A gradual decline in employment since August was reported, with the exception of the month of October, when a slight improvement was noted.

The committee which dealt with the question did not in any way modify the view taken at the unemployment conference in Ottawa last September, and it was stated that lack of protection against unfair competition, dumping and smuggling due to depreciated currency, are the chief causes of the present conditions.

CANADA IS WINNING

War With Motor Car Monopoly of Great Britain Centres at Wembley.

LONDON, Jan. 16. — (British United Press—by Herbert Bailey).—Canada is winning the war with the monopolistic motor manufacturers. The Canadians threaten to withdraw from the Empire Exhibition if the Society of Motor Manufacturers and Traders do not remove their ban on the exhibition of automobiles at Wembley has been effective in making that society come to a more reasonable frame of mind.

Commissioner Tolmie, head of the Canadian building, told the British United Press to-day that he fully expects a settlement satisfactory to everybody. He thinks that the proposed ban will be sufficiently removed to meet the ideas of the Canadian manufacturers, but it is impossible yet to announce a definite decision. Meanwhile only a few small new Canadian exhibitors have entered for this year's show. None of the high firms have moved as yet, although interest is beginning to quicken.

DIRTY EQUIPMENT IN CREAMERIES LOWERS DAIRY PRODUCT'S GRADE

Candid Advice to Farmers at Western Ontario Dairymen's Association Meeting.

COULD BE BEAT.

Canadian Butter and Cheese Suffers Because of Quantity Under Grade One.

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 16.—(Canadian Press).—F. R. Kayes, of Elmira, was elected yesterday to head the Dairymen's Association of Western Ontario in succession to H. Manell, of Woodstock, president in 1924. Vice-presidents for this year are F. A. Thompson, Embro; G. Bain, Lakeside, and A. E. Gracey, Simcoe. Frank Herns is the secretary-treasurer for 1925.

Directors are: T. Ballantyne, Stratford; J. Newbigging, Listowell; H. Yorks, Harrietsville; O. A. Barber, Seaforth; C. J. Donnelly, London, and W. MacWaddell, Strathroy. F. H. Nelles, London, and J. C. Hegler, Ingersoll, are auditors for the year.

Thursday, the second and last day of the fifty-eighth annual meeting of the association, was marked by several interesting addresses by experts in dairy work, including W. A. Wilson, agricultural products representative of the Dominion in London, England; Professor H. H. Dean, of the O.A.C., Guelph; Professor R. D. Colquette, of the O.A.C., and Dr. E. G. Hood, chief of the Division of Dairy Research, Ottawa.

Keen Competition.

Throughout both days of the convention insistence has been laid by every speaker without exception, on the necessity for quality and uniformity of standard in Canadian products, both for home markets and for the export trade. Each speaker who dealt with the export trade emphasized strongly the keen competition to which Canadian cheese and butter now being subjected in Great Britain, the activity of the various importing countries to improve their hold on the market by quality, uniformity and centralized bureaus of marketing and the need for immediate action on the part of the Canadian manufacturers to affect changes in their marketing methods if the market for the best grades was to be retained in the Old Land.

W. A. Wilson the only overseas representative of the day, spoke quite plainly on the matter of export requirements. He did not hesitate to declare that the time was at hand when strenuous efforts would have to be put forth by Canadian manufacturers of butter and cheese to win the favor of the British public for their products.

Can Produce Best.

"I think the real reason why conditions over there are as they are is that there is no adequate realization here of the export situation," he said. "It is a fact that I, with others, can vouch for that Canada can produce butter and cheese equal to anything produced elsewhere. The trouble is that so large a percentage of the Canadian product falls below number one grade. There is too much poor quality butter and cheese shipped to the Old Country, and this destroys their reputation as a whole." He specified mold in butter as one of the outstanding defects in Canadian export butter and said he hoped the manufacturers would find a remedy for this, which was a serious detriment to export trade.

Dr. E. G. Hood, of Ottawa, dealt very completely with this same problem of mold in butter. Summed up in two words, the cause of mold in butter, according to Dr. Hood, was "dirty equipment" in the creameries.

He showed how cream which was rendered absolutely free of mold by pasteurization became later full of mold spores owing to being placed in imperfectly cleaned retainers. He also named dirty parchment, carelessly handled salt and impure washing water for the butter as likely causes of mold. He disregarded the theory that storage in low temperature could produce mold unless there were already mold spores in the butter from some other cause.

A Price Penalty.

Prof. H. H. Dean told the convention of the work done at the O.A.C. this year in eradicating dirty milk, and stated that a cut in price for all milk which had a certain degree of sediment shown by test had proved satisfactory in eliminating dirty milk. He suggested that a similar practice be followed by all creameries. He also advocated creameries paying a premium for all clean milk as a means to the same end.

On a question of extreme interest to cheese makers, Prof. Dean declared that local demand for cheese could be developed by a properly arranged and conducted campaign.

"If we could increase the use of cheese by two pounds a head in the Dominion annually we would take care of the entire cheese surplus in Canada," he said, "and that would, as you know, solve a pressing problem to the cheese maker."

ONE DOLLAR A POUND FOR TEA PREDICTED BEFORE LONG.

The tremendous increase in the popularity of tea as a beverage has been such that the producing countries have been unable to satisfy the demand. The price of tea has been steadily increasing for a number of years. Since, however, you can make from 250 to 300 cups of tea to the pound, even at the price of $1.00 the cost per cup is only one-third of a cent.

MANITOBA SHOWS BALANCED BUDGET

Expenditures Have Been Kept Within Limit of Province's Revenue.

WINNIPEG, Man., Jan. 16.—Canadian Press.—Encouragement of co-operative marketing organizations, survey of the natural resources of the province; scientific study of the wheat rust problem, and appeal to the Privy Council in connection with the dispute between Manitoba and the Canadian Northern Railway were forecast by Lieut.-Governor Sir Jas. Aikins, in his speech from the throne at the opening of the Manitoba Legislature Thursday.

With a view to encouraging industrial development within the province a survey will be conducted at an early date into the possibilities of these resources. The plan embodies utilization of the best technical and business knowledge, and is offered as a remedy to recurring winter unemployment.

New bills will be directed particularly to improving conditions for the agricultural producers, and providing better marketing conditions.

The campaign which has been waged for more diversified farming is to be supplemented by the introduction of legislation aiming to secure closer settlement in the organized areas of the provinces.

The Hudson Bay Railway again was mentioned and the government announced its intention of submitting further resolutions urging upon the Federal Government its completion.

Legislative endorsement of a request that the Dominion government undertake revision of the lands of soldier settlers, was foreshadowed by Sir James. This step was being taken as a means to prevent the further abandonment of such farms, due to the high overhead charges.

Further pressure, in co-operation with other Western Provinces, for the retention of the Crow's Nest Pass agreement, was also intimated.

A balanced budget will be shown for the past fiscal year, His Honor declared, the total expenditures having been met within the limit of the revenue actually realized.

HOG GRADING SHOWS INCREASE UNDER GRADING

537,000 More Sold Last Year Than in 1923—Prairie Supply Soars.

50 PER CENT. MORE.

Year's Prices Finished Strong and Market Continues at High Level.

OTTAWA, Jan. 16. — (Canadian Press).—Canada established a remarkable record in 1924 marketings in the number of hogs. An increase of 537,000 for the past year, over 1923, occurred in the marketings at yards and packing plants where the Federal hog grading policy is in effect, the total for 1924 being 3,040,000 as compared with approximately 2,503,000 during 1932.

Ontario increased her marketings by eighteen per cent., or 232,139 head, according to reports received from six Canadian stock yards by the Dominion Live Stock Branch of the Department of Agriculture; while the three Western Provinces added to the supply by 50 per cent., or 367,511, over a marketing of 698,000 head in 1923. The Province of Quebec, alone, marketed approximately 401,000 head, with an increase of about 17 per cent. over 1923.

Despite an increase of over one-half million in hog supplies, the percentage of selects, during the past year, was slightly higher than in 1923; while the number of hogs coming within the preferred weight range was increased to be fairly creditable in view of the feed situation and the strong upward trend of the market.

Average prices for 1924 are expected, when available, to compare favorably with those in 1923, by reason of the fact that while the market opened weak in January last year, it made a garrison finish, with selects showing a top for December of $2.07 above December, 1923, and $1.28 above December, 1922. Offerings mostly moved into consumption very rapidly, notwithstanding heavy supplies; and the British market showed unusual purchasing capacity with the consequence that Canadian supplies were generally well cleared.

The asmosphere surrounding the market now, it is stated, is quite bullish; and if the price of feed is any criterion, hog values are expected to settle at high levels.

The total sheep supply for December amounted to 39,046, as compared with 34,640 in December last year. The receipts for the past year, however, were about 25,000 less than for 1923.

ORE SHIPMENT INCREASE.

SYDNEY, N. S., Jan. 16.—(Canadian Press).—Shipments of ore by the British Empire Steel Corporation to Germany will total in round figures 806,000 tons, or almost 70,000 tons more than was the quantity shipped in 1922.

MUSSOLSIN HAS BECOME MENACE

According to declarations made by former Under-Secretary of Foreign Office, Signor Finzi, the Tcheka was organised in Mussolini's private home on the evening of 10th January, 1924. Mussolini presided.

Others present were Police Chief de Bono, Press Bureau Chief Rossi, Manager Marinelli of the Fascisti Party, and Signor Giunta, then secretary of the Party and now Vice-President of the Chamber of Deputies.

It was against Giunta that the public prosecutor of Milan demanded authorisation to proceed legally as the organiser, with Chief Rossi, of the party which flogged Deputy Forni, a member of the Fascisti Party, whose views no longer tallied with those of Mussolini.

Many Editors Beaten.

Editors have been beaten within an inch of their lives for daring to venture an opinion, while to my knowledge one owner at least has been hounded across the country, and does not dare to send his children out into the streets without a strong guard to protect them.

When Parliament was assembled, it was told to vote for all the measures sugested by Premier Mussolini or be dissolved. Courageous opposition members protested with vigorous and inspired speeches. Almost immediately Deputy Matteotti, leader of the parliamentary opposition, disappeared. His body, frightfully mutilated, was discovered in a canyon weeks later.

Social clubs were shut down. Intellectual clubs were searched by the militia, and their furniture smashed up. Authors of thse crimes were whitewashed by the police, whose chief, de Bono, was Mussolini's right hand man.

I have it at first hand that in December, 1922, following a quarrel over a girl in Turin, during which a Socialist fired on a Fascisti, a punitive expedition was decided upon.

Twenty-four Massacred.

Consul Brandimante, commander of the expedition, selected twenty-four names from among Turin Socialists. These men were forthwith taken out of their homes and away from their families and were immediately shot. Their executions took place on the banks of the River Po, and their bodies were left there uncared for.

Two days later Premier Mussolini granted amnesty for all crimes, including the massacre.

Under these conditions of white terror, even the Magistrates appeared to hesitate in their functions. Whenever one insists on dispensing real justice he instantly is placed on the retired list or moved from one end of the country to the other.

I have it on the authority of numerous unimpeachable winesses that the last election was carried out by violence. Friends of Mussolini's party were allowed to poll from fifty to one hundred votes each, according to need, so that fully two-thirds of the Chamber is made up of men absolutely loyal to the dictator. It yas following this turbulent election that the majority of the opposition party decided to withdraw completely from Parliament.

But the Deputies who constitute Mussolini's two-thirds majority by no means represent the country. They were all picked by Mussolini, and assigned to different districts, with the result that not a few of them are totally without knowledge of the districts they represent.

Chamber a Boomerang.

The present Chamber, composed as it is, of Deputies altogether out of touch with the country, can, therefore, be compared to a plant without roots, and is almost useless for the purposes of Mussolini. In fact, he finds himself in the anamalous situation of being unable to govern, although owing to absence during debates of practically the entire opposition, he controls virtual unanimity in Parliament.

This situation is explained by the fact that his method of government by violence has alienated him from everybody except his own Fascisti. First, the Populists deserted him. They were followed by the Democrats and Liberals. Finally the Conservatives and his own moderate supporters decided to have nothing further to do with the white-spatted Robespierre.

And Mussolini, left alone, finds it impossible to govern, and wants a new Chamber which he plans to create according to his own needs.

But the King refused to sign the decree dissolving the present Parliament, thereby placing Mussolini before the alternative of either resigning or endeavouring to govern with increasingly terrorising methods which will inevitably lead him to his doom.

VESSEL ARMED TO PROTECT OYSTERS

Ducks and Coots Threaten Destruction of Bivalves—Bloodless Frightfulness.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Jan. 16. — (Associated Press). — Confronted with the devastation of their oyster beds by the predatory activities of coots and bluebill ducks, and being prevented by law from routing the invaders by the ordinary shotgun process, members of the Olympia Oyster Growers' Association have determined on a novel campaign of bloodless "frightfulness" to protect their bivalves, according to E. N. Steele, Secretary of the organization.

With the reported approval of State fish and game officials, a speedy launch has been equipped with a gun which discharges a blue carbide flame into the air at regular intervals. The boat carries also a mortar which discharges smoke and noise bombs, hurling the projectiles into the air a distance of 150 yards. This permits reaching out over the exposed beds when the ing birds.

tide is too low to approach the feed-

This craft will cruise about the beds, belching its flames and hurling its deathless projectiles in hopes that the thousands of predatory birds which feed upon the oysters may be routed without depleting the game supply, or running counter to the Federal game law provisions.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION.

The decision of the Appellate Division in an appeal against the verdict of a trial judge in a case in which a Belleville citizen sued the city of Belleville as the aftermath of injuries sustained in a fall, will be of great interest to municipal governments generally.

The trial judge had held that the plaintiff had failed to show that the icy condition of the sidewalks could have been relieved at an expense proportionate to the city's financial resources, and accordingly dismissed the case.

The Appellate Division, however, have ruled that the municipality is responsible for the relieving of such conditions, pointing out that it has the power to commandeer the services and financial resources of occupants or owners of property adjacent to snow or ice-covered walks.

Municipal Councils in view of this verdict are face to face with a situation that puts the responsibility for accidents caused by slippery pavements squarely upon them, and they will either have to have the ice and snow removed at the general expense or take advantage of the Municipal Act and compel householders and owners of property to do the work.

Perhaps the simplest way out is the adoption of a system of accident insurance.

MUMPS THEN AND NOW.

Things are done differently nowadays, says the London Advertiser. Matters that we used to treat lightly we now take seriously, and it works the other way, too. The very mention of diphtheria a decade or so ago was enough to throw fear into a family. Today it is different. The doctor comes in and with his little needle and fluid puts the disease on the defensive right away.

With mumps it seems to be different. Go back the decade or so noted above and a case of mumps in the family was not a serious sort of business. If there were doubts as to whether the child had mumps or not he was given a sour pickle. If it hurt the glands in the neck it was a case of mumps; if it did not, why he didn't have mumps and that was all about it. When the case became certain a piece of red flannel was tied around the head and that was about the extent of the treatment.

Today it's different. People have no red flannel around the house any more, so the health officer comes with a card, a hammer and a pound of nails, and spikes a sign on the front door, which says in big, black letters, "Mumps." Underneath that is noted the penalties for tampering with the slogan of the health officer, and the siege is on. The old piece of red flannel did very well in its day, but we're not living in the red flannel era any more.

THE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

The annual report of Mr. F. M. DelaFosse, Librarian of the Peterborough Public Library, is particularly interesting in view of the fact that it shows that in spite of the lure of the movies and the fascination of the radio and the cross-word puzzles, the reading of books is apparently on the increase in Peterborough.

The gain in circulation during the year has been spread over almost every department, with fiction as usual claiming the biggest place on the list.

Mr. DelaFosse stresses the increased interest in reference books, 14,913 of such works having been in demand during the year, as compared with 11,603 in 1923, a development that indicates that the library is proving of service in other ways than in the mere furnishing of fiction.

It is worthy of note, too, that the attendance at the reading-rooms on Sunday afternoons has shown a decided increase, justifying the opening of the library on Sunday.

There are many people who are grateful for the opportunity to persuse the magazines and periodicals with which the reading-rooms are stocked, and the increase in the attendance noted by the Librarian is significant of the desirability of throwing the library open to the public on Sunday.

The Public Library is a well-managed community institution, and it is most satisfactory to find that each year it is proving of greater service to the very many citizens who avail themselves of its benefits.

THE UNEMPLOYED.

The Federal Government is firm in its refusal to give any financial assistance to the unemployed, declaring that the responsibility for taking care of this problem belongs to the Provinces and municipalities.

The necessity for rigid economy in national expenditure can, of course, be cited as a sound reason for the decision of the Ottawa administration.

At the same time, however, it is difficult to see how the Federal Government can shift all the onus.

There is no doubt whatever that the immigration into Canada during the past year has made the unemployment problem more serious than it otherwise would have been.

A large proportion of the newcomers, no matter what their original intention may have been, are now located in the larger centres, where they have either secured work, crowding others out, or they are in the ranks of the unemployed.

The control of immigration is in the hands of the Federal administration, and to the efforts of Dominion agents the presence of most of the new arrivals is due.

That being the case, Ottawa is not on sound ground when it attempts to throw the whole responsibility of looking after the unemployed upon the municipalities.

Toronto, for example, had nothing to do with bringing to this country hundreds of men who are now idle in that city, and whose presence under present conditions is a source of worry and expense to Toronto's municipal government.

The Federal Government has a right to refuse, on the ground that the financial condition of Canada does not justify the expenditure, but it should rest its case on that.

REMEMBERING THE VETERANS.

With returned soldiers beginning to protest that their war services have been forgotten by the communities from which they enlisted, in spite of the promises that were so lavishly made back in the recruiting days, it is a matter for gratification to find Toronto's Board of Control turning back a recommendation from the Finance Commissioner in regard to the filling of a civic position until a search has been to see if there is not an ex-service man who can fill the position.

This action is a sharp reminder to other centres that too often no attention is paid to this angle of the question in municipal or Government appointments.

Among the unemployed there are many men who fought overseas, and certainly when positions in the gift of the municipality, Provincial or Federal Government are open there should be some consideration given to these former members of Canada's overseas forces.

There is too much of that "We want to forget the war" feeling abroad.

The public memory is short, but surely not short enough to completely forget the fact that in every community in Canada speakers at recruiting meetings, many of them men in public positions, never tired of ringing the changes on the theme of how a grateful people would reward the heroes who come back when the war was over.

Those promises should be redeemed at their face value now, and the decision of Toronto's Board of Control is a hopeful sign that it is to be hoped will not be merely an isolated case.

FAR-SIGHTED PHILANTHROPY.

Some of us in this country have sometimes found occasion to criticize things American, and the American attitude toward certain national and international questions, but on one point at any rate one must take off one's hat to our neighbors. Their men of wealth have shown a commendable desire not only to give generously of their substance, but to give intelligently, to put their money to use in the public service, to employ it in such a way that future as well as present generations may reap the benefit, to increase human health, intelligence and happiness. And whatever one may think of the American attitude toward international problems in general, there is no gainsaying the fact that in the realm of philanthropy Americans have been broadminded enough to ignore national lines and to treat the whole world as their proper field. Also it is worth noting that, while the generosity of a few multi-millionaires bulks large in the total, contributions to philanthropic and educational projects have not by any means been confined to men of wealth. A striking instance is the Times Fund, for the very poor of New York, which we referred to in a recent editorial, and which last year amounted to over $200,000, practically all in small contributions.

A recent tabulation of some of the larger American foundations gives the amazing total of $1,303,365,000, made up as follows: John D. Rockefeller foundations, $575,000,000; Andrew Carnegie foundations, $350,000,000; Cleveland foundation, $100,000,000; Henry C. Frick, endowments, $85,000,000; Milton S. Hershey, $60,000,000; Mrs. Russell Sage, $40,000,000; John W. Sterling, $20,000,000; Commonwealth Fund, endowed by Mrs. Stephen W. Harkness, $15,00,000; Juilliard Foundation, for the development of the Musical Arts, $15,000,000; George F. Baker, endowments, $11,900,000; Millbank Memorial Fund, $10,000,000; George Foster Peabody, $8,465,000; National Research Council, $5,000,000; Lotta Crantzeo, $4,000,000; Ana T. Jeanes Foundation, $1,000,000; Phelps-Stokes Fund, $1,000,000; Thomas Thompson Trust, $1,000,000; World Peace Foundation, $1,000,000. And this does not take account of such recent benefactions as those of Mr. Duke. Neither does it include some of the earlier foundations such as the Baron de Hirsch Fund of $4,000,000 for the aid of Jewish immigrants, providing them with education and training in agriculture and other subjects, and the John F. Slater Fund for the benefit of negroes, amounting to $1,000,000.

Benefiting by the unfortunate experience of some similar endowments in older lands whose usefulness had been practically destroyed by the ill-judged restrictions placed upon them by the founders, these modern American foundations are in nearly every case characterized by elasticity and freedom in their administration. In many cases it is distinctly stipulated that the income must be spent; indeed the larger foundations not only succeed in spending their income, but actually draw upon future revenue, if not the capital itself, thus keeping the trust fund at work and productive at all times. These funds are devoted mainly to the educational and social needs of the people by means of endowments both to institutions dedicated to such service and to organizations devoted more exclusively to investigation and research.

Without attempting to survey the whole field, it may be worth while to describe very briefly the two big groups, the Carnegie Trust Funds and the Rockefeller Trust Funds.

The former embraces the Carnegie Corporation, commanding resources amounting to $125,000,000 and created to "bring about the discovery, formulation and diffusion of true and useful ideas"; the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, with $10,000,000, to promote the scientific study of the causes of war and of practical methods to prevent it; the Institute of Inernational Education, founded about five years ago, which has already done very useful work; and the Carnegie Institution of Washington, with a working capital of $22,000,000.

The four Rockefeller foundations are the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, $40,000,000, to "conduct, assist and encourage investigations in the sciences and arts of hygiene, medicine and surgery, and allied subjects, the nature and causes of disease and methods of its prevention and treatment"; the General Education Board, $125,000,000, to promote education throughout the world, by means of grants to universities, etc.; the Laura Spelman Rockefeller Memorial, $75,000,000, devoted to institutions for the benefit of women and children; and the Rockefeller Foundation, $175,000,000, "for the well-being of mankind throughout the world." The International Health Board was created under this Foundation. It also supplies fellowship funds for research in different countries, as well as emergency relief in the nature of laboratory equipment and supplies in fifteen European countries.

Taking it all in all, it is a record of which any country might well feel proud.—Ottawa Journal.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Jan. 15.—Fair clean-up was made on the closing cattle market today at the Union Stock Yards, although it looks as if the trade has taken more cattle than required during the past two weeks. A holdover of 400 odds and ends from yesterday moved out slowly at the week's decline with nothing very good showing up. The exporters sold off a few culls at $7 to $7.75 a hundred and there was an odd good butcher steer at $6.50 to $7.

Other sales of steers and heifers ranged downward to $4.50 a hundred. Cows sold from $3 to $4.75 with a small bull supply selling about steady. There was little business done on store cattle, as offerings of this type were limited. Export shipments for the week amount to 1050 cattle including some bulls and rough steers for Antwerp.

Calves Hold Firm.

A couple of dozen calves were sold out early at $6 to $13 a hundred, prices holding firm at the weeks' opening.

Anything of the correct weight among the lamb arrivals was disposed of easily at $14 to $15 a hundred with heavy lambs clearing out slowly at $11.50 to $13.50. The sheep run was too small to create any activity.

Hogs remained firm at $11 off car for thick smooths with selects at $12.06. Buyers were unable to effect reductions although they have been talking lower prices for the past two weeks. Hogs, f.o.b., brought $10 cwt., while the fed and watered class netted $10.60. The premium on select hogs was $2.07 per head. Discount on heavy hogs was $1.18 per head, and on light feeder and shop hogs, $1.40. Sows, number 1, were three cents less than thick smooth hogs; number 2 were four cents less.

Charles McCurdy said farmers would be well advised to fatten their cattle before shipping. This, notwithstanding the fact that grain was dear. Mr. McCurdy declared that the difference in price between green and finished cattle would more than pay for the grain at present rates. The abattoirs, said he, complain of the poor dressing percentage and of the inferior quality of the beef from green cattle.

Live stock arrivals today amounted to 170 cattle, 19 calves, 467 hogs and 95 sheep and lambs.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—All grain averaged a good deal higher in price today, with September delivery of wheat and all deliveries of corn establishing new top records for the season. An unexpected advance in wheat quotations at Liverpool was a stimulating factor, but heavy profit-taking sales here led to downturns at the last. Wheat closed unsettled at 5-8 cent net decline to 1 1-4 cents gain, May 1.84 to 1.84 1-8 and July 1.58 1-4 to 1.58 3-8. Corn finished unchanged to 3-8 higher, oats unchanged to 1-8 cent up, and provisions unchanged to 30 cents lower.

EGG PRICES.

OTTAWA, Jan. 15.—The situation with regard to fresh continues unchanged. There is some movement reported of storage eggs from Montreal to Toronto. Some uncandled stock direct from storage is being offered by American firms, but they would cost around 50 cents delivered which price is prohibitive. These offers are reported from the Maritime Provinces, where storage stocks are reported to be very low.

Toronto—Fresh specals, jobbing, 73c to 75c; extras 70c, storage, unchanged.

Montreal—Jobbing, Fresh Extras, 65c, first 60c, storage extras 55c, first 51c, seconds 47c.

MONTREAL GRAIN.

MONTREAL, Ja. 15.—There was a further demand from English importers for Canadian Western oats and barley here today, and sales of odd loads were made, but the demand for wheat was dull, in fact, cables were received again offering to sell back to exporters quantities at much lower prices than it could be replaced at. A little business was done in barley with the local trade at a flat price, track, Fort William, but apart from this, trading was slow. Ontario No. 2 white oats being quoted at 66 cents, No. 3 grade at 64 cents, and No. 4 grade at 62 cents per bushel, ex store.

The egg market was fairly active with no change in prices to note. The butter market continued inactive and the undertone easy, but no actual change occurred in prices. The undertone to the cheese market continues strong and a moderate amount of trade was transacted. Current receipts of fodder made goods being quoted at 19 -1-2 to 20 cents per pound for No. 1 grade, and 18 1-2 cents per pound for No. 2 grade.

Owing to the exporting of large quantities of crop beans to the United States, prices were advanced 10 to 15 cents per bushel, with $2.90 being charged for one and three pound pickers.

STERLING RATES

MONTREAL, Jan. 15.—Sterling exchange rates were quoted here today as follows:

Sterling demand $4.79 3-4; sterling cables $4.80 1-8.

FABLES ON HEALTH

STOPPING BLEEDING.

So frightened was Mrs. Mann of Anytown when one of her youngsters cut a hand with a paring knife, that she decided to read all she could find about stopping the flow of blood.

Blood from arteries is a bright red, and it comes in spurts, she learned. No effort should be spared to check the flow quickly.

If the wound is on the arm or leg this can usually be done with an application of a bandage between the wound and the heart.

Elevate the limb, and place the knot in the bandage over the artery. Twist the bandage until it is very tight.

Do not attempt to remove dirt from the wound until the bleeding has stopped.

Then pick out the dirt or gravel, and wash the wound and adjoining parts.

A small amount of carbolic acid should be placed in the water, one teaspoon to the pint, or add two or three teaspoons of table salt.

When the flesh is torn the parts should be replaced as nearly as possible before the edges are brought together.

This will help to prevent an ugly scar.

RABBIT AND CAT SKINS AT PREMIUM IN ENGLAND

LONDON, Jan. 15 (United Press).—Bye—bye—O, Baby Bunting,
Your daddy must go a'hunting
To get a little rabbit skin—
But not to wrap poor baby in,
'Cause rabbits are scarce,
Living costs are fierce, and
Both rabbits and kitty-cats
Ma needs for winter hats.

And so does pa also if he happens to live in England; for, according to the latest fur trade report, the demand for cheap furs in this country so far exceeds the supply that prices of felt hats and other goods made from rabbit and cat fur are rising by leaps and bounds.

The cause of this rise, says one sentimental furrier, is the premature death of thousands of bunnies in watery graves. For the past year there has been an extraordinarily heavy rainfall throughout Great Britain. So heavy has been the precipation at times that many rabbit holes were flooded, with the result that Flopsy, Mopsy, Cottontail, Peter, and many of their cousins were drowned.

Also there has been a great decline in the number of rabbit skins imported from Australia which is one of the world's chief sources of supply for these skins. Cat fur is therefore being used not only to make the kittens' breeches, but also to decorate both milady's dresses and milord's overcoats.

LOSE WEIGHT.

Four tablespoons apple sauce, 1 poached egg, ½ head lettuce, 8 slices cucumber, 4 tablespoons diced turnips, 6 ounces baked halibut steak, 3 tablespoons brussels sprouts, ½ cup fruit compote, 6 blades celery, 2 small pickled beets, 2 slices gluten toast, 2 slices rye bread, 1 pint skimmed milk, 1 toasted bran muffin.

Total calories, 1004. Protein, 216; fat, 159; carbohydrate, 629. Iron, .0223 gram.

Baked Halibut.

One halibut steak cut about 2 inches thick, 1 tablespoon melted butter, 1 cup strained canned tomatoes, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1-8 teaspoon soda, salt and paprika, 1 small onion, 1 green pepper.

Put fish in baking dish, sprinkle with salt and paprika and brush over with melted butter. Pour over tomatoes seasoned with sugar and soda. Add onion peeled and cut in thin slices and pepper finely minced with seeds removed. Bake half an hour in a moderate oven. Serve with sauce in which fish was baked.

Total calories, 1218. Protein, 610; fat, 513; carbohydrate, 95. Iron, .0018 gram.

GAIN WEIGHT.

Four tablespoons apple sauce, 1 poached egg on toast with ½ cup cream sauce, 1 cup cream of celery soup, 2 corn fritters, ½ head lettuce, 8 slices cucumber, 4 tablespoons diced turnips, 3 tablespoons brussels sprouts, 4 tablespoons creamed potatoes, 4 ounces baked halibut steak, 1-6 lemon pie, ½ cup fruit compote, 6 blades celery, 2 cornmeal muffins, 1 tablespoon orange marmalade, 2 slices rye bread, 1 toasted bran muffin, 1 pint whole milk, 4 tablespoons butter, 4 tablespoons maple sugar, 2 tablespoons French dressing.

Total calories, 3673. Protein, 411; fat, 1582; carbohydrate, 1680. Iron, .0186 gram.

The fish for this menu and for the rest of the family has 4 tablespoons heavy cream added to the sauce after sauce, for the reducing diet, is removed.

The turnips and brussels sprouts are seasoned richly with butter for the gaining member of the family. The extra butter and cream, needed for the person who would gain, should be provided for her individually whenever possible. It's quite unnecessary to season vegetables extravagantly with butter and cream for those who are "just right." And if they do consume this surplus fat they may gain unwelcome weight.

MENU FOR FAMILY

Breakfast—Cantaloupe ready-to-serve cereal, thin cream, browned hash, tomato sauce, corn bread, butter, honey, milk, coffee.

Luncheon — Southern vegetable stew, toasted corn bread, celery, fig graham pudding, milk, tea.

Dinner — Breaded veal cutlets, lamb chops for young children, mashed potatoes, scalloped oyster plant, cabbage and apple salad, whole wheat bread, butter, floating island with peaches, milk, coffee.

Veal is not desirable for young children, so lamb chops are suggested.

Fresh sliced tomatoes might be served with the hash if convenient. However, canned tomatoes well seasoned with butter, salt, sugar and a dash of pepper may be stewed until thick and smooth in the menu planned.

Children of four years love a celery heart and may be allowed to enjoy one if frequently admonished to "chew it up fine."

Southern Vegetable Stew.

One large sweet potato, 1 medium sized onion, 1 large green pepper, 1 1-2 cups shredded string beans, 4 large tomatoes, 6 okra pods, 1 1-2 cups grated corn, 3 cups boiling water, 4 tablespoons bacon fat or butter, 1 tablespoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 2 teaspoons sugar.

Melt butter or bacon fat in soup kettle. Add onion peeled and minced. Remove seeds and fibre from pepper and mince. Add to onion and cook over a low fire for five minutes. Pare sweet potato and cut in small dice. Add to onion and pepper with beans and water and cook half an hour. Add tomatoes, okra pods cut in slices, salt, pepper and sugar and cook 20 minutes. Add corn and cook 15 minutes. If the stew becomes too dry add more water. Serve in soup plates.

Scalloped Oyster Plant.

Three cups cooked oyster plant, 6 tablespoons butter, 1-4 cup milk, 2 teaspoons salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, bread crumbs.

Rub the oyster plant through a colander. Add half the butter, milk, salt and pepper. Mix well and put in a buttered baking dish. Melt remaining butter, add coarse crumbs and stir until crumbs are well coated. Sprinkle top of prepared oyster plant with crumbs and bake 15 minutes in a hot oven. Serve very hot.

Graham Fig Pudding.

Four tablespoons butter, 1-2 cup molasses, 1-2 cup sugar, 1-2 cup sour milk, 1 egg, 1 1-2 cups graham flour, 4 tablespoons bread flour, 3-4 teaspoon soda, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 cup chopped figs.

Soften butter. Stir in sugar and molasses. Add white flour and mix well. Add egg well beaten. Add graham flour and figs. Mix thoroughly. Dissolve soda in sour milk. Stir into mixture, and salt and turn into a buttered mold. Steam three hours and serve hot with whipped cream or hard sauce. Children under school age should be served with whipped cream.

HOME-MADE BREAD

There's a magic little word that makes a fellow want to eat. It's a word that never can be overplayed. Every time that you may hear it, is suggests a wholesome treat, and the little word I think of is home-made.

You appreciate the foodstuffs that are purchased at the store and they satisfy the appetite, 'tis true. But the grub that makes you happy; makes you holler for some more, is the food that mother cooks herself for you.

Apple pie that fairly savors of the finest kind of taste is the kind that makes you hungry when you're not. It's the brand that mother bakes you and no portion goes to waste, for the pie, from start to finish, hits the spot.

Home-made bread is baked at morning and it seldom lasts till night, though a baker's loaf is not as strongly played. It is just that mother makes it in a way that seems just right? What's the reason that you like it best home-made?

Even parents have the habit and they get the home-made thrill! It's a trait that in each living soul is born. Though it isn't to their liking, yet they'll eat their fullest fill, when a youngster in the family pops some corn.

ANCIENT EGYPTIAN BOYS WROTE HOME FOR MONEY, THE SAME AS PRESENT AMERICAN YOUTHS DO

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 16 (United Press).—The old adage, "there is nothing new under the sun," is further substantiated by old Egyptian records just translated by the University of Pennsylvania, for when Ptolemies ruled Egypt, boys at college wrote home for money, the butcher sent out meat bills, divorcees got alimony and marriages were duly registered.

When the son writes home from college with an appeal to the family purse strings, remember he is following in the footsteps of sons for thousands of years.

Battered bits of papyri revealing this information were excavated—not from the tombs of kings—but from the mouths of hundreds of crocodiles in the sacred cemetery of the crocodiles god Sobk at Umm el Baragat, in Egypt.

Long sheets of cast off text books, political edicts, wedding invitations and other records of the first three centuries of our Christian era were taken from the jaws of the crocodiles. The documents were neatly wrapped and well preserved.

Times haven't changed much in the past 2,000 years, that is, with the exception of modern inventions, for when "Bobby" wrote home for cash, he got it, as well as some fatherly advice.

"Take care not to offend any person and give your individual attention to your books, devoting yourself to learning and then they will bring you profit;" the father wrote his son in beautiful script.

"Receive by Onnophris the white robes which are to be worn with the purple cloaks; the others you should wear with the myrtle-colored ones. I shall send by Anombas both the money and the monthly supplies and the other pair of cloaks. You won me over by the danties."

Housekeeping lists were kept in the kitchens of the ancients, too. The kitchen list noted the butcher bill, and showed that when company was entertained, twice as much was ordered.

Ancient fragments of Homer's Iliad and Odyssey, found in the crocodile cemetery, are now on view at the University Museum.

Not only did ancient Egyptian youths write letters like moderns but they studied geometry from textbooks which, though written in Greek, have changed little since the time of Euclid.

And just as a young man visits the marriage license bureau today when matrimony is planned, so did the Egyptians. The couple were required to appear in person before the license clerk and announce their name, age and date of the proposed marriage.

When divorces were granted, the man seemed to get the worst of it, for the wife collected alimony, the husband was required by law to return the dowry and to provide for maintenance of any child.

Other valuable documents retrieved from the cemetery were fragments of wills, expense account of a farmer, wedding invitations, an order of arrest for freeing a slave, land deeds and bits of writing from Socrates and Demosthenes.

MODERN MARRIED FLAPPER

Cynthia Grey Limns the Young American Matron — Has She a Canadian Counterpart?

By Cynthia Grey.

We have produced a brand-new type of woman.

She belong to the Ziegfeld school of beauty—lustrous, languid and luxurious.

She toils not. Neither does she spin, except in automobiles!

Usually she is married, for as the Persians point out—it's the beautiful bird that gets caged."

Not that marriage means anything like a cage to your modern beauty. She may look like a harem queen, but she insists upon freedom in great slices.

Like a monument to her, the great apartment-hotel has reared itself in every city in America, so that she shall not break her pointed fingernails doing housework.

The efficiency-flat with its in-a-door bed, its dollhouse kitchen, and its maid service, is a tribute to her helplessness.

For her the automobile has blossomed forth with vanity cases and wicker baskets for lap dogs.

It is she who buys the chiffon stockings that look like bare flesh, the heady French perfume, the eyelash paint, and the too-revealing dress of the moment.

The school girl and the business girl still cling to their sweaters and flannel dresses and the sensible married woman dresses almost as sensible as she always has . . . but not the married flapper.

For that is what these new wives are.

Some of them are mothers as well as wives.

That is, they have given birth to their babies, but not much care afterward.

I don't mind having children so long as I don't have to stay home and take care of them," the woman golf champion of a country club said to me last fall. And I could tell from her manner that she thought she'd said something!

This girl, like so many of the flapper-wives, is what she calls a "mean" bridge player. She and her friends play cards in the hard-eyed, sharp-tongued way of professionals. They play for the prize, usually a bottle of scent or a bottle of firewater that Mr. Volstead attempted to ban.

And, speaking of drinking among women, do you know who had the wildest and gayest of all the wild, gay New Year parties?

Not the Hollywoodenheads, or the cake-eaters and the chorus girls but the frivolous young married couples all over the country! For the wives put time and thought on these revels.

Yes, indeed, the married flappers had a marvellous time in their own way. And they dressed for the part, much as a chorus girl is decorated with silk and metal and paint to fit in with a stage setting.

Not that I condemn the flapper wife.

I merely point out that she's a queer descendant who set sail in the Mayflower, who crossed the Rockies in their covered wagons, and who mothered such men as Washington and Lincoln.

CARE WITH EXPLOSIVES.

Around the farm there are many cases when explosives can be used to advantage, and at times this is the only method that will secure the required results, says the Natural Resources Intelligence Service of the Department of the Interior. he greatest care, however, must be employed in handling explosives, as they are all more or less dangerous and cannot be treated lightly.

The employment of explosives in land clearing is probably the most widely known application in Canada. The great saving of time and labor by using explosives in stumping and blasting stones is an incentive to their use. here is no reason why they should not be of assistance to the farmer, but unfortunately farmers, and, in fact, almost everyone except those who make a business of it have rarely much experience in shotfiring, it will be realized that they may expose themselves teo very real danger by failing to take every precaution.

Most accidents with explosives can be traced to explosives used by consumers in small quantities. All users should remember that explosives are made to explode under certain conditions, therefore, care should be taken that these conditions are allowed to exist only when the explosive is in position to do the work for which it is intended and that all persons are at a safe distance.

Explosion may be brought about by shock, friction or heat. Friction or shock may be caused by rough or careless handling, such as dropping packages containing explosives or by dragging them about on a gritty floor, by forcing them into too small a hole, by opening cases with metal, or by an accidental blow. Any one of these causes are explosion and should be avoided.

When handling explosives or blasting caps do not smoke or carry matches that will strike anywhere. Safety matches alone should be used for lighting fuses when necessary. Explosives and blasting caps must never be stored together.

There is little danger if explosives are handled carefully, but great danger if they are roughly handled. Explosives are a good servant but a bad master.

The Explosives Division of the Department of Mines at Ottawa, has issued a small pamphlet on the Handling of Explosives, and those who have any blasting to do, it would be well to send for a copy, which will be sent free on request.

JAPANESE BANKS COMBINE.

TOKYO (United Press).—Six Japanese banks with a capitalization of 3,050,000 yen have been absorbed in the mergers effected within the last six weeks in Japan. Those newly formed through mergers total three with an aggregate capitalization of 14,100,000 yen, according to a report issued by the Department of Finance here.

CANADIAN SALMON.

Transferring Two Species.

The Canadian Federal Department of Marine and Fisheries has successfully conducted experiments of great importance to the fishing industry.

The Atlantic salmon, famous as a game fish, has been transferred to the Cowichan River, Vancouver Island, while the Pacific salmon of the sock-eye family, so valuable to canners, has been introduced into the fresh water of Lake Ontario.

In the course of these experiments, which have been going on for six years, an average of 200,000 sock-eye have been released every year into Lake Ontario, and half a million young salmon of Atlantic stock into the Cowichan River.

WOMEN OUTNUMBER MEN IN OLD LAND

Female Sex Have a Majority of 1,917,926 Over the Males.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—The statistical review of the registrar-general shows that during 1923 there were 750,131 births, 444,365 deaths and 292,408 marriages.

The statistics show that 20,797 widows and 24,903 widowers remarried during the year, and the weddings in which both contracting parties took their second matrimonial step numbered 9,246

The youngest couple married gave the age of the bridegroom as 16 and of the bride 15. Among the brides were 26 girls of the age of 15, one of whom was married to a man of 70. Among the bridegrooms there was one bachelor of 93.

The first 20 years of married life are the hardest, according to the statistics, for the 2,834 litigants who started suits for the dissolution of their marriages included only 321 cases in which the wedded term was more than 20 years.

At the end of 1923 the estimated population was 47,747,100. The female sex with 24,832,513 had a majority of 1,917,926.

TO BURN MANSION.

Historic Mansion to be Destroyed by Fire by Film Company.

Public opinion is shocked at the announcement that a film company has purchased the fine old Sibthrop mansion—said to be one of the most magnificent specimens of a Georgian mansion 120 years old—for the sole purpose of burning it to the ground as part of a film.

The Sibthrop mansion, better known as Sudbrooke Holme, is situated near Lincoln. It contains twenty-eight bedrooms, magnificent reception rooms with Adam mantelpieces and oak floors, and a stone staircase leading up to a gallery from which the various rooms lead off. The doors are all of mahogany.

But the estate has long passed out of the hands of the family and is being broken up. The film company was the top bidder for the house.

Carl J. Arnell Mastered Fifty-Three Languages

TACOMA, Wash., Jan. 15 (Associated Press).—Professor Carl J. Arnell, credited with being master of 53 languages, from the Eskimo to that of the African Hottentots and including all the leading languages of the world, died here recently.

He was secretary to American ambassadors to Japan for 12 years and was the second white man to complete the course in Oriental languages in the Imperial University of Tokio. It was said that he knew the Japanese and Chinese languages as few natives did. On leaving the American embassy at Tokio, Mr. Arnell became a professor in two universities in the Japanese capitol. When his health broke down four years ago, the Japanese government returned him to the United States on a battleship.

He once travelled through the Orient investigating the opium problem, on which he compiled a voluminous report for the United States Senate.

Mother—"No, Willie, I've told you for the third time that I won't give you 10 cents for sweets!" Willie (in aggrieved tones)—"I don't see where pa gets the idea that you are always changing your mind."

GOOD SLEIGHING IN HASTINGS DISTRICT

Farmers Busy Hauling Logs and Wood to Market—I.O.D.E. Meeting.

HASTINGS, Jan. 16.—The most of the good sleighing and roads is being made by local and distant wood haulers. Large quantities are being hauled for stove purposes and logs of timber for saw mills.

Ice of a good quality, thick and clear, without a snow top, is being cut, hauled and packed for local merchants and private homes.

The snow storm of this week blocked some of the surrounding country roads so that for a time travelling was impossible. Now, however, they are again made passable and road conditions reported excellent.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Indian River, Jan. 8, 1925

Dear Sir:

Will you please give me a little space in your valuable paper? I want to say something in regard to what the people call waste of the people's money on the public roads In regard to what Mr. Samuel Armstrong has to say, I have known Sam for 40 years and in that time not one bad word did I ever hear said of him. He is a just and fair man and he gives a clear explanation of the trouble he speaks of. If Mr. Elliott would give just as fair and clear a statement then the people would be better satisfied. Such a statement is no satisfaction only to a few. Mr. Armstrong will get eight out of every to back him up, that one-third of the peoples' money that is spent on the roads is wasted. I will give you an example of what I call waste money. On my tramps out of every ten to back him up, that using a cultivator, he went one round over one mile long, and put all the stones into the centre of the road, then went one round and put them into the ditch. I stopped him and asked him why he did not put them into the ditch the first round he said the boss told him to do so. I would have taken the stones off the same road in less time with the garden rake. Do you call that waste? There is a tin culvert put into the road at Mich. Welsh's swamp. They tell me it cost $120.00. It can be put in with cement and gravel for half of that money and will last for ever Is that waste That is taking the money out of the poor pocket and putting it into the big corporation. Another waste is the 24 ft. road. A 16 ft. road is a better road, and will not hold water in the wet weather as much as a 24 ft. road, and only cost half as much as a 24 ft. road. This is a sample of how the money is wasted. Now the taxes are four times as much now as they were in the days of Jim Wood, Billie Anderson and Jack Lang, and old men tell me that the roads were as good in their day as today. The affairs of the township were better taken care of. Such tax bills as we have to pay is enough to cause a rebellion. I am told by some of the best farmers if the taxes do not come down to pre-war time, half of the ratepayers will come down. They can not stand it. It is the poor class of people that suffers the most, they have nothing left to feed and clothe the family after the taxes are paid. Do you call me a liar for such statements, do it if you can. Now the officers of Otonabee or whoever is the cause of such tax bills will you not, for the sake of poorer class of people that have to feed and clothe their family with so little of a scanty sum of money try to get the tax down to a smaller bill, till better times come. We are told "not to oppress the poor for the poor I have with me and whoever does it to one of those little one do it unto me." Let those men who are spending this money on the road see that it is spent in a just and fair manner and we will be glad to see Mr. Elliott give a fairer statement of his side of the trouble between himself and Mr. Sam Armstrong. It will please all concerned.

Hoping a New Year will bring a new era in the affairs of the country. I was asked several times last summer to go over the Peterborough road and see what I thought of it, so to satisfy my curiosity, as I am like Peter Rabbit, I have quite a lot. I started from home on foot to see what all the noise was about. As the management of this paper will not allow me space to go too far I will not give my opinion on it, so wishing all the officers of the town hall a happy New Year, I am,

P. G. WALKER.

FEW IDLE JAPANESE SHIPS.

TOKIO, Jan. 16. — (United Press).—Idle ship tonnage in Japan is on the decrease, a report of the Kobe Shipping Exchange shows. The report states that there are only six vessels of more than 1,000 tons displacement idle now. There were 40 similar vessels idle a few months ago.

EMPRESS OFFERS PRAYER.

TOKIO, Jan. 16. — (United Press).—When the Empress, standing at her throne in Kyoto, offered a silent prayer in the chapel of a university there recently, she created a precedent. No Empress of Japan had ever prayed in a Christian chapel prior to this occasion.

Master—"Now, John, tell me how you would go to Newfoundland?" Pupil—"I should first go to Liverpool." "Yes, and then?" "Then I should get on board the ship; and then—then I should ask the captain, who, of course, knows the way better than I do."

CONSERVATIVES OF MARMORA ELECTED OFFICERS FOR 1925

G. Wellman President and Mrs. M. S. Doupe First Vice-President — Society Meetings.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE.

MARMORA, Jan. 16.—A meeting of the Conservative Association of Marmora took place in the Council Chamber on Wednesday evening. The auditors' report was read and favorably received. Officers were elected as follows.

Chairman—Mr. G. Wellman.
1st Vice-Chairman—Mrs. M. S. Doupe.
2nd Vice-Chairman—Mr. W. D. Donnelly.
3rd Vice-Chairman—Mr. P. Gray.
Secretary—Mr. W. J. Cottrell.
Treasurer—Mr. H. A. Connors.

Delegates to convention were appointed, after which retiring officers were thanked for past services.

Young People's League.

Wednesday evening was Missionary Night with the Young People's League. The programme was well balanced, consisting of a devotional address by Rev. I. R. Clare, on "The Spirit of a Christian." In a very lucid way it was brought out that whereas creed will, in course of time, change and differ, the spirit of a true Christian must ever be the same as that described in the Beatitudes.

Miss Loreen Connor gave a reading, following which Miss Florence Clare and Miss Loreen Bell gave a duet. Miss Hilda Thomson gave a reading, and the Misses Binter and Colster gave some pleasing musical selections.

Ladies' Aid Meeting.

The Ladies' Aid of the United Church of Marmora met at the parsonage on Wednesday afternoon.

The financial results of the checken pie supper were given, and some time spent in discussing ways of making money.

It was decided to add another electric light in the choir gallery of the church. After some further business discussions, a social hour was spent, when lunch was served by the hostess, Mrs. Clare.

Women's Institute.

A very enjoyable evening was spent at the monthly meeting of the Women's Institute at Mrs. F. Marett's on Wednesday evening, when the members of the Institute entertained their husbands.

The evening started with a drawing contest. The gentlemen were given slips of paper with a name of an animal or bird. The ladies had a name of a flower or tree, and each had to draw what was on the paper. The contest was won by Mr. Prentice with the drawing of an owl, and Mrs. C. Bleecker, who drew a hyacinth.

Then the gentlemen were subject to a questionnaire, in which they were to tell the date of their wedding anniversary, their wife's birthday, the color of her eyes, description of the dress she wore, and price of butter and eggs. Then they had to give a recipe of a cake and sew a button on their coat in two minutes.

Rev. D. R. Clare was declared the blue-ribbon husband.

Next followed a peanut race. The gentlemen carried peanuts on a knife from one end of the room to the other, and their partners carried them back. The result was a tie between Mr. Marett and Mrs. Pinar and Donald Marett and Mrs. Rose. This was played off and won by Mrs. Rose and Donald Marett.

The fun of the evening was afforded by a photograph gallery. Previously the members of the Institute had had their silhouettes drawn. These were blackened and hung around the drawing-room. Also ancient photographs of the gentlemen. The contest was to identify both their drawings and photographs. This was won by Mrs. F. Wells and Mr. Prentice.

A very dainty lunch was served by the programme committee of the Institute.

Those present were: Mrs. Rose, Mrs. R. O. Jones, Mrs. Pinar, Mrs. B. Osborne, Mrs. Doupe, Mrs. Donnelly, Mrs. F. Bowen, Mr. and Mrs. C. Gladney, Mr. and Mrs. C. Bleecker, Mr. and Mrs. E. Bell, Rev. and Mrs. D. R. Clare, Mr. and Mrs. F. Wells, Dr. and Mrs. Thomson, Mr. and Mrs. C. Nichol, Mr. and Mrs. F. Marett, Mr. and Mrs. Prentice and Mrs. W. Sanderson.

Personals.

Miss Myrtle Prentice, of Foxboro, is visiting her brother, Mr. Earl Prentice.

Mr. Fraser Bowen left on Monday on a business trip.

MILLBROOK WOMEN MISSION WORKERS TO FILL TREASURY

Meeting of Methodist Church Women Held at Home of Mrs. Offa Williamson in Cavan.

FUNDS ARE LOW.

MILLBROOK, January 15. — The January meeting of the Women's Missionary Auxiliary of the Methodist Church was held on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Offa Williamson, 7th Line, Cavan, Messrs. A. Johnston, H. Lang, and O. Williamson kindly giving the use of their sleighs and teams to convey the members to and from their destination.

About thirty were in attendance, and considering the state of the roads and the severe weather, this number, though less than usual, was most encouraging.

Groupe E, of which Mrs. Williamson is convenor, was responsible for the programme, and a most interesting and instructive study of the annual report, the Blue Book of the W.M.S., was taken up. The study was in the form of questions and answers, and covered the work of Auxiliaries, Circles, and Bands in the Orient, and in Canada from British Columbia to Sydney, Nova Scotia.

Mrs. (Rev.) F. Howard gave a brief outline of the origin of Woman's Missionary work before Mrs. Hilliard Lang, who was in the chair, read the questions and called upon those responsible for the answers to give the replies from information gained from the report.

Instead of the usual Scripture lesson, Mrs. Lang read a leaflet, "The Almightiness of the Prayer of Faith,' based upon the verse, "All things, whatsoever ye shall ask in prayer, believing, ye shall receive."

Mrs. Williamson read a letter received from the Deaconess' Home, Toronto, thanking the Mission Band of which she is superintendent, and those who assisted her, for the large box sent at Christmas time for distribution among needy families.

The February meeting is in charge of Group F, Miss Mary Widdis being the convenor.

The treasurer, Miss M. E. Hetherington, reported a smaller amount of money on hand than usual for this date in the church year, which closes in April, and the president urged that all group leaders make an immediate effort to have membership fees and all other available funds, brought in at the earliest possible date. Including a bequest of $100 from the late Miss Lillie Pendrie, the Auxiliary sent to the branch treasurer over $400 last year, and if the amount is to be equalled in 1925 a special effort will have to be made at once to have the money coming into the treasurer's hands.

Mrs. Williamson, assisted by Group E, served delicious refreshments at the conclusion of the business session, and during the social hour Mrs. H. A. Elson, who spent some months in the West last summer, gave some interesting information about the Auiliaries visited at Regina and other points.

Those present included:

Mrs. G. Locke, Mrs. W. West, Mrs. T. Luxon, Mrs. H. Lang, Mrs. J. Turner, Mrs. A. J. Brown, Mrs. C. W. Richards, Mrs. F. W. Howard, Mrs. G. Freelove, Mrs. Lambert, Mrs. H. A. and Mrs. W. Elson, Mrs. Harry Dawson, Mrs. J. Hatherly, Mrs. Carveth, Mrs. G. E. Burnham, Mrs. F. P. Johnston, Mrs. J. McKnight, Mrs. F. W. Smith, Mrs. J. Spence, Mrs. Wm. Larmer, Miss M. E. Hetherington Miss L. Crocker, Miss Estelle Hetherington, and Mrs. W. Tremaine.

"A yard of pork, please," said the witty man to the butcher. The butcher turned to his boy. "Give this gentleman three pigs' feet," he remarked.

A Tea Meeting.

The old-fashioned tea meting held in the Methodist Church on Thursday night was quite a success. Between three and four hundred people were present. The tables were laden with everything one could wish for, and all were served promptly by the waiters. Everything was planned carefully so that there would be very little delay. Great credit is due to the president and treasurer, who were the head convenors, and also to the convenors of the different wards. During the serving of the last two tables the Northumberland Regiment Band furnished splendid music, so that the time did not seem long to those who remained for the programme. The programme was given in the auditorium of the church. The choir of thirty-five voices, under the leadership of R. T. Cowell, sang two anthems, one at the first and the other at the end of the programme. Rev. W. Elliott, in his usual pleasing style, announced the numbers after making a few remarks at the beginning of the programme. Rev. C. F. McIntosh, of St. Andrew's Church, gave a short address on "Other Worldliness," which was followed by a cornet solo, consisting of three old favorites: "Red, White and Blue," "I Think When I Read," and "Maryland," by Mr. Walter Lowe, who brought out very sweet tones. Rev. C. D. Daniel, of the Methodist Seymour Circuit, was the next to give an address—"Losing the Guiding Thread of Life." Mrs. J. H. Bell, B.A., gave a reading, "I and my father-in-law," with an encore "When I was at the party." These numbers brought forth a splendid applause.

Rev. E. D. Ford, the new Baptist minister, gave an address. This is the first opportunity many of the citizens have had to hear Mr. Ford, and he received a hearty welcome from the audience. He spoke for a short time on "Christianity trying to run on its reputation."

Mr. Collison then favored the audience with a vocal solo, "Give us this day our daily bread," which was given in his usual fine style and was enjoyed by all present.

Before singing the National Anthem, Mr. Elliott took the opportunity of thanking the ladies for the splendid tea they had provided, and also those who assisted in the programme.

EXECUTIVE OF UNION CHURCH MET YESTERDAY

Result of Voting Throughout the Dominion Was 679 For and 155 Against.

LARGELY ATTENDED.

Experience of the Union Has Vitalized the Life of the Church.

TORONTO, Jan. 16 (Special).—The executive of the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada met in conference here to consider the situation arising out of the voting throughout the Dominion. Representatives were present from the Maritime Provinces, Montreal and all parts of Ontario. The following report and statement was issued by the committee last evening.

"In reviewing the progress of the voting in congregations, the committee unanimously felt that the whole situation was fraught with great encouragment. There have been local and isolated disappointments, but there have been unexpected successes and on the whole there is conclusive evidence that the aims of United Church will be abundantly realized. A summary of the voting up to the present reveals the national outlook of the United Church.

Present Standing.

The returns of voting for and against Union throughout the Dominion are 679 for Union, 155 against.

"In congregations where the cleavage has been so deep that permanent healing is beyond the bounds of hope, action is already being taken. While local conditions must govern the action of the minorities with regard to the future, from every quarter the committee received reports of Unionists minorities who were resolved, at whatever sacrifice, to abide by their convictions and enter into the life of the United Church. There will be re-enacted in Canada scenes akin to the great days of the disruption in Scotland. Ministers and people alike in whose veins run the blood of Covenants will leave the old churches they helped to build and for conscience sake go out and begin anew. A church cradled in sacrifice is a living church. The executive was deeply moved by new testimonies to the patient chivalry and unselfishness of the Methodist Church. It believes that the spirit of Methodism was never more signally manifested than in these difficult days, when our ministers and people have been made to realize the active sympathy and unfailing generosity of their sister church. A typical example of this came from a rural district, where the minister of the Methodist Church offered to share his home and his salary with a Presbyterian minister who had been compelled to leave his charge through the adverse vote of his congregation. Such examples offer promise of the rish fellowship of the United Church.

"From all reports, it was abundantly clear that the whole experience offer promise of the rich fellowship the life of the church. Stories were told to the committee of loyalty and sacrifice which testified to the fact that the very difficulty of this period has bound members in a closer fellowship and deepened their purpose to serve the United Church. From the Atlantic to the Pacific people have been seized with the vision of a great church, united in a fellowship of the Union movement has vitalised tunity of a new enterprise for the Kingdom of God."

LANDOR LIVED TO TELL OF TORTURES IN TIBET

First White Man to Explore the Forbidden Land Escaped to Write a Book That Thrilled the World—Was a Familiar Figure in New York.

In the minds of thousands of young Americans Tibet is a country in the interior of Asia where a polished Prince, strongly resembling George Arliss, rules a crowd of fanatical natives who worship "The Green Goddess." The author of this highly successful melodrama, William Archer, the English dramatic critic, died the other day in London, and by a coincidence the newspapers that printed his obituary contained also an account of the life and death of A. Henry Savage Landor. The name of Landor will bring to many older Americans memories of their first acquaintance with Tibet, when, some twenty-five years ago, they read a book almost as exciting as Mr. Archer's play.

It was called "In the Forbidden Land," and might well have borne the sub-title "Hairbreadth Harry in the Himalayas," for the author carried his readers along at dime-novel speed and rarely allowed the veil of modesty to obscure the shining deeds of the hero. Yet criticisms of its manner and its possible exaggerations could not overcome the vivid quality of the narrative and the fact that the writer had undoubtedly explored regions never previously entered by a white man.

Mr. Landor arrived in India early in 1897 and reached Garbyang in May, with Lhassa as his objective. His start was made with thirty men. Red tape prevented his taking an escort of the traditionally brave and faithful Gurks has. He tried to keep secret his plans for crossing into Tibet, but the newleaked out, and at once he found the way barred. The Lamas destroyed bridges over the mountain chasms, forcing him to take hazardous and roundabout ways. Overcoming all sorts of topographical obstructions, the party finally entered the Brahmaputra Valley and explored it for 150 miles. The expedition had been reduced by desertions and by the necessity of leaving members behind until there were only three persons left. Landor himself and two native Indians, Mansing and Chanden Sing, the latter an unusually devoted and courageous helper.

Attacked by Natives.

Food became scarce. A halt was made near a Tibetan settlement, and the explorers received a visit from Lama "who appeared both civil and intelligent, and who presented us with some butter and cheese." But the man was not friendly for long. Landor and Chanden Sing had selected some ponies, with the idea of buying them, when suddenly a rush was made by the Tibetans. Landor thus describes the scene:

"As I stood with my hands behind my back I well recollect the expression of delight on Chanden Sing's face when I approved of his choice, and, as is generally the case on such occasions, the crowd behind in a chorus expressed their gratuitous opinion on the superiority of the steed selected. I had just stooped to look at the pony's forelegs when I was suddenly seized from behind by several persons, who grabbed me by the neck, wrist and legs and threw me down on my face.

"I struggled and fought until I shook off some of my assailants and regained my feet, but others rushed up, and I was surrounded by some thirty men, who attacked me from every side and, clinging to me with all their might succeeded in grabbing my arms, legs and head. Weak as I was, they knocked me down three more times, and three more times I regained my feet. I fought to the bitter end with my fists, feet, head and teeth each time that I got one hand or leg free from their clutches, hitting right and left at any part where I could disable my opponents. Their timidity, even when in such overwhelming numbers, was indeed beyond description; and it was entirely due to it and not to my strength (for I had hardly any) that I was able to hold my own against them for some twenty minutes.

"My clothes were torn to bits in the fight. Long ropes were thrown at me from every side, and I became so entangled in them that my movements were impeded. One rope which they flung and successfully twisted round my neck completed their victory. They pulled hard at it from the two ends, and while I panted and gasped with the exertion of fighting they tugged and tugged to strangle me till I felt as if my eyes would shoot out of their sockets. I was suffocating. My sight became dim, and I was in their power. Dragged down to the ground, they stamped and kicked and trampled upon me with their heavy nailed boots until I was stunned. Then they tied my wrists tightly behind my back; they bound my elbows, my chest, my neck and my ankles. I was a prisoner.

The Strangers Punished.

"The explorer's companions were treated as roughly as he was. "Brave Chanden Sing had been struggling with all his might against fifteen or twenty foes and had disabled several of them. He had been pounced upon at the same moment as I was and had fought gallantly until, like myself, he had been entangled, thrown down and secured by ropes. During my struggle I heard him call out repeatedly: 'Banduk, banduk, Mansing, jaidi, banduk!' ('Fifle, rifle, Mansing, quick, my rifle!') But alas! poor Mansing, the leper, the weak and jaded coolie, had been sprung upon by four powerful Tibetans, who held him pinned to the ground. Mansing was a philosopher. He saved himself the trouble of even offering any resistance, but he, too, was ill-treated, beaten and tightly bound. At the beginning of the fight a shrill whistle had brought up 400 armed soldiers who had lain in ambush round us, concealed behind the innumerable sandhills and in the depressions in the ground. They took up a position round us and covered us with their matchlocks.

"All was now over and, bound like a dangerous criminal, I looked round to see what had become of my men. When I realized that it took 500 men, all counted, to arrest a starved Englishman and his two half-dying servants, and that even then they dared not do it openly, but had to resort to abject treachery, and when I found that these soldiers were picked troops from Lhassa and Shigatze, dispatched on purpose to halt our progress and capture us, I could not restrain a smile of contempt for those into whose hands we had at last fallen."

The three men were taken before the Grand Lama, or Governor of the Province. Chanden Sing was cruelly whipped and Landor was turned over to a functionary known as the "Rupun." Apparently the Rupun was inclined to be lenient, but the crowd about him were so strongly otherwise that he told the Englishman his head would be cut off. At this point there was an interruption. "Just then I heard the voice of my servant, Chanden Sing, calling to me in a weak, agonized tone: 'Hazur, Hazur, hum murginega!' ('Sir, sir, I am dying!') and turning my head in the direction from which these painful sounds came I perceived my faithful bearer with his hands bound behind his back, dragging himself on his stomach toward the door of one of the other rooms of the mud house.

"His poor face was hardly recognizable, it bore the traces of such awful suffering. I could stand no more. Pushing my guards aside with my shoulders, I endeavoured to get to the poor wretch, and had nearly reached him when the soldiers who stood by sprang upon me, grappling me, and lifting me bodily off my feet. They threw me on the back of a pony."

Tibetan Tortures.

Then began the famous ride on the spiked saddle.

"The saddle of the pony I had been thrown upon is worthy of description. It was, in reality, the wooden frame of a very high-backed saddle, from the back of which some five or six sharp iron spikes stuck out horizontally. As I sat in this implement of torture the spikes caught me in the small of my back. My guard having been augmented by twenty or thirty mounted men with muskets and swords, we set off at a furious pace. A horseman riding in front of me led my pony by means of a cord, as my hands were manacled behind my back, and thus for miles."

Later came the incident of the red-hot iron.

"An iron bar with a handle of wood bound in red cloth was being made red-hot in a brazier. The Pombo, who had again placed something in his mouth to produce artificial foaming at the lips, and so to show his temper, worked himself up into a frenzy. A Lama handed him the implement of torture (the taram), now red-hot, and the Pombo seized it by the handle. 'Ngaghi kue neh taxon!' ('We will burn out your eyes!') cried a chorus of Lamas.

"The Pombo strode up to me, brandishing the ghastly implement. I stared at him, but he kept his eyes away from me. He seemed reluctant, but the Lamas around him urged him on, lifting the man's arms toward me. 'You have come into this country to see' (alluding to what I had stated the previous day, namely, that I was a traveller and pilgrim, and had only come to see the country). 'This, then, is the punishment for you!' With these dreadful words the Pombo raised his arm and placed the red-hot iron parallel to, and about an inch or two from my eyeballs, and all but touching my nose.

"Instinctively I kept my eyes tightly closed, but the heat was so intense that it seemed as if my eyes, the left one especially, were being desiccated and my nose scorched. Though the time seemed interminable, I do not think that the heated bar was before my eyes actually longer than thirty seconds or so. Yet it was quite long enough, for, when I lifted my aching eyelids I saw everything as in a red mist. My left eye was frightfully painful, and every few seconds it seemed as if something in front of it obscured its vision. With the right eye I could still see fairly well, except that everything, as I have said, looked red instead of its usual color. The hot iron had been thrown down and was frizzling on the wet ground a few paces from me."

Near to Death.

After these unpleasant preliminaries, the stage was set for what was apparently to be an execution, for a Tibetan, alarmingly like an official headsman, advanced solemnly with drawn sword.

"The executioner, now close to me, held the sword with his nervous hands, lifting it high above his shoulder. He then brought it down to my neck, which he touched with the blade, to measure the distance, as it were, for a clean stroke. Then, drawing back a step, he quickly raised the sword again and struck a blow at me with all his might. The sword passed disagreeably close to my neck, but did not touch me.

"I would not flinch, nor speak, and my demeanor seemed to impress him, almost to the point of frightening him. He became reluctant to continue his diabolical performance, but the impatience and turbulence of the crowd were at their highest, and the Lamas nearer to him gesticulated like madmen and urged him on again. As I write this, their wild shouts, their bloodthirsty countenances are vividly brought before me. Apparently against his will, the executioner went through the same kind of performance on the other side of my head. This time the blade passed so near that the point cannot have been more than half an inch or so from my neck."

Disagreements among the captors as to what should be the fate of the captives were finally ended by sending the captives back to the frontier. Th journey thither was full of hardship and it is remarkable that under th distressing conditions Landor was a to keep an intelligible record of He gives an idea of the difficulties this passage:

"Helped by my two servants, who sat by me to keep watch and to screen me, I managed, at considerable risk to keep a rough record of the journey back on a small piece of paper that had remained in my pocket when I had been searched by the Tibetans. As I did on several previous occasions, I used to draw my right hand out of the handcuff and, with a small piece of lead I had picked up as a pen, and my blood as ink, I drew brief bar notes and a map of the whole ite back."

Twelve years later, interviewed in is city, Landor referred to this handcuff trick of his.

"I have really quite a remarkable adurance," he said, "and I am very supple. See, I have a rather broad hand, but look"—he folded up the hand like a leaf, till its circumference appeared actually less than that of his wrist. At the same interview he showed a philosophic attitude toward his persecutors in The Forbidden Land. "I feel no resentment against the Dalai Lama, even though he ordered me to be tortured. I was an intruder, and was many times warned to keep out of the country. When I came across the Tibetan troops at the border they offered me presents if I would take my expedition back into India. I don't blame the Tibetans for wanting to stop me. Yes, they tortured me." He displayed a forefinger nail which had been slit the entire length, leaving a scar, and said that one of his large toenails had undergone similar treatment. Yet he could comment: "From their point of view I don't blame them. It was their religion. I am grateful to them for not killing me, for I enjoy life very much."

A World Rover.

Whatever else his critics may say of Landor, they will admit the truth of his last statement. He certainly got much fun out of life, though often choosing ways of spending his time that would strike most persons as the reverse of enjoyable. With an entree to an easy life and the best of civilized society, he repeatedly fled silken cushions and brilliant company for a lonely and perilous journey through the wilderness. The facility with which he shifted from one set of living conditions to another was amazing, and he thrived on his varied and often excessively arduous existence.

He attributed his excellent health to his simple regimen, especially his fondness of fresh air. In the late winter of 1910 he was seen on Broadway in a thin muslin suit without an overcoat when every one else was bundled up. He was then about 45, straight and vigorous, hard as nails. Asked about his fresh air theories and other views of healthy living, he picked up his derby hat from the table. It showed a cluster of holes on each side and two on the top, each of the latter the size of a hazel nut.

"I wanted more ventilation in this hat," he said, "but the hatter refused. He said there wouldn't be any hat left. There are now twenty-four holes altogether. You should keep your body as near one temperature as possible. That's why I wear such thin clothes. I can't go about quite naked. The police might interfere. No, I never drink or smoke. For twenty-five years I have not smoked even a cigarette. I never take medicine of anys kind, and I am careful never to let anything worry me. The basis of all illness is fright. If you can get rid of fright you can easily become normal."

Landor's recipe for avoiding disease worked well in his own case, for although he was on several occasions in the midst of cholera, yellow fever and malaria he never caught the infection.

A deep-seated restlessness and a passion for exploration turned this grandson of Henry Savage Landor aside from a brilliantly begun career as an artist. Educated as a youth in Paris studios, he won immediate successes with his paintings of landscapes and portraits. Particularly did his pictures of beautiful and fashionable women evoke applause. On the Continent, in England, and in this country his brush was in constant demand. And worth-while sums were paid by his distinguished subjects, so that his income as an artist supported him comfortably and he was able to set out for Japan with the profits.

Up and down the world he roamed, far into Asia, across Africa and South America, writing books about it all. As is often the way with explorers, his claims of what he had seen brought contradictions from other venturers in faraway lands. Theodore Roosevelt challenged several of his reports on South America, aspersions that did not seem to worry Landor in the least. To Sven Hedin's claim that he, not Landor, had discovered the Trans-Himalayas and the source of the Brahmaputra, the Englishman replied: "Mr. Hedin simply covered my route in his recent explorations, and his maps are in accordance with what I drew and published twelve years ago."

It is impossible for the general reader, the stay-at-home, to hold a very valuable opinion on such controversies. What all must grant to Landor, however, is that he made his way into many dangerous parts of the world and always told us a good story when he came back again.

FIGHTING FIRE IN ZERO WEATHER

The firemen of St. Hyacinthe, Que., Canada, had a terrible task to stop the fire pictured above. Five of them were injured, and many people were driven from their homes. Temperature was below zero, and the water froze almost as soon as it left the nozzles of the hose.

NEW MYSTERY DISEASE

Attacks the Liver and the Brain.

"Lenticular Degeneration" is the name given to a new mystery disease which has completely baffled medical experts all over the country.

Something like twenty cases have been reported. This is the first time the malady has come under medical notice in Great Britain since it was first detected in 1912.

During the intervening years brain specialists have been trying to trace its origin and a possible cure, but I am told they are still a long way from success.

In the cases already reported, it has been found that the disease always attacks persons in early youth and early adult life, and is always fatal.

A well-known expert with whom I chatted on the subject stated that he believed the origin of the trouble was in the liver, and elaborated a poison which affected a particular section of the brain.

Investigations are still proceeding, and results are anxiously being looked for by the medical profession.

IMPROVING THE FACE

No Tucks When Aged Fifty.

Writing of "beauty surgery," as practised in France and America, a contributor says the usual operation performed—at great expense, it may be mentioned—is that of "lifting" the face, by which means the sagging droop which often accompanies the forties is tautened. An incision is made under the hair just above each ear, and the skin lifted and sewn down again.

It sounds very easy, but one hears of many mishaps resulting in permanent disfigurement. If too much is taken off the face has a tightly drawn look, and sometimes the curve of the eyes is completely altered, much to the detriment of the gneeral effect.

THE COUGH OR COLD That Settles on the Lungs Is Hard to Get Rid of

These are the kin dthat are dangerous; the kind that weaken the lungs, the kind that allow the germs of consumption to get a foothold in the system.

Mr. John E. Luloff, Golden Lake, Ont., writes:—"Last year I had a cold, and a cough which seemed to stick on my chest. I tried different preparations, but they did not seem to help me any. I was advised, by a friend, to try and when I had taken a few doses I began to feel that it was doing me good, so I kept at it and inside of a week I was relieved of my trouble."

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP

"Dr. Wood's" has been on the market for the past 35 years; you don't experiment when you buy it; ppt up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

IF SKIN BREAKS OUT AND ITCHES APPLY SULPHUR

Just the moment you apply Mentho-Sulphur to an itching, burning or broken out skin, the itching stops and healing begins, says a noted skin specialist. This sulphur preparation, made into a pleasant cold cream, gives such a quick relief, even to fiery eczema, that nothing has ever been found to take its place.

Because of its germ-destroying properties, it quickly subdues the itching, cools the irritation and heals the eczema right up, leaving a clear, smooth skin in place of ugly eruptions, rash, pimples or roughness.

You do not have to wait for improvement. It quickly shows. You can get a little jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur at any drug store.

SCIENCE IS UNSCIENTIFIC SAYS DR. DAVID TODD THE ASTRONOMER

Country's Foremost Scientist Blames American System of Education for Present Situation.

TOO MUCH SPORT.

College Pupils Think More of Athletics Than They Do of Their Studies.

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—American science is unscientific.

Dr. David Todd, the astronomer, says so.

And the doctor, who is one of the country's foremost scientists, blames our American system of education.

"Except the science of medicine," he tells you, "there is no branch of science in this country I have less respect for than the science of pedagogy."

"What's that got to do with it?" I asked.

"Why, a scientist has to get his foundation of learning at school—at college, hasn't he?" demanded the astronomes.

DR. DAVID TODD

"Too Much Athletics"

"Take my own case. When I got my appointment to a chair at Amherst in 1881, I had to laugh. I, at that time, to teach others.

"At least 25 per cent. of college stuents would be better off if they never had seen college. The scientist who does accomplish results after some college has graduated him will tell you, almost invariably, he wasted his first few post graduate years unlearning what he learned there.

"The trouble with colleges? They have become athletic and social institutions—not educations, as they are supposed to be.

Calvin Good Student

"Athletics! That's their main weakness. Intercollegiate athletics should have been confined to vacations. Instead, all collegiate activities now suspend for them.

'Here and there is an exceptional student. Calvin Coolidge was one. He was a student in my day at Amherst.

"When an athletic event is on, then's the ideal time for work in library or laboratory. They're empty. But there in the old library at Amherst I often found red-headed young Coolidge, reading—alone.

"But most students are laughed out of work by their fellow students—and now, by many of the younger professors."

Dr. Todd changed the subject abruptly.

"I just wandered in," he said, "on a meeting where they were discussing the protection of potatoes from inspissate eremacausis—in English, dry rot.

It Wasn't Scientific

"Now I was brought up on a farm.

"'Gentlemen,' I said, 'why not try covering potatoes with dirt from which they came?'

"Do you think that made a hit? Not a bit of it. Too simple. They wanted to fight inspissate eremacusis 'scientifically', Scientists have a language of their own, a language I don't understand. Few of them speak mine. Dr. Todd, however, does.

So I asked him what the scientific convention here had accomplished.

'Very little," he replied.

"After Advertising"

Surprised, "What's the matter?" I wanted to know.

"Business inefficiency," explained the doctor. "That's all. No system, no order, no plan! Just confusion everywhere.

"Committees were at work weeks getting ready for it. What good did they do? Did they have everything all arranged in advance, so the convention could get right down to work and achieve results?

"I should say not. They were committees of scientists.

"Those papers they read were largely advertising. As soon as a candidate asks for appointment to a professorship or admission to a scientific body, the question is,'What has he published?'

Too Many Books

"Once they simply counted the number of titles. Later on they got to counting the number of pages.

"Scientific literature already is so super-abundant that it can't be read even by the experts.

"It's much like automobiles, which are so numerous now there's no room for them to run in the streets of a congested city. The automobile defeats itself.

"Same with science. We go on discovering and rediscovering. Much of it already is in books and periodicals few know anything about—and fewer still have time to remove from library shelves to study what other investigators have done before them."

NIGHT LIFE GROWS LESS IN VIENNA

By LUCIEN ARTHUR JONES.

Gay-hearted, pleasure-loving Vienna faces the new year with the disheartening prospect of sinking to the level of a "hick" town, where the night life ceases at 10 p.m. and the limit of dissipation is a weekly visit to the movies.

This extraordinary change in Europe's proudest capital, which during the post-war inflation years from 1918 to 1921 succeeded in recapturing its reputation as an international playground, has been brought about by the severest municipal taxation known in the history of cities. Every Viennese business which caters to comfort or pleasure pays from $40 to $62 in taxes out of every $100 of receipts.

The result is that, after battling bravely against what appear to be impossible conditions, theatres, hotels, cabarets, dance halls, cafes and stores which do a luxury trade are closing down in rapid succession. The mortality has been heavy in the last three months. It threatens to be heavier. Famous landmarks are passing away. At the present rate of progress Vienna next summer, when the tourist traffic reopens, will be as dead as Gulchville, Tenn. And Vienna's lamentations are loud and prolonged.

Cable dispatches say that in some of the big stores on the Kaerntnerstrasse, Vienna's Fifth Avenue, not a sale has been made in a week. The Cafe Sacher, a favorite resort of Viennese and foreigners for more than thirty years, is bankrupt. Eduard Sacher, its proprietor, is the nephew of Mme. Sacher, the autocratic chatelaine of Vienna's most exclusive hotel, not far from the cafe. But tradition has it that aunt and nephew have not spoken to each other for twenty years. The Cafe Sacher stands in the best position in Vienna. For the past quarter of a century, with the exception of the hunger years, from 1916 to 1918, when neither food nor drink was to be had in restaurants, its net profits have been more than $25,000 annually. When Sacher filed his petition in bankruptcy he said in an interview in the Viennese papers:

"I charge the Socialist municipal taxation authorities with wilfully driving me out of business. In 1923 I paid $80,000 in taxes from about $118,000 takings. I still owe the tax bureau several thousands. My place of business has always been crammed. I will pay anybody $10,000 a year to take over my cafe and its liabilities. The result of this overwhelming burden is that the city will lose much revenue and employes will be thrown out of their jobs. Perhaps the city will tell me how to run my business at a profit under present conditions?"

Fewer Foreigners Buy.

Ronacher's, the Apollo Variety and others made the same plea. The Tabarin and the adjoining Chapeau Rouge are giving up the game, the proprietors pleading that nine kinds of direct and indirect taxes take nearly two-thirds of their nightly receipts.

When the Austrian crown was stabilized through international intervention two years ago, prices to foreigners from world standard countries immediately rose. Drastic taxation caused a further increase, with the result that the Viennese themselves cut off all luxuries, while visitors refuse to buy because "things are cheaper at home." A fresh pineapple costs $4 retail in Vienna, while French perfumes are five times what they cost in Paris.

The best-hated man in Vienna is Kommerzial-Rat Breitner, head of the municipal bureau of taxation. One deputation after another has appealed in vain to Herr Breitner in behalf of hotel proprietors, theatre owners, cabaret shows, the jewelry trade and the like.

"You have made more than a $100,000 profit with your taxation schemes in the past few months," they say. "You are taxing Vienna out of existence. You are frightening the foreigner away. The Viennese have no money to spend. Who will keep Vienna going now?"

"There have been no municipal improvements since 1913," replies Herr Breitner. "The profiteers have had their way for ten years. Now I am going to do something for the people. We don't want luxury parasites in Austria."

The amusement caterers show Herr Breitner cartoons from the Viennese papers in which the only guests in a cabaret are a group of tax collectors waiting for a guest to come in so they may grab 62 cents on every dollar he spends.

"You're killing the goose that lays the golden egg," they add. "Put us out of business and you will lose more than $500,000 yearly. Tax us reasonably, say 20 per cent. The masses are getting a street car service at less than cost, and every dollar's worth of municipal electricity costs the city $1.25."

Herr Breitner has remained adamant even to the plea that his taxation has thrown thousands of waiters, actors, actresses and other employes out of work in the last six months.

Some View Change Favorably.

Vienna is curiously divided on the subject which so vitally concerns its future as a capital. Some feel that, as the country is virtually in the hands of an international receivership, Vienna should dispense with luxuries. They argue that a city of two millions, in the midst of an impoverished country smaller than the State of New York, cannot support 800 stores, 450 hotels and 300 night resorts that appeal only to the wealthy. So much the better, they say, if the city does sink to the level of a provincial town; a bright future is in store for a hard-working, respectable city. The opponents of these arguments contend overtaxation brings ruin to all kinds of business enterprise, though they grant that luxuries should be taxed more heavily than the necessaries of life.

A series of failures of the so-called small and middle banks, which were founded during the wild, inflation period from 1918 to 1920, when every cab driver and charwoman was buying and selling shares or speculating in foreign exchange, have greatly assisted the supporters of the less luxurious Vienna. Last summer Vienna supported 1,200 banks, which financial experts estimated were about 1,000 too many. The greater proportion of these, recent examinations in bankruptcy show, were founded on the proverbial shoestring.

HISTORICAL NOTES OF GREAT INTEREST

Julius Caesar's First Expedition Into Ancient Britain in 55 B.C.

During the second quarter of the last century before the Christian era, the most prominent soldier of the Roman Republic was Caeus Pompey, who lived from 106 to 48 B.C. He rose high in popularity, one of his most beneficial achievements being the clearing of the Mediterranean Sea of pirates, who had become so numerous and bold as to seriously interfere with the carrying of grain from Egypt to Italy, for owing to the wretched social system, the people of Italy did not produce their own bread. Pompey was given command of the East and carried to success the war against King Mithradates whose country lay south of the Black Sea. When passing through Syria Pompey turned aside to Palestine and captured Jerusalem. He is said to have entered the Temple, and even the Holy of Holies. In the year 63 B.C. Syria and Palestine were annexed to the Roman Empire, but as a rule left for about 60 years under petty kings, who were vassals of Rome.

Julius Caesar's first expedition into ancient Briton, now England, consisted of about 10,000 men, who crossed in open boats during the night of August 26, 55 B.C., from what is now Boulogne, France, and landed on the English coast north of Dover. The Romans knew nothing about the tides of the sea, because there is practically no tide in the Mediterranean which washes the shores of Italy, and in their operations in Gaul now France, they had been little on the coast along the Channel. Having reached England in safety, the Romans anchored some of their boats and hauled others up on the beach as high as they thought necessary. Within a few days the spring tide, heightened by a gale, swept many boats from their anchorage and carried off many drawn upon the beach. The Romans' first experience with tides nearly resulted in disaster. Some of the boats were recovered, damaged ones repaired, and about two weeks later the expedition recrossed to Gaul.

Westminster Hall, the ancient and beautiful building that forms the principal vestibule of the British Houses of Parliament, was erected in the eleventh century to the order of William Rufus, the second of the Norman Kings. Much of the original stonework remains in the walls, but it is for the grandeur of the great open timber-framed roof that the hall owes its chief architectural and historical interest. This roof was completed under the instructions of Richard II. in 1399.

In the whole of the original structure no metal bolt was used, the jointing being secured by oak pins. The beams themselves being from 40 to 60 feet in length, composed of three sections and weighing up to 4 tons, were taken from oak trees which must have been planted in the eighth century. In 1914 it was discovered that the "deathwatch" beetle had eaten away the heart of many beams. A steel structure was put up but so cunningly concealed as to be scarcely noticeable. The Hall is 238 feet in length, 68 feet in width, and 90 feet in height.

The uprising in England under Simon de Montford in the reign of Henry III. led to a representative assembly being held which may be called a Parliament. This was in 1260. The officer corresponding to Speaker was Peter de Montford, afterwards killed in the battle of Evesham. What may be called the first regular Parliament met in 1294 in the reign of Edward I. At first peers and commons sat together and formed one body, but in the seventeenth year of the reign of Edward III., 1344, the Commons withdrew and began to sit as a separate body, their earliest sessions being held in the Chapter House of Westminster. The first Speaker of the Commons after the House was regularly constituted was Sir Thomas Hungerford, who was appointed. The first elected Speaker was Peter De la Mare, chosen in 1377. From that time the House of Commons has elected its Speaker to preside over its deliberations and to represent the House in all communications with the sovereign.

There is in French-English history an occurrence known as the Battle of the Herrings. On the outskirts of the great Forest of Orleans, and not far from the city of the same name, is a town known as Rouvray, and it was here that the Battle of the Herrings was fought in 1429. The English were besieging the city of Orleans, before the famous heroine Joan of Arc, arrived. In the preparation for Lent the English were bringing a supply of fish to their camp, when the French attacked, but were beaten off, and the contest hence was called the "Battle of the Herrings."

Jacques Cartier, the famous French explorer, sailed up the St. Lawrence River on his second voyage of the Western World. In the late summer of 1535, he entered the beautiful basin, now the harbor of Quebec. Near the foot of the cliff was the Indian village of Stadacona. In the early autumn Cartier proceeded up the river to Hochelaga, which occupied part of the site of the city of Montreal. He ascended the mountain to which he gave the name Royal. After a short stay at Hochelaga, he returned to Stadacona, or Quebec, and prepared for the coming winter. His ships were drawn up near the shore, a wooden fort mounted with cannon was built as a protection against a possible attack from the Indians. Their fears proved groundless, but the men suffered severely from the unaccustomed cold. They were attacked by the dreadful disease of scurvy, which carried off many of their number until a cure was found in a decotion made from the leaves and twigs of the spruce tree As soon as the river was clear of ice in the following spring, Cartier sailed for France.

A certain editor received from a lady some verses, daintily tied with pink ribbon, and entitled "I Wonder If He'll Miss Me?" After reading them, he returned the effort to the sender with the following note:—"Dear Madam,—If he does, he ought never to be trusted with firearms again."

ENGLISH BEAUTY WEDS

Hon. Mrs. Evelyn Fitzgerald of England was one of the most beautiful brides of the winter season, her wedding being a great social event. She was Helen Drury, daughter of Maj.-Gen. Drury, and sister of Lady Beaverbrook.

CHRISTIANIA'S NEW NAME REVIVAL OF THAT OF 1047

Old City Was Called Oslo Before Kingdom's Union With Denmark, When Kristian IV. Gave Capital His Name.

CHRISTIANIA, Norway. — After Jan. 16, 1925, one will no longer need to choose between a "Ch" and a "K" in spelling the name of the Norwegian capital, as on that date Christiania becomes officially Oslo.

It savors of instability in a country's internal organization to change the name of its capital, and one is immediately reminded of Russia's example in the St. Petersburg-Petrograd-Leningrad development. In Norway's case, however, the situation is quite different. This name change is an expression of Norwegian independence and individuality, the growing feeling that Norway should obliterate the traces of its former dependence on another nation.

It goes side by side with the increasing use of the "lands maal" in preference to the "riks maal"; that is, the new Norse based on dialects and original Norse rather than the Danish language. It is an effort to give a distinctly Norwegian tone to the language and names and revive traditions from the time when Norway was all Norse. It is difficult to say what results this precedent will have in Norway, but one can expect that other cities will vote similar changes: Trondhjem will want to go back to Nidaros, Bergen may become Bjorgvin, and Fredrikshald, Haldan.

The movement to change the name of Christiania is by no means a new one. It has come up again and again in more or less serious form during the last thirty years and has steadily gained supporters, particularly from people outside the capital. In 1918 it was again before the Parliament, but failed to pass. At that time it was quite evident that the citizens of Christiania were against any change. But in the last few years this attitude has become less pronounced, and last June the bill was passed by the Odelstinget to make Oslo the future name. The vote stood 75 to 29.

To a foreigner it would seem a useless and expensive change, and one that would cause confusion in many ways. A small country is too little known in the world to afford to take a step that would only exaggerate this condition. Furthermore, Christiania is a familiar name and is easy for most foreigners to pronounce, while Oslo is difficult and ugly. But when one understands the real feeling which prompted the people to get behind this movement the matter appears in a difficult light.

Oslo is the original name, dating back to 1047, the time when Norway first appeared as a united and independent kingdom. It was not until 1624, during the union with Denmark, that the Danish King, Kristian IV., for military reasons, changed the site to the other side of the Akers River, at the foot of the fort, and named it Christiania. Oslo remained a separate city until 1857, when it became included in the city limits of Christiania, retaining its original name only as a section of the larger city. It is observed in this connection, however, that the natural growth of the city had been toward the fort, to the other side of the river, and that therefore the founding of Christiania in 1624 cannot be considered a new city but rather an extension of the former Oslo. It is not strange that patriotic Norwegians should want to revive the original name, which is bound up with the earliest traditions of the nation.

To a disinterested observer the impression received is that the native of Christiania is much opposed to the change, and finds it difficult to see the matter in a judicious light. The subject has furnished many a motif for musical revues during the past season. This is typical: A dark stage with a background of Christiania's Karl Johans Gate at night, lights twinkling the entire length of Norway's Fifth Avenue; a woman appears in sombre black, looks over the city and sings in sorrowful strains: "Farvel, Gamle Kristiania" (Good-bye, Old Christiania). There is a great deal of sentiment attached to the name of Kristiania, which has become immortalized in poetry and prose and has built up its own tradition.

It was significant that this change should occur in the year that the city was to celebrate its three hundredth anniversary. To commemorate this event an exposition was held in the old fort, illustrating by building models and contour maps the growth of the capital from 1047 to 1624 as Oslo, and from 1624 to 1924 as Christiania. The exact tercentenary, Sept. 27, was a gala day day in the city, marked at its close by an elaborate display of fireworks.

BRITISH TOUCH WORKS WONDERS AT CAIRO, EGYPT

Dilly Dally Policy to Blame for the Trouble in East.

WILL EGYPTIANS LEARN

Up to Egyptians to Play the Game—Sudanese Happy.

(By F. Scudamore, War Correspondent.

Since the loud-mouthed deputies to Zaghlul's Chamber (where his extremist policy had but twenty opponents) were invited to take a month's holiday in their country houses, the atmosphere of Cairo and Alexandria has undergone a wholesome change.

The streets are quiet; no more are to be seen the assemblages of black-gowned Fellaheen and sallow, under-sized Effendis in "reach-me-downs," who for the past two years have been permitted to gather in every little square and open space to voice unchecked their hate of brutal Britain and the tragedy of Egypt's wrongs. The rowdies, led by Government officials—who mocked the passing of the murdered Sirdar to his burial—have gone back to hiding in the lurking-places from which Zaghlul's supporters used to summon them when required, and, if there is any value in Ziwar Pasha's protestations, they will remain in that foul obscurity.

Among the European communities there is now a comfortable sense of security, to which they have long been strangers. The morning and evening patrols through these towns of splendidly-set-up British regiments—anywhere an inspiriting spectacle—have set the seal of asserted power upon this unwonted calm.

British Dilly Dally Policy to Blame.

Whether it will endure is another matter, for the Egyptians are at once the most fanatical and frothy-brained race in the world. We took them out of the bondage in which they had squirmed for 4,000 years—from the time of the Pharaohs until the dethronement of Ismail Pasha—and we raised them to a height of prosperity, coupled with a freedom of thought and speech which they had never contemplated even in their wildest hasheesh-colored dreams. The banquet we spread before them was too rich, and that last gorgeous dish—the declarations of Independence in 1922—completely upset Egypt's weak political digestion.

For that, and for all that has followed, we have to blame—rather than the shallow-brained Egyptians—our own dilly-dally policy towards Turkey and Egypt.

The question of what is to be Egypt's future must depend entirely on the Egyptians, and despite the swift retribution that their evil deeds have brought on their misled country, the egregious protest sent to the Parliaments of the world and the League of Nations by Zaghlul's disgruntled fanatics, is an indication that they at least have not yet learned their lesson.

We may rather consider as helpful the ples of Ziwar Pasha, the new Egyptian Premier, who says—"Let us save what we can." He means—out of the wreck of Egypt's lost opportunities.

There is no desire to deal harshly with Egypt. We did not free this people from Turkish bondage and raise them to prosperity merely to humble them to the dust because the tonic we offered them was too strong for their feeble intellects. The month's respite that is before the new Cairo Cabinet of Moderates will probably enable them to persuade their countrymen to see reason.

Up to Egyptians to Play the Game.

A fresh mistake by Egypt's advisors would throw her back to the Protectorate conditions which we abandoned prematurely. It is up to the Egyptians to play the game, but, as President Roosevelt said of them fourteen years ago—"When a people treats assassination as a corner-stone of self-government it forfeits all right to be treated as worthy of self-government."

From all the past mischief one salient fact emerges. The future of the Sudan is settled once for all, without any further argument or discussion.

This is a matter of satisfaction to us in Britain. But how infinitely greater a cause for joy to the freed peoples of the vast Sudan. The condominium, shadowy thought it was, has been since 1899 a drag on the Sudan's progress. It ended when Lord Allenby sent the order recently to Khartum that the Egyptian officers and units were to be removed from the country. This evacuation has been effected. It remains now only to get rid of the minor Egyptian officials scattered throughout the provinces, and all connection with Egypt, save that formed by the great Nile stream, will have ceased.

Our Happy Relations With the Sudanese

We have never got on well with the Egyptians, a sullen, obstinate, dull-brained race of fanatics, ever cherishing a grievance; but with the Sudanese our relations from the offset have been of the happiest character. When Sir Evelyn Wood reorganized the Egyptian Army after the debacle at Tel-el-Kebir in 1882, Sudanese and Egyptians were associated in the same units. But it was early found that the "Old Blacks," as we loved to call them, were far superior in every soldierly quality to the lefty Fellaheen. There was no term to their military service. They remained soldiers for life.

Egyptians would have found advocates all over the world to protest against such a system. But the "Old Blacks" liked it.

I recall the first battle in the Sudan, when I had the honor to be the guest of a Sudani battalion. At the parade, before we marched off, the "Old Blacks"—it was a unit of Hector Macdonald's brigade—looked the perfection of soldierly fitness—togged out to kill, every button and strap in tightest order. But when I rode after the chief behind the line a revelation met us. "There they are, the devils," said "Fighting Mac." "We can't cure 'em. Look at the brutes." And, indeed, this back aspect showed how determined a love of fight was ingrained in these ebony stalwarts.

"Like the British: We Have No Fears."

Many tribes were represented, and every man had added to his official equipment the fancy weapon of his own tribe. These were spike-studded clubs, battle-axes with jagged claws, ugly, twisty-bladed daggers, weird swords with monster saw teeth, and other hideous death-dealers. And every man had somehow gathered an extra supply of cartridges to eke out the belt and bandolier.

The worst came when we got really to grips with the Dervishes, for our Sambos recognized acquaintances in the enemy ranks, and, yelling atrocious insults at them, threw down their rifles and rushed into a hand-to-hand, personal duel. Still, their training served, and the enemy at Firket had quite a rotten time.

All the Sudanese races have a high sense of honor and of devotion to leaders who have gained their confidence. When we were fighting the Kahlifa the proud boast of Kitchener's Sudani battalions used to be—"We fight like the British; we have no fears."

HAVE YOU GOT RHEUMATISM?

Insidious Scourge of Our Race And a Deadly Enemy.

PROTECT THE YOUNG

So far as the medical profession is concerned the name "rheumatism" covers a multitude of sins. One hastens to explain that these are not medical sins—except, perhaps, the overburdening of the already wide term "rheumatism" with a number of physical conditions due to widely differing causes. But rheumatism is the insidious scourge of our race and a deadly enemy. We acquire it, we inherit a tendency to it some say nearly a quarter of all cases are due to this), and we hand on to our descendants this legacy of ill. Yet very much rheumatism is due to preventable causes. It may start in early life by exposure to damp and cold in defective clothing; by people having to live in low-lying or damp houses. And many a life ruined by debility due to heart weakness can be attributed to neglect of rheumatism or its early signs in childhood.

The Enemy Camouflaged.

But to the average man or woman the term "rheumatism" does not devote anything so tragic; it signifies little more than an occasional ache or discomfort. That is because the enemy is often "camouflaged," and because the serious attention which rheumatism demands (especially in childhood) is not realised. The following ailments are often of rheumatic origin—arthritis, sciatica, tonsilitis, neuritis, St. Vitus's dance, lumbago. Here is a pretty list of formidable names, and others can be added. And in every ten cases of heart disease there will be found eight which reveal a previous history of rheumatism.

Weapons of Science.

Now, before discussing rheumatism any further, it would be well to inquire a little deeper into the cause. And here we arrive almost abreast of modern science, which tells us, after long disagreement, that, that rheumatism is almost certainly due to the invasion of our tissues by a definite germ—a microbe. That is to say, of course, that the germ produces toxins in our blood and tissues which may or may not set up fever, but which in any case do a lot of damage. Certain classes of drugs (e.g., salicylate of soda and its equivalents) are most valuable in the earlier cases of the disease; and the fact that science is on the way to identifying the germ of the disease makes us hopeful that further strides in combating it will be made by the use of vaccines or anti-toxins. But to combat an evil it must first be clearly traced and identified. And that is where intelligent help is expected from every man and woman; and it is the reason why we must each try to find out something about disease.

Forms of Attack.

Rheumatism attacks in many forms, and the worst deature of the trouble is its inveterate tendency to return. That is why its early recognition is so necessary, so that all possible steps may be taken to mobilise all resources against the disease at its very first appearance. Rheumatism may make a mild attack, when certain symptoms can be looked for; or it may develop quickly into an "acute" attack known as rheumatic fever; or, thirdly, the disease may get hold of the system and become chronic—in the forms of stiffness and pain in the joints, chiefly the knee or shoulder.

In Middle Life.

Chronic rheumatism is usually a condition of middle age, when the disease has gained a firm hold of the system, and treatment appropriate to earlier cases won't be of much use. The sufferer will obtain relief from the application of warmth to the parts affected—poultices, fomentations, or cotton wool. He must wear woollens next the skin all the year round, but of a lighter texture in summer. Apart from the relief of pain, palliative treatment will consist of a nourishing diet, not rich, but of a kind likely to produce heat in the tissues—plenty of milk products, potatoes, oatmeal, fish, and a moderate meat allowance. Malt liquors are harmful, but a carefully regulated allowance of spirit and water may be taken daily.

Regular moderate exercise is required, of a kind not likely to strain the heart. Let the sufferer from a chronic rheumatism be patient and cultivate a hopeful outlook; it will be a real help to recovery. Rheumatoid arthritis is often taken for chronic rheumatism; it is probably from a quite different cause. This disease rarely affects the heart, but attacks the small and large joints, eating away the cartilage where the bone ends. Small hard lumps are often found around the seat of the pain caused, and other symptoms—stiffness and aching at the joints—resemble those of rheumatism. But a different line of treatment will be required, and it is necessary to distinguish this disease.

Protecting the Young.

But when discussing rheumatism, we can most profitably consider the case of those under 30 years of age. The great majority of first attacks of rheumatism occur then. Most come between the ages of 16 and 25. And these ages, together with the first few years of life, are really dangerous ages. We must never close our eyes to the signals which mercifully precede ill-health or sickness. We should never rest satisfied until we know whether the signal means "all clear" or "danger." Rheumatism in childhood must be grimly fought, and, remember, the early signs are not usually the pains in the joints suffered in middle age. An acute attack (fever) may be ushered in by sore throat, unnatural redness of the face, the twitching of chorea (St. Vitus's dance) or a preliminary attack of pleurisy.

MANICURIST AND COIFFEUSE ON LINERS

Priestess of Ship's Beauty Parlor and Prince of Wales.

Miss Gertrude Cooper, who for the past seven months has been a manicurist and coiffeuse aboard the White Star liner Olympic, may well claim the distinction of having come into contact with a greater number of notabilities from all over the world than most people would do even if they lived to be a thousand.

During the liner's last crossing from America to Southampton she had the honor of acting as manicurist to the Prince of Wales.

Miss Cooper, who, when at home, resides with her parents at Bournemouth, has had a share in one of the busiest seasons in the history of transatlantic navigation, when visitors from America were attracted in thousands to the British Empire Exhibition, and a great number of Europeans flocked to the States for a holiday.

Previously she had been engaged in London, but, tired of the round of city life, she longed for new surroundings and new adventures. Her chance came when the services of a hairdresser were required on the Olympic.

The Ship's Beauty Parlor.

When visited by a "Sunday Post" representative just before the great leviathan set out on a trip, Miss Cooper was engrossed in the task of preparing for the voyage. Stock-taking and a host of other little odds and ends have to be attended to, all for the convenience of patrons of her beauty-parlor—a little room fitted up as elaborately as any city establishment.

"This hour or two," she said, "is what I like least about the job. Once we are out at sea everything is all right, but the bustle of preparation keeps us occupied for a good while before starting.

"Do I like the work? Why, yes, it has been a wonderful experience and I'm glad I've had it.

"Somehow the sea and the sight of big liners always had a subtle attraction for me, and I jumped at the opportunity when I was asked to come and work. That was in April, and now I think I shall seek a 'land job' again. This will be my last trip, and I shall go back to London for a while."

The fact that she has given attendance to various members of Royal families, as well as to titled personages from Britain and to the greatest in American society, impresses Miss Cooper not in the least. She takes it all as part of the day's work. The service to the Prince, however, was an exception to the rule.

Impressions of the Prince.

"I am so accustomed to manicuring and hairdressing all sorts of well-known people," she said, "that after a while I thought nothing of it. But I never imagined I should be manicurist to the Prince. I can't say I felt really nervous when I was summoned to his suite, but, at the same time, I couldn't help feeling a little bit excited.

"But any nervousness I might have had was dispelled at once when I met the Prince. The way in which he greeted me, his charm of manner, and his free conversation put me at ease immediately.

"We just talked about ordinary, every-day things; the Prince asked me all about my work, how I liked it, and where my home was. When I told him I lived in Bournemouth he remarked he had never been there, but hoped some day to visit it. I think I can say the Prince is the most pleasant customer I ever had. I also attended Captain Lascelles, chief of the Prince's staff, and other members of his retinue."

Miss Cooper became familiarly known to thousands across the Atlantic some time ago, when she was selected by Palmer's, of Montreal, as a model of the well-coiffeured lady, and her photograph appeared in the press throughout the length and breadth of Canada.

BOBBED HAIR IS ON THE DECLINE

Girls Using Less Slang and Appear Less Hard-Boiled.

PARIS, Jan. 16. — (Canadian Press).—Bobbed hair and over-bright complexions, hard hats and barbaric jewellery, appear to be on the decline, and cigarettes and slang among the feminine smart set are less aggressively indulged in than in past seasons. Such are the conclusions which the male observer has reached after attending numerous recent Parisian social functions.

Hard boiled manners and high complexions were found to be all wrong as the setting for dresses made of soft kasha, in pastel shades, soft silks and muslins and hats with flowing lines. The trend of the hour is toward subtle charm and softness.

Color, however, is playing a much greater part in Paris fashion than at any time previous since armistice. Black dresses have become less popular, and light colors have been steadily on the increase. The short skirt has had a new lease of life, but is slightly fuller in the back. The sleeves for evening dress are also more popular, and the bare arm is no longer considered essential for elegance in dress. The bare back is also less common, and very low cut dresses are rarely seen except among show girls.

Prohibition Celebrates Fifth Birthday To-day

Washington, January 16. — United Press. — Guess what Friday is.

"It is the fifth aniversary of prohibition, one of the most memorable days in American history," volunteered Wayne B. Wheeler, General Counsel of the Anti-Saloon League.

"It marks the dawn of a new era of freedom and prosperity.

"Five prohibition years have made us almost forget how drunken parts of the nation were formerly. In five years more it will be equally incredible that any except the deliberately criminal could ever have patronized a liquor outlaw."

RAILWAY STRIKE QUICKLY ENDED

Mexican Head Moved Quickly—Preserves Order in Country.

REDUCE ARMY.

By A. W. FOLGER.

MEXICO, D. F., Mexico, Jan. 16 (United Press).—Mexico's optimism regarding the Calles Administration, as shown in the tone of press comment and as expressed vocally in the streets of the capital, is not based so much upon the President's post-inauguration utterances and economic plans, as upon his decisive action in settling the Vera Cruz rail workers strike and in ordering the arrest of Heron Proal, labor agitator in the port of Vera Cruz.

Proal, as leader of the faction of renters known as "El Sindicato Revolucionario de Inquilinos" (Revolutionary Syndicate of Tenants) for many months has been regarded as the source of revolutionary labor activities in Vera Cruz. President Calles declared shortly after his inauguration that any violence on the part of the inquilinos would result in the arrest of the leaders.

Following a brawl between two factions of inquilinos in which one of the Proalistis was killed, the President ordered Proal arrested. He was brought to Mexico City on December 21 to await trial on a charge of insulting the national army and participating in manifestations constituting a public menace.

Earns Praise.

In practically every quarter the news of Proal's arrest was received as an indication that President Calles is determined to preserve order throughout the Union. Even members of the radical bloc in the House of Deputies commented favorably upon Calles' action, declaring that although the cause of the inquilinos is just, the methods of Proal should not be tolerated.

Following closely upon the Proal incident, came a strike of the Confederation of Railway Employes in Vera Cruz, threatening to paralyze all port traffic. Members of the League of Workers of the Maritime Zone, guarded by Federal troops, quickly assumed the positions of the strikers with the result that the strike was ended within a day after it began.

Although the Federal government was loath to take sides in factional strife between the port workers, Luis N. Morones, secretary of Labor, Commerce and Industry, after conferring with President Calles, announced that the administration's action was justified, in view of the fact that the confederations had violated the convention of Celaya, signed jointly with the leaguists, by going on strike without previously announcing their intention.

Labor circles in general have supported the President's attitude in this recent crisis, with the result that confidence prevails that President Calles has both the will and the ability to cope with any situation that might arise. This confidence is further reflected in the favorable comment arising from the President's decision to reduce the army to a minimum.

COMMUNIST ACTIVITY

Fresh Impetus to Fight Between Two Factions of Laborites.

LONDON, January 16 (British United Press by Herbert Bailey).—The fight between the Communist and Moderate sections of labour has by the publication of a translation of Zinovieff's report to the Communists' Internationale by the Communist Party here.

Zinovieff is quoted as saying: "We must close our ranks in the Trades UCnions and work from within," adding, "The success of a Communist Party in England would mean the winning of half the victory throughout Europe."

Losovsky, head of the Red Internationale Labour Unions, says: "The unit yof the Trades Unions ocers the best field for Communist activity, since it creates the most favourable conditions for the capture of the masses."

These quotations are taken to show that the Communists within the Trades Unions are working along definite lines laid down for them by Moscow.

RIDERS.

Truth sometimes crops out unintentionally. The Bell Telephone News comments seriously: "In the big cities automobiles are making traffic conditions easier by gradually reducing the number of pedestrians."

CZAR'S PALACE IS REST HOME

Consecrate Relic of Czardom to Uses of Working People.

PLACE OF BEAUTY.

By FREDERICK KUH.

MOSCOW, Jan. 16 (United Press).—After a lively debate, an official decision has been reached to transform the magnificent Livadian palace, the Crimean residence of the former imperial family, into a health resort for peasants.

The fate of the famous Crimean mansions was vigorously argued between leading communists before the Council of People's Commissaries finally voted to hand over the palace to the peasant-folk.

Professor Marr, president of the Russian Academy of Material Culture, acted as spokesman of one group, holding that the imperial country edifices should be preserved intact as an historic monument to a vanished culture. Writing in the communist party organ, "Pravda," Professor Marr protested against the use of the Livadian palace for any purpose other than that of a museum.

"Never has wood been used with such skill as in the ornamentation of this palace," he wrote. "The Livadian mansions are a perfect and unique monument to the bourgeois culture of the nineteenth century. These splendid buildings are the last pages in the book of the bourgeois reign, and they must be carefully safeguarded as a testimonial to the customs and life of their age."

Professor Marr's attitude was successfully opposed by Jaroslavsky, secretary of the Control committee of the communist party and known as the "moulder of communist morals" in the new Soviet state.

"Are we rich enough at this time," argued Jaroslavsky, "to spend large sums of money for the upkeep of a palace which is rarely trod by the feet of the working masses? Even if the last page of the history of the bourgeois reign is destroyed and lost, what of it? I do not mean, of course, that the palace should not be cared for. But it must be consecrated to the benefit of the workers and peasants of the Union. The furniture and other art objects can be transferred to a Moscow or Leningrad museum, and the palace itself turned into a resort or sanatorium.

The issue was finally submitted to the Council of People's Commissaries, which has now identified itself with Jarodavsky's contention. Accordingly, the two mansions, comprising the Levadian, together with all the minor structures that make up the "Livadian town," will be changed into rest-homes for the peasants.

The palace, around which this controversy centered, was completed in 1911 by the Architect Krasnoff, who successfully sought to combine in one masterpiece the essence of classical, Moorish and renaissance architecture. It is regarded as one of the architectural gems of its age. The interior is decorated with motley wood, rare and superbly carved.

In this palace, where the former head of the Romanoff family came to conjure up his dreams of power and empire, the tillers of Russia's steppes, are now to find reast and peace.

HEAVY FIRE LOSS

Four Stores and a House Badly Gutted in Halifax.

HALIFAX, N.S., Jan. 16.—(Canadian Press).—Damage estimated in excess of $85,000, with $50,000 insurance, was caused last night by a fire which completely gutted the Gordon Isnor block. Isnor was the chief sufferer, his men's furnishings stock, valued at $66,000, going up in smoke. Three other stores and residence damaged.

LIVE STOCK IS VERY IMPORTANT

Toronto Exchange Annual Banquet Given Advice by Martin.

NEED UNIFORMITY.

TORONTO, Jan. 16.—(Canadian Press.)—Tribute to the national importance of the live stock industry and an optimistic canvas of prospects before it were made last evening at the annual banquet of members of Toronto live stock exchange with Hon. John S. Martin, provincial minister of agriculture, and Hon. Duncan Marshall, president of the Dominion Shorthorn Breeders' Association, as speakers.

The progress which Ontario had already made was emphasized by Mr. Martin, who pointed out that Ontario in eleven months of 1924 had exported 1,062,429 hundred weight of bacon to Great Britain in contrast to 750,467 hundred weight exported in a similar period of 1923.

Mr. Martin believed that Ontario could learn its lesson in the raising of bacon from Denmark. In the latter country, he pointed out, standardization had become absolute to the point that only one breed was raised, the result being absolute and dependable uniformity in the product.

SPRING STYLES WILL BE HARD ON POCKETBOOK

Ensemble Costume Steps to the Fore For 1925 Wear.

DECIDEDLY DRESSY.

Jacquette Makes the Costume But Afternoon Demands Removal.

By HEDDA HOYT.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—(United Press).—Spring styles will be rather hard on the average pocketbook, if one hopes to keep up-to-the-moment, for instead of the suit or the long wrap and separate frock, the ensemble costume has stepped to the fore, promising to be the popular costume of 1925.

"Ensemble" is the French word for "together," and in the fashion world it applies to a gown and jacquette which are fashioned on similar lines and of the same materials. The ensemble generally costs more than the average suit and often more than a separate coat with several frocks. It is a dressy type of garment and its entrance into the fashion world was brought about by the dance craze. With almost every restaurant and hotel accepting dancing as their popular indoor sport, the one-piece frock was the inevitable replacement of the blouse and skirt. Then came the desire for a smarter costume than the gown and contrasting wrap idea. Last spring, only the smartest of women indulged in the extravagance of the ensemble, but this spring we will see them in numbers.

Very few ensembles are of the tailored type and in most instances the frock is decidedly dressy, being trimmed with lace, embroidery or other ornamentations which are carried out in milder effect on the jacquette. Jacquettes are long in effect. Some of them reach the knee, while others just escape the hem of the frock. Straight lines rule generally, although in some cases pleating is placed in the skirt to give the flaring hem-line.

Surely the ensemble makes an admirable outfit for teas, informal afternoon wear and general dressy occasions. When the jacquette is worn, one has a costume which may be worn anywhere. With the jacquette removed, one is equally well dressed for teas, afternoon bridge parties or any like occasions.

Many women are making their own ensembles by selecting frocks in the ready-to-wear departments of the shops and matching them with separate coats in the coat department. This does very well when simple typed garments are chosen and one can get very lovely tailored or sports wear effects, but when one wishes a costume which has distinction one had better not attempt to do one's own "ensembling."

The most simple way of minimizing the cost of the ensemble is to purchase an ensemble costume and match it with an extra frock. In this way one has, at least, a change of frock. Since almost every woman counts upon having a coat and several frocks during a season, this will cost about the same amount as one usually spends upon a season's wardrobe. The extra frock should be either more dressy or more simple in line than the one belonging to the ensemble if one wishes to provide for various occasions.

* * *

New York's recent snow storm brought out several nifty styles in goloshes and both misses and matrons are proudly tramping about in them. Among the newest are those of light grey or tan jersey cloth and they are worn with fur coats of light shades. These are exactly like the old type golosh except that they are in light colors. Then there are goloshes with the new spring front fastening. They close with the same type of fastening as men's tobacco pouches—one little pull and they are closed.

Several women are wearing short models of what formerly were termed "gum-boats." These sometimes have rod piping, or a red band of leather about the top. Here's a hint to flappers—if there be flappers left—goloshes are worn buttoned about the ankle this year and not flopping about the leg.

Among the smartest sports costumes which are being worn by the skaters at Lake Placid are mannish sweaters which have the football collar, knickers, huge-patterned stockings and mittens of wool and caps of either fur or wool. Short fur jacquettes are also worn with the knicker outfits. There is no attempt at looking feminine while skating this winter, as both girls and boys wear practically the same type of garments.

A DUTCH WOOING IN LAND OF WINDMILLS

Mostly All the Young Couples Meet in the Church.

A courtship in the "land of windmills" is not, by any means, carried on in a haphazard way. It is taken in a very serious manner. There are no whist drives, no dances, and no social gatherings as there are in this country, where any young man may find the girl of his choice. About thirty years ago, although the custom is now less followed, the sturdy Dutch maidens wore a large plate of silver or gold on their head. A piece of wire, twisted into a spiral, was wont to project from their forehead, just above the eye. Since Dutch people, especially the peasantry, are said to have "A grain for every corn," there must have been some use for such queer ornaments. It has been generally suggested that they were used to keep the "lads" at a discreet distance.

The only meeting-place of all the young folks is the church. The seats are all arranged so that every one can see everybody else without the least trouble, excepting, of course, those immediately behind. The older members of the congregation doubtlessly find it very amusing, and the talkative matrons, no doubt, deem it agreeable to their gossip-loving dispositions to watch the conduct of the young men during the service.

The object of their interest, quite unconscious of their sly glances, enters and seats himself very quietly in the family pew. As the sermon proceeds he becomes very figety. His eye wanders all round the congregation, and eventually alights on some blushing and attractive damsel. The girl, who has probably been directing demure glances in his direction for some time, now eagerly responds to his welcome advances, and the seed of love finds itself planted in fertile soil.

As soon as the young man sees that he is not tepulsed, he does not let the proverbial grass grow under his feet. The customary "courting night" in Holland is Saturday evening. He therefore drives over to the home of his sweetheart and is invited to enter. The maiden must not lower herself by coming too quickly to meet the visitor, since she knows the true reason why he has called. She may still be attending to her household duties, or perhaps washing the cans in the milk-house. The duty of entertaining the young man therefore falls upon the father, who chats amicably on indifferent subjects, while the prospective son-in-law introduces such topics as the weather or trade, two unfailing resorts in embarrassed conversation.

Suddenly the young man flushes, and probably drops the cap which he has been twisting nervously in his hand. He has heard the well-known step outside, and, as the door opens and his beloved one enters, his nervousness is extreme. However, he receives a sweet smile of encouragement from her, and his hopes are high once more. He asks, in a humble tone, if he may be allowed to speak to her for a few minutes alone. This wish being granted by the parents, the young couple depart together to an adjoining room. If all is favourable, the "few minutes" spent together may lengthen into half-an-hour or a few hours, as the case may be.

If the suit has been successful, the father and mother of both sides are called in. If the father of either be dead, then the guardian, or next-of-kin, takes his place. If the match is agreeable, the two become officially engaged, and resolve to marry within three or four years. There is ample time given for either to change his or her mind before the marriage ultimately takes place. After this, the young man visits his sweatheart regularly once a fortnight for two or three years, until the last year, when the visits become much longer and more frequent.

MENU FOR FAMILY

TESTED BY SISTER MARY.

Breakfast—Baked apples, rolled oats, thin cream, potato omelet, stewed tomatoes with toast cubes, corn bread, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Cream of potato soup, croutons, jellied salad, peanut butter sandwiches, brown sugar pudding, cup cakes, milk tea.

Dinner—Beef stew with dumplings, mashed potatoes, creamed turnips, apple-celery-nut salad, Cumberland pudding, whole wheat bread, milk, coffee.

The jellied salad should be mostly jelly and lettuce when served to juniors under school age.

Grated cheese is served with the potato soup in the luncheon menu planned for the day. This, in combination with the dishes suggested, takes the place of meat in the menu.

Potato Omelet.

Two-thirds cup diced bacon, 2 cups boiled potatoes cut in dice, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 3 eggs, 5 tablespoons milk.

Slice bacon very thin, remove rinds and cut the slices into small pieces to make 2-3 cup. Cook in a hot omelet pan or frying-pan until crisp. Add potatoes, salt and pepper and cook until thoroughly heated, shaking the pan frequently with milk and pour over potatoes. The pan should be very hot when the eggs are added. Reduce heat and cook until eggs are firm to the touch. This can be done in the oven or on top of the stove. Fold like an omelet and serve at once.

Jellied Salad.

Two tablespoons granulated gelatine, ½ cup cold water, 2 cups boiling water, 1-3 cup lemon juice, ¼ cup vinegar, ½ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 18 pimento stuffed olives, 13 tiny sweet pickles, ½ cup diced celery.

Soften gelatine in cold water and add boiling water. Stir until dissolved. Add sugar and when cool add lemon juice, salt and vinegar. When beginning to stiffen fold in the stuffed olives cut in slices, the pickles finely chopped and the celery. Pour into a mold and let stand until chilled and firm. Remove from the mold and serve on a bed of lettuce. Boiled dressing or mayonnaise can be used.

This makes an excellent winter salad when green things are scarce.

Brown Sugar Pudding.

Two cups brown sugar, 2 cups boiling water, 2 tablespoons corn starch, ½ cup nut meats. Boil sugar and water for three minutes. Make a smooth paste with a little cold water stirred into the corn starch. Stir into the boiling syrup and cook until thick. Add nuts and remove at once from the fire and chill. Serve with whipped cream.

Voice Of The People

ABOUT IMMIGRATION.

The Editor, The Examiner.

Dear Sir: For the thoughtful citizen interested in the development of Canada, there is no more vital question just now than the subject of immigration. Some of our people who are self-centred, interested in some local conditions or some sectional enterprise, are of the opinion that because of so much unemployment and the hard times caused by war conditions, Canada, to protect her people, should close her doors against the multitudes who wish to come from countries in a worse financial condition than our own. They fear these newcomers will increase the unemployment, or perhaps require financial assistance.

To answer such an argument we would point out our rich undeveloped resources, our millions of acres of virgin land, and the world's need of supplies; with this heritage the optimistic patriot must admit that Canada's most pressing need today is increased population coming just as fast as we can assimilate them, until we reach at least twenty million people, with from 60% to 70% of them producing on the farm, and not, as now, half or more of our inhabitants living in the cities. Granted, of course, that the newcomers are largely British, and from the preferred countries, and carefully selected with due regard to their physical and moral fitness for citizenship.

We must expect that in the birth of an enlarged Canada, as in the increase of a family, there will be sacrifice, suffering and expense, but it will be true in nation building, as it has always been in character building, the "Cross" which causes sacrifice and suffering will, if patiently borne, work out our salvation.

As a result of Canada's successful, advertising through the Wembley Exhibition, and because of our natural resources and the loud call to help to supply the world's need of wheat, lumber, cattle and other products, Canada is sure to have a rapid influx of population.

Already British and American capital is coming with the immigrants, and with our excellent transportation systems, in a network of railways running into nearly every part of our country, our government and railway officials can handle very large numbers of people and settle them at once on farms with little inconvenience and with comparatively small outlay.

As a matter of course we must expect some misfits, and like the rising tide, there will be times of advancement followed by the receding waves. Some will succeed and some fail, but we must be patient and lenient, and if some drop out discouraged, those not afraid of long hours and hard work if they will persevere will without doubt be rewarded with comfortable homes and a plant always producing more than a good living.

Let me note the effect of immigration on the cities' unemployment. Some ask with scorn why the Dominion Government and the Railroad Companies continue bringing to Canada more, and still more immigrants, while in nearly every city in Canada there are such large numbers of people who are unemployed? It is true now, always has been so, and ever will be true, that there are people out of work. If Canada ceased her immigration work until all the unemployed were working we would have no more immigrants.

Our Dominion Government assists only domestics, prospective brides and men to work on farms, to come to Canada, and they invite no other classes. If others with means come, they come at their own risk of finding work, and making a living; there will come a day when all classes of workmen will find employment here, but that day is not now.

During the fall of 1924 about 300 men marched the streets of Winnipeg for days, and carried streamers inscribed as follows:-

1. "Find us work or furnish us full support."
2. "Immigrants in May—in bread line in December."
3. "Good times just around the corner! Where in h—— is the corner?"

These men were fed one Saturday at the expense of the city and were asked to come on Monday to work out the pay for the meal, by sawing wood; about 300 took the meal, and 30 returned to pay for it. They did not want work, they wanted a free living at the country's expense. The men in this bread line were all offered work, in the bush or on farms, and most of them refused it. It was said 80% were not citizens of the province but men who came West to work in the harvest fields. Wages were from $3.50 to $5.50 per day; in the fall these men returned to the city and were soon stranded, and were demanding that they be sent to their homes free. Where were their wages? Well, ask the bootleggers or the gambling dens.

There has never been a day all fall when men could not be placed on farms for the winter, where a good home and a reasonable winter wage could be had. These unemployed citizens will not take such situations. Four per cent only of the bread line were immigrants.

There is a real sympathy for honest toilers, who are out of work, and there is a great deal of relief privately and quietly given, and without doubt the needy will be helped, but no amount of city unemployment should deter the government from bringing out men who will go on the farm and stay on the farm.

In August, 1924, Honourable J. A. Lobb signed, for the Canadian Government in the Empire Settlement Scheme, an agreement with the British Government to bring out 3,000 British families from Old Country farms during the next three years. At the present time there are six Canadian officials representing six provinces of the Dominion, overseas making selection from some 7,800 families in Britain who are willing to come to Canada. The Canadian Government will furnish the land, the British Government will furnish transportation and the help to begin farming up to $1,500.00 per family, the loan to be repaid in 25 years at 5% interest. The 3,000 families are now expected in two years' time, instead of three years.

The Soldier Settlement Board, now taken into the department of the Dominion Government Immigration and Colonization Scheme, will assist the newcomers to find suitable farms and the 150 District Supervisors scattered all over the Western provinces will advise with them about Canadian ways of farming and give continued supervision and, if they require it, in time of need will arrange relief. This last year the Soldier Settlement Department has placed about 5,000 immigrants on farms, and after a summer's experience numbers of these men are now located on farms of their own. The Canadian Colonization Association, now taken in as part of the C. P. R. Company, has settled during the summer of 1924 about 350 families and sold them about 60,000 acres of land.

Since April 1st, the beginning of the Government year, the Winnipeg Immigration Office has day by day been booking out newcomers as they arrived at the Hall, and up to December 31 the number sent out totalled 5,833. During the summer 400 Russian Mennonites came to Canada; numbers of them had the means to buy farms and several large 10,000-acre farms were purchased for them and broken into smaller farms. The families will repay the Government in 25 years with 5% interest. Without doubt they will make good. One Mennonite bought an improved farm in Southern Manitoba and had 20 years to pay for it, and the 1924 crop produced as much as the price of the farm. Such experiences are the best advertisements to induce friends of the settlers to come to Canada.

The denominational record for October, November and December is small; only 150 names were sent from the boat records of immigrants; 76 were Presbyterian, 24 Methodist, and 50 European Protestants non-English speaking. These were greeted and their names sent to their respective ministers.

In Hall No. 1 during the last three months 4,180 people were accommodated, an average of 45 present each day. There were 338 newcomers, 117 from England, 28 from Scotland, 29 from Ireland and 164 non-English from the preferred countries of Europe.

In Hall No. 2, for October, November and December, there were 1,097 non-English speaking newcomers; of that number 228 were women and children. A very beautiful Christmas tree was put up for the children of Hall No. 2; there were 16 children well provided with confections and suitable presents. Most of them, and most of their parents, had never seen a Christmas tree or Christmas decorations before, and they were greatly delighted; and all, to the number of 50, enjoyed a turkey dinner.

During the quarter there has been a pressing need for warm winter clothing for men, women and children who came in summer and were not clad for winter. We received 27 parcels and bales containing 7 quilts, over a dozen men's heavy overcoats, and half a dozen coats for women, boots, underwear, etc., etc., and we were able to help 65 people and to fill up odds and ends. The chaplain added $38.30 to help cheer them.

Our Sunday services continue and are interesting and appreciated. We have hundreds of magazines for the readers and numbers of interesting books.

Respectfully submitted,
GEO. F. McCULLAGH.

Editor of The Examiner, City:

Dear Sir.—With your permission, I would like to pass comment upon the letters of Mr. Allan R. Macnab and V. E. Crebar, relative to undrawn poultry, contained in your issue of even date. Mr. Macnab's letter impresses the writer, as being both sensible and businesslike, whilst that of V. E. Crebar can only be considered as a miserable attempt at sarcasm, of which he evidently is a novice, and unworthy of a reply.

Mr. Macnab, in citing an authority, says in part, "Drawn carcasses do not keep nearly as well as undrawn, if the latter are from birds properly starved before killing. You will note "If properly starved before killing."

Now, I will leave it to those who are in the habit of purchasing poultry in our city market, to say if they have been successful in securing a bird with a clean crop, or whether they do not invariably find the crop containing anywhere from 1-2 to 3-4 lb. of feed therein, proving beyond a doubt that the said birds were not "properly starved before killing," but on the other hand, had been purposely "crammed" with food to weigh heavier when sold.

I have considered prices in our fair city with those of larger centres for this particular commodity, and find very little difference, but I have also taken into account the fact that whereas some of these Toronto merchants pay thousands of dollars a year in store rental, whilst most of our farmers are assessed the huge sum of 25 cents for market stand, with little or nothing in the nature of overhead expenses.

I might add that since I first gave my views on the above subject, I have had about fifty persons pass very favorable comment on the matter, and are hoping that a by-law such as I have suggested, is passed, with but the two dissenters herein mentioned.

Your truly,
W. H. HOWARD

Found Guilty of Heresy.

Bishop Brown Convicted by Court of Eight Fellow Bishops.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 16.—(Canadian Press). — Sustaining the trial court which found him guilty of heresy, the court of review of eight bishops of the Protestant Episcopal Church, sitting at Trinity Cathedral yesterday, imposed a sentence which deposes William Montgomery Brown, Galion, Ohio, retired bishop of Arkansas from "sacred ministry."

Joseph Harts, attorney for Bishop Brown, immediately announced that he would carry his fight to the general convention of the Church in New Orleans next September.

AKEY DISMISESD IN O.T.A. CHARGE

Alibi and Lack of Identification Given as Reasons for Dismissal.

In a written judgment today, Magistrate O. A. Langley dismissed the charge of selling liquor contrary to the provisions of the O.T.A., brought against James Akey on evidence of three special provincial officers from Toronto. One of the officers was said to have purchased two bottles of liquor from Akey, who set up an alibi showing he was in Toronto at the time of the supposed sale. The alibi, the magistrate found, was not seriously broken, and could not be broken down without showing several witnesses to be perjurers.

His Worship, in his written judgment, regretted that the special officers had not used the power invested in them by 1924 amendments to the staute, giving them authority to arrest immediately, without a warrant. The man who sold the liquor, Akey or someone else, would then have been in custody, without doubt as to his identity.

J. A. D'Brien appeared for Akey, while J. F. Strickland conducted the prosecution.

HELP IN INVESTIGATION.

Utilities Commission Offers All Possible Assistance to City Council in Judicial Inquiry.

An offer to help in the prosecution of the judicial inquiry into the power accounts of the Campbell Flour Mills, Limited, asked by the City Council, was made at a meeting of the Utilities Commission in the following resolution:

That the secretary write to the Citiy Solicitor and say that the information he had asked for regarding the power accounts of the Campbell Flour Mills Co., had been given him, and that if there is any further information that he desires which can be furnished by the Commission or its officials, they will be pleased to furnish it, for while the Commission charged for the power used by that company in accordance with the Government inspected meters, and also investigated the matter at the request of the Council, so far as they had power to do so, and did not find that power had been used that was not paid for, the Commission is ready to furnish any information in its possession as he thinks may be of assistance in the judicial investigation requested by the Council.

French Revenue For 1925 Will Exceed Expenditure

PARS, Jan. 16 (Canadian Press)—France's revenue for 1925 will exceed her expenditure by thirty-four million francs (1,185,600), according to the forecast of budget committee report.

The first working day of the Chamber of Deputies proved to be a long one. After suspension of Senate following a row between the Nationalists and Communists, work was resumed and continued until two this morning. There was another flare-up near the end of the session when Socialist Emile Goude, stung by reflection cast by an Opposition deputy, threw a glass of water at him. The glass missed its mark but the president's desk was drenched.

STRANGE MIRAGE SANCTUARY LAMP

Picture of Virgin Mary and Infant Child Appears in Roman Catholic Church.

OIL CITY, Pa., January 16 (United Press). — Slowly fading, the mirage of the Virgin Mary and the infant Child in one of the red sanctury lamps of St. Stephen's Roman Catholic Church here, was barely discernable to-day.

The phenomenon, appearing on the shade of the lamp is as mysterious to-day as when it first appeared a week ago, and investigators, including Rev. Father J. F. Fielding, rector of the church, are at a loss to explain it.

The apparition first made its appearance last Saturday morning.

Several members of the congregation of the church noticed a shadow on the sanctuary, and closer observation revealed an outline of the Virgin and the Infant Child.

The illusion was very dim at first, but over Sunday steadily grew brighter until Sunday night it was as plain as a picture.

Father Fielding at first believed the mirage was caused by the reflection of light ,but this was disproved. All other lights in the church were turned off, and the illusion was still plain from the tiny red bulb in the sanctuary lamp, which is suspended from the ceiling by a chain.

The bulb was changed and the lamp shade was changed, but the apparition was even brighter after this was done seveal times.

Efforts to photograph the phenomenon were futile. The vision is about three inches in height. It appears on the outer side of the lamp shade, and nothing is between the electric bulb and the shade to cash a shadow.

Father Fielding told the United Press to-day that he was greatly puzzled by the miracle. He is investigating the illusion from every angle in an effort to trace its origin.

More than 15,000 persons of all denominations have seen the apparition. Many who have witnessed the St. Stephen's miracle declare it is as wonderful and as mysterious as the "Bleeding Thorn" miracle of Naples and the crucified apparition of Spain.

They compared the Spanish miracle, where a wooden crucifix at certain periods virtually becomes "alive," and the face of Christ contrasts in torture with the mirage here.

How much longer the vision of the Virgin Mary and the Child will be visible in St. Stephen's sanctuary lamp no one could say.

All who have seen the miracle say it is inspiring and strange to behold.

No one has been able to explain the apparition. Many sceptical persons who always doubted the manifestation visited the church, and were themselves convinced.

MRS. THORBURN GAVE ADDRESS

Experiences at Wembley and Geneva Proved of Interest to Fair Sized Gathering.

Mrs. Charles Thorburn, who was sent by the Canadian Government as its Commissioner of Immigration to the recent British Exhibition at Wembley, and also represented the Dominion at the Labour Conference at Geneva, gave a very interesting talk on her experiences at Wembley and Geneva at the Public Library Hall yesterday afternoon, at a meeting held under the auspices of the Local Council of Women. There were about one hundred and twenty-five people present at the meeting, which was presided over by the president of the Local Council, Mrs. Arthur Stevenson.

Mrs. Thorburn, who proved to be a charming speaker, with a direct, simple form of address, eloquent language and a fund of humorous anecdote, prefaced her talk with a reference to the good work done by the Local Council of Peterboro', especially with regard to baby welfare.

In concise form, a comprehensive mental view of the British exhibition was afforded Mrs. Thorburn's hearers, the lady touching not only the high lights, but some of the minor matters of interest, in a way that brought home to her audience the Empire exhibition, with all its wonders.

After declaring that their baggage contained "no musical instruments, spirituous liquors or tobacco," the party was "whirled away in a little engine with a toy whistle to London, to see the King." They visited Westminster Abbey, and saw there the beautiful silk colors sent by the Dominion for Wolfe's monumint, "described in the guide-book as one of the most inartistic monuments in the Abbey."

The Official Opening.

The official and gorgeous opening of the Wembley Exhibition was grahically described, from the moment of the entrance of the Queen, "with the usual pale grey toque. But what's the use of being a queen if you can't wear the kind of hat you like. If she wants it, she can stick to it," to the dramatic breaking of the colors and the democratic hand-shake bestowed by the King on the workmen. Mrs. Thorburn referred to the estimate of a cost of £25,000 of the Exhibition made by Lord Strathcona when the project was launched, and to the conservative estimate of its actual cost recently made, as being in the neighborhood of 30,000,000 sterling.

"The word colonial has evidently been dropped out of the language of England," said Mrs. Thorburn, who also said that Canadian goods sent to such an exhibition as this should always have a Canadian in charge of them, and thought that all officials representing the Dominion in the Old Country should be of Canadian birth, and should, moreover, be sent back to Canada every three or four years to freshen their Canadian viewpoint.

Canadian flour poured into a huge vat, and, thirty feet away, Canadian bread emerging in waxed paper wrappers, was one of the marvels of the Canadian exhibit, an exhibit which set the standard for the Imperial possessions, it was declared by the British press. Wheat was the chief Canadian showing, but there were many other things. Mrs. Thorburn referred to the strong efforts made by the young Canadian in charge of the "canned salmon" to get the English people to call it by its proper name, and his final capitulation to their own term of "tinned fish."

The handsome transportation buildings were mentioned, where Mackenzie King and Mr. Meighen's portraits were displayed with those of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Sir John A. MeaDonald, the former two "getting along without the exchange of a single argument all summer."

"This is the first time, I think, that we have been represented in the Old Country without our usual accompaniments of skin clothing, rag carpets and eternal winter weather. I was glad to see that we could get away from the rag carpets for once."

Canadian apples were source of great interest, The Queen of Italy declared them the finest things in the whole exhibition. The young lady in charge of the Australian apple exhibit assured Mrs. Thorburn that the apples of her country were so far ahead of those of the Dominion that Canadian exporters, to sell their fruit, were obliged to label it "Australian."

Mrs. Thorburn spoke of the wonderful exhibits sent by other portions of the Empire, and mentioned in detail a luncheon attended by herself, given by the Efficiency Club, a society of professional women. The president herself, Lady Parsons, is a certified engineer, and one of the guests, a woman of the "clinging vine type, with beautifully-done hair" and lovely gown, turned out to be a consulting fuel expert.

Canadian Jewels.

At this luncheon, the Indian representative, a beautiful woman who was a lawyer, a graduate of Oxford University, with wonderful eyes and a marvellous rope of pearls, made India's usual claim to being the brightest gem in the Imperial crown, and Mrs. Thorburn countered with the declaration that Canada could also lay claim to jewels of her own, with the diamonds and pearls of her winter, the emerald green of her spring, the topaz of her ripe harvest fields, and the glowing rubies of her autumnal tints.

The Dominion representatives also attended a gorgeous ball at Buckingham Palace, along with two thousand guests. There they met the King and Queen and ate from the famous gold plate. Mrs. Thorburn was invited to Cliveden, the residence of Lord and Lady Astor, for a week-end, and saw there the little, beautifully-kept cemetery where thirty Canadian boys lie buried. A brief trip was made, too, to the Canadian cemeteries at Arras.

The Labour Conference.

A bird's-eye view of the Labour Conference at Geneva was given, with a brief description of its conduct and work. The Japanese delegates were the only ones who "swanked," according to the speaker. They drove to and from the conference in limousines, while the others walked. Mrs. Thorburn expressed great admiration for the representatives from the Irish Free State. If she ever goes back again, she declares, saying that was too much to hope for in one lifetime, she will learn to speak French fluently, or else smoke a cigar, as the men smoked cigars constantly.

Some idea of the scope of the sessions of the Conference was given in a glimpse of the agenda, which called for consideration of such things as: "The Development of Facilities for the Utilization of Workers' Spare Time," "Equalization of Treatment Between Native and Foreign Workers as Regards Compensation for Accidents," "Twenty-four Hours in Glass Factories," "Night Work in Bakeries," "Disinfection Against Anthrax," and Unemployment problems.

Mrs. Thorburn concluded with a reference to the contributions by nations to the new Labour building at Geneva. Great Britain is giving four thousand pounds sterling to the project, Italy will give the pictures and France the tapestries, and Canada will give the doors. This was regarded by the speaker as the most wonderful gift that the Dominion could make, and she hoped that these doors of Canada would prove to be "hospitable doors, thrown wide open to the nations of the world, closed always to injustice and unfairness, and oiled with the splendid spirit of international co-operation."

A hearty vote of thanks was moved by Miss A. M. Lancaster and seconded by Dr. Jessie Birnie.

GAVE TRAVELOGUE IN ST. PAUL'S CHURCH

Mr. William McDonald of Chesley, ex-M.P.P. for North Bruce, gave an interesting illustrated travelogue on the Battlefields of the Great War and points of interest in the Old Land, in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church last evening, under the auspices of the King's Daughters.

Between three and four hundred people attended the lecture, which was interspersed with community singing from songs thrown on the screen, with Miss Isobel Donnelly presiding at the piano. The lantern was operated by Mr. H. O. Fisk.

Mr. McDonald, who was introduced by Mr. G. A. Gillespie, took his audience with him in entertaining style to the Old Land, and brought them back after excursions to many places famed in song and story. He interspersed his address with poetic quotations and humorous allusions, delivering his talk in a homely, entertaining fashion that made it very interesting.

The white chalk cliffs of the Isle of Wight was one of the opening pictures, with the marvellous New Forest planted by Wiliam the Conqueror. Scenes in Belgium showed the River Scheldt, with Belgium on one side and Holland on the other, the dyked water twenty feet higher than its surrounding land.

Mr. McDonald showed a picture of Cardinal Mercier, by whom he had evidently become fascinated, as the second greatest man in Belgium after King Albert, and a man of intense and comprehensive kindliness. The Cardinal won the deep regard of the touring publishers with whom Mr. McDonald made his trip by caring for in his own hospital and paying the railway fare to rejoin the party, of a man who became ill while the members were paying their respects to the Cardinal.

The place where Edith Cavell was shot was pictured. Here the martyr nurse, after seeing seven companions shot before her eyes, met her own fate at the hands of a firing party of a dozen men. Eleven bullets riddled her body. The man whose rifle was found with the cartridge still intact was placed in a metal coffin, and his body burned away with acid, as a salutary lesson from his superiors.

The dog-team milk deliveries, the famous Cloth Hall of Ypres, ruined by shellfire, Vimy Ridge, with its blasted trees, and searing memories, the cemetery eight miles from Arras, where white crosses, "row on row," mark the last resting-places of three thousand British soldiers, Generalissimo Foch, all were thrown on the screen.

Paris, with its famous Trocadero gallery, the Eiffel Tower, rising nine hundred and ninety-nine feet in the air, the Church of the Madeleine, with its outer Grecian pillars, fifty-two in number, and its windowless sides, the Louvre, Leoardo da Vinci's celebrated "Mona Lisa," with her inscrutable smile and wonderful hands, the Place de la Concorde and the Champs Elysee, the Arc de Triomphe and the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, the Grand Trianon and the Petit Trianon at Versailles, with Marie Antoinette's Temple of Love, all followed in quick succession.

The British pictures opened with a presentation of Queen Mary in the characteristic stiff coiffure and tight, fitted bodice affected by Her Majesty. Trafalgar Square was shown, and St. Pauls Cathedral, beautiful Hampton Court, Shakespeare's and Anne Hathaway's homes at Stratford-on-Avon, and the home of Marie Corelli. An old Tudor castle, preserved as in the days of its building, with moat and drawbridge intact, was an interesting item. Bath and pretty Torquay and massive Yorkminster were thrown on the screen, with Kenilworth and historic Exeter.

Scottish scenes included views of Edinburgh Castle, the home of John Knox, St. Giles' Cathedral, made famous by Jenny Geddes, the Brig o' Doon, and the Forth Bridge, Glasgow Cathedral, Stirling Castle, and lovely Loch Lomond and Loch Katrine.

Excellent pictures of Sir Walter Scott and Robbie Burns were shown, with a fine portrait of General Wolfe, and the lecture ended with a few views of Belfast and a representation of the ship which brought the company back home "to Canada, the best land on earth."

CHURCH UNION VOTE SUMMARY

Five Big City Churches Vote to Enter the United Church.

Among recent decisions on Church Union are those of Columbia Church, Toronto, with a membership of 1,550, voting with overwhelmingly large vote to enter Union; Mount Dennis Church, Toronto, with a vote of almost four to one in favor of Union; St. Andrew's Church, Vancouver, with large majority for Union; Erskine Church, Montreal, with strong majority for Union, and St. Andrew's Church, Westmount, with a membership of 1,125, going into the United Church by a majority vote of almost seven to one. Of particular interest is the decision of Erskine, Montreal, which the "Antis" hoped to win. A prominent member of this church is Rev. Dr. Ephraim Scott, the voluble Anti-Union writer. In losing his own home church, Dr. Scott shares the fate of Allen C. Thompson of Kew Beach Church, Toronto, and of Judge McKay of St. Paul's Church, Port Arthur. These men are prominent "Presbyterian Church Association" leaders, whose influence in their own churches proved ineffective to prevent their churches entering the United Church.

Church vote summary, issued by headquarters in Toronto today, follows:

	For.	Agst
British Columbia	23	3
Alberta	44	7
Saskatchewan	297	10
Ontario	228	120
Quebec	48	11
Nova Scotia	58	14
P. E. Island	12	4

In Manitoba and New Brunswick no vote can be taken until after June 10th.

NEW YORK

The market has sold off considerably during the last few days and though the market is not as broad as before, considerable strength has been displayed. The industrial news is cheerful from all quarters and more especially from the steel, copper and oil centres. The increase in gasoline prices will probably spread to other sections.

CHICAGO.

Grains.—Heavy selling pressure was put on the market this morning depressing wheat prices nearly two cents from yesterday's close. Fairly strong buying came into the market in the late afternoon, causing an upswing to within a fraction of the day's highest. The close was strong.

GIRL MAINTAINS A SMILING MASK

Attended Party a Few Hours After the Murder of Her Mother.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 16 (Can. Press). — Pleasure-loving Dorothy Ellingson, 16 years old, confessed slayer of her mother, Mrs. Anna Ellingson, maintained today her smiling mask of indifference that had characterized her attitude since her arrest yesterday, charged with murder.

Emerging from 12 hours of questioning today, the girl still was the "life of the party."

The police today had rounded up three of seventeen young men for whom warrants were issued for contributing to the delinquency of a minor. They included David Stein, in whose apartment Dorothy was said to have attended a party a few hours after the death of her mother; Keith Lord, arrested in Venice, Calif. where he was playing in an orchestra, and Harry Lesser alias Chemitz, was taken into custody here. All are musicians. More arrests were expected today.

Her father and brother confronted the girl in the city prison yesterday; the former sorrowful and pleading; the boy stern and unforgiving. The brother repudiated the advances of his sister when she sought to embrace him in the cell. With a cry, "don't touch me, you killed our mother," the young man pushed her from him.

The shooting came as a climax to a long series of family differences over the girl's actions. Her father and mother had quarrelled because of the clandestine life their daughter admits she led. The mother defended her daughter, and the father left home. After the girl shot her mother to death, according to her confession, she took $45 from a purse in the same room and went on a "wild party."

She had rented a room two miles from her home, and thereafter read papers containing the account of her mother's death.

She was arrested through information given the police by one of her male companions.

A GOLD STANDARD.

South Africa is Now Above Gold Parity.

PRETORIA, South Africa, Jan. 16.— (Canadian Press.)— Report advocating return to gold standard which was made upon invitation of government by Professor V. W. Kemmerer of Princeton University and Dr. G. Vissering, President of Netherlands Bank of Amsterdam, points out that South Africa is found to have been for some time near gold parity and is now above parity.

Commissioners conclude that further deflation is needless as South Africa's gold position is very strong and gold is more stable than "managed paper money."

Commissioners claim following advantages for this course:

First— Greater stability of purchasing power at home and abroad.

Second —Greater stability of rates of interest and lower level for real interest rates.

Third— Stability of exchange with countrys possessing gold standard, number of which is continually increasing.

Fourth — Greater confidence in South Africa abroad.

Fifth—Greater confidence of labor.

Sixth—More convenient and sanitary currency, and seventh, benefit to gold industry which will be secured by encouraging other countries to return to gold standard.

KIWANIS HEAR TALK ON CRIME

Police Chief Tells of Several Methods of Preventing Crime—Proud of Force.

Chief of Police Samuel Newhall was the speaker at to-day's Kiwanis luncheon, and delivered an interesting address on the "Prevention of Crime."

Chief Newhall, who has been on the police force for the past 28 years, says that it was much easier to keep down crime when he first joined the police force than it is to-day, and that the first thing that is necessary to prevent crime is an up-to-date police force, composed of honest, unapproachable men, who are equipped with all the conveniences necessary in their work.

"I am proud of our present police force, and I think the citizens of Peterborough ought to be," said the speaker, "We have one of the most efficient forces in the Dominion of Canada and are looked up to by the police of other cities.

"In selecting a constable a country man is preferred, because he is not as likely to have been mixed up with vice as a city man. He is given his beat to watch, consisting in some cases of seven or eight blocks. While on his beat he is to mark down and hand in a report of everything interesting that happens. In a short time he knows where and when to find the gamblers and the night prowlers. If he runs across a suspicious looking person he makes a note about him, and tells the detectives about him in the morning. The detectives then find out the person's name, where he lives and what his business is. If after being closely watched he still acts suspiciously he is summoned to the police station, and examined, and in nine cases out of ten these suspicious characters are found guilty of one offence or another. Our officers are so stationed that at any hour of the night we can find them within two minutes. If something happens on a constable's beat and he does not report it he is punished. A constable has to be a man of iron, for he does not know when he is going to be hit over the head or plugged with a bullet. He works in all kinds of weather, and takes abuse from everybody, yet he does not not hardly draw a laborer's pay."

"During the past year," said the Chief, "three hundred and forty adults have been brought into my office and examined, and out of this number not one man has appeared in court after I warned him. There have been about five hundred children from the ages of 12 to 17 years, appear in my office for a warning and not more than 15 of these children have appeared in court later. This is the real prevention of crime. Stop the men, women and children from breaking the law before they become criminals. The children are harder to handle than the adults. They have to be treated in a different way from the adults and in some cases where their parents cannot control them they have to be whipped. A number of parents ask us to whip their children but we generally tell them to do their own yhipping.

Once a constable makes out his report for the chief and another for the detectives he is through with the case. It is up to the chief and the detectives to do the rest. When a constable arrests a man and brings him in he is through with that job, and it is none of his business wehther the man is set free or not. When he arests a man and brings him safely to the station he has done his duty, and that is all that is expected of him.

In concluding his address, Chief Newhall spoke very highly of the Kiwanis Club and some of their Kiwanis Club and some of the work they have done in saving youths from being sent to prison.

A motion of thanks was made to the speaker by Mr. G. N. Gordon, M.P., and President Charles Cooke presided.

HISTORY OF THE WAR.

Dr. Masarks Works Will Appear in Four Languages.

PRAGUE, Jan. 16 (United Press). —During the early part of 1925 the memoirs of Czechoslovakia's president Dr. Masaryk will be given to the world in four languages. Versions will be published in English, French and German as well as in his native Czech language. In this city it is reported that these reminiscences will bear the title; "The World Revolution During the War and Within the War, 1914-1918."

The book deals not only with a description of Dr. Masaryk's experience and activities as leader of the Czech revolution against the Hapsburg rule, but also contains a philosophical treatment of the factors underlying the national Czech psychology. In nine chapters President Masaryk describes his work in America and Switzerland and also explains the role played by "Pan-Slavism" in the World War.

EVIDENCE REPEATED.

Home Bank Case Drags Along With Casey Wood on Trial.

TORONTO, Jan. 16.—(Canadian Press.)—Crown continued to submit formal evidence in trial of S. Casey Wood, Home Bank director, this morning. Several witnesses identified the same books and repeated their evidence given in previous trials. Alfred G. Glemmick, who was secretary of J. H. Daly Company in Ottawa, in speaking of the affairs of that concern, said that Mr. Daly was always an optimist. John C. Austin, Montreal, told of debts created by ships Paipoonge and Vaudreuil, held by the bank as security for liabilities of C. A. Barnard.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

CHURCH UNION.

Editor, Examiner:

Dear Sir,— It has been reported to me that it is alleged I have given the opinion that any congregation which joins the United Church will be compelled to pay its pastor two thousand dollars per year, and in default of paying such a salary to its pastor, it may belevied upon the congregation by taxation.

It is needless to say that I gave no such opinion, and there is no such foundation for such a statement.

I might add further that I have given no opinions regarding the Church Union matter, although invoted frequently to do so; and I think the public can quite appreciate my reasons for declining to give expression to any views in the matter.

Yours truly,
G. N. GORDON.

The schoolmistress was about to dismiss the class for the holidays. "Now, children," she said, "I hope that you will have a very pleasant time, and, what is more important, that you will all come back with a bit of sense in your heads." Promptly came the chorus of voices, "Same to you, miss."

A small boy came to school one day with dirty hands. "Tommy," the teacher said to him, "I wish you wouldn't come to school with such dirty hands. What would you say if I came to school with dust and ink all over my fingers?" "I wouldn't say anything," answered the child, promptly. "I'd be too polite."

HOT LUNCH FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN

Conditions in the Brighton School May be Improved —School Club Meeting.

BRIGHTON, Jan. 16.—The Home and School Club held their first regular meeting in the assembly hall of the school.

The president, Mrs. K. Montgomery, called the meeting to order, and in a few appropriate words, outlined the aims and purposes of the club. The programme committee had arranged that this meeting should be in charge of the gentlemen, and accordingly the president called upon Mr. G. S. Langdon to occupy the chair, Mr. O. L. Morrow to act as secretary, Mr. J. H. Fris as treasurer and Mr. W. R. Freeman as pianist.

The minutes and reports were read and approved. The programme followed consisting of a "sing-song," a solo by Mrs. E. W. McHenry, which was greatly appreciated, an excellent piano solo by Mr. W. R. Freeman, and a song by the male quartette, consisting of Messrs. Wilson, Little, Brown and Bullis. During the evening Mr. E. W. McHenry gave a splendid address on "The Boy Problem." In this small space it is impossible to do justice to the fine address of Mr. McHenry. The speaker proved himself capable and competent to advise and guide boys. The keynote of his talk was sympathy for boys and an understanding of their problems.

He showed the necessity of having available means by which the boys' activities might have a legitimate outlet, declaring that the rink was of great use along this line.

So much time had been taken up in business that Dr. Rundle thought it advisable to leave his address until another meeting. The club is looking forward to his talk on "The Pioneer Schools of Brighton" at the next meeting.

A very pleasant contest was enjoyed by all, after which dainty refreshments were served.

A committee, consisting of Mr. J. H. Frise, Mr. C. B. Thorne, Mrs. (Dr.) Rundle and Mrs. J. Brown, was chosen to visit the school some noon hour and note conditions under which pupils eat lunch and consider the advisability of introducing the hot-lunch system.

The next meeting will be on Friday, February 13 at 8 p.m. in the assembly hall of the school.

CASE LAID OVER.

Hamilton Murder Trial Comes to Temporary Conclusion.

HAMILTON, Jan. 16.— (Canadian Press.)— Justice Mowta, at Assizes to-day, released Mrs. Boytoizes, Panko and Yakimshabaha and Mike Rodyep, who were charged with the murder of Joe Boytoizae, husband of the woman. They were to be tried this week on murder charge but when the court declined to hear evidence of two small sons of the dead man, Crown decided not to proceed with the case at present.

All four are to report to the police once a week until the spring assizes, when they will be put on trial on a charge of being accessory after fact.

BULLOCK APPEAL WAS DISMISSED

Judge Huycke Upholds Judgment of Police Magistrate.

The following appeal was dismissed by His Honor Judge Huycke:

Mr. G. W. Hatton, K.C., for the Crown.

Mr. G. N. Gordon, K.C., for the defendant Bullock.

This is an appeal by the Crown from an order of Mr. Langley, Police Magistrate for the County of Peterboro. The information was laid by Norman F. Maker, a police constable, and charged Bullock that he at the Township of Smith, on Friday, 12th of December, 1924, while intoxicated, did unlawfully drive a motor vehicle contrary to Section 285 (c) of the Criminal Code.

The Learned Magistrate dismissed the charge at that time, and the Crown officers appealed, chiefly, I presume, to indicate how very serious a charge this is, and what a menace it is to the community generally. There is no doubt that a motor car in the hands of a drunken man is one of the most serious problems of to-day, and is a standing danger to the community. The Crown officers are therefore to be commended in their anxiety to stop such proceedings and minimize public danger, and in all that they have my unqualified approval. But all this does not mean that every one charged is guilty, and does not mean that a person can be convicted on inference only and in the absence of positive and satisfactory evidence.

John Eastwood was coming from Buckhorn to Peterboro, his car broke down about three or four miles south of Buckhorn. He telephoned Bullock, a garage man, at Lakefield, to come and fix his car, which was done. Bullock drove out in his own car and worked some three and a half or four hours at the Eastwood car, finally getting it fixed and going. Just when the job was complete Maker and two others drove past. Something attracted their attention and excited suspicion, with the result that they got out, and Maker and Mr. Buller say that Bullock was then intoxicated or under the influence of liquor. Eastwood was the only person with Bullock at that time, and Eastwood says that Bullock had no liquor while there to drink so far as he knew.

I am asked to infer that for this reason, that if Bullock was intoxicated then that he must have been intoxicated three or four hours before when he drove his car from Lakefield to the place of the breakdown. The Magistrate found that this was too violent an assumption, and I agree with him.

The appeal will therefore be dismissed.

Dated at Peterboro this 14th day of January, 1925.

E. C. S. HUYCKE, Judge.

Newcomers Responsible.

ADELAIDE, Jan. 16 (Canadian Press).—The two new comers to the present series of Test matches between England and Australia, Ryder and Andrews, were mainly responsible for the creditable showing made by the Antipodeans in the first inning of the third Test at the close of the first day's play, the score being 275 for 7 wickets. Coming together at the fall of the sixth wicket they added 134 runs before Andrews fell victim to Kilner, having scored 72 runs. Ryder was unbeaten when the stumps were drawn, having obtained a similar number of runs.

IN MILLBROOK AND DISTRICT

MILLBROOK, Jan. 16.—The Wide-Awakes C.G.I.T. group held its annual meeting on Wednesday evening, with eleven members in attendance, the retiring president, Marjorie Sayle being in the chair.

The secretary's report showed fourteen on the roll in January, 1924, five removals during the year, eight new members recently joined and initiated, seventeen being enrolled at present. There are three honorary members—Mrs. A. J. Brown, who has always been a warm friend of the girls, giving practical evidence of her interest in many ways; Mrs. (Rev.) S. T. Tucker, and Miss Gladys Tucker, of Orono, who were members of the group when it was first started.

The total attendance during the year totalled 152, with an average of nine. Fifteen regular meetings were held, with a number of special ones, including two for the Young Peoples' League, one for the Ladies' Aid, one at which the group was entertained at the home of Mrs. A. J. Brown, one at Cobourg last summer, and extra business sessions.

The treasurer's report, given by Elsie Spence, was equally encouraging, though the balance on hand is small owing to the fact that it took over forty dollars to send two members to the C.G.I.T. training camp at Lake Couchiching last July.

The election of officers for 1925 gave the following result:

President, Jean L. Burnham; vice-president, Elsie Spence; secretary, Margaret Howard; treasurer, Marjorie Sayles; herald, Marie Kenyon; organist, Hazel McMahon; asst. organist, Etta Peel; programme committee—Wilma Fallis, Pearl Davis, Eleanor Fallis, Flossie McMahon.

After the devotional period, a good time was enjoyed with games of various kinds before the gathering dismissed with "Taps," the C.G.I.T. closing verse.

L.O.L. Social.

A very enjoyable social occasion was furnished by the basket social and dance held in the Town Hall under the auspices of L.O.L., No. 99, which was well attended—round and square dances being arranged for.

Excellent music was provided by Byam's four-piece orchestra, Mr. L. S. Morton being a capable floor manager. Mr. H. Roddy auctioned off the baskets, an abundant supply being on hand and all artistically trimmed. Bidding was brisk, Mrs. E. Kenyon's basket bringing the highest price, $1.75. Several went at $1.50, others at somewhat below that figure. The financial returns increased the funds of the local lodge to a satisfactory degree. Judging by the comments heard, a similar event, put on in the near future, would prove decidedly popular.

Rev. Dr. Harper, secretary of the Department of Social Service and Evangelism, Toronto, who preached in the Methodist Church on Sunday morning, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. McKnight during his stay in the village. Dr. Harper preached at Fairmount in the afternoon and at Cavanville at night.

Mr. W. Jeffrey, of Port Perry, whose son has purchased the Dominion Hotel premises and intends fitting it up for a creamery, was a business visitor in town on Thursday.

Hockey

In a closely contested game at Brock Street Arena last evening, the Commerce-Toronto team emerged victorious over the Royal-Union by a margin of one goal.

The game was exceptionally clean and provided many thrills for the numerous spectators, the score being tied twice.

Baird, McWilliams, and Sutcliffe provided a fast forward line for the winners, and were very ably assisted by McQueen and Herbison on the defence.

McQueen turned in a wonderful exhibition of back-checking, although he played in goal during the greater part of the game.

O'Neill and Hollingsworth were the best for the losers, especially the former, considering his advanced years.

Stan. (Harry) Watson was at left wing for the losers, and did very well.

LORD LONSDALE KIND TO CROOKS, LIVES UP TO TITLE

Gives Man Who Stole His Watch $200 to Start Business

PROPERTY SACRED

Thief Who Preys on Him by Mistake Always Returns Loot

To regard stealing a man's watch as an introduction and an excuse for asking him for financial assistance is not the normal method, but a London crook has just tried this successfully on the Earl of Lonsdale, famous sporting peer.

Lord Lonsdale, immortalized in innumerable photographs by his typical John Bull face and inevitable huge cigar, has many admirers among the crooks and denizens of the "demi-monde," but few greater compliments have been paid him than that referred to above.

Fifteen years ago, Lord Lonsdale was leaving the Gaiety Theatre, London, when he was relieved of his watch, a particularly prized gold presentation affair worth more than $500. Lonsdale did not worry a lot because he knew many of the "regulars" in the underworld and intended putting through discreet inquiries about his "clock" anyway, with tolerable certainty that it would be returned to him in due course.

RETURNS HIS LOOT.

The thief, however, was not one of the "regulars," but he soon saw from the inscription to whom it belonged and, remembering Lord Lonsdale's reputation for giving a generous hand to the down-and-outs, he promptly returned it with apologies — dropping it through the letter-box at Lonsdale's London residence. Incidentally Lord Lonsdale has frequently had stolen property returned this way.

Recently the crook wrote to Lord Lonsdale recalling the Gaiety Theatre incident and mentioning that he was really trying to reform, but could not get the necessary capital to make a start. Could His Lordship help?

To the surprise and delight of the crook, Lonsdale promptly replied, asking how he could help and what kind of work he proposed to do. Lord Lonsdale's reply said in part: "Thank you very much for your letter and your amusing reference to an incident outside the Gaiety, when I gather you were anxious to see the time and thought my watch was probably the more accurate. I am wearing it tonight."

The crook answered that he could do barbering, but needed about $200 to purchase stock-in-trade. He mentioned that if Lord Lonsdale felt like helping but was not too trustful as to the use that would be put to his money, he might send it to the Rev. S. J. Hooper, a Wimbledon minister who, "although a parson, was a jolly good fellow."

The sporting earl promptly sent $200 to the clergyman and wrote the crook: "You have done a very wise thing putting yourself in the hands of a fine man, like the Rev. Mr. Hopper. You say he is a parson. I can only say that like all individuals and horses, some run straight and some do not. Here, in your view, you have one who will run true either in a selling race or in the Ascot Gold Cup. So trust him, as I do when sending him something that may set you up in your barber trade. May he buy you good enough razors and scissors to enable you to 'cut the past' and start you on a 'clean shave.' Start afresh and in years to come, if I meet you, nobody will be more pleased than, Yours very truly, Lonsdale."

PLAYED THE GAME.

Details of the incident, which came from the Rev. Mr. Hooper, caused little surprise, because Lord Lonsdale's unfailing desire to help the under dog is stale history; but it has further endeared the famous peer (if that were possible) to the crooks of England. Lonsdale for years has been one of the few men who could go in the roughest quarters wearing valuable watches, solitaires or other trinkets without danger of life or pocket. His features are known to practically every Britisher and his goods are sacred to all crooks. Now and then, "in a rush" at some disreputable boxing show, Lonsdale has lost his "clock" or pin or pocketbook, but the moment the word has gone round of his loss it has been returned with apologies.

Not once but many times has Lord Lonsdale had thrust into his hands a watch he did not know he had lost, with a husky "Beg pardon, me-Lord; didn't notice it was you." And Lonsdale always "played the game" and did not trouble the police.

Lonsdale's interest in life is horses, animals generally and down-and-out humanity. He is to be found at all horse shows, boxing exhibitions—good, bad and indifferent—hunt meetings and on some race tracks. And his hand is always in his pocket for the down-and-outs who have such a hard time getting alms from the ordinary charitable person.

Extremely wealthy and owner of numerous castles and residences, Lonsdale has a reputation unique in the British peerage. And he has a good time acting up to it, which he does quite naturally and without affectation. His chief "industry" is smoking huge cigars, and when he is seen without a cigar in his mouth the camera men get busy.

INVESTS MONEY BY BUCKETFUL

Although old stockings and teapots as receptacles for savings are passing away, the Mayor of Blackburn, at the annual meeting of the Blackburn Savings Bank, mentioned that not long ago a woman invested a bucketful of sixpenny pieces, representing over £200.

"PSHAW!" SAYS JUDGE TO FINANCIAL DEAL

When a limited company firm of moneylenders appeared in the Shoreditch County Court it was said that a loan had ben made to a railway porter.

Judge Cluer—What a contemptible thing to form a limited company to lend to a railway porter. Lend to young fools, the sons of rich men. You will always do that; but a railway porter. Pshaw!

Hull Baby Takes Away Valuable Load Of Radium

A small tube of radium, worth £400, part of a supply worth £2,000 presented to Hull Royal Infirmary, was reported missing.

EIGHTY YEARS IN ONE PUBLIC-HOUSE

Death of Landlady Whose Family Held License for Century

For more than a century the licensee of the Royal Standard Inn, Virginia Water, Surrey, has been in the family of Mrs. Eliza Attfield, who was born there 80 years ago, and has just died there. Her residence for so many years in the same public-house probably constitutes a record.

As a girl of 10 years she visited the camp formed on Chobham Common before the Crimean War, and the soldiers from the camp used to visit the inn. She remembered the cutting that was made for the railway at Virginia Water, and saw the first train come through.

For 35 years she held the Royal Standard's license, before which her husband and mother held it for many years.

BOY MURDER CASE STIRS BRISTOL CITY

Little Chap Found Strangled in Field—Youth Arrested

Pathetic circumstances surround the tragedy of Gilbert Caleb Amos, a fair-haired boy of eight, who was found strangled in a field near the railway station at Staple Hill, Bristol.

His father and mother, who had been out shopping all the evening, thought when they returned home that their children were safe in bed. The mother went to their bedroom to kiss them "good night," and she then discovered that Gilbert was not in bed with his brother Willie, aged seven.

The parents searched for four hours, and were then informed that Gilbert's body had been found.

William Francis Albert Bressington, a youth living near, reported that he had seen a boy's body in a field.

Bressington was afterwards taken into custody and was remanded at Bristol Police Court on a charge of murder. He was in such a state of collapse that he had to be carried from the dock to the cells.

CARRIER PIGEON TO GET DOCTOR

Injured Man's Long Wait on Lonely Island

The story of a cranesman's ordeal on Ailsa Craig, the rocky island famous for its birds off the Ayrshire coast, has reached Girvan.

The cranesman, George Taylor, of Aberdeen, was precipitated into the sea with his crane, which collapsed whilst loading granite setts. He rebounded like a cork, and succeeded in getting out of the water, but was badly cut and bruised.

A beacon fire was lighted for medical aid, but was not seen at Girvan. A carrier pigeon was dispatched, but did not reach Girvan.

A second pigeon was sent two days after the accident. It arrived and Dr. MacDougall sailed for the island and attended to the man.

FOOTBALL MATCH STOPPED BY MUD

Referee Unable to Distinguish Players, Has to Clean Them

During the second half of the Rugby county championship game between Cumberland and Yorkshire at Kendal, the players became so plastered with mud from head to toe that the referee was unable to distinguish between them.

He accordingly decided to stop the game, which will have to be replayed. Cumberland were then leading by 6 points to 0.

This is the first time on record that a county Rugby game has been stopped for such a reason.

WRECK OF LONDON-PARIS AIR EXPRESS AT CROYDON

Seven Brides for Seven Canadian Farmers Sought in England

Seven young men who went to Canada from Essex twelve years ago have returned in search of brides.

One of them, Cecil Bolt, desires to find a practical young woman who would enter into a business partnership with him on his farm. He intends to visit agricultural colleges at Reading, Wye, and Swanley in search of a partner.

"I have only one hundred and sixty acres, six horses, half a dozen cows, a herd of bullocks, and a flock of sheep," he said. "I have a comfortable home, and in my mother a first-class housekeeper. I just want a nice sweet English girl, used to country life, and really fit to be a farmer's wife."

MOTHER'S INTUITION SENSES TRAGEDY

Man Went to Victim's House to Telephone for Help

One of the men in charge of a steam lorry, after an accident near Grimsby, in which a young motor-cyclist had been killed and a girl riding pillion behind him seriously injured, rushed to North Cotes, the nearest village, for help.

He asked a woman at the first house he reached where he could find a telephone or the police.

"What is the matter?" she asked.

He explained that a boy and a girl had been hurt in a motor-cycle collision.

"Oh" said the woman, "they are my bairns."

By a coincidence he had gone to the victims' house.

SHORTS FROM THE COURTS

Willesden woman: My little boy ten years old was kicked by another young man.

"I am a bit guilty," declared a woman accused of drunkenness at Willesden.

"A man is the easiest thing in the world to deceive, but don't do it too often as I did."—Woman, sadly, at Shoreditch County Court.

Deaf man at Willesden: I cannot hear a word the witness says, but experience tells me he is not speaking the truth.

Husband at Tottenham: I am much attached to my wife. Magistrate: At the moment you appear to be detached.

Mansfield man: I am not a real thief because I have a lot of children to keep.

ESCAPES JAIL ON TECHNICAL FLAW

A sentence of five years' penal servitude passed on Davis Harris at Chelmsford Assizes for the alleged possession of housebreaking implements by night in Southend was quashed by the Court of Criminal Appeal.

It was contended successfully that the jury were misdirected by the judge on the law, and the court held that if a man were apprehended before 9 p.m. he could not be convicted of possessing housebreaking implements by night.

Censor Bans Verse Of Song Caricature Of Living Politicians

The Lord Chamberlain has censored the verse of a song which was to have been sung by Miss Hermoine Baddeley in the Co-optimists' new show, in which Winston Churchill, Ramsey MacDonald and Lloyd George were caricatured.

Three of the men Co-optimists were to have appeared as the politicians.

The Co-optimists were informed by the Lord Chamberlain's official that he was not in favor of caricaturing living politicians on the stage. He realized that the Co-optimists would give the item in good taste, but he feared that small touring companies who copy London shows might carry the burlesque to excess.

PEDESTRIANS' RIGHT TO ROAD UPHELD

At Newcastle-on-Tyne, John Winter and William Henry Winter, miners, of Washington, were awarded £75 and £60 respectively against Henry McCormack, bus proprietor, whose bus ran over them. The defence was contributory negligence by walking on the road instead of the footpath. Judge Greenwell said such a defence was the height of impudence.

FOOL-PROOF VALVE WELCOME BOON TO ALL RADIO FANS

British Wireless Engineers Have Abolished the Accumulator

IS INEXPENSIVE

Can Be Overrun With Current Without Any Damage

An invention of great importance to wireless amateurs is a new valve which which has been made by Dr. Leonard Levy and Mr. West. By a curious coincidence another British wireless engineer, A. C. Hyde, has made the same discovery, and the three inventors have collaborated and have succeeded in making a dull emitter valve which entirely does away with the necessity of the accumulator—that bugbear of the listener-in.

The valve used in wireless depends on the stream of electrons shot off, as it were, by an incandescent filament which is raised to incandescence by passing through it a current from an accumulator. There have recently been introduced valves which produce this stream of electrons when made merely red hot with the use of an ordinary cell or two, but they have disadvantages.

The secret of these dull emitter valves, as they are called, is that the tungsten filaments are coated with thorium, but powerful micro-photographs have revealed the fact that the thorium has been present only in the form of minute globules of metal on the tungsten wire.

The discovery has been made that if the thorium is deposited upon a wire made of the metal molybdenum, the molybdenum wire becomes completely coated with thorium, and the new valve is therefore made with molybdenum which is coated with thorium.

A great advantage of the valve is that it can be overrun with electricity without any fear, while the present dull emitter valve is easily ruined by such a procedure. In fine, a valve has been discovered which can be run from a small and inexpensive dry battery which gives greatly superior signals without any fear of damage by inexperienced handling, and the accumulator will become a thing of the past.

Welsh Coal Baron Was Former Assistant In Shop at Llanelly

Rumor credits Evan Jones, J.P., of Llanelly, who began his career as a draper's assistant, and is now reputed to be a millionaire, with having disposed of his Trimsaran anthracite collieries for £500,000.

Mr. Jones, who is an ex-Sheriff of the County of Cardigan, declines, for the present, either to confirm or deny the report.

Quite early in life, Mr. Jones acquired a group of drapers' shops owned by his employers which formed the most important block of buildings in Llanelly.

Later, he became the director of the Llanelly tin stamping industry, and also interested himself in a large number of collieries, in addition to owning a fleet of steamers in South Wales and on the Continent.

A few years ago he purchased from a London man the Trimsaran Colliery, which was a very small concern at the time, only employing a few men.

Mr. Jones developed the property and converted it into one of the finest anthracite concerns in the country. Nearly 1,000 men are now employed in the district.

Mr. Jones also owns the mining village of Trimsaran and a number of works in the neighborhood.

HUGE PROFITS IN SALE OF TOBACCO

The British-American Tobacco Company, which has a paid-up capital of £20,500,000, has made a net profit this year of £4,866,265, as compared with £4,404,972 last year.

Dividends for the year are made up to 26¼ per cent., tax free, against 25 per cent., tax free, last time.

Last year £3,531,846 was carried forward, and this is now increased to £3,914,115.

Infected Milk is Cause of Diphtheria Epidemic in Cheshire

An epidemic of diphtheria affecting nearly fifty people has broken out at Hale, Cheshire. In one house all the members of the family are ill.

It is believed that the infection is from milk supplied from another district, and further supplies have been prohibited.

Fifteen cases of smallpox have been notified at Ashington, Northumberland including one in the house of a member of the council, whose wife, it is stated, refused to allow a notice to be posted on the house indicating the existence of the disease there.

SWEEPSTAKE OF ANY KIND IS ILLEGAL AND PENALTY MAY BE HEAVY

A warning to promoters of illegal sweepstakes has been given by the Attorney-General in the King's Bench Division, London.

Mr. Justice Roche had before him a series of information brought by the Attorney-General against Barber and others claiming penalties against eight members or officials of the Brierclift Working Men's Club, near Burnley, in respect of their having published notices relating to a lottery or sweepstakes in connection with the result of the Manchester November Handicap of 1923.

The Attorney-General (Sir Douglas Hogg, K.C.), who appeared for the Crown, said the defendants would withdraw the plea of not guilty and substitute a plea of guilty on one count in each of the eight cases, and the Crown would accept a penalty of £50 in each of the eight cases.

200,000 TICKETS.

Under the Lotteries Act it was not permissible to publish any invitation to subscribe to a lottery or take part in one.

Unfortunately last year a number of clubs, chiefly in the north of England, seemed to think it would be perfectly legal to run sweepstakes, provided they did so for their own members. That, of course, was a complete misconception, for no one could run a sweepstake, whether they confined it to one class of the population or whether they did so broadcast, and, in fact, in this particular case, subscriptions were received from China and India and all over England.

The defendants ran a sweepstake on the Manchester November Handicap and announced that they expected to get rid of 200,000 tickets at ten shillings each, and that there would be £90,000 in prizes. The sweepstake was advertized in the local papers, while tickets were being sold at football matches at places like Swindon and Reading.

The police took steps to stop it, but the defendants took the view that they were acting legally and proceeded to draw for the prizes, and he understood someone won a prize of £10,000.

The committee, however, said that owing to police interference they had only sold just over 20,000.

SELECTED DEFENDANTS.

The law having thus been defied, the Crown thought it right to institute proceedings against the printers, secretary and three or four active members of the committee which ran the sweepstake. These were selected as being typical persons, and the Crown only prosecuted in regard to a few selected cases in which tickets were sold to policemen and policewomen, who asked for tickets and got them without demur, although not members of the club.

The Attorney-General added that he wished to make it clear that although he was accepting a plea of guilty on one count in each information it must not be taken that people in the future could with impunity run sweepstakes of this kind and expect to get off with a penalty of £50. If they sold 20,000 tickets the penalty might be £100,000.

Mr. T. Eastham, K.C., for the defendants, said there was no doubt they were entirely wrong, but they had collected so much money that when the police interfered they did not know what to do and thought the best way was to proceed with it.

Under the judge's direction the jury returned a verdict of guilty on the first count on the first information.

The judge allowed a plea of guilty to be entered on the first count in the other seven cases.

Judgment was entered for the Crown for a total of £400 penalties, with costs.

Testator Protests In Will Against Taxing of Charity

A protest against the taxation of charitable legacies is made in the will of Mr. Edmund Charles Pendleton Hull, of Park Gate House, Ham Common, Richmond, who died on November 8th, leaving £278,140.

Mr. Hull stated that in view of the heavy duties payable in respect of charitable bequests, "which I regard as an improper source of public revenue," he left no legacies to charitable institutions, but stated that he had made considerable gifts in his lifetime.

SIR ROBERT HORNE LEAVES BALDWINS

Baldwins Limited announces that that board has received with much regret a letter from Sir Robert Horne announcing that on account of his many engagements he reluctantly finds it necessary to resign his position as vice-chairman of the company.

Irishman's Adventure In 20-Ton Ketch On Atlantic Ocean

News which has just been received in Dublin that Conor O'Brien, in his 20-tons ketch, the Saoirse (Erse for "freedom"), has reached Port Stanley, Falkland Islands.

Mr. O'Brien, who fought with distinction as a naval officer in the war, left Kingstown in June last year in his ketch to sail round the world with a crew of two. Stormy weather in the Atlantic forced him to put into Pernambuco, Brazil, for repairs. He reached Capetown in October 1923 and Melbourne, Australia, last February. He then went to Auckland, New Zealand, and from there carried mails to the Friendly Islands, 1,000 miles distant.

His sister received a telegram announcing that he had rounded Cape Horn, South America, and reached Port Stanley. The ketch is 42 feet long.

Mr. O'Brien has so far sailed more than 20,000 miles.

MARQUIS IN ROLE OF FIREFIGHTER

Fire broke out in a bedroom of Lowesby Hall, Leicestershire, where the Marquis of Blandford, heir to the Duke of Marlborough, is staying for the hunting season.

The Marquis led the attack on the fire, and he and his servants managed to confine it to the room in which it originated. The room was badly damaged. The fire brigade were summoned, but their services were not needed.

TWO MINISTERS ON HAIR BOBBING

"I feel I could expel from the church all the girls who cut their bonnie hair," said the Rev. Duncan Cameron, presiding at Kilsyth Parish Church (Stirlingshire), annual soiree.

The Rev. J. F. Dean, of Falkirk, entirely agreed with Mr. Cameron, because a woman who bobbed her hair was depriving herself of the greatest possession any woman could have. She was giving up part of her individuality.

A youth of 18 fined at Westminster Police Court yesterday was said to have given up work at 25s. a week to draw 18s. a week dole.

Spoons in Stomach Clinked When Victim Turned Over in Bed

Two dessert spoons, each about 9 inches long, swallowed two years ago by Cecil P. Baines, aged 28, were removed from his stomach recently at the David Lewis Northern Hospital, Liverpool.

The spoons were swallowed while Baines was in prison, it is alleged, in an attempt to commit suicide.

An X-ray examination showed that both spoons were near his ribs.

"I have never known similar articles to remain in a person's stomach so long," said the surgeon who performed the operation.

Baines had complained of pain, and said the spoons clinked together as he turned over in bed and woke him up.

ARE BOYS OF 14 FIT FOR OFFICE LIFE?

Recent criticisms of the British educational system by Sir William Bull, M.P., and his remark that boys of 14 are not ready to go immediately into office life, have led Mr. C. Pearce, of the West London Teachers' Association, to challenge Sir William to prove that it is not possible to find a boy suited to office work in the West Hammersmith schools.

Sir William Bull has accepted the challenge, and states that he will give a guinea to the boy or girl of 14 years who accomplishes best this test:

Adds up a column of figures correctly at sight.

Writes a simple business letter in an ordinary clerkly hand.

Examines a document of five folios without passing an error.

The girls are also asked to (1) cook a potato, (2) sew on a button, and (3) darn a sock.

A DOUBLE CENTURY.

Jessie Jones, a middle-aged woman, charged at Bow street, with being drunk and disorderly, was stated to have been convicted 200 times.

She told the magistrate that someone had treated her because it was Christmas time. "I have been very good up to now," she added.

"But you have only just come out of prison," said the magistrate, ordering a remand.

DRASTIC CUT OF DOLE LIST MADE

As a result of a special committee of employers and trade union officials appointed by the Rochdale Employment Bureau to inquire into the circumstances in which 1,239 women cotton operatives were drawing the dole, the number has been reduced within ten days from 1,239 to 40. Mill managers had complained of their inability to get weavers.

A member of the committee stated that most of the married women did not desire to return to work, but if the inquiry had not been held they would have gone on drawing the dole indefinitely.

HERRING HARVEST SPEEDS WEDDINGS

The great harvest of herrings has set the wedding bells ringing in the East Coast district and in Scotland.

Over 1,000,000,000 herrings have been landed at Yarmouth and Lowestoft since August, and Alderman George Green, presiding at the meeting of Yarmouth Port and Haven Commissioners, said that one result of the success was the great number of fisher-folk's weddings both in Scotland and locally.

Judge Surprised At High Cost Of Law In Britain

It was mentioned during a claim at West London County Court for £7 damages that the taxed costs amounted to over £90.

The Judge: "I wonder that anyone goes to law!"

EXECUTION BUNGLE ON IRISH SOLDIER

Taken Out and Shot Three Times by Free State Officers

An ex-soldier of the National Army, named Bastible, told Judge Ligott at Tralee that he had been arrested, tried, sentenced to death, and shot at and wounded by three officers because he was suspected of being concerned in a raid on police barracks.

Bastible said that he was arrested three months after the raid on the barracks, and at night was taken from the military barracks into the country where he was sentenced to death. He asked for a priest, but his request was refused.

Then, he said, Captain Walsh shot him through the throat, Lieutenant Griffin shot him through the lung, and Lieutenant Byrne shot him through the arm. He was in hospital for four months before being handed over to the civic guards.

The judge, in view of what had happened, discharged Bastible. Afterwards he suggested that the chief superintendent of police should make every effort to bring the people concerned to justice. He expressed no opinion as to the guilt or innocence of the men named, but as the statement had been made on oath in open court he would be lacking in his duty if he did not suggest that the men should be given an opportunity of clearing their characters.

EARTH TREMOR IN WALES ALARMS

Houses Rattled at Corwen and Many Windows Broken

An earth tremor which shook houses, rattled cupboards, and smashed crockery was felt at Corwen, N. Wales, at the foot of the Berwyn Mountains.

Rumblings lasting about 10 seconds appeared to come from the Berwyn Mountains.

Great alarm was caused in the town, the inhabitants, many of whom were having their mid-day dinner, rushing into the streets.

Forty windows were broken. Mrs. Hughes, of Mill street, had her head cut open by a frying pan which was shaken from a nail in the wall.

Farmers living two miles from Corwen, who arrived later in the afternoon, reported that their farmhouses had been similarly affected.

Right to Kill Trespasser Explained By Lord Chief Justice

The right of a man to kill a trespasser in his house was explained by the Lord Chief Justice in the Court of Criminal Appeal when the court quashed the conviction of Israel James Hussey, a colored man, who was sentenced at the Centrale Criminal Court to twelve months' hard labor for unlawfully wounding.

It was stated that an attempt was made to eject Hussey and his wife from their room. Hammers were thrown at Hussey through a hole under the door panel, and he fired a revolver three times to frighten the attackers. His assailants were injured. A pamphlet entitled, "The New Rent Act Explained," was found in Hussey's pocket.

LAW DEFINED.

"The law is," said the Lord Chief Justice, "that in defence of his house the owner or his family may kill a trespasser who would forcibly dispossess him, in the same manner as he might by law kill in self-defence a man who attacked him personally, with this distinction, however, that in defending his house he need not retreat, as in other cases of self-defence.

"That would be giving up his house to his adversary. In this case that important distinction was not brought to the jury's attention, and there may have been a miscarriage of justice."

HISTORIC BRIDGE MUST COME DOWN

Doomed Gem of Antiquity is Declared Inadequate to Modern Use

Vast iron and steel works, a canal, a labyrinth of dingy streets, and a pall of factory smoke form the setting for a medieval masterpiece that is doomed by twentieth century progress.

Rotherham's Lady Chapel Bridge, which has spanned the Rother with its three delicate arches, bearing the exquisite Gothic chantry, for many centuries, must make way for a new £90,000 structure wide and strong enough for the motor lorries and steam wagons that thunder through the town.

The scheme has been under consideration for many years, but out of deference to the building's antiquity nothing has been done. Now matters cannot be delayed any longer.

Armies tramping to battle in the Wars of the Roses marched over the Lady Chapel Bridge, gay tournaments were held in the meadows near by, and pilgrims trudged over it to fall to their knees in the Chantry; and the bridge has now become "inadequate."

For assaulting a spectator at a football cup-tie, Harry Ashby, trainer to Chapelend F. C., was fined £1 at Nuneaton.

SOUTHWARK SLUMS MASS OF HOVELS; ABODE OF MISERY

Unbelievable Conditions Prevail in London District Today

BLANK DESPAIR

Vermin and Rats Plague the Thousands of Poor Inhabitants

Those who travel by tramcar or omnibus along Blackfriars Road or through Stamford street or the main roads leading from Blackfriars and the Elephant to London Bridge have no conception of the network of hovels, the jig-saw of warrens on either hand, in which thousands of people exist.

Warrens! A rabbit would not live in them. Some of them are nothing more than sewer abodes for human rats, writes a correspondent to the London Daily Express.

Here is a court eight feet wide, with twelve so-called houses in it. No backs to the houses. Each house, two rooms. No place to wash, no place to cook.

At one end of the court are three open lavatories. At the other end one, and another in the centre. Men, women, and children, tenants paying rent that should ensure good cottage accommodation, all use them. Tramps from the alleys, lewd women, anybody could have access. One was locked up. That left four to the whole colony of, say, 100 people.

"We women dare not approach these places after dark," said one young wife whose life has been utterly damned in this network of misery.

"Look at my home," she added in an agony of despair.

There were eight beings existing in the two small, dismal rooms.

"If only I could get out of it!" she cried.

ALL THE SAME.

I went into house after house. There was no sign of alleviation anywhere. I was in misery-land. It was blank tragedy. One of the people spoke quietly in tones of utter despair. Others raved against landlords. Some cursed life itself.

Take this place in —— street. A man, wife, and five children are the tenants of a five-roomed house. Rent 18s. 3d. per week. It was £1 1s. 5. during the war and 18s. before. The eldest girl was seventeen years. Her mother is a grandmother.

Two of the rooms in this house were let off to another family, also of seven people. There are a boy of seventeen years and a girl of sixteen in this group. A problem within a problem. The girl has to sleep in her parents' room. It is the only solution.

The woman who is chief tenant has been engaged for two years in a subsidiary struggle. It is the fight against vermin.

"I've tried everything," she said, bringing her fist down on the bed rail. "There is no real sleep for my boys at night. I have spent pounds on it. How I've fought it!"

She told me how she had saved to buy a clean mattress and an iron bedstead. She had painted the cracks of the window woodwork, she had lined all the ceiling, she had covered the new mattress with some wonderful patent known as "—— squash" in this hopeless campaign.

What is "Gentleman" Asks Judge in Case In London Court

At Westminster County Court a Bond street firm had a judgment summons for goods supplied.

Judge Sir Alfred Tobin.—I see that defendant is described as a "gentleman." What does that mean?

Plaintiff's Representative. — He lives at Brighton. He is independent.

Judge.—Independent of his creditors? (Laughter.) Has he any means?

Witness. —We cannot find out. (Laughter).

Judge.—Is he an old man?—I don't know.

Do you know whether he is alive. (Laughter). I am not going to make any order without better evidence. For all you know he may be an old man of 80 or a "gentleman" of 20 years. (Laughter).

SIR WM. INGRAM DEAD.

Sir William Ingram, former managing director of the Illustrated London News and Sketch, Ltd., has died at Westgate-on-Sea, Kent, aged 71. Sir William was the son of the late Herbert Ingram, founder of the Illustrated London News in 1842, and both father and son represented Boston, Lincolnshire, in Parliament. He was the owner of the horse Comfrey, winner of the Cambridgeshire in 1897.

REAR LIGHT PLEA TO BEAT COFFIN

"Pedestrians on dark roads should carry lights on their backs." This safety first suggestion was made by Councillor Marsh, at Brighton.

The Council decided to support the demand for compulsory red rear lights on cycles.

Alderman Carden said cyclists could not afford to buy rear lamps.

The Mayor: Better to buy a rear lamp than a coffin.

As a result of a playful push by an elder brother, Doreen Hunt, a four-teen-old deaf and dumb child, of Brixton road, S. W., fell and overturned a kettle of boiling water upon herself. She died later of her injuries, and at the inquest at Brixton a verdict of accidental death was returned.

HUNGARIAN MONEY TO BUILD FACTORY

Work will begin next month on the construction of a beet sugar factory at Bury St. Edmunds.

It will cost £350,000, and is expected to be ready in time to handle the 1925 beet crop.

British interests will provide half the necessary capital, and the remainder will be found by a group of Hungarian experts in beet sugar cultivation.

Now that the British Government is granting a subsidy to the industry, a number of other factories will be built in different parts of the country.

People Who Are Lucky Enough To Remain Alive Will Write Down 1925 As Pretty Tiring Year Says Savant Who Promises Earthquakes and Wine

NEW YORK, January. 16 (Canadian Press). — The little old earth is going to be a pretty weary planet when 1925 gets through with it.

Professor Gustave Meyer, nationally known Hoboken astrologer, is authority for this information, important,if true.

Professor Meyer has been predicting things for a good many years.

He is the man who predicted McKinley's election, as well as his assassination; Roosevelt's election in 1904; the violent death of the Czar, and death of Harding or one of his Cabinet in the summer of 1923.

There will be, according to him, trying to get the right number will be rampant all over the United States; more males will be born than females; suicides will be a common occurrence; and man will have to kill himself in novel ways to get his name in the paper; members of the press, bar, and clergy will be involved in big scandals; there will be mine cave-ins; buildings in New York will topple; and a good time will not be had by all.

But there will be a few things not so disastrous, which will happen. For one thing (Professor Meyer says this is not disastrous), 1925 will see the end of Prohibition in the United States, and the enactment of legislation providing at least for light wines and beer.

Professor Meyer says the lives of President Coolidge and Mussolini will be endangered, the latter through the activities of would-be assassins.

MISS MAUD ACKISON OF FORMOSA WRITES AN INTERESTING LETTER

Deals Writer the Subject of Church Union in Letter to Rev. R. Pogue of St. Paul's Church.

St. Paul's missionary in Formosa Miss Maud Ackison, in a letter which she wrote recently to her minister, the Rev. R. Pogue, has these words to say on Church Union.:

"I am so sorry there is disagreement in St. Paul's over the Union question, especially as they are making it a question of theological belief. So far as we can hear at this distance, there are a goodly number of anti-Unionists who also have advanced modern views. So, if people stay out of the Union for that reason, they will have to have a second division among themselves. Not only have people in Canada and the United States been keenly interested in this Union question, but people all over the world. Last year, in Korea, one of the Australian missionaries was very enthusiastic, asking all sorts of questions. She said their church in Australia was just waiting to see the outcome in Canada to prepare for union there. Last week I received a letter from Mr. McKenzie, one of our senior missionaries under the English Presbyterian Church. He had been in Shanghai and heard a great deal about the Union there. He remarked that this would be a great help to other churches to go forward to union. These good Christian people are not forgetting to pray for a matter in which they are vitally interested. So I am feeling quite satisfied that this must be God's will for us at this time. To go in and make the Union Church better for our presence, do all in our power to keep her true to Truth and God's word, is surely a man-sized job for each of us. I do hope St. Paul's will not be divided on the subject, but will go in in full strength and continue to be the strong church she has always been, standing firmly for the Truth as she has in the past."

I should like, as minister of St. Pauls, to add a word to the above appeal. It is the appeal of the "Man of Macedonia," the appeal of Christ. It is the one note which runs through all that Unionists say and write. They write and speak as missionaries first, as Christian statesmen, as men of vision. They know that the heathen do not want our denominationism: they do want our Christ. They know that ninety-five per cent. of our foreign missionaries are Unionists. It is the obligation which they feel they owe to these that leads them to urge, as strongly as they do, that congregations, such as St. Paul's, which is known so favorably throughout the land for its gifts to missions, should enter the Union and so enable the Presbyterian Church in Canada, when it becomes part of the United Church, to carry on the missionary work for which it has assumed responsibility. It will be the Presbyterian Church in the United Church which will have to pay the salaries of the missionaries for which St. Paul's is now responsible.

Another feature of the Union movement is its passion for Home Missions. So absorbing is this passion to Unionists that they are willing to brush aside all minor considerations that they might give their entire strength and resources to the work of saving Canada from becoming a pagan country. The churches entering the Union, so far, are outstanding for their gifts to missions. The first 18 churches reporting in Toronto to enter Union show for last year $93,000 in gifts to missions. While the first 10 in opposition to Union gave but $29,000. It may be said that Non-unionists' congregations will carry on missionary work as in the past. It would seem that for years they will be able to do very little. When the Unionists' members, who, in most congregations, are the real workers of the church and the missionary givers of the church, withdraw, those who are left behind will have as much as they can do to support their own churches without giving anything to missions. This is the reason why St. Paul's Church should not be divided just now, and that all its members should enter the Union. Last year was the best year in its history in its gifts to missions, the splendid total, including the W.M.S., reaching over $10,000. If St. Paul's votes out of Union then its splendid history in missionary giving ends, for its liberal givers to missions are entering the United Church and their gifts in future, will be made to the United Church.

The foreign population is Canada's biggest problem. In Manitoba, 48 per cent. are non-Anglo-Saxon: in Saskatchewan, 52 per cent., and in Alberta, 48 per cent. In British Columbia, 10 per cent. of the population is Oriental. These peoples are not being evangelized as they should, because the churches have neither the men nor the money. The most patriotic duty, the most Christian duty, facing the members of St. Paul's Church just now is to vote for Union, and, in this way, make their best contribution to the solving of this great Canadian problem.

INSURANCE CO. HAD A GOOD YEAR

Careful Investors Are Turning Away From Wildcat Investment Schemes.

Wildcat investments and out and out swindling schemes fleeced Canadians of $35,000,000 in 1924, according to an estimate made by the Bond Dealers Association of Canada. People generally regarded as level-headed, practical and eminently sane constantly fall for the specious yarns of swindling salesmen. By means of combined advertising of the Canadian Life Assurance Companies, together with the vast amount of individual advertising put out by each sepafate company, large sums of money have been attracted to the profitable and safe investments which the various policies sold by the life companies afford.

That careful investors have adopted the slogan "safety first" in their investments and are gradually turning away from wildcat investments to proven ones, such as Life Insurance, was demonstrated at the Annual meeting of the Imperial Life Assurance Company of Canada held in Toronto on January 14th, when Mr G. A. Morrow, the president of the company, presented the directors' report.

It was shown that the new assurances issued by the Imperial Life Assurance Company in 1924, amounted to $33,424,317.00, exceeding by $3,448,161.00 the amount issued in the preceding year. To-day the total amount of assurance in force is $176,068,256.00. This is an increase during the year of $19,837,394.00. In 1914 the assurance in force with the Imperial Life Assurance Company amounted to $45,794,225.00. This in ten years the assurau in force with this company has more than trebled.

The yearly gain made last year in assets was the greatest in the history of the company. These now total $31,239,195.19, having been increased during the year by $3,214,551.80. The benefits disbursed during 1924 to policyholders and their representatives, comprising death claims, matured endowments, dividends, etc., amounted to $26,249,613.30

These millions of dollars of reserves are calculated on so strong a basis that interest earnings of only 3 per cent. are sufficient to maintain them. The average rate of interest earned by this company on its invested assets, however, was 6.23 per cent. as compared with 6.14 per cent. in the previous year.

After providing for its reserves on the strong 3 per cent. basis, and for all other liabilities, and paying out dividends due to policy holders in the year of $906,355.80, the policyholders' net surplus fund was increased by $248,160.18, and now amounts to $2,998,120.34. The surplus earned in 1924 amounted to $1,371,373.00, showing a considerable increase over that earned in any previous year.

ARGENTINA DRAWS GERMANS

HAMBURG, January 16. — German overseas emigration is on the upward curve again after having slumped somewhat during the second quarter of 1924. The movement is now proceeding at the rate of about 5,000 a month.

The countries preferred are Argentine and Brazil. During the first half of 1924, 12,000 Germans emigrated to these southern lands. Another country that is favored is Paraguay. Of 238 immigrants admitted to Paraguayan ports no less than 224 were of German nationality.

AT THE GRAND.

"THE WORLD OF PASSION."

Oswald Stoll's beautiful production, "The World of Passion," had its premier public showing in the Grand Opera House last evening, with accompaniment of the interesting and artistic prologue arranged with much care by Mrs. W. McKee Bingham. The prologue itself adds greatly to the attraction of the picture, and Mrs. Bingham deserves much credit for the way in which the basic idea of the production has been carried out in the two-part interlude depicting the inner meaning of the picture in a fashion admirable and effective.

"The World of Passion" holds the attention from first to last. It represents the supreme art of a producer who neglects no small detail in getting sublime effects. The wonderful portrayal given the character of the main actor, the Wandering Jew, by Matheson Lang, is outstanding in moving picture annals. In his various manifestations down through the ages, first as the atheist of Jerusalem, mocking the Christ, then as the Black Knight warring with the strong Crusader, and wooing Joanne, the wife of the leader, then again as Matteos of Italy, with his beautiful wife and young son, and later still as the doctor of Seville, he is supreme. The changing character of the wanderer of the centuries is portrayed in his face. Always there is the Jewish characteristic, the gesture with outflung hands, but the nature of the man gradually changes from bitterness to softness.

It is an impressive picture, combining with artistic settings an atmosphere of strife in the main character depicted, and of passion in his various romances. The love story of the Wandering Jew is a theme that holds vast possibilities for any production and has been adequately met in "The World of Passion."

The prologue is in two parts, the first section depicting Woman as Pleasure in Spain and as Religion in Syria, and the second showing her as Art in Italy and as Passion in Jerusalem, in the days before the advent of Christianity. Mrs. Bingham has cleverly incorporated in her charming prologue the four aspects of Woman, as manifested in the picture itself. Many appreciative comments were made last night on this notable adjunct to the big production.

Costumes and songs and dances, along with simple but effective settings, are used to symbolize the atmosphere of each section. In reds and yellows, with amber lighting, a Spanish garden scene forms the opening, with Mrs. Bingham representing Pleasure, singing the lovely "Secret of Bliss," from "Lucretia Borgia." The Misses May Perry and Martha Kirn do a charming Spanish dance and the Misses Jessie Hodgson and Helen Ross act as slaves. An impression of mirth and pleasure in this scene changes to a loftier atmosphere in the following scene, depicting Woman as Religion.

Here Mrs. Bingham is the Priestess, in blue robe and veil, with attendant white-robed Spirits of the Altar in the Misses Jessie Hodgson, Martha Kirn and Helen Ross. A delicate Dance of the Veils is done with light-footed grace by Miss Jessie Hodgson. Mrs. Bingham, appearing again as the Worshipper, in white, with flowing hair, and lighting tapers at a little altar, sings "Just as the Daylight is Fading," in beautiful voice, turning to bestow the cross and chain on Miss May Perry, the Crusader, in appropriate costume. The conception of this scene is admirably carried out.

In the third scene, showing Woman as Art, in an Italian garden setting, Miss May Perry appears as the Gladiator, doing an interpretive dance, with attendants in two Roman women, the Misses Jessie Hodgson and Helen Ross. When Miss Martha Kirn, as a Nymph, appears to be a pretty Spring Song dance, the two attendants throw off their scarves and join her in a dainty little dance with golden balls.

Woman as Passion, a scene with a red lighting and red costuming, finishes the symbolical prologue. Miss Helen Ross, as a Nymph, opens with a charming dance, "The Pipes of Pan," and Miss May Perry, as a Faun, and Miss Martha Kirn, as a Dryad, have a graceful Salome number. Mrs. Bingham, in a very effective flame-colored robe, appears as the Enchantress, singing in splendid fashion the "Enchantress" song, a dramatic ending to a very attractive interval.

The Grand Opera House orchestra under direction of Mrs. Eveline Foster, adequately meet all the demands of a very difficult production. Their music for picture and prologue adds much to the charm of both. The lighting effects are exceptionally well handled. Dances included in the prologue are under direction of Miss May Perry.

To-night and to-morrow night will be the final evening performances of "The World of Passion." A special Saturday matinee will be given also.

AT THE REGENT.

"THE FIGHTING SAP."

The mine location used in the latest Fred Thomson picture, "The Fighting Sap," coming to the Regent Theatre to-day, is one of the show places of Southern California. Situated just outside of Hollywood, this same giant rock crusher has been grinding out product for the past twenty years, long before anyone ever dreamed of Hollywood.

In that period of time they have moved an entire mountain side, or rather dug a valley in the heart of the mountain, and it is in this man-made valley, amid the intricate mining machinery, that Fred Thomson performs the most hazardous feats of daring and has the most exciting adventures of his entire picture career.

Twenty years ago, when operations first started, they, of course, used the crudest machines and, as time passed, as new methods advanced, as new machines were put in place, they allowed the old one to remain. To-day there stands as a monument to science all the stages of mine development for the past twenty years.

As this bowl is to be converted into a natural amphitheatre, seating about one hundred and fifty thousand people, "The Fighting Sap" is probably the last picture that will ever use it as a location in its present form.

HOUSE PETERS PACK IN TURBULENT ROLE FROM FAMOUS DRAMA

Carter's "Tornado" Makes Excellent Role for Big Star.

There are many factors artistically combined to make exceedingly worth while entertainment of "The Tornado," Universal-Jewel, which opens in the Capitol Theatre, with House Peters as star. The great, outstanding factor is the stupendous scope of the portrayals of nature in destructive mood that leave death and destruction in their path.

Nothing has been done for the screen that is as awe-inspiring as the unleasehd forces of the storm god as some of the scenes in "The Tornado." Huge logs, and real ones, too, are hurtled through the air and then ground to matchwood in the turmoil of the log-jammed river, augumented to flood mark by torrential rains driven before a howling gale.

Into this turmoil of the elements of the human actors in the spectacle strive with their puny implements to release the obstruction that threatens to bring complete devastation upon the town—and, one of them, braver and stronger than the others, succeeds.

Peters is peculiarly qualified for the heroic role of "The Tornado"—so called by reason of his grim, stormy demeanor. The story opens with Peters, a logging boss in the North Foods country, and through a series of convincingly contrived scenes his character is clearly established and the reason for his nickname made clearly evident.

He's Heart-sick Man.

His story is that of a man who seeks the strange environment of the camps to try and forget the woman who had promised to wait for him to return from France, but had become the wife of another, a man he once considered his friend.

The meeting of the three in the forest and the working out of the story from that point affords many dramatic scenes, and then comes the storm and train wreck, bringing the story to a close with a series of swiftly moving drama and spectacular action, thanks to Director King Baggot.

Ruth Clifford does well in the feminine lead. Others in the cast are Richard Tucker as the husband, Snitz Edwards and Kate Price in the comedy relief, little Jackie Morgan, Charlotte Stevens, Dick Sutherland, Caroline Irwin, Fred Gamble and James Welsh.

AT THE ROYAL.

BETTY BALFOUR PLEASES LARGE AUDIENCE.

Betty Balfour, the recognized Queen of the British Movies, was welcomed back at the Royal last night with the usual large audience she always gets.

"Mary Finds the Gold" is different in many respects from any of the other productions featuring this popular little star. This production gives her many opportunities for displaying her particular style of comedy, but is more of a drama than she has ever appeared before.

Her "Mary" is a delightful character study of a poor little dressmaker who goes to London to make her fortune, her fling at "high life," and the return home disillusioned.

TRAPPERS APPEAL ALLOWED BY COURT

The following appeal was heard before His Honor Judge Huycke:

Mr. Gordon, K.C., for the appellant Nicholls.

Mr. Hatton, K.C., for the respondent Carson.

Robert W. Carson is the local inspector under the Ontario Game and Fisheries Act. Upon his information and upon his instance, Nicholls was charged before Mr. Langley, Police Magistrate, and by the said Learned Police Magistrate, convicted on the 26th of September, 1924, "for that he during the month of April, 1924, unlawfully did engage in, carry on, or was concerned in trading, buying or selling of skins of fur-bearing animals—to wit—a number of muskrat skins, contrary to Section 41 of the Ontario Game and Fisheries Act."

On this charge Nicholls was found guilty and directed to pay a fine of $25 and costs, $35.68, a total of $60.68, and in default imprisonment, etc. Nicholls now appeals from this conviction.

I did not have the advantage of seeing and hearing the witnesses in person, as it was agreed by the parties that the evidence taken in shorthand before the Magistrate was to be the record for the purpose of the appeal.

I have read the evidence and all the other papers very carefully. There is little or no dispute or contradiction in the evidence, as to the facts. Mr. George B. Boucher, of Peterboro, is a licensed fur dealer, who buys furs, among other places, throughout the north part of the County of Peterboro. He says, and says frankly, that he cannot and does not go to the homes of all the trappers and settlers in the north, many of them being inaccessible. He has told them, and has let it be generally known, that they could leave their furs for him at some accessible places where he would be passing, and where he would obtain, inspect, and, if advisable, buy them. Mr. Boucher is a gentleman of such high standing that no one knowing him would question his good faith in the matter. The Windovers, hereafter spoken of, say that Mr. Boucher told them this specifically himself, and that they could leave their furs at Steve Nicholls. Mr. Boucher does not contradict this, but does not remember. He states that he made this generally and unequivocally known among the people in the north that they could do so.

In April, 1924, Napier Bennett, a licensed trapper, had a bag of furs, muskrats. His wife took these to Nicholls' house and left them there for Boucher. They were left in an outhouse and remained there until Boucher's arrival. The same thing applied with Windover and his wife. Windover is also a licensed trapper, and got a number of muskrats. His wife took his bag of furs and left it at Nicholls. These two bags, owned by Bennett and Windover, were left there untouched until Mr. Boucher's arrival. Nicholls also had a bag of furs of his own, and Boucher came to Nicholls' place, was there on two occasions, and inspected and purchased these three bags or parcels of fur. He put a special and specific value on each parcel, and told Nicholls what it was, how much each was to get, although neither of them remembers the exact amount at this time. He gave Nicholls the money. Nicholls says that Mr. Boucher put the money for Windover and for Bennett in two separate envelopes. Boucher says so far as he can remember he did not do this, but does say that he fixed the amount that each was to get and told Nicholls what it was. Either Boucher or Nicholls put the money in envelopes and left the Bennett one at Shearer's store, Buckhorn, for him, which was duly received. Later Mrs. Windover called at the Nicholls' house and got the envelope containing Windover's money and took it and gave it to her husband. It does not seem to me to make a great difference whether it was Nicholls or Boucher who put the money into the two envelopes, because the fact is admitted and sworn by both that the amount was apportioned and fixed by Mr. Bouther, being the purchase price of each respective bag of skins. Nicholls got and made nothing out of these transactions. He gave his services and allowed his premises to be used, as Mr. Boucher says, to oblige him, and no doubt and to a greater extent obliged both the Bennetts and Windovers.

The question is, did Nicholls, by virtue of these transactions, "engage in, carry on, or was concerned in trading, buying and selling of furs, etc." The Learned Magistrate has held that his conduct brought him within this section and fined him accordingly. With great respect I cannot agree with him.

It is quite true Nicholls had no license or authority to deal in these furs. But the question arises, did he deal in them as prohibited by the Statute, in such a way as to make him liable? The Bennetts, Windovers and Mr. Boucher all practically corroborate what Nicholls himself says. There is practically no contradiction in the evidence, and such as there is is on very minor points a subject of recollection and its accuracy, and this rather strengthens than weakens the force of the evidence as a whole showing no connivance.

This section of the Statute is to some extent a criminal one, and should be construed strictly. Is it the probable intention of the Legislature to make such a source of conduct as we find here, in which all parties acted in good faith, a criminal offence? I cannot conceive that is likely, but at the same time I cannot guess at the intention of the Legislature and must take the words of the Statute as they are, but must construe them with some degree of strictness. The term "engage in," according to the standard dictionary, means to busy one's self, or to take part in. To "carry on" means to keep up, keep going, maintain, manage, and implies a repetition, or a series of acts. "Concerned in" means having participation in and is used in a narrower sense than the term "interested in," as has been laid down by authority. Nicholls cannot be said to be even interested in the Bennett and Windover sales, and therefore would not reasonably come under the narrower term of being "concerned in," or "participating in." I cannot say that he brought himself within any of the three expressions — "engage in, carry on, or concerned in," all three being ejusdem generis. It is laid down in the text books that if in construing statutes the words are ambiguous, uncertain or doubtful, that reference may be had to the marginal note or heading of the section in question. The heading of this s.s. 5 is as follows: "License required to deal in fur-bearing animals or skins thereof." From this I infer that the general terms in the section referred to, mean in some way or other to deal in fur-bearing animals or their skins.

I cannot find that Nicholls dealt in these skins in any sense of the word, or that he brought himself within any of the three phrases set out in the section. There was no wrong-doing on his part, no mens rea, as is practically found by the Magistrate. All he did was to oblige his neighbors and to render some gratuitous service to Mr. Boucher, the fur dealer. He got absolutely nothing for allowing the skins to remain on his property, or for receiving the money and handing it over to the two neighbors referred to.

I must refuse to designate this as a crime and therefore allow the appeal.

Dated at Peterboro this 15th day of January, 1925.

E. C. S. HUYCKE, Judge.

BELLEVILLE LADY BOWLERS IN CITY TONIGHT

Two teams of lady bowlers from Belleville, accompanied by Mr. J. Alexander are paying their second annual visit to the city this evening. They will bowl two teams from the Ladies' League of the Y.M.C.A. at the "Y" alleys. All of the teams will be composed of the high bowlers of their respective leagues and some good games may be looked for. Last year, the Peterboro ladies were beaten by quite a margin, but this was expected, as the Belleville ladies are entering on their fourth year of bowling, while this year will be the Peterboro ladies' second. After the games a banquet, given by the Ladies League and the Y.M.C.A., to the teams, captains and the executive of the local league.

Later in the evening all the bowlers in the league are invited to a social time to be held at the "Y." The Belleville ladies will receive a cordial welcome from the local bowlers, as they were the true spirit of hospitality on Peterboro's visit there last Spring.

The ladies who will bowl against Belleville tonight are the Misses Grace Evans, M. Ross, E. Nichol, C. Adams, E. Rae, M. Walker, E. Hall, H. Crowe D. Burgess, L. Booth, E. Distin and H. Henry.

FIGHT ENDED GAME.

Players and Supporters Mixed it at South End Rink.

Church League hockey fans were given some unlooked-for extra entertainment in the Junior game at the Cognawaga rink last night. Knox and St. James were the rivals. In that part of the scheduled two periods that was played Knox scored the only goal. At this junction two of the rival forwards, who had been handing out the odd slash to each other, frosook their sticks and betook them to the use of nature's weapons. Supporters for the combatants were not slow in joining the fray and soon both teams, and the majority of the fans were joined in a struggle more wordy than bloody. Peacemakers who attempted to separate some of the original battlers were the most damaged parties to the fray, and the referee decided that the game was off for that evening at least.

got the next, also on a pass from Ranger.

Belleville got the last goal of the period on a fine play by L. Goyer, who broke away with a couple of team-mates, beat the defence by faking a pass and going in close to slip in a neat goal.

The Petes got the only two counters of the last session, and on the play should have bagged a few more. Foley got the first seven minutes after the period opened, when he took a pass from Collins from a scrimmage in front of the Belleville net. Burgess added the last five minutes after on a pretty individual rush, which he finished by ripping a fast one past Nurse.

FRISCH, STAR SALESMAN

Captain of New York Giants Also is Inventor of Mechanical Baseball Toy.

FRANKIE FRISCH AND HIS MECHANICAL PLAYER

Frankie Frisch, who vies with Rogers Hornsby as the outstanding star of the National League, doesn't believe in spending the winter in idleness.

Here we have Frisch as manager of the toy department in a big New York store. It will be noted that he is demonstrating a baseball toy of which he is the inventor.

Manager John McGraw of the New York Giants rates Frisch the greatest ball player that he has ever handled.

NURMI BREAKS MORE RECORDS

Defeated Ritola and Other Contenders With Dizzy Pace in New York.

SIX RECORDS DROP.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, Jan. 16.—Paavo Nurmi started his ambitious week-end racing programme victoriously last night, when he conquered Willie Ritola, his rival countryman, and three other starters in the 3,000 metre special race featuring the Municipal A. A. games and National Junior Indoor championships.

Nurmi not only won easily, lapping all of his rivals except Ritola, who finished in second place, 65 yards behind, but shattered three world's records at distances of one and three-quarters miles, 3,000 metres and one and seven-eighths miles.

The phantom Finn was even in more astonishing form than when he made his spectacular debut here last week, for he ran his most feared rival, Ritola, into the ground early in the race and uncorked a brilliant flash of speed at the close to slice seconds of the former world's marks, all of which were held by Joie Ray, of Chicago.

Nurmi set the new mile and three-quarters mark at 7 min. 55 3-5 sec., as compared with Ray's formed standard of 7.59 4-5, and was clocked at the 3,000 metre finish mark in 8.26 4-5 as compared with the former time of 8.31 1-5. Nurmi then carried his speed alone to the one mile and seven-eighths post, where his time was 8.29, as against the old record of 8.34 35. All of Ray's old marks were set in 1923 in New York.

Nurmi now has shattered six world's records in three starts in this country, in each instance erasing a record formerly held by Ray.

Last night, the Flying Finn seemed to have in mind the fact that he had only a short time to catch a train for Chicago, where he is slated to run tonight, for he set out at a dizzy clip early in the race. Ritola and Verne Booth, former Johns Hopkins star clung to Nurmi's heels for six laps, but after that they dropped steadily behind.

Nurmi added yards to his advantage on every turn of the wooden runway, and the crowd burst nto noisy acclaim as he lapped the other two entrants, Gunnar Nilson and Ilmar Prim in quick succession. Booth was passed two laps from the finish and Ritola was trailing by a third of a lap when Nurmi broke the tape.

JUNIORS PLAY AT ARENA TO-NIGHT

Fans Will Have Opportunity to See Fast Young Petes in Action Against Lakefield Juniors.

Peter... fans will have an opportunity to see the Young Petes in action tonight, at the Brook Street Rink, when they clash with the Lakefield Juniors.

The kids have been practicing faithfully for the opening game on home ice, and should show the fans some snappy hockey. They have a strong line-up this year, and should go a long way in the O.H.A. race for championship laurels.

Lakefield boast a strong team, and expect to give the Petes a good battle on their own ice. In their first game, they held the fast Lindsay Juniors to a 5 to 3 score, and since then they have been practicing nearly every night, and by this time should be in the pink of condition.

The game is scheduled to start at 8.15 sharp and a large crowd of fans are expected to be on hand to cheer for the locals and give them the once over. The local team will line up as follow:

Goal, J. Le Barr; defence, Collins and Cheu; centre, McDougal; right wing, Ridpath; left wing, Salmon; subs, Maudsley and Milloy.

Spectators Barred at Spanish Soccer Game to Avoid Trouble.

BARCELONA, Spain, Jan. 16.—(Canadian Press). — With armed guards on patrol both inside and outside the field, the Club Espanol of Madrid yesterday defeated the Club Bartona for the football championship of Spain. The score was 1 to 0.

The Governor had permitted the contest only on the ground that there should be no spectators, in the fear that the bitterness between the Spaniards and Catalonians might culminate in disorder.

WEST BROMWICH TO SUNDERLAND

West Ham Visit Huddersfield Town in Saturday Soccer League Games.

OTHER FEATURES.

LONDON, Jan. 16 — (Canadian Press Cable).—With the first round of the English Cup now a matter of history, league football on Saturday resumes its interrupted schedule and battle that has been in progress for many months will again be joined. The first week of the new year saw West Bromwich gradually and persistently widening the gap which had opened up between themselves and their nearest rivals, Hudderfield Town, and a general weeding out of the aspirants. Whereas it is only a few weeks back that fifteen teams were bunched together with a matter of six points separating them, this number has been reduced to seven.

West Bromwich, who appeared suddenly around the Christmas season as league contenders, at no time previously giving indication of their ambitions in this direction, are scheduled for an interesting contest on Saturday, when they pay a visit to Sunderland. There were times when the latter appeared on the horizon as possible league holders, but a few games dropped to the head-liners quickly disposed of them and Sunderland are now travelling along as a good team, and no more. There has been nothing outstanding in their play, except perhaps for the fact that they do not stand up so well as their position in the league would indicate.

Huddersfield Town are the hosts to West Ham, and their supporters look to the Yorkshiremen to furnish full points. Nothing has been more interesting in league football than the career of the Town all through the season. They started out at first in great form, swept everything before them for a few weeks, then began to get stale. A defeat here and a draw there found them gradually sliding down the ladder until they at one time reached a point almost half-way down. Before Christmas, however, they staged a determined rally and by dint of great playing climbed the rungs again until they now stand second only to West Bromwich. Huddersfield are the present holders of the league title and it is certain that they will not relinquish the honor without a tremendous battle.

The most interesting struggle scheduled for Saturday should be that between Notts County and Bolton Wanderers, on the former's ground. The recent history of the County records a tale very similar to that of Huddersfield. There was the same initial brilliancy, the same gradual relapse, but the story stops there, for the County are still relapsing.

Whether they will be able to make a come-back in time to bring them within the title-honors or not is problematical. With the same number of games played as West Bromwch, Notts County are nine points behind, which is a tremendous amount of ground to make up in the second half of the season, particularly when the teams that did not start off so well have now found their legs and are showing vast improvement of form.

The slow but certain indications of a recovery on the part of Preston North End gives an added interest to their game with Leeds United. It is a question, however, if the North End's rally has not been delayed until too late. Their recent Cup-tie victory in which they displayed a brand of football that had not been seen at Preston this season before, would suggest that after a great amount of tinkering with the team, Preston have at last lit upon a combination that might be able to pull the chestnuts out of the fire. There is little to draw between them and Leeds, for the late second division club have ceased to be impressive. Notwithstanding that, they are still five up from the bottom of the tables, no one would be surprised to see them relegated to the place whence they came. They have not shown the same form in senior company that Bury, their accompanying club from the lower divison, have displayed. A victory for Preston on Saturday would go a long way to bolstering up their hopes.

CHANGES MADE IN O.H.A. GROUP

Bellefeuille to Play With London Seniors—New Play-Off Rules.

BROPHY MOVES.

TORONTO, Jan. 16.—(Canadian Press).—At a meeting of the O.H.A. Executive Committee held last night it was decided, after conferring with the N.O.H.A. authorities, that a probationary certificate be granted to Pierre Bellefeuille to play with London Sniors.

It was also decided that this season, when the N.O.H.A. champions come down to the play-offs with the O.H.A. teams, that they be allowed to put their teams on the ice under the same regulations as they play in their regular championship season, in so far as coaches are concerned, but in future the O.H.A. rule is to govern in all inter-association games.

Michael Brophy, last season with Collingwood, was granted a probationary certificate to play with Owen Sound. He has made his last move, Alexander Clark, Jr., whose parents moved to Barrie after August 1st, may play with the team of that town. Paris has dropped out of the Intermediate series.

LEONARD QUITS RING.

World's Lightweight Champ Will Fight No More.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16—Canadian Press)—"I am retiring from boxing for the love of my mother, who has begged me not to fight again."

With this statement Benny Leonard, world's lightweight champion, last night announced his retirement from fighting. Leonard will confine his future activities to the theatre or the motion pictures.

DUNSFORD TEAM IN GOOD SHAPE

Defeated Lindsay Team in a Good Game of Hockey.

DUNSFORD, Jan. 16.—The Dunsford hockey team opened their season Tuesday night at the rink, having as their opponents the "Merchants" of the Lindsay town league. A good clean game was dished up to the spectators, who, although small in number, were very enthusiastic. For Lindsay Merchants great praise is due to Eberts, the goal tender. This boy gave a splendid exhibition in the nets and the score being 5 to 1 in favor of Dunsford is no reflection on his ability.

The Merchants' team is well-balanced and once in condition will prove a stout thorn in the side of their opponents in the Town League.

For Dunsford, this being the first game together, the boys did remarkably well, the combination in the last period being well worth the price of admission.

Willard Wetherup and Cecil Bissette have again cast in their lot with the locals, and with Lee Wilson, W. J. Thurston, Max Board, Jim Thurston and Tommy Johns to complete the team, there should be some fast games in the little old rink this season.

Hockey Notes.

The club is now equipped with a good first aid supply; the Dub says this is most essential.

Mr. Sargent, the Rawleigh man, has also donated a bottle of liniment for general repairs.

Huycke Eberts donned the net outfit for the night's game. He was mistaken by some for our old friend Joe Dwyer.

The locals looked very nifty in their new black and gold uniforms.

After supper "Mit" Ross favored us with that beautiful vocal selection "I Wonder What's Become of Sally." The chorus was very feelingly rendered by the Merchants' Male Choir, Manager Percy Houzer directing.

We also desire to thank the ladies of Dunsford who so kindly donated the quilts for the use of the hockey teams staying at their billets. Percy Houzer thought he was in the Walker House.

Mr. Jake Armstrong of Lindsay gave good satisfaction as referee.

The dates set for the W. E. Baker Cup Tournament are February 4th, 5th and 6th.

HOCKEY IN NORWOOD.

NORWOOD, January 16. — Norwood formed a junior hockey team recently. Their first game was played in Havelock on Thursday evening, and they are to play in Warkworth on Monday evening.

A three-team town hockey league was formed in the village on Monday evening last. The first game was played on Wednesday evening, when the Clerks played with the Labourers.

The Clerks were composed of J. S. Weir, Armar Weir, B. Ferguson, Gerald Baker, Earl McConnell, and Charlie Copen.

The Labourers: A. Weir, O. Mason, L. Beckett, G. McLean, H. McConnell, and G. Rathwell.

The NUT CRACKER

BY JOE WILLIAMS

Some thick-lipped moron has been shaking the cauliflower vine and fistic fedoras are cluttering up the lawn like cracker boxes at a Sunday school picnic.

Abe Goldstein took his bantamweight title out in the sun to see if it was all bull and a yard deep, and now he is writing his memoirs after the melancholy manner of all dethroned kings.

One Cannonball Martin pounced on Mr. Goldstein's bogus reputation with both feet, two replevin suits and the persuasive influences of a full quota of glass-eyed judges.

When the cannon fodder and Abie stopped swinging the judges were blasted from their stupor and asked for their decision. "We think Landis is holding out on us," they replied.

Whereupon Johnny Dundee booked passage for Rome and left the featherweight title to the tender massacres of Kid Kaplan and Danny Kramer, saying, "May the best ham win."

While Dundee was being blessed by the pope Kaplan was subjecting Kramer to a triple-plated penance that would have made a lifer in Sing Sing ashamed of his downright good luck.

Kramer took more punishment than a pair of delicate ears irrevocably wedded to a three-dollar home-constructed radio set.

After winning the title Kaplan announced his determination to be a regular champion. Don't cheer that remark, Mr. Ferguson. It probably means he will never defend the title.

Benny Leonard is next in line to be knocked loose from his constitutional rights. Benny has taken the lightweight check book and converted it into a snappy seven-minute vaudeville sketch, with trained seals, Swiss bell ringers and a flag waving close.

Mr. Dempsey is another knuckle-busting gent who is accumulating more opposition than Mussolini's iron fist and ignoring it in a manner pleasing to none but Mr. Dempsey.

What the ring needs is a return to the days when champions were rich in ability, and wore celluloid collars and rode in horse cars.

She (after spending the evening with neighbors)—"I think the Smythes are an ideal couple—they think alike about everything." He—"Yes; but I notice she always thinks first."

BURNS CLUBS AND SCOTS VERNACULAR

Ferguson, Scott, Hogg, Gall and Others to be Studied.

The action of the Burns Club Association—which has its headquarters in Glasgow, Scotland—with regard to the preservation of the Scots vernacular will commend itself to all those ddeply interested in the future of a race, who, notwithstanding the trend of affairs, are retaining at least a number of the characteristics of their forefathers. It is undeniable that our speech, manners, and customs are not what they were, say fifty years ago. Even in many of the rural districts, where changes in these respects are not easily made, the effects of modern civilization are being demonstrated. Scotland should make every effort possible to retain its individuality, and not allow itself to become a mere appanage of England. Why should it be considered vulgar to speak and write in the Scots vernacular? Those at home who have nothing but contempt and pity for the "benighted" Scots who use the dialect in conversation and in writing are either snobs or semi-snobs. They fail to grasp the effectiveness and homeliness of our dialects, which in several important respects are superior to the English tongue. We admire the stateliness and beauty of the English language, but we are no less enthusiastic regarding our dialects. Fancy a laborer who has lived all his days in his picturesque village talking in the English tongue! It would be enough to make Burns turn in his grave. It is to the rising generation that the Burns Clubs Association intends to make its appeal, and it is to be done by means of school competitions, which are not to be confined to the works of the national poet, but are to include those of Fergusson, Scott, Hogg, Galt, and others. There is every reason to assume that our Education Authorities and others in positions of influence will give the movement their enthusiastic support.

CHANCE.

Successful men, interviewed, usually talk platitudes about hard work, not watching the clock, and the like.

Refreshing is the commonsense viewpoint of William E. Knox, who came to America as an immigrant boy and is now president of American Bankers' Association. He says: "There is such a thing as chance. Don't be deceived about that. A friend of mine commented the other day that he knew many men who had worked as faithfully as he, been as honest, and had just as much brains, yet they hadn't got as far as he simply because things didn't break their way."

However, for every man who becomes successful by chance, or luck, there are thousands who win by effort and determination only.

SOLD.

Our foreign trade situation is pleasing to look at. Imports are smaller and exports are larger than a year ago.

In the first 11 months of 1924, exports exceeded imports by about 869 million dollars. One of our chief competitors, Great Britain, finds herself in the hole more than that, buying far more than she has been selling.

C.N.R. BEAT FIRE HALL FALCONS 5-1

Lundy's Team Get the Frist Trouncing of Season.

The Canadian Telegraphs Hockey Team opened their season last night by defeating the Fire Hall Falcons at Mark Street Rink by 5 to 1. The game was fast and exceptionally clean from start to finish, neither team drawing a penalty. Individually the teams were about evenly matched but the Telegraphers earned their victory by better team work.

The Nationals got the first goal, Jarvis taking a nice pass and working in close for a shot that Ward couldn't reach. Falcons got their only goal in this period. The puck was deflected off Grierson's stick, landing in the corner of the net.

The second period was decidedly the Nationals, who worked in time and again and, back-checking fiercely, pappering them at Ward from all directions. Ward did some good work in this period for the losers, handling some hard shots in fine style. The individual rushes of the Falcons were fruitless. Grierson in goal for this period, only had two shots to handle, both from outside the defence. Mr. Clarke handled the bell.

Line-Ups:

Peterborough's Chance To Attract Convention And Add To Its Sports

Peterborough has been passing up an attraction that is calculated to bring people here from all over Canada and United States. It has never occurred to the City Council, the Chamber of Commerce or the Local Council of Women. It was not even thought of by the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition Board. And now the city has been shown up by Lake Worth, Florida, with people from every corner of United States breaking their necks to reach there for February 16 to 28.

It's a horseshoe pitchers' tournament.

Not so long ago the sport of knocking a white ball out of sight on the golf links and then trying to find it was still a joke, and though people may laugh at the idea of becoming enthusiastic over pitching horseshoes, present indications are that it may become the great national sport of United States. There is already a national association of pitchers, with affiliated State associations, and $5,000 is offered in prizes for this tournament.

"We have twelve of the finest day and night regulation clay courts in United States," says the invitation that accompanied the complimentary season ticket to the Examiner today. There is also, according to the announcement, a large club house, office buildings for the several associations, a special building for the press, and a half-million dollar hostelry for visiting horseshoe pitchers.

Of course, attraction is added by the proximity of Palm Beach, seven miles away; a city-owned casino, and the obliging Gulf Stream that heats the Atlantic to just the right temperature for swimming.

But with people flocking from the frozen north to the sunny south to take in the exciting sport of throwing horseshoes at wooden pegs, it looks as though Peterborough might establish its title as the convention city by going after a little of the traffic.

Visitors should bring their own horseshoes.

A RETURN VISIT.
Last night on the kind invitation of St. Andrew's church choir, the choir of St. Paul's church, after an hour's practice at Mr. Chenhall's residence, went to St. Andrew's church, and to state they were cordially received and heartily entertained is putting it very mildly.
It is doubtful if the entertainment hall of the new building ever held a happier or more cordially social gathering than that which assembled there last night.
The various members vied with each other in their successful efforts to make every person happy. Of the many events which conduced to this pleasant result, and they were too numerous to mention, perhaps are outstanding ones were a sermon on "Old Mother Hubbard" by the organist of St. Andrew's church, and a song, the words of which were specially composed by Mrs. Webber, of St. Paul's church choir, and sung by them, in which some of the peculiar characteristics of Messrs. Crane and Chenhall were very ingeniously and vividly expressed.
After a good feed, a hearty vote of thanks, and other felicitations, the members adjourned to their respective homes with the only regret that it was too late to stay longer, and that such functions should not be held more frequently.

FORSAKE PLEASURE TO MIND BUSINESS

London Hostesses Complain That Youths Are Not Attending Parties.

LONDON, Jan. 16 (Associated Press).—London hostesses are complaining that young men and women are taking life too seriously and that they are not as easily available for merry week-end parties as they were because they equally have responsibl engagements to fulfil.

Eligible bachelors who once could always be relied upon to contribute to week-end festivities, now frequently refuse such invitations on the plea of business, according to the hostesses, who assert there is no truth in the accusation often made by men and women of the older generation that modern youth is careless, irresponsible and lives only for pleasure.

Girls whose minds formerly were concerned mainly with dancing and dresses now take an interest in serious things. Many debutantes are following politics with unprecedented enthusiasm; a large number of girls keep political diaries and have albums of photographs of members of Parliament instead of the former collections of autographs and photographs of good-looking actors.

HANGING OF FLAPPER DAUGHTER, WHO SHOT MOTHER, FAMILY'S WISH

Girl Continued Reckless Nig ht Life After Murdering Mother for Scolding Her—D iary Tells of Sordid Orgies in Which 16 Year Old Girl Descended to Mu rder.

SPURNED BY FATH ER AND BROTHER.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 17.—"We will take no step to defend her. We want to see her hang."

This was the bitter declaration of the father and brother of Dorothy Ellingson, sixteen, confessed matricide, at police headquarters. Sam Ellingson, the father, said:

"I tried to correct the girl. Time and again I tried to get her to mend her ways, but she came to this, and now she must suffer."

The brother, Earl, who discovered his mother's body, voiced the same sentiment, as they refused offer after offer from attorneys to defend the girl.

Alternately tearful, giggling and defiant she finally confessed she had shot her mother, and later when she regained her cool bravado, she told in detail of liquor parties, trips to moonlit beaches and late hours. Seeming to lack comprehension of the enormity of her crime, Dorothy added, 'Of course, it's all my fault, I guess my mother wasn't strict enough with me.

Smiles at Photographers.

After signing the confession the girl posed time after time for the photographers and smiled gaily at their behest.

She told the police she had quarrelled with her mother on Monday night after she came in at four that morning. Her mother said:

"Quit this going out with men. Be a respectable girl and get a job."

Dorothy replied: "I won't."

The quarrel between mother and daughter was renewed the following morning. Finally according to her confession the girl got her brother's revolver.

Took Cash and Left.

After the shooting she packed her suitcase took her mother's loose cash and bank-book and went to a rooming house where she paid two weeks in advance.

There the youthful victim of San Francisco's gay life made extensive plans by which she hoped to conceal her identity. She changed her name to "Montasin Daneri" and provided herself with an identification book where she entered the notation, "Mother and Bud, 413 West Twenty-seventh street, New York City."

Wild Party Her Undoing.

Tuesday night, while her brother and father were weeping over the dead body of her mother in their humb le Third avenue cottage home. Dorothy went to a wild party, she told the police.

Untroubled by her deed, she danced, drank and sang her way into the early hours of the morning.

She was accompanied by one of her associates, Dave Stein. H took her home, but as they neared Third avenue, Dorothy said she didn't live there any longer.

Wdnesday, Dorothy phoned another admirer to make arrangments tor a party that night. He was not in and she left a massage for him to call "Dorothy Daneri."

Call Brings Grief.

This man didn't recognize either th name or the phone number and he told the polce, who, about the same time, had located Stein.

In her rooming house, where Dorothy had hoped to escape the consequences of her act, and still continue her butterfly life, the police found a diary in which she had written in her own words the story of her romping life and the murder.

They found, too, all the San Francisco papers, telling of the killing with pictures of the slain woman and her missing daughter. Marked passages disclosed how Dorothy gloated over the publicity.

Personality Complex.

Behind this unusual case of alleged matricide is a strong complex of personalities on one hand of a girl yet in adolescent age with a paradoxical leaning on one side to Tennyson's poems and aesthetic ism, and on the other of a 'kid" butterfly's inability to resist the lure of bright lights, all-night dances and joy rides, with their invariable accompaniment of "gin parties."

Woven into the case is a diary kept by the girl, which, in its frank chronicling both of thoughts and deeds as opposed to the efforts of her "old-fashioned" mother to keep her "straight" furnishes a tragic moral both of parents and children, particularly parents.

Mrs. Ellingson was shot from behind as she sat lacing her shoes. On the previous night she had refused to let Dorothy attetnd a party at a beach resor. The girl had insisted on going, whereupon her mother attempted to repeat what she had done before effectually—whip her. The girl resisted, whereupon the mother took steps to have the authorities send her to a correctional institution.

The police believe that fear of this punishment was the motivation behind the death-dealing bullets.

Entries in Diary.

It is in her diary entries, however, that are revealed first the pull of morality against the lure of jazz, then step by step, first the mental, then the open rebellion against parental "old fashionedness' which first prohibited her from even attending the movies with girl friends. Finally came all-night parties with sordid orgies. Some of these entries read:

"July 10—Mother is dreadfully old-fashioned and strict. Why won't she even let me go to the movies with other girls?"

'July 15:—Mother whipped me when she found out I had gone to a dance instead of to Ruth's house. But it was worth it."

"July 18.—Guess I'm outta luck when boy friends can't even call on me at our house."

"Aug. 23.—Met H. and K., had a fine feed. Nice fellows. This is the life. Wonderful time. Pep, jazz, gin. Went to the beach later and got drunk."

"Aug. 24.—Out on a hot-time party with Ben and the gang. When it was all over, I was all in."

"Aug. 24.—Another whipping but stayed home. Won't stand for another one. Will do as I please henceforth and love where I please. Tuesday another auto ride and lots of drinks. Big time. Lots of love too."

Auto rides, big times, drinks and "lots of love" brought the threat of the reform school when old-fashioned parental discipline failed.

Faced by such an alternative 16-year-old Dorothy, who "wouldn't stand for another whipping," finally shot down her "old-fashioned" m.other from behind.

RAILWAYS WILL USE DIRIGIBLES

Companies Waiting Only Until Airships Become Reasonably Safe for Travel.

HELP EXPERIMENTS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(Canadian Press).—Railroad, steamship and express companies stand ready to undertake air transportation as soon as the airplane or dirigible are brought to a reasonable standard of perfection, the Congressional subcommittee investigating United States air services was told Friday. A. G. Smith, of Greenwich, Conn., president of the American Steamship Owners' Association and of the Ward Line, testified he long had awaited the time when airplanes could profitably enter the field of land, water and air transit.

John W. Nealean, vice-president and treasurer of the American Railway Express Company, testified that he for years had taken an active part in organizations promoting flying. He also submitted a long telegram from R. E. M. Cowie, president of the express company, which set forth that the organization was closely watching aircraft development, with a view to contracting for the construction and establishment of an air express service "when the necessary degree of safety and reliability and of proper relation of load to cost was attained."

HAIG TO VISIT CANADA.

Will Spend Two Weeks Here in Conference With British Empire Service League.

OTTAWA, Jan. 17.— (Canadian Press).—For the purpose of presiding over the third biennial conference of the British Empire Service League, which is to be held here this summer, Field Marshal Earl Haig, G.O.C. of the British forces in the Great War, will sail for Canada around the middle of July, according to a cable received here yesterday.

His visit to the Dominion will be limited to two weeks.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

Aged Man Set Fire to House and Then Cut His Throat.

PARRY SOUND, Ont., Jan. 17.—(Canadian Press).—While his wife was away at work yesterday morning, John Record, aged 75, set fire to their house and afterward attempted suicide by cutting his throat. Last Saturday Record, who is unable to work, went to jail, requesting admittance for the winter. He was kept there all Monday, and as there was no charge against him he had to be dismissed. The house was practically destroyed.

JARVIS-SMITH FINE ATTACKED BEFORE JUDGES

Sentences Would Have Been Heavier if $600,000 Restitution Not Imposed.

INDIVIDUAL GUILT.

Smith Escapes If Fine Paid By Jarvis—Both May Remain for Life.

TORONTO, Jan. 17.—Seven years for Peter Smith and five years for Aemilius Jarvis, Sr., would have been the sentence imposed on these two men by Chief Justice R. M. Meredith if His Lordship had not imposed the $600,000 fine on them.

This striking statement was made in a document forwarded to the judges of the Appellate Court, and read before them Friday afternoon by I. F. Hellmuth, K.C., counsel for Jarvis, while he was arguing his appeal against the imposition of the heavy fine.

Mr. Hellmuth read the statement of His Lordship in such a low voice that his words were not audible a few feet away. Each of the judges had a copy of the Meredith statement.

The Chief Justice told the Appellate Court that while the large fine was not strictly a matter of restitution, though it amounted to that, the province had lost $600,000, and it should get it back. If he had thought that the fine would not stick he would have imposed terms of seven years on Smith and five years on Jarvis. He also made reference to the possibility of the two prisoners, if the fine be not paid, getting out at the end of their terms and enjoying their ill-gotten gains.

Mr. Justice Magee presided, and with him were Justices Orde, Hodgins, Middleton and Smith.

Over a score of spectators were in the court-room when the argument began, including two women.

The Crown, by direction of the Attorney-General, had also moved to review the sentence of Peter Smith at the same time that Jarvis' appeal was being argued, as the fine was a joint one. Smith, who is now serving a three-year sentence at Kingston Penitentiary, has taken no hand in the appeal, however. Jarvis is putting in a six months' sentence at the jail farm.

I. F. Hellmuth, K.C., introduced himself and R. H. Greer, K.C., as appearing for Jarvis.

W. N. Tilley, K.C., informed the court that he, with Macgregor Young, K.C., and J. C. McRuer, renresented the Attorney-General.

T. H. Lennox, K.C.: "I am not representing anyone. Mr. Smith has not authorized me to represent him; but he has asked me to say to the court that he is taking no part in the appeal."

Justice Orde: "There is an appeal by the Crown on behalf of Smith?" —"Yes."

Mr. Hellmuth, in opening his argument, recalled that Messrs. Jarvis and Smith had been convicted of conspiracy, but not of receiving.

Justice Magee: "Was it a joint conviction?"

Mr. Hellmuth: "Not necessarily, because they were accused of conspiracy with other persons."

Justice Magee: "It was essentially a joint offence."

Mr. Hellmuth: "I think not."

Justice Orde: "While it takes two or more to make the offence, guilt is individual."

Mr. Hellmuth: "Exactly, my lord."

"My first point," said Mr. Hellmuth in opening his argument against the form of the fine sentence, "is that this is a bad fine in law, because it is a joint fine, and if one pays it the other has no part or parcel to pay."

Mr. Justice Orde: "The point is that guilt is individual. If two men are sentenced to one fine one may pay and the other escapes."

Mr. Justice Magee: "It was a fine imposed on each—not a joint fine?"

Mr. Hellmuth: "Joint and several."

The Judge: "I did not catch those words before."

Mr. Hellmuth: "It was one fine—not a fine of $1,200,000, but of $600,000 on each and both together."

Justice Middleton: "Is it the intention of the learned judge, that if Jarvis pays the fine, Smith comes out of jail at the end of three years, with whatever share of the spoils he may have received, still in his possession?"

Mr. Hellmuth: "That is the result."

Only Six Years?

Then Mr. Hellmuth took up a statement made by Chief Justice Meredith to the Appellate Court in regard to the imposing of the fine, but he read it in such a low voice that it was not audible to those in court.

After reading it Mr. Hellmuth remarked that "it speaks for itself," and he held that the reasons given were not the same as stated previously.

EIGHTY CITIES PROTEST WATER DIVERSION BILL

Resolution at Cleveland Convention Question Right of U.S. Senate to Pass Bill.

CHICAGO LAGS.

Modern Sewage Disposal System Needed to Obviate Diversion of Great Lakes Water.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Jan. 17. — A resolution of protest ag..inst the right of Congress to pass Chicago's lake water diversion legislation : .v before a special senate committee at Washington was unanimously adopted at the closing session here on Friday of the two-day conference of approximately 300 delegates fmro 80 Great Lakes cities, held under the auspices of the Great Lakes Harbor Association.

The resolution requested the Secretary of War to require of the Sanitary District of Chicago the installation, within a reason able length of time of a modern system of sewage disposal, and one whereby the diversion of Lake water may eventually be deemed unnecessary, and protested against any legislation at the hands of congress that may sanction diversions affecting the water levels of the Great Lakes and thus impair commerce thereon.

Copies of the resolution are to be sent to the Secretary of State, Secretary of War, and Senators and Congressmen, at once in an effort to kill the McCormick bill, which provides for the water diversion.

Representatives of Canadian cities and associations attending the confer ence have concurred in the protest.

Herman L. Ekern, attorney general of Wisconsin, and Francis King, counsel for the Dominion Marine Association, spoke against the water diversion and in favor of the association's protest action.

William George Bruce, Milwaukee, was unanimously re-elected president and Detroit was tentatively selected as the next convention city, the date to be named by the board of directors.

NAVIGATION SUFFERS.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17. — That the general level of the Great Lakes is being slowly but constantly lowered, was the gist of testimony given Friday before the special Senate Committee conducting hearings on the proposed St. Lawrence-to-the-Gulf waterway.

Witnesses called by opponents of the proposal that Chicago be permitted to divert 10,000 cubic feet of water per second from Lake Michigan into her drainage canal as part of the waterway, agreed that ... ty factors had contributed to the decreased depth of the lakes, but were unanimous in the opinion that further diversion would accelerate the decline.

Veteran skippers told of the increasing difficulties that they were meeting in entering certain lake ports particularly the Chicago River with its five mile current de eloped by water already being diverted. If the amount is increased the committee was assured there would be a corresponding increase in current and inhazard to shipping which would injure if not destroy the value of the river as a navigable link in the waterway project.

Destroy Water Route.

Attorney General Dougherty, of Michigan, who represented seven lake states in collated litigation recently adjudicated by the supreme court against the city of Chicago, protested against the plan as embodying "destruction of one commercial highway for the benefit of another."

Mr. Dougherty said that in the preparation of that suit the opposing states had deliberately refrained from insisting that Chicago cease the present practice of withdrawing water greatly in excess of the quantity allowed under a war department permit.

"We recognized the health of 3,000,000 people might be involved," he explained, "and passed over that phase, although it was our right, and would undoubtedly have been ordered by the court."

Under the present situation, he contended, the state of Illinois was in the position of claiming the entire content of Lake Michigan, although possessing riparian rights to less than one-fifteenth of its surface.

The hearing was adjourned at the conclusion of yesterday's session until Tuesday when several engineers will be called to discuss physical details of the project.

BOARD OF CONTROL PORT OF HAVRE.

HAVRE, Jan. 17.—The French government has granted autonomy to the Port of Havre. The action provides that all improvements and other dispositions respecting the port need no longer have the approval of the ministry of public works. The control of harbor constructions will henceforth be under the direct control of the Chamber of Commerce of Havre and a board appointed by the government.

SAYS PROHIBITION LAW SILLY

Lady Diana Manners Derides the American Idea of Virtue By F orce.

LADY DIANA MANNERS

CLEVELAND, Jan. 17.—Lady Diana Manners, the English titled beauty who has been starring here in the Madonna role of "The Miracle" is not impressed by the Volstead Act and the 18th amendment.

"It's such a silly law," she said. "I don't see how you expect to stop drinking by passing a law saying that people can't do it.

"It certainly doesn't stop drinking. On New Year's Eve and Christmas Eve I saw men carried out of American hotel—dead drunk. I've never seen that in England. Your people seem to drink so much more at one time, because they can get liquor only once in a while. And the terrible stuff it seems to be.

"No, I don't think England ever will adopt a prohibition law."

GUN ELEVATION BEFORE SENATE

Democrats Demand Parity With British and Japanese Naval Power.

NO WEAKNESS.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(Canadian Press).—President Coolidge's position against the elevation of the big guns on United States battleships drew considerable fire Friday from the Democratic side in the Senate.

With the annual naval appropriation bill as a vehicle, minority senators not only demanded that Congress direct gun elevation, but also asserted that under the terms of the naval limitation treaty itself the United States could not be on a par with Great Britain in the matter of capital ships at least until 1932.

Action of the Washington arms conference was defended by Chairman Hale of the naval committee, who declared the United States representatives were advised by the leading United States naval experts, and that in arriving at the ratio of 20 capital ships for Great Britain to 18 for the United States, they took into consideration all factors, especially that the eighteen United States battleships were more powerful than an equal number in the British fleet.

The upshot of the whole debate was that Senator McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, proposed an amendment directing the elevation of guns to give the United States ships equal range with those of Great Britain and Japan. He gave notice that he would call it up to-day when the Senate had reached an appropriate place in the consideration of the appropriation measure. Since the budget bureau has not approved an appropriation for this work, and since the amendment might be construed as general legislation, administration leaders said it could be eliminated on a point of order by a single senator. They expected that course to be taken rather than to have the Senate go on record on the question at this time.

CRIES OF BABY SAVED PARENTS FROM BLAZE

House in Flames When They Awoke—Completely Destroyed.

CLINTON, Ont., Jan. 17.—(Canadian Press).—Awakened about two o'clock Friday morning by the cries of their baby, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Plaskett discovered their home on fire. They managed to escape from the building, but could not save any of their belongings, either clothing or furniture.

The house is owned by Mrs. Ben Cole, who is now living in Michigan. There was some insurance on the building, and also some on the contents.

The baby was somewhat affected by smoke, and this is believed to have caused the cries which awakened the parents. The house was almost a mass of flames when the fire was discovered. The cause of the blaze is unknown.

RECONCILED IN COURT.

Wife Fainted After Denying Husband Tried to Kill Her.

HANLEY, Sask., Jan. 17.—(Canadian Press).—After denying the truth of a charge of attempted murder she had laid against her husband following a shooting incident in which the man was slightly wounded in the hand, Mrs. Bernice Reid fell from the dock in a dead faint in court here Thursday afternoon.

Reid, who had been in jail for 10 days awaiting preliminary hearing, was discharged by the Magistrate. The trouble arose during a quarrel over the attentions paid the woman by another man. The couple left court apparently reconciled.

LUTHER UNABLE TO FILL POSTS FOR REICHSTAG

Four Cabinet Portfolios Still Vacant Caused Postponement of Opening Till Monday.

CANDIDATES FEW.

Press, Cool to Coalition—Nationalists and Socialists Both Aloof and Dubious.

BERLIN, Jan. 17. — (Canadian Press).—Dr. Hans Luther, the new German Chancellor, yesterday afternoon was still lacking four members of his Cabinet an hour before he was due to appear before the Reichstag, and the session which was to have marked the formal inauguration of his non-partisan Bourgeois Ministry was postponed until Monday.

There has suddenly developed a dearth of available candidates for the portfolio of Minister of Finance, which is considered one of the thorniest jobs in the new Government, as the question of reaching a decision on the Government's policy with respect to establishing a temporary gold basis on war loans and other state securities awaits the new Minister's decision. As the national party had made gold appreciation of government bonds a feature of its platform long before its prospective entrance into the Government, it now discovers the problem one of embarrassment, and as a consequence neither it nor Dr. Stresemann's people's party has come forward with a candidate to succeed Dr. Luther as Minister of Finance.

Other Vacancies.

The new Chancellor also is minus an incumbent for the Ministry of Justice, which was declined yesterday by Dr. Schumacher, a well-known Cologne jurist, who is identified with the Clerical party. The post of Minister of Transportation and the portfolio for Minister of Occupied Areas also remained unfilled last night.

The frigidity with which the press hails the advent of the new Government finds even more pronounced emphasis in the supplementary comment appearing in the evening journals. The Monarchial Kreuz Zeitung declares that the national party will "wait and see" before determining its attitude toward the new Government in accordance with its programme.

Socialists Hostile.

The sentiment among the Socialists and organized labor continues outspokenly hostile to the Luther Government. The Christian trades unions of Cologne, in a resolution, assert that the formation of the Government warrants the gravest apprehension with respect to the future development of the German social and economic situation. The resolution also expresses the belief that the Ministry is not of a character such as necessary to vouchsafe internal peace.

FRENCH CRITICISM.

PARIS, Jan. 17. — (Canadian Press).—"Reactionary" is the favorite term applied to the new German Cabinet by the French newspapers.

The Temps says it is impossible to expect from the Luther Government a loyal effort toward the execution of the Versailles treaty and the entrance of Germany into the League of Nations.

Several of the newspapers question whether the new Cabinet will be sincere in the application of the Dawes plan.

JACK DEMPSEY QUITS.

Bruiser Will Take Another Wife and Quit the Ring.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., January 17—Jack Dempsey is through with the prize ring unless some one can fix up a fight for him before he marries Estelle Taylor, a motion picture actress, which probably will be next May or June, the heavyweight champion admitted here last night.

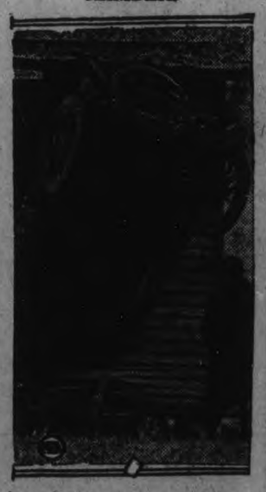
"Yes, it's true," said Dempsey, when for the thirtieth or fortieth time in the past several months he was quizzed as to the accuracy of a report that he and Miss Taylor, for whom he acts as publicity and business manager, would be married soon.

And Miss Taylor, who was smilingly present as he made the admission, nodded corroboration.

KNOCKED OUT NEGRO.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17. — Jack Delaney of Bridgeport, Conn., middleweight, rudely halted the meteoric career of Tiger Flowers, an Atlanta, Ga., negro, when he knocked out the southerner in the second round of a 12-round match at the Madison Square Garden last night. The match ended after 43 seconds of fighting in the second round when Delaney crashed through with a right upper cut that bowled Flowers to the rosined deck and caused him to lose all desire to continue with the fistic argument.

CLIMBER.



After climbing an embankment six feet high and running 15 feet across the lawn this "flivver" made a desperate effort to climb on over a house at Vincennes, Ind. The car was stopped with its back wheels in the air, and the driver, intoxicated, was taken to the state farm to sober up.

PETERBORO BRANCH OF RED CROSS SOCIETY HAD A SUCCESSFUL YEAR

Annual Meeting Held Yesterday—Well Peoples Clinics Coming—Officers Elected and Reports Presented.

The annual meeting of the Peterboro branch of the Red Cross Society was held in the Red Cross room at the Public Library yesterday afternoon. The president, Mrs. Robt. Harstone, was in the chair, and the following officers and members were present; Mesdames H. R. H. Kenner, J. A. Aylmer, W. H. Hill, B. Law, G. Boucher, R. Denne, Reg. H. Turner, E. F. Mason, and the Misses E. Morrow and L. Davidson.

Mrs. Harstone in a brief address, said she wished to impress upon her hearers the far-reaching possibilities and the great importance of the public health work taken up by the Red Cross Society as its peace-time programme. Well Peoples' Clinics, similar to Well Babies' Clinics, would be an establishment in many communities in the near future. "It is a common-sense effort which should commend itself to all communities from a humanitarian as well as an economical standpoint."

Secretary's Report.

Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner gave the secretary's report for the year, enumerating the activities of the society. The local Red Cross association paid the salary of the nurse at the Summer Camp at Jackson Park; it investigated and helped families from overseas, sent a bale of goods to settlers in Northern Ontario and Christmas cheer to families of three ex-soldiers living in remote districts, and co-operated with the local Social Hygiene Council in their exhibit last year. The success of the Home Nursing classes inaugurated under Red Cross patronage last year was very gratifying ,there being an aggregate approximate attendance of 125. The society this year has engaged an outside nurse, Miss M. McNaughton of Toronto, to organize and conduct similar classes in Home Nursing work in the city and district.

Mrs. Kenner referred with regret to the serious loss sustained by the society during the year in the death of two of its valued members, Mrs. James Wood and Miss Flora Davidson.

Treasurer's Report.

Miss E. Morrow gave the financial statement, showing a balance on hand at the present time of $4,478.52. The total of receipts, $5,125.74, was made up as follows: Balance on hand December 31st, 1923, $4,691.85; Membership Fees, $18; Sale of materials $125.25; Home Nursing Classes $70.50; Interest on Bank Balances, $220.14.

Expenditures amounted to $647.22, as follows: Donations to Ladies Auxiliary G.W.V.A., $40.22; Supplies for Home Nursing Classes, $4.34; Salary for Nurse for Health Association, $270; Canadian Red Cross, re Nursing Classes, $26.25; Christmas Donation, Returned Soldiers, $249.21; Sundries, $12.20.

Donation to Ladies' Auxiliary.

Miss Laura Davidson read the correspondence, including several very grateful expressions of appreciation of clothing and Christmas cheer sent by the society to settlers in Northern Ontario and families of ex-service men. A request from the Ladies' Auiliary to the G. W. V. A. for flannelette for relief work uses was met with a motion to donate the sum of $100 to the society, to use as they think fit. Mrs. W. H. Hill's motion to this effect was seconded by Miss E. Morrow, and met with the approval of the entire meeting.

New Officers.

The report of the nominating committee, read by Mrs. Reg. H. Turner, who, with Mrs. W. R. Breyfogle and Miss E. Murno formed the committee was adopted by the meeting. The following officers will be in charge for the coming year: President, Mrs. Robert Harstone; 1st vice-president, Mrs. J. C. Davidson of Toronto; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. W. H. Hill; 3rd vice-president, Mrs. J. A. Aylmer; corresponding secretary, Miss Laura Davidson; recording secretary, Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner; treasurer, Miss E. Morrow; executive, Mesdames B. Boucher, W. H. Bradburn, W. R. Breyfogle A. W. Cressman, G. N. Gordon E. C. S. Huycke, B. Law, Geo. Macdonald, R. Denne R. H. Turner and Miss E. Munro.

The re-elected president Mrs. Harstone, thanked the ladies for their choice and asked for their continued support and co-operation for the coming year.

Announcement was made of the annual meeting of the Canadian Red Cross Society, to be held in Toronto on Wednesday next, January 21st, at Government House. An invitation to anyone who has been hlpful to the society in any way is extended for this meeting. Mrs. Harstone will be the official delegate.

Miss McNaughton's Report.

Miss M. McNaughton, the nurse from Toronto, who is in charge of organization and conduct of the Home Nursing classes in the city and district, reported inauguration of several classes, with others in prospect. On Mondays, a class of eighteen girl from the Quaker Oats plant will take the course; on Tuesdays, there is a miscellaneous class of fourteen; on Wednesdays, the Westclox factory has enrolled twenty-eight members in a class; on Thursday afternoons, the Catholic Women's League are meeting for the course, and on Friday evening, they have a second class. The Salvation Army is also considering the formation of a class. On Wednesday, in the Y.W.C.A., under Mrs. E. H. Wood's charge, a class has been formed. Girls in the upper forms of the Collegiate Institute are also considering the question of forming a class of their own.

AND HERE'S NEW ALIBI; SPEEDING FOR REPAIRS

MARYSVILLE, Cal., Jan. 17.—Lewis, a traffic officer, heard a new alibi when he arrested Brag Singh, a Hindu, on a speeding charge. Asked if he knew how fast he was driving, Sing explained:

"My tail light was out and I was hurrying to a garage to get it fixed."

Lewis let him go.

HEART TROUBLE SHORTNESS OF BREATH

Mrs. Geo. E. Bowman, Morrisburg, Ont., writes:—"I am writing you a few lines to let you know of my experience with Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. Two years ago I became very poorly with my heart and nerves and whenever I took the least little bit of exercise my heart would start to jump and flutter. I could not walk up-stairs without having to sit down and rest before I was half-way up, on account of my breath becoming so short.

I commenced taking

and in no time I felt a great improvement, and can now heartily recommend them to all those who are troubled with any affection of the heart."

H. & N. Pills are for sale at all drug and general stores; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Circumstances May Upset Sweden's Armament Plan

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 17.—Plans of deputies to the Swedish Parliament to bring forward measures to reduce armaments and to cut expenses for national defense, may not be carried out, according to political observers, because of the renewed anxiety felt here in regard to the intentions of Soviet Russia.

The recent uprising in Esthonia is one of the circumstances which is causing concern to the proponents disarmament. Another is the lack of certainty as to what disposition the Russian government will make of the so-called Wrangel fleet confiscated by the French government in French colonial waters, which, it is stated, will be turned over to the Soviet government.

If these ships are kept in the Baltic, it is understood that Sweden will maintain a force of four large war vessels in Baltic waters.

WINTER HARD ON BABY.

The winter season is a hard one on the baby. He is more or less confined to stuffy, badly ventilated rooms. It is so often stormy that the mother does not get him out in the fresh air as often as she should. He catches colds which rack his little system; his stomach and bowels get out of order and he becomes peevish and cross. To guard against this the mother should keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house. They regulate the stomach and bowels and break up colds. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

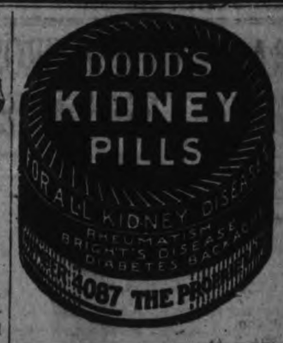
OLD ARISTOCRATS WORK AS MENIALS IN ARMY

MOSCOW, Jan. 17.—Soviet Russia makes no secret of the fact that the Red Army is a "class" army. That is, it consists entirely of men from the ranks of the proletariat. Members of the so-called "bourgeoise" and of the old aristocracy are excluded as officers or soldiers from the army.

The service of such men, however, are not permitted to go wholly unused. It has been decreed that they shall serve in what the Bolsheviki term 'auxiliary labor groups' in the army. This means they must serve the real Red Army soldiers. They keep the barracks clean, attend the horses, repair roads, supervise army messes and do other menial tasks, which are considered beneath the "dignity" of a Bolshevik soldier.



A CHRISTMAS TREE

The annual Christmas entertainment of St. Luke's Sunday School, senior department, was held on Thursday evening. Tea at six o'clock was enjoyed by the teachers and their pupils, followed by a musical programmme and distribution of prizes, and candy, and nuts. A fine Christmas tree, suitably decorated, was the central point of interest. Mrs. Willis had charge of the tea ,and a table well supplied with appetizing things was the result. Mayor Turner acted as chairman and presented the prizes, which consisted mainly of prayer-books and Bibles. The following is the list of awards:

The programme which followed was given entirely by the pupils of the school, each teacher being responsible for an item on the programme. There were recitations by Alice Wills, Nellie Day and Rose Wilshaw; instrumental selections by Eleanor Bothwell, Ethel Cook and Constance Legon, and a piano duet by Audrey Heap and Margaret Whittaker. Margaret Scott sang "Jingle Bells," a pantomime song with little George Mason in a sleigh, drawn by a "rocking horse." Miss Forester Parson's class of boy sang "Chin, Chin, Chinaman," in cotume. This was followed by a Chinese drill by Miss Long's class. Miss Hope's class was responsible for skit entitled "Playing School." The last number was a Star drill, given by the girls of Miss Wills' and Miss Curtis' classes.

There was a spendid attendance at the entertainment and many complimentary remarks were heard on the excellence of the programme rendered. A great deal of credit is due the teachers for the hard work entailed in training the boys and girls, and making the entertainment such a success. The thanks of the Sunday School are due Mr. W. C. Thompson who played several selections between tea-time and the giving of the programme, and also accompanied some of the drills. Miss Jean Bryce played the music for the Chinese drill.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

ANTI-UNION MAJORITIES.

Editor, The Examiner:

To-day's returns from all parts of Canada on the Church Union situation again show more congregations voting against Church Union than in favour of Church Union. The majorities in most cases were large. One Toronto paper this morning reported twelve churches, a number of them large ones, including Queen St. E., against Church Union and only 8 churches in favour.

As stated before, the determining factor in the voting now taking place is going to be the votes cast by the congregations in Ontario and Quebec where 75 p.c. of the membership of the church is concentrated. An indication that the sentiment in favour of Church Union in these two provinces is not as strong as the Church Union committee appears to desire to indicate is furnished by the votes to date in the two large cities of Toronto and Hamilton, affecting 43 congregations. Up to yesterday these were as follows:

	For Union	Against Union
Toronto. .	10,034	8,788
Hamilton . .	2,734	4,389
	12,768	13,177

Anti-Union majority—409.

The foregoing figures correspond with the total votes cast to date for all Canada. Up to the day before yesterday the summary was as follows:

Ballots	80,304
For Union	43,354
Against Union.	36,950
Majority for Union	6,404

The foregoing figures do not include congregations which have been reported as being in favour of Union but where no vote was taken. It is probable that votes will be brought on in most if not all of these congregations during the next four or five months. Presbyterians who are fighting to maintain the Presbyterian Church claim that now that the tide has distinctly set in against Church Union it is probable that within another week or ten days the total of the votes cast will show a decided majority on the side of the Presbyterians.

Peterborough Branch, Presbyterian Church Association.

REVISING MUNICIPAL LIST

TORONTO, Jan. 16—(Canadian Press).—Following representations of the executive of the Ontario Municipal Association to Provincial Secretary Goldie this morning, it is probable that legislation will be brought down this session restoring property qualification for persons seeking election to municipal councils.

nstances were stated of men running for municipal offices and within a few weeks applying for civic relief and charity.

Among other matters urged upon the government was a resolution asking that the federal government be obliged to shoulder responsibility for maintenance of indigent immigrants in this country less than a year. The minister said he agreed with this.

The provincial secretary promised consideration of the request for revision of Public Health Act to provide that medical officers could be discharged by the city council on a majority vote.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—The statues of the apostles adorning the sides of St. Paul's cathedral have been unable to withstand the rigors of 200 years of London weather. Today they are without features, and are fast crumbling away.

Copies are being made of material better calculated to withstand decay and will shortly be set up.

REFORESTATION.

The Mono Township Council is setting an example that other Ontario townships might profitably follow in its decision to enter into reforestation on a considerable scale.

The Township Council has decided that all land suitable for reforestation offered at tax sales will be bought in by the municipal and preparations are under way for an early start in the spring.

It would be a fine thing for Canada if similar vision and foresight were to be shown by other Councils.

Canada's timber resources are becoming depleted, not only by the operations of the lumber companies but by disastrous fires every year, and in spite of that fact it seems most difficult to secure any real effort to remedy the situation.

Although every Christmas a momentary agitation is caused by people who object to the cutting of Christmas trees as an economic waste, a loss that is neglible compared with the annual cutting, the real danger represented by a huge yearly depletion that is not met by a replacement policy, does not apparently cause any concern.

There are many districts in Ontario where a reforestation plan such as has been adopted by Mono Township could be followed with most beneficial results, and it is to be hoped that the day is not far off when many Ontario township and county governments will be actively engaged in similar policies.

UNNECESSARY PRINTING.

A Toronto dispatch declares that by reducing the size of the big blue volume of public accounts Hon. W. H. Price, Ontario's Provincial Treasurer, hopes to save $10,000 to the Province this year.

The announcement merely confirms the position taken by the Examiner years ago in this matter, i. e., that a large amount of public money is being squandered each year on Government pamphlets and reports.

The Provincial administration is a much greater offender in this respect than the Federal Government, for at Ottawa an editorial committee has been responsible for the elimination of a considerable quantity of unnecessary printing and a consequent saving of a very appreciable sum of money in each year.

There are not only too many Government blue books published, but most of them are needlessly voluminous.

Mr. Price admits that $10,000 can be saved by reducing the size of one report.

It does not require much thought to calculate how much could be saved if the list were gone over carefully, superfluous volumes abandoned and the pamphlets whose publication is considered essential reduced by the elimination of unnecessary details.

Many of the Government blue books are so verbose that they are perused by only a few of those who receive them, and the majority are printed to no other end than to find a receptacle in wastepaper baskets.

A judicious pruning of the Provincial printing would stop a ver yserious leak in the public treasury.

THE SALES TAX.

The Ontario division of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association want the Federal Sales Tax eliminated as a step that in their opinion would have a very stimulating effect upon trade.

There are many things about the Sales Tax that are not perfect, and the manufacturers may be right in their contention that it is economically unsound as a method of raising revenue.

At the same time, however, the fact remains that the tax does produce a considerable amount of revenue, and the Government, in view of the national financial position, is likely to be very chary about doing anything that will reduce its income.

Whether the abolition of the Sales Tax would have as much effect upon trade as the association maintains, is a new question.

Collected indirectly, as it is, the consumer has not realized the extent to which the tax has added to the cost of the things he buys, and because of that feature of the case its infliction has not perhaps been as much felt as might have been anticipated.

Nevertheless the lifting of the levy would be generally welcome, and might be followed by more buying than is at present in evidence.

Canada's tax burden is a heavy one, and a substantial reduction in the Income Tax as well as the suggested doing away with the Sales Tax would afford much desired relief.

But unless a much more drastic retrenchment policy than has yet been attempted can be effected there is little hope.

The Government needs money, and is not likely to reject any of the present machinery available for getting it.

EXTRAORDINARY WOMEN.

Hats off to this Russian princess who is the first member of her family to work for a living in 500 years. She is the Princess Ketto Mikeladz. Her job will be dancing in "China Rose," operetta produced by John Cort.

Stage dancing will be a sharp contrast to her life among Russian royalty. But in between have come the hardships of exile and wandering.

The princess was educated with the royal children in Petrograd. Her education included dancing. Now, after years, the dancing becomes a means of livelihood for herself and daughter.

One never can tell when knowledge or ability will be cashable. Many a thing we learn does not pay us until long later.

Another remarkable woman, now deceased, attracts the limelight. There's a Philadelphia court fight over Ellen Clark's will. She left an estate of $35,000, and it is claimed that she built it up slowly by working as a washwoman.

It seems almost impossible that so much surplus wealth could be rubbed out of the lowly zinc washboard. But Ellen Clark did it. She left the money to prove it, when she died at the age of 65.

From the lives of these two women, all of us can derive much food for thought. They stood at far opposite ends of the social scale.

Consider the princess. She began rich. She starts work with her savings almost exhausted. Good fortune may smile again. We hope so. From her fate we learn that nothing is secure in this life, nothing certain.

Back before the war, the Czar and nobility of Russia seemed to be completely secure. They were fabulously rich, with despotic power, their position apparently impregnable. A few years brought the revolution and, with it, assassination or flight. No building is stronger than its foundation.

As for the washwoman, she scrubbed and scoured her way to a considerable fortune.

Yet her $35,000 is a monument to the foolishness of excessive thrift, rather than to hard work. For now Ellen Clark is gone, and heirs quarrel over division of her estate, in court. If she is watching from "the other side," possibly she wishes she had spent some of the money on herself and enjoyed life while she had the chance.

A legacy of money is only too often a legacy of trouble.

CANADA'S CREDIT.

In a thoughtful article in a recent issue of the Boston Herald, reviewing the financial affairs of the Dominion in 1924, the writer says: "We find that the Canadians have added still another record to their already creditable financial history," and he adds "when reading of these great achievements in finance it is well to keep in mind the important fact that the total population of the Dominion is somewhat less than nine and a quarter millions, men, women and children."

The important stock and bond issues put out in Canada during the year are tabulated as follows:

Dominion Government	$175,000,000
Provincial	64,932,500
Municipal	46,234,879
Hydro and Electric Rys.	48,166,000
Railways	158,142,000
Industrial	27,725,680
Miscellaneous	25,525,000

making a total of $545,726,059.

While a substantial percentage of these issues was sold in the United States, it is pointed out that "one of the outstanding features of the year's record is the fact that a very large percentage of the securities were sold in the home market," and that "during each month of the year there went back to Canada a steady stream of bonds which had been placed in the United States during the period of the deflected Canadian dollar. This repurchase of Canadian securities by Canadians has not been due to any lack of confidence of the American investors, but because of the enormous volume of Canadian money seeking investment."

In regard to Provincial loans, it appears that Quebec was the only one of the nine Provinces which was not obliged to borrow money through bond issues during the year; but, as the article points out, in most cases these loans were for refunding purposes, and nearly all of them were placed in the country, although there was a healthy demand for them outside. Confidence in the credit of the country was shared alike by Canadians and Americans.

MIGHT NOT BE A BAD THING.

U. S. Secretary of Labor Davis will probably take up with President Coolidge the idea of putting a quota law in operation against Canada, says the London Advertiser. That will mean that only a certain number of Canadians will be able to enter United States in a given period. The passing of a measure of that nature is quite within the right of United States. If the Republic considers that Canadians are a detriment to that counry, then it is the plain duty of Washington to take such steps as are necessary to keep them out in future.

Like the building of a tariff wall, the regulations concerning those who shall not enter United States are entirely within the scope of official Washington to decide.

There is the larger sense in which such regulations between United States and Canada are not desirable. Two great countries, occupying practically the whole North American Continent, should live on terms that have the least possible irritation, and the business of being barred from one or the other country, when such barrier is applied to citizens in good standing, must always be a source of vexation.

Apart from that, there are reasons why such a move on the part of the United States might be a very good thing for the Dominion. It might touch into energy a realization of the fact that this country has a great future and that its greatness depends entirely on the people of this country. It would have the same effect as throwing a spoiled man on his own resources; in such a situation he generally finds it necessary to go to work, and if Canada did that in a national way it would be the best thing possible for her.

If young Canada were made to see that its future rested right in this country; that its success depended on the growth of Canadian industry, Canadian agriculture, Canadian commerce, there would be a new problem confronting us. We would have to answer at once "What are we going to give our young people and our men to do?"

The answer to this question—and it would have to be answered—would have to find expression in a Canadian policy to meet a Canadian condition. Our natural resources would have to yield their wealth to Canadian labor in all the various stages of manufacture, instead of allowing them to be carried away in the form of raw material. Shutting the door to United States would make us open another door to the markets of the world.

So if it suits United States to put a quota law in operation against Canadians, it may be the best thing for us. A kick in the shins might cause us to start thinking.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Jan. 16.—The failure of salesmen to effect a clean-up at the Union Stock Yards yesterday may be attributed to the fact that, for the past two weeks, cattle supplies have been somewhat overloaded. The result was a temporary weakness in the market. Trading opened briskly on Monday with a run of 5,200 head, but weakened on Tuesday with the additional 2,000. Bulls and store cattle held firm, but steers, heifers and cows dropped a quarter a hundred. On the whole, the quality of butcher cattle was good, with few sales below $5 a hundred.

A holdover of about 400 cattle was disposed of slowly yesterday at the week's price decline. Exporters filled up on heavy steers at the opening market with prices ranging from $7 to $8.40 a hundred. A few steers were taken for Great Britain at $7 to $7.75 a hundred. Bulls were also wanted for export, selling firm at $4.50 to $5.50 for good heavies with the balance ranging from $3 to $4.25 a hundred. Total export shipments amounted to 1,050 cattle, including some bulls for Antwerp.

Cows dropped a quarter a hundred after Monday with $4 to $4.75 taking the best. The store cattle supply was light, with the result that a few loads went back to the country. Stockers ranged from $3.75 to $5.25 a hundred with good feeding steers at $5.50 to $6.25. Milkers and springers continued dull with the best going at $70 to $90 each.

Buffalo Buyers Compete.

Calf trading was slightly unsteady early in the week with inferior grades 50 cents lower than last week. Choice, however, remained firm. Buffalo buyers provided some competition, and the market was strengthened at the close with medium calves regaining the half dollar drop. Tops made $13 a hundred, with the bulk of the vealers at $10.50 $11. Grassers went downward to $3.50 a hundred.

Close observers have been rather anxiously watching the hog market for some time. Despite buyers' attempts to subtract a quarter from the price, however, they held the $11 off car level for thick smooths with selects at $12.06. Uncertain as was the trade, few if any sales went below $11 and it is generally expected that the market will pick up. The dullness in lambs was caused by the poor quality of the run. A clean-up, however, was made at the close and conditions looked better than last week when there was a hold over of a few hundred animals. Choice light lambs brought $14 to $15 a hundred with heavies draggy at $11.50 to $13.50.

Sheep sold stronger for all grades with good light ewes at $7 to 8.50 and with heavies and bucks ranging from $5 to $7.

Receipts for the week, announced today, were as follows: Cattle, 8283; calves 1081; hogs 10,569; sheep and lambs, 21,358. In addition, the following were billed through: Cattle, 594; calves, 87; hogs, 522; sheep and lambs, 510.

A THOUGHT.

JUST 'ROUND THE CORNER.

Comparing man's 160 pounds of flesh and bones (more or less) with the colossal size and weight of the elephant, man is a mere mouse, but compared mentally, the elephant is a tumble-bug.

A few grams of gray matter make man the master of the elephant, the governor of servants, the controller of situations, with few, very few exceptions.

Therefore, it is the intellect, not the bone frame covered with flesh and skin, that really counts in the last analysis.

And now that we have located the important item, the next step is to find out what this man-intellect is actually doing. Is it working for you or is it working against you? Is your brain twisted toward just having a good time, or is it working for you and with you on a plan to be more and have more of the worthwhile things in life?

If your brain is busy trying to go through life having nothing but fun you will find this 'fun' distressingly expensive before you die. If you have decided to work very hard and have no "fun," you will always work.

The intelligent plan is to get so interested in your work that it seems only "fun," and when this feeling comes creeping over you, success is just 'round the corner.

Shock absorbers on autos would be better if the driver would wear them.

OBJECTS TO QUOTA.

Says Restrictions Against Canadians Would Split Up Labour.

OTTAWA, Jan. 17. — (Canadian Press).—A resolution urging the Canadian Government to "make representations to the American Government, American Federation of Labor and the British Ambassador, protesting against the "quota against Canadian citizens" was passed at last night's meeting of the Allied Trades Council here, following an address by P. M. Draper, secretary of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada. The quota law should not be enacted, Mr. Draper said, because Canadians felt that the denial of their right of entry to the Republic to the south would mean eventually the splitting up of international labor on this continent.

A WAGE CONTROVERSY.

LONDON, Jan. 17. — (Canadian Press).—Bishop Welldon, of Durham, whose criticism of railwaymen for demanding increased wages, has led to a controversy between railway workers, and His Lordship has been challenged to a public debate on the matter, and has readily accepted the challenge. The Bishop recently referred to the railwaymen's demands as selfish.

TWO KILLED BY GAS.

Fumigating Gas Used in Toronto With Fatal Results.

TORONTO, Jan. 17.—(Canadian Press).—Fumigating gas, used in a house at College Street, was the cause of two persons losing their lives yesterday afternoon by inhaling the deadly fumes. The victims are Patrick Bird, aged 63, and his daughter, Mary, aged 35.

Bert Woodington, fumigator, who had the job of fumigating in hand, was taken into custody later by Detective Savage as material witness. He is being held without bail.

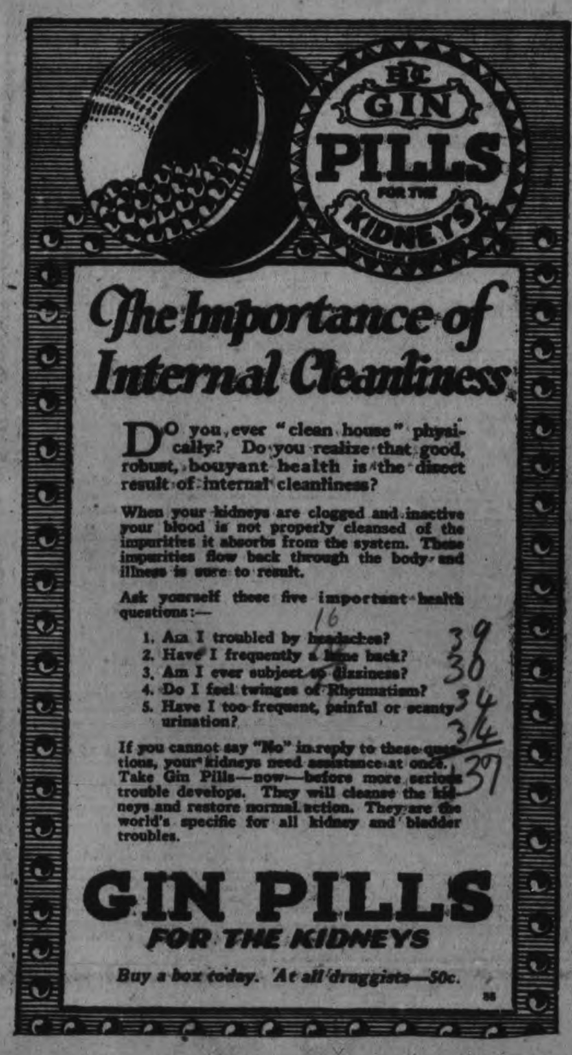
U. S. WILL RECOGNIZE RUSSIA BEFORE LONG

MOSCOW, January 17 (United Press). — The United States will recognise Russia before the end of 1925, Christian Rakovsky, Soviet envoy to London, told the Teachers' Congress here to-day.

"The question of Russian recognition is now in the limelight even in Puritannical, capitalistic America," Rakovsky said.

"It will not occur within the next few weeks, but will doubtless be a fact before the end of 1925.

"America must place her surplus capital in Europe, and therefore must agree with Russia."



The Importance of Internal Cleanliness

DO you ever "clean house" physically? Do you realize that good, robust, bouyant health is the direct result of internal cleanliness?

When your kidneys are clogged and inactive your blood is not properly cleansed of the impurities it absorbs from the system. These impurities flow back through the body and illness is sure to result.

Ask yourself these five important health questions:—

1. Am I troubled by headaches?
2. Have I frequently a lame back?
3. Am I ever subject to dizziness?
4. Do I feel twinges of Rheumatism?
5. Have I too frequent, painful or scanty urination?

If you cannot say "No" in reply to these questions, your kidneys need assistance at once. Take Gin Pills—now—before more serious trouble develops. They will cleanse the kidneys and restore normal action. They are the world's specific for all kidney and bladder troubles.

STOP EPIDEMIC IN EAST CITY

Few Reports of Cases of Mumps Now Coming In —54 Houses Are Quarantined.

NOT SERIOUS.

That the epidemic of mumps that threatened to sweep East City has been stopped, is evidenced by the few reports now being received of new cases. Only fifty-four houses have been quarantined, but some of these represent two or three cases of mumps, and in some houses the quarantine keeps several children from school. The quarantine card on the Children's Shelter was removed today.

Scores of children are still absent from King George School. The number absent from the Separate School in Easty City is not known, since the Separate School authorities make no report to the Board of Health. Very few children from the Separate School have been reported suffering from mumps, only such cases as the Medical Officer of Health ferretted out being known.

It is conceded that the outbreak has been stopped by the prompt measures taken by Dr. T. W. H. Young, M.O.H., working in co-operation with James Abraham, school attendance officer, and the public school authorities. There are approximately 3800 children attending school in the city, and only a small proportion is represented in the 54 houses quarantined.

Constipation Hastens Old Age

Internal Bathing Adds Years of Health to Elderly People.

"A man is as old as his arteries" is an expression often used, and it sounds a note of warning, but also of hope, to those who heed it.

It may seem strange that there is a directly beneficial connection between internal bathing (with the new J. B. L. Cascade) and the condition of the artery walls, but it is so. The act of regularly flushing the entire colon or lower bowel with warm water by this new scientific device makes it impossible for waste to lodge there. Constipation becomes a thing of the past. The blood cannot absorb impurities, from that greatest of all sources of poison—a constipated colon. The result is that the blood stream becomes pure, it does not lodge injurious elements in the artery walls, but, instead, feeds and strengthens them.

Because you are elderly is no reason for being sick, morose and blue. Read an inspiring message of perfect health in the booklet "The What, the Why, the Way of the Internal Bath" which is sent free. Address Tyrrell's Hygienic Institute, 181 College Street, Toronto. No obligation, and no canvassers will call on you. The J. B. L. Cascade is also now being shown and explained at Warne Drug Company, Peterborough.

EMPLOYEES PUT THUGS TO ROUT

Attacked Three Armed Men With Revolvers—Knives and Guns Used.

NEW YORK, January 17. — The last twelve employees of the A. J. Sorbello Company, celery dealers, had been paid off at 6.30 o'clock last night, and were chatting in the office when three men with revolvers rushed in. The gunmen forced the employees to line up against the wall, and stripped three of them off their wages.

Before they reached the fourth victim one of his comrades shouted in Italian, "Grab the knives and get thieves."

The line broke in an instant, and the employees grabbed up everything within reach, huge celery cleaning knives, grubbing axes axe handles and barrel staves. They rushed the robbers.

Two of the robbers aimed their pistols, but before they could fire, axes knocked the weapons from their hands. The infuriated workmen then fought the hold-up trio all over the place, balking every move for the door. Finally two of the thugs were knocked senseless. The third man, becoming desperate, as sounds of combat reached the street, fired four shots. Giuseppi Lappacchiaro, aged 40, dropped with bullets in his chest, head and arms.

As the man fell, his comrades attacked the lone gunman with knives, laying open his head and hacking at the hand holding the pistol. A few minutes later he fell.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(United News.)—Inspired by the lofty motive of protecting Washington's army of clerks from short weights in the city markets, a newspaper reporter proceeded to test out scales in the various meat markets.

Not a single set of scales was accurate, but they all favored the customer, some as much as an ounce per pound of steak.

STANDS BY OPINION.

Mrs. Philip Snowden Says MacDonald Undertook Too Much.

WINNIPEG, Man., Jan. 17. — (Canadian Press). — Despite the criticism of the London press concerning the views she expressed in Montreal speech on the leadership of former Premier Ramsay MacDonald, Mrs. Philip Snowden, wife of the former British Chancellor of the Exchequer, has not changed her opinion.

"The mismanagement of the political situation by Premier Ramsay MacDonald during his last few weeks in office was due to ill-health and sheer nervous exhaustion, consequent upon his attempt to run two high offices of State at one time. No living human being in the same circumstances could have failed to suffer the same consequences."

SECRET PRACTICE FAILED.

Too Many Spectators Were Around for St. Pats' New Player.

TORONTO, Jan. 17.—(Canadian Press).—Maracle, speedy Indian, who played on the defence last year for North Bay Juniors, and with Midland Intermediates this season, has accepted the St. Pat's terms, and yesterday notified them that he would arrived here to-morrow, and turn out to practice on Monday.

Maracle was here early in the week, and was going to hold a secret practice with the Irish, but some body failed to lock all the doors, and Maracle was kept in the dressing-room until the "spectators" disappeared.

Stoney Lake Sails Under U. S. Flag, Says a Picture

Photographic evidence that the Steamer "Stoney Lake" was captured by the United States, is afforded by a picture in an American magazine this month. And evidence is not lacking in the same publication of the use of the Trent Waterway by American steamers.

In the photograph, taken last July, the Stars and Stripes has been painted on the stern of the Otonabee pleasure boat, and in a full page picture of the Lift Lock an American boat with two elongated funnels, has been painted into one of the pontoons.

Perhaps this accounts for the rumour that the Stoney Lake has been sunk.

BAD FIRES IN NORTH.

Family of Farmer Escaped From Burning House in Night Clothes.

COBALT, Ont., Jan. 17.—(Canadian Press).—When their home was destroyed by fire during the night, members of the family of F. Harding, a farmer near Charlton, had to make their way in their night clothes to the home of a neighbor, two miles distant. Sacks taken from the stable were used as wrapping for their feet. The temperature was well below zero. The fire wiped out the new public school at Thornloe early Thursday morning, only a few articles being saved. The structure was erected by Provincial authorities after the fire of October, 1922. It was insured for $3,500.

Still Enjoying Good Health at Eighty-one

Newfoundland Man Attributes This to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

He First Began Using Dodd's Kidney Pills Twenty-four Years Ago.

FORTUNE HARBOR, Nfld., Jan. 16.—(Special.)—No place seems to be too small to furnish at least one person who is prepared to say that he owes his health to the great Canadian Kidney Remedy—Dodd's Kidney Pills. Mr. Richard Quirk, a well-known and highly respected resident here, is one of them.

"About 24 years ago I had a very severe attack of kidney trouble. I was so ill for three months with an aching back that I was almost if not quite a cripple. I began using Dodd's Kidney Pills and in six months I was completely relieved.

I am now in my 81st year and am still in good health and strong, which I firmly believe I can attribute to the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills so many years ago."

Dodd's Kidney Pills have been successfully used for Rheumatism, Lumbago, Diabetes, Lame Back, Heart Disease and all illness caused by faulty kidneys.

NOTED HORSE DEAD.

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., Jan. 17.—(Canadian Press).—Lou Dillon, the first horse to trot a mile in less than two minutes, and the world's champion trotter from 1903 to 1912, is dead of colic, aged 27 years. He died in the stable of C. K. Billings, millionaire sportsman. Lou Dillon set the world's record of 200 flat in 1903 when five years old.

START BUILDING TOBOGGAN SLIDE

City Engineer Expects to Complete Work Towards End of Week—Commenced yesterday.

DOUBLE TRACK.

A few days will see the completion of Peterborough's civic toboggan slide, construction on which started yesterday under direction of Citiy Engineer R. H. Parsons. The half dozen men employed had the supports nearly all in place today.

The slide is being constructed to give room for two runways, and is of sufficient height to guarantee a good distance through the gateway of the park. There will be no thrills such as made the old Jackson Park slide so attractive to the sensation seekers, for it is the aim of the city council to provide as safe a toboggan slide as possible.

Facing south, as this slide does, there may be some difficulty in keeping the surface frozen over, unless Old Man Weather is particularly kind but under the circumstances this could not be avoided.

By the end of next week tobogganing should be in full swing at the new slide.

CHINESE PIRATES ROBBED HONG HWA

Steamer Bound For Singapore Returns to Port With Startling Story of Piracy on the High Seas.

HONG KONG, Jan. 17.—(United Press.)—The British steamer Hong Hwa, which sailed for Singapore three days ago, put back into port here to-day, with an amazing story of piracy on the high seas. All the steamer's passengers were penniless and the safe had been rifled, yet those aboard were otherwise unharmed.

The officers of the Hong Hwa reported that for three days the vessel had been in the possession of Chinese pirates. The latter embarked with the rest of the passengers, without exciting suspicion. When the steamer was a short way out, the pirates gathered, rushed the bridge and overpowered the captain and crew.

A volley was fired during the attack on the bridge, but no one was hurt.

The British officers were for the most part at breakfast and were surrounded and made prisoners.

The first thing the pirates did was to demolish the steamer's wireless. Then they forced the officers to navigate the ship for three days on the high seas, keeping from touch with land or other vessels, while the pirates systematically robbed the passengers.

The latter were kept virtually prisoners and were forced when their turns came to give up all their valuables. The robbers took their time working a whole day at the business of opening the steamer's safe.

Finally, when they possessed all the money on board, they ordered the Hong Hwa to land them with their booty.

"MAGIC BOX" MAY YET HAVE MERIT

Means of Effecting Cures by Electric Waves to be Further Investigated.

LONDON, Jan. 17. — (Canadian Press).—Dr. Abrams' apparatus for effecting cures by means of electric waves, which became popularly known as his "magic box," and which most people here had forgotten, has suddenly come into the limelight again through the report by a committee of scientific investigators, which, if correctly reported by to-day's Daily Express, shows they are convinced that there is something new and wonderful in connection with the box which, although not yet understood, makes further investigation desirable. They are represented by the paper, saying that this research holds "great potentialities and is worthy of active financial support. The members of the committee included Sir Thomas Horder, the Prince of Wales' physician, who is known as a cancer expert, and Dr. C. B. Heald, medical advisor to the director of civil aviation. Other members were experts in physical research and radiography. The late Dr. Abrams, of San Francisco, who some years ago announced that electrons were the basis of life, invented an instrument called reflexophone, by the use of which, he maintained, he could detect cancer, tuberculosis and other diseases.

Fossilized Bones Found In Busy London Street

LONDON, Jan. 17.—A collection of fossil bones, unearthed in a stratum of sand and gravel 30 feet below the surface soil during recent excavation of an office building foundation near Charing Cross, one of the busiest traffic centers of London, has been identified by Sir Arthur Keith and R. H. Burne, prominent scientists, as containing the fossilized remains of the hippopotamus the mammoth, the auroch or great ox, and of great antlered variety of red deer.

Although no stone implements were found on this site, these have been found at nearby places during the past excavations and have indicated that the prehistoric animals had man as their companion. The terraces from which the fossils have been takenand on which a great part of London is built, are ancient beds of the River Thames.

The recently unearthed collection has been presented to the Royal College of Surgeons.

BREATHLESS LANGUID GIRLS MADE STRONG BY

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

They Give New Vitality---and more.

When girls become breathless, languid and pale, parents should take prompt steps, for delay means danger. The girl in her "teens" cannot develop into robust, happy womanhood without abundant, rich red blood in her veins, and it is the lack of this that is the great trouble with most girls. They grow anaemic, depressed and weak, with no appetite, and no interest in life.

Every anaemic girl who is struggling to womanhood in a poor state of health, can find splendid, vigorous health, with glowing cheeks and sparkling eyes, in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. For these pills not only increase the supply of rich, red blood; they create appetite, relieve the weary back and limbs, restore full womanly health and charm, and so transform pale, anaemic girls into robust, happy women.

So if you are anaemic, let Dr. Williams' Pink Pills help you as they did Miss Clara Cheslock, High Falls, Que., who says: "Before I took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I was pale, bloodless and badly run down. The least exertion would tire me and my appetite was fickle. A short treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills has changed all this and I am now enjoying the best of health, for which you have my sincere thanks."

Why Not Give to Your Child The Treatment Your Mother Gave You

Bronchitis

Mrs. Chris Dresser, Bayfield, Ont.: writes: "We have used Dr. Chase's Linseed and Turpentine in our household for some time, and have always received good results. I have used it for my children as well as for myself for colds and bronchitis, and we find it gives immediate relief. Three bottles of this medicine once relieved me of an obstinate cold when doctor's medicine had failed."

Asthma

Mr. Felix White, Box 5, Glenboro, Man., writes:—

"Dr. Chase's Linseed and Turpentine I have found excellent for a kind of asthma from which I used to suffer in the fall of the year. It seemed like a closing of the bronchial tubes, due to cold and dampness. I would wake up at night, scarcely able to breathe, and almost suffocating. I found that a dose of Dr. Chase's Linseed and Turpentine would relieve this sensation right away, and I would be able to get to sleep again without any difficulty."

MOTOR SLED BREASTED DRIFTS FROM PETERBORO TO COE HILL

Driver Easily Negotiated the Hills in Northern Part of the Country.

APSLEY SURPRISED.

Trucks Similarly Equipped Would Facilitate Winter Hauling of Lumber.

APSLEY, Jan. 17.—A good deal of excitement was created in the village on Sunday afternoon by the arrival of a vehicle of a hybrid nature which had it been described to the natives and not seen would probably have evoked the time worn sceptical rejoinder, "There aint no such animal." As it topped the brow of the hill coming into Apsley it looked like a new kind of sleigh, as the body came into view one saw it was an automobile, then a glance at the rear end convinced one it was "one of them war tanks." As it possessed the characteristics of all three. It proved, however, to be a "snowmobile," driven by Mr. Dulmage of the Duffus Motor Sales who went on next day to Coe Hill and beyond, returning to Apsley on Tuesday on his return trip to Peterboro. In an interview with your correspondent Mr. Dulmage said that he had no trouble whatever on the whole journey, negotiating the difficult hills of the north country, and snow drifts three feet deep with ease. One or two of these cars capable of hauling big loads would bring prosperity to Apsley in the lumber industry, facilitating the taking of lumber to the markets, the present mode of which eats up the large part of the profits.

JARVIS-SMITH FINE ATTACKED

He argued that only for five years could Jarvis be held if the fine were not paid. That would be the limit in addition to his sentence.

Mr. Justice Middleton remarked that the section as it stands is an extraordinary one. "Where a maximum sentence is one year and a fine a judge may make it a sentence of six years."

Mr. Hellmuth: "If Jarvis does not pay he may be kept there for life—that is the effect of it. It might as well be a fine of a million.

"I submit that by way of a fine a man may thus be given a life sentence on a crime calling for a one or two-year maximum, and therefore I contend that it is improper and the court had no power to make such an order."

Justice Middleton: "You want us to cut the fine into halves, and order Mr. Jarvis to pay $300,000 and Mr. Smith $300,000?"—"No, I think the fine is a bad one altogether."

"What you want us to do is to make it a good one?"

Mr. Hellmuth insisted that the jury's verdict had not been a finding that the province had been defrauded, but merely that there had been a conspiracy to defraud it. In any case, Jarvis was only alleged to have received $115,000.

"To have kept $115,000," Mr. Tilley interposed. Mr. Hellmuth accepting the correction.

STRONG POSITION OF THE UNION BANK

In the Annual Financial Statement which the President and Directors of the Union Bank of Canada presented to the shareholders at the Annual General Meeting, held at the Head Office at Winnipeg, on Tuesday, January 13th, one of the most gratifying points revealed by an analysis of the figures is the very high percentage of liquid assets in relation to the bank's liabilities to the public. The immediately available assets amount to $57,628,100, and are, in total equivalent to 52.22 per cent of its public liabilities, placing the bank in an extremely sound position.

The Profit and Loss Statement shows an amount of $1,229,016 available for distribution at the close of the fiscal year on November 30 last, consisting of profits for the year plus the balance of profits brought forward from 1923 out of which all current requirements, including the four regular quarterly dividends, Dominion Government Taxes, and contribution to Officers' Pension Fund, have been met. This still leaves a balance of $444,374. Of this, $25,000 has been applied against preciation of bank premises, $100,000 has been held in reserve for for contingencies, while the balance of profits to be carried over to 1925 has been increased to $319,434.

The year 1924, like the previous year, has been one of uncertainty from a business standpoint, and the result has been seen in a shrinkage in the volume of business done throughout Western Canada by business firms generally. This naturally is reflected to some small extent in the statement, current loans and deposits being slightly lower than a year ago. It is reassuring to note, however, as an indication of returning prosperity, that the volume of deposits on Savings Accounts has been well maintained, the contraction being practically all accounted for in lower demand deposits on current accounts. Total deposits are $92,275,016, divided between Savings $66,987,204, and current accounts $25,287,812.

In the last annual statement the bank showed advance from the Dominion Government, under the Finance Act of $8,100,000. This year, while the bank has made large loans for the moving of the crop it has been accomplished without use of the machinery provided by the Finance Act.

From the figures of the various classifications of loans shown in the balance sheet, is to be noted an evident desire to place the resources of the Union Bank at the service of Canadians, the sum of all loans outside of Canada, $1,276,746, representing only a comparatively small proportion of the total.

Taken altogether the statement will be regarded as eminently satisfactory by shareholders, depositors and by the general public, as recording a successful year's operations, while the balance sheet shows the Union Bank of Canada to be in a strong and strategic position to take full advantage of the improved business conditions which are being forecast generally for 1925.

Floating Bottle Survives Eleven Rough Years At Sea

FALMOUTH, Eng., Jan. 17.—Eleven years ago Capt. J. R. Moore, the landlord of a local hotel here, was in charge of the motor ketch Fort Churchill when the vessel was caught in a blizzard at Port Perrique Bay, on the Labrador coast.

Thinking that his ship was doomed and that the crew would perish, the captain enclosed farewell messages in a bottle and threw them overboard. After he had done this it was found possible to beach the vessel and all lives were saved.

Capt. Moore has now received word from the Hudson Bay Company to the effect that the bottle with the messages has been washed up on an island at Labrador.

LOCAL HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY REPORT A YEAR OF PROGRESS

Mr. R. W. Cormack Again Elected to the Presidency —Good Attendance at Annual Meeting.

Mr. R. W. Cormack was once again appointed president of the local Horticultural Society at the annual meeting held in the Board Room of the Chamber of Commerce last evening.

The other officers, in the report of the Nominating Committee read by Mr. C. S. Cummer and adopted by the meeting, are as follows:

Vice-president, F. J. A. Morris; secretary-treasurer, Leon Frazer; directors for two-year terms, Dr. J. E. Middleton, C. S. Cummer, T. E. Bradburn, E. Ingall, Mrs. R. R. Hall; directors for one-year term, Mrs. H. M. Yelland, Mrs. F. D. Kerr, Mrs J. W. Fraser, Messrs. I. Boddison and G. Lang.

A very good attendance marked the annual meeting last night, there being about sixty ladies and gentlemen present.

The place of Mr. Richard Marshall of Toronto, who was to give an address on "Colour Schemes for Flower Beds and Gardens," and who was taken suddenly ill, was filled by Mr. George Baldwin, F.R.H.S., of Toronto, who spoke to the annual meeting last year, and who gave an interesting address last night, illustrated with slides ,dealing mainly with varieties of perennials.

President's Remarks.

Mr. Cormack, in his opening remarks, spoke of a decreased membership this year, which might be traced to the radical change in the policy of the society made last year, when the giving of options was done away with. This year, however, packages of seeds and membership buttons distributed among children had resulted in 146 entries by juniors at the Flower Show, which had in all, over 500 entries in 36 classes, and had been a marked success. The judge, Mr. R. Marshall, Toronto, had offered a silver medal for competition, and another gentleman had also offered a silver cup.

Mr. Cormack referred to the society's work in beautifying various unsightly spots in the city and to further endeavour which might be well undertaken in the approach to the city on Water Street, north of the radial railway lines and south of the Auburn Dam.

Expressions of appreciation were made to the Chamber of Commerce for the use of their rooms and the help afforded by the staff in carrying on the society's work and thanks was also accorded The Examiner, for liberal space afforded in its columns and co-operation in the efforts of the association.

A vote of thanks to Mr. Leon Frazer for his splendid assistance in the recent flower show, in which the president also helped materially, was voiced by Dr. Middleton. Mr. Frazer passed the credit for the work on to his wife, to whom he said most of the ideas carried out in the show were due.

Mr. Frazer gave the treasurer's report, showing receipts of $480.35, with a balance at the end of last year of $3.18, making a total of $483.53. Expenditures were $464, leaving a balance on hand of $19.53. Enough was realized from the flower show to pay all its expenses and leave a small residue.

Mr. Baldwin's Address.

Mr. Baldwin, whose appearance was greeted with applause, reviewed to some extent his illustratetd lecture of last year. His discourse was listened to with profound attention, the speaker is a very evident expert, and talks from long experience in his work.

A continuity of bloom in the garden was strongly recommended by Mr. Baldwin as desirable. He spoke of the lily family as being a great help in this effort, from the June-flowering variety of the little scarlet Turk' Cap on to the late auratum. Lily bulbs he said should be planted in a 12-inch hole with three inches of sand at the bottom and should be pounded down hard as they like to force their way up through the soil.

Gladioli and different species of tulips were thrown on the screen, also entire fields of tulips and hyacinths from Dutch gardens.

For the rose maggot, hand-picking was recommended as a necessity. For the green aphis, a spray of common borax with a teaspoonful to two quarts of water, was beneficial.

Different slides of beautiful roses awakened much admiration. These were tinted in natural colors and included the gorgeous Los Angeles, the rosy pink blending to terra cotta shades, and the Rev. Allan Shields a hardy variety. The former Madame Edward Herriott, now known as the Daily Mail through winning the rose prize of that paper of £500 for the most beautiful rose was also shown.

Delphiniums and peonies were pictured and the perennial phlox, the speaker recommending the Miss Lingard and Tragedy varieties in the latter.

In the annuals, asters were spoken of as a very satisfactory bloom. The speaker concluded an interesting and instructive address with slides of the peanuts grown by him on his ground in Toronto, the long telegraph cucumbers and 'mums which thrive in his small hothouse, and the apple tree trained in espalier fashion in his back yard. A few hints on proper cultivation of vegetables were also given.

At the conclusion of the address, the president, Mr. Cormack, spoke of the desire of the directors for a successful year and brought up the matter of delegates to the annual meeting of the Ontario Horticultural Society to be held in Toronto on February 10th and 11th. These will be appointed by the executive.

BRITAIN MAY BAR CANADIAN SPUDS

Rumor of Embargo Starts Swift Reaction of Protest.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 17.—(Canadian Press.)—Rumors that the British government contemplates placing an embargo on Canadian potatoes, though still lacking official confirmation, have resulted in swift action in behalf of Canada. Even before the despatch of a cablegram of protest by Hon. W. R. Motherwell, minister of agriculture, Hon. P. C. Larkin, Canadian high commissioner in London, had taken the matter up with the British government.

Mr. Larkin has advised Mr. Motherwell that he is unable to discuss the matter with the Hon. E. F. L. Wood, minister of agriculture in the British government, because of Mr. Wood's illness. He has, however, taken it up with the under-secretary of the department. Mr. Larkin states that the first intimation he received that an embargo was contemplated came through a London newspaper. Apparently he has not yet been given official confirmation of rumor. Protests against the proposed embargo from the Maritime Provinces have been received by the minister of agriculture and the prime minister.

SMALL FIRE TO-DAY.

Blaze Broke Out in Dominion Pool Room on George Street.

Fire this morning at 10.30 o'clock threatened destruction to the building occupied by the Dominion Pool Room, on George Street, when a blaze believed to have been caused by overheated stove pipes or a defective chimney broke out between the ceiling and the second floor.

The blaze was making good headway when the firemen arrived, and had burned up through the floor, and spread under the stairs leading up to the Belmont Club Rooms on the third floor.

A dense smoke filled the upper rooms of the building, and for a while the fire was thought to be more dangerous than it really was..

By the use of several chemicals the blaze was soon extinguished.

The loss will be light.

RECITAL ON MONDAY.

Special Treat for Music Lovers at the Conservatory.

Ernest Seitz, dubbed by Hector Charlesworth, of the Toronto Saturday Night as "Canada's Greatest Pianist," comes in recital to the Conservatory of Music on Monday evening. Music-lovers of the city will doubtless be eager to hear this youthful musician. Press reports of his recitals in various cities of the United States and Canada include such comments as: "Proved himself a player of great brilliance" — New York Sun; "This young Canadian has a facile technique, and other musical gifts that promise a great future" — New York Post; "A dazzling performance, warmth and strength of tone most remarkable. Impeccable technique" — Pittsburgh Dispatch; "Mr. Ernest Seitz is a pianist of unusual merit and ability. He thoroughly captivated an audience of three thousand" — Buffalo Enquirer; and "His interpretations are controlled by a fine intelligence. He is always virile and possesses a magnificent technique" — Toronto Mail and Empire.

Ernest Seitz began playing the piano at the age of three and a half years. He appeared in recital when nine years old, and played several times in concerts with Madame Albani, the famous soprano, who predicted for him a great future. He was a pupil of Dr. A. S. Vogt, founder and conductor of the Mendelssohn Choir, with whom he studied for seven years. Later he went to Berlin, Germany, where for four years he was under the guidance of Josef Lhevinne, the world-famous Russian virtuoso.

A tour of European cities, for which plans were matured, had to be abandoned on account of the war, and Mr. Seitz returned to his native country. He joined the faculty of the Toronto Conservatory of Music in 1916.

Mr. Seitz has appeared in recital in many Canadian and American cities, also as soloist with such foremost musical organizations as the Paulist Choir of New York at Carnegie Hall; the Orpheus Society of Toronto; on tour with the Mendelssohn Choir in Buffalo, New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore; the New York Symphony Orchestra; the Toronto Symphony, and the Ottawa Symphony Orchestra.

Mr. Seitz has also attained nation-wide popularity as the composer of the popular song, "The World is Waiting for the Sunrise."

LUNCH PROBLEM SOLVES ITSELF FOR HOUSEWIFE

Sandwiches Even Form Basis of At Home Meals for Change.

BY NELL NICHOLS

Some Recipes And Many Hints to Help Hard Worked Mothers.

My pet aversion when I started housekeeping was putting up lunches. I used to say that I'd rather prepare three meals than pack one picnic basket or lunch box. After spending considerable time scheming to avoid this duty, I decided I was on the wrong track. I came to the conclusion that luncheons would have to be made ready so long as picnics are held, children go to school, men carry meals while working away from home, parties are held, and Sunday-evening suppers are served.

When I realized that the lunch problem had to be met, I tackled it with determination to find out what foods could stand several hours without deteriorating. The proposition appealed to me as a matter worthy of thought and effort, for, as all homemakers know, it takes more skill to prepare an appetizing lunch than a delicious meal.

Most homemakers think of it—I know I did—as a collection of foods to be eaten away from home. I have found that the same dishes garnished and served attractively can be used for refreshments at social gatherings or at home. They have solved my Sunday supper problem. While cooking the dinner, I prepare the evening meal. When supper time comes we eat the food on the porch, in the house, or in the yard, depending on the weather; and by using paper plates and cups and wooden spoons, there is no cooking or dishwashing Sunday evenings.

I also use the same foods for sultry summer evenings when I am especially weary, and it helps out at any time of the year when the homemaker spends the afternoon in town. It is a comfort to return home knowing the supper is ready. I leave a luncheon for those at home whenever I wish to spend the day visiting or working away from the kitchen.

And how does the family like it? My answer, if the way the food is eaten is any proof, is that everyone enjoys the change. It is my contention that a delicious picnic luncheon, accompanied by hot coffee or an iced beverage awakens as much enthusiasm as an indoor meal.

The sandwich is the foundation of these "lunch-meals." I never cease to marvel at this creation. It is so adaptable. It can be hearty enough to be the main part of a meal, or it can be a light accompaniment to a salad. Sandwiches can be warm or cold. Of course, the warm ones must be toasted just before they are served, and for this reason I use them more in the winter.

Sandwich-making is not difficult, but I have a few rules that I follow to obtain best results. I use bread which is at least a day old. Then I always cream the butter; that is, work it in a mixing bowl with a spoon as one does in cake-baking. It spreads smoothly and evenly and is not melted when this is done.

As to the sandwich filling, I like to have it made into a paste. I do this by grinding the food and then mixing it with salad dressing, cream, a savory sauce, or some other liquid. These fillings stay "put."

I always wrap each sandwich in oiled paper if they are to be eaten away from home. This keeps them so much fresher. When I am preparing sandwiches for use at home, I pack them in a tall stone jar and cover this with a clean dish towel wrung very dry from warm water and folded neatly. The cloth, of course, must not touch the sandwiches. When it dries out, I moisten it again. Sandwiches prepared in this way stay moist several hours.

I use many different fillings in sandwich-making. But I also obtain variety by using different kinds of breads, such as bran, whole wheat, and graham flours and raisin, nut, and Boston brown bread.

Next to the sandwich in importance is the beverage. A bottle of milk should be in every child's lunch box. Hot coffee in cool weather is much appreciated by most grown-ups, as is an iced drink on a hot day. When several persons have to be prepared for, a vacuum pail or jug is fine because it holds more than a bottle, but I find that my vacuum bottle is mighty useful. It is cared for with ease, the main precaution being to leave the lid off when it is not in use. Occasionally I boil the cork in a little soda water to keep it sweet and odorless.

I always include some kind of a relish in the lunch. Among the foods which serve this purpose are tiny radishes, pickles of all kinds, olives, and small ripe tomatoes. If the sandwiches are savory, I sometimes omit the relish, although I have noticed that it is one feature which is always enjoyed.

Fruit is essential. I find apples, oranges, peaches, or any fresh fruit especially good, but when these are not available canned varieties are used.

Then there is the matter of the dessert. Many of us have a sweet tooth to be satisfied. Cookies, cup cakes, individual pies, and crullers, wrapped in twists of oiled paper, are excellent. I prefer cup cakes to the piece of cake because they do not crumble easily. A favorite in our home is the old-fashioned fried pie served with a slice of cheese. Another interesting combination is doughnuts and cheese.

As to the salad, I am undecided. Its inclusion is a matter of personal preference. It may not be needed if the supply of sandwiches and fruit is abundant, but, then again, it frequently is the dish that gives zest to the meal. If a salad is used, it should be made from materials that do not wilt or become juicy while standing. Among the ones I find satisfactory are potato, egg, chicken, and salmon salads.

Some of the recipes I use in preparing foods for lunches are these:

One cup flaked salmon, ¼ cup salad dressing, 2 tablespoons chopped pickles. Mix the ingredients together, using canned salmon, and spread between thin slices of buttered bread.

Chop raisins and nut meats together, using one half as many nuts as raisins. Moisten with cream, and spread between buttered slices of whole wheat, graham, or white bread.

Substitute chopped dates for the raisins in Raisin Sandwiches.

Plain Sandwiches.

Spread thin slices of bran or Boston brown bread with butter and put together in sandwich form.

Nut Sandwiches.

Spread thin buttered slices of bran or Boston brown bread with butter, and sprinkle generously with nut meats before putting together in sandwiches. If a sweetness is desired, mix jelly with the nuts.

Cheese Sandwiches.

Spread thin buttered slices of any brown or graham bread with cream or cottage cheese, and sprinkle with chopped olives or nut meats.

Cottage Cheese Sandwiches.

Moisten one cupful of cottage cheese with four tablespoonfuls of chili sauce, and add two tablespoonfuls of minced olives. If a savory sandwich is not desired, use cream instead of the chili sauce, and nut meats instead of the olives. Spread on buttered slices of bread.

Chicken Sandwiches.

Force cooked chicken through a food grinder, season, if it is not already seasoned, and moisten with salad dressing. The addition of three tablespoonfuls of chopped celery to every two cupfuls of chicken improves the flavor.

Sweet Sandwiches.

Spread thin slices of sponge cake with chocolate cake icing and put together in sandwich form.

Cup Cakes Filled.

One-half cup butter, ¾ cup sugar, 2 egg whites, ½ teaspoon vanilla, ½ cup milk, 1 2-3 cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder.

Cream the butter, add the sugar, milk, flour, and baking powder sifted together, and the vanilla. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in muffin tins. This makes a dozen good-sized cakes or sixteen small ones. When the little cakes are cool, cut off their tops and scoop out a part of the center. Fill with Brown Sugar Gilling, readjust the covers, and wrap in squares of oiled paper, twisting these together at the top.

Brown Sugar Filling.

One cup brown sugar, ⅓ cup water, 1 tablespoon butter, ¼ cup nut meats.

Boil sugar, water, and butter to the soft-ball stage. Take from the fire, and beat until creamy. Add chopped nuts and mix thoroughly.

Fried Pies.

Roll baking-powder viscuit dough one-eighth inch thick, and cut with a round cutter. On one half of these circles place a little sweetened apple sauce. Use the other circles for covers, dampening the edges and pressing them together githtly. Then these little pies are fried in deep fat, just like doughnuts, until brown on both sides. I like to bake the apple sauce before using it in this way until it becomes thick and takes on a rich, red color.

Lemon Syrup.

One cup water, 2⅓ cups sugar, 6 lemons, rind of 2 lemons.

Boil the sugar and water and the grated lemon rind together five minutes. Cool, and add the juice of the lemons. Pour in a bottle and set in a cool place, or ice and pour into a vacuum bottle. Use two or three tablespoonfuls of this syrup to a glass of cold water to make lemonade.

Egg Sandwiches.

Chop five hard-cooked eggs with one small green onion and one-half green pepper. Mix with one cupful of chopped and cooked ham, one tablespoonful of catchup, and one-half teaspoonful of salt. If the mixture does not stay together, add just enough salad dressing to bind it together. Spread between buttered slices of bread.

Bacon Sandwiches.

Sprinkle slices of buttered white or rye bread with grated cheese, and top with slices of crisply browned bacon. If eaten in the home, these are excellent when toasted.

THE DEHYDRATING MACHINE ON THE HERO FARM. INSET AT LEFT, GEORGE A HERO; RIGHT, NUMA C. HERO.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 17.—Silos things of the past!

Millions saved annually in livestock feed bills

A corn crop worth many times its present value!

Making hay while the rain pours; curing it within five minutes!

These are among the revolutionary changes that will take place in agriculture if Numa C. Hero's invention is all that he contends it is.

Hero's invention is a dehydrating machine. With it wet, rank grass can be chopped into dry hay within five minutes, he says. Corn—grain, stalk, pith, leaf and cob—can be put into the machine and come out a mixture of excellent livestock feed, he adds.

Packed in Sacks.

When the green material has been hauled to the dehydrator, it passes first through an ensilage cutter, which chops it into short lengths. From there it is elevated to a point where a blast of air drives it through a tube at the rate of 40 miles an hour into a revolving cylinder.

The perfectly cured material is blown into a suction pipe which conveys it to the packing barn where it is packed into 50-pound sacks.

On 10¾ acres of his farm, just outside of New Orleans, George A. Hero, Numa's father, produced 47 tons of this "all-the-corn" chopped dehydrated feed. It sold for $30 a ton.

Some buyers say their mules prefer the dehydrated to any other feed, and Hero believes the glucose in the corn has something to do with it.

The inventor claims to have run a two-gallom cow up to 4½ gallons with the new feed.

Advantages claimed for the machine are:

None of the hay crop or other forage crops, including corn stalks, need to be lost on account of rain or bad curing weather.

It permits storing of large quantities of feed in small space.

Hero senior, long resident of Louisiana, only a few years ago was awarded a gold medal by the governor of Louisiana for draining by a wonderful system of canals, approximately 40,000 acres of land, of which 10,000 belonged to him.

KILL THE LOUSE.

Tobacco Will Save Old Hen Many an Itch.

A medicated dust wallow beneath the shade in the poultry yard or within the shelter of the building is a great aid in keeping the louse population down. A box partly filled with fine road dust to which tobacco dust has been added at the rate of one to six, is very useful and relieves the old hen of many an itch.

SWEET TOOTH TELLS WORLD PROSPERITY

Says United States in Claiming Leadership in Sugar Consumption.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 17—Sugar, as much as any one product, tells how prosperous the leading nations of the world are.

"With sugar as the yardstick," explains R. F. Taber, Ohio State University economist, "the United States leads the world in prosperity, and Russia is near the bottom of the list.

"We can use sugar as a reliable yardstick," the economist continues, "because past a certain point it becomes a luxury. While a reasonable consumption of sweets is necessary, it is known that past this the craving of the sweet tooth calls for expenditures which go under the head of luxuries.

"Assuming, therefore, that the craving for sugar is proportional to the craving for other luxuries and human indulgencies, we get a pretty good idea of a nation's prosperity from its per capita consumption of sugar.

"The average person in the United States, according to statistics published recently, eats 101 pounds of sugar every year. England stands next with a per capita consumption of 93. Germany, for example, records 53 pounds a person a year; Italy, 14, and Russia, 9."

COLDS IN POULTRY.

A solution of tincture of iodine or silver nitrate has been found good for individual treatment, where there are colds in a flock of poultry. The bird's nostril, mouth and throat is cleanedc with a feather or cotton swab, and the infected parts painted with one of these solutions.

ROTATION HELPS.

Rotation of crops has produced as much as 50 per rcent increase in the yield. By rotation, humus and nitrogen are added to the soil, work is more evenly distributed, weeds, plant diseases and insects are eliminated and there is a steady output.

FOR LAYING FOWLS.

Plenty of green feed and an abundance of mineral matter is essential for the laying fowl. They should always have an unlimited supply of grit, dry cutbone, oyster shell and charcoal.

POULTRY LICE ENDED AT ONCE

Single Application of Sodium Fluoride is Often Effective.

DRY OR DIP

In the control of poultry lice one remedy has come very much to the front during the past seven years, says the Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto. It is sodium fluoride, a chemical that is easy to obtain, easy to apply, effective and safe in its application.

Sodium Fluoride Very Effective.

Sodium fluoride may be obtained in fine white powder form or as fine crystals. The powder form, if guaranteed 90 to 98 per cent. pure, is the most desirable form to apply as a dust. Sodium fluoride retains its efficiency, and may be kept if need be in closed tight bottles or cans and used when wanted. One application, if thorough, will destroy all lice on the birds and remain effective long enough to get many of the parasites that hatch later. There are three methods of application in common use; all are effective, but the "pinch method" is the most commonly practiced in small flocks. It consists of the application of the sodium fluoride powder directly to the skin and feathers of the bird, the operator taking up what he can hold between the thumb and forefinger and applying on breast, each thigh, each side of back, on the neck, head, underside of each wing, below the vent. It takes ten pinches of the chemical to cover the bird by this method and skilled operators can handle sixty birds an hour.

The Dust'ng Method.

The dusting method of applying sodium fluoride is by mixing with a filler material, as flour, talc, or plaster, to make four times the bulk of the insecticide, and then apply by shaker or blower duster to the ruffled feathers of the bird. Greater speed in treating the birds is secured at a greater expenditure of chemicals.

The Dipp'ng Plan.

The dipping method of applying sodium fluoride can be practiced during the summer and early autumn season when there is ample warmth and sunlight to dry wet birds. The bath is prepared in a wooden tub and consists of one ounce of commercial sodium fluoride to a gallon of warm water. Sufficient quantity should be mixed to handle the work at hand. Five gallons of the solution will do for 100 birds. The birds to be treated are placed in the dip for twenty seconds and just before removal the head is soused and the bird taken out and allowed to drain. The dip should be body heat for fowl, about 107°, and the work done on a quiet, bright day, when it is warm enough to dry the birds quickly.

EXERCISE THE HENS.

Hens need exercise in winter. Keep plenty of fresh litter on the floor to make the scratch for their feed.

CURING MEATS TO SUIT TASTE OF EVERYBODY

Answers to Questions Asked By Farm Page Reader.

GOOD RECIPES.

Making of Head Cheese and Sausage the Proper Way.

One of our readers writes to ask about the best ways of curing pork and how to make sausage, head cheese and liver sausage. Here you are:

Head cheese is made by the following recipe: 20 pounds pork (head, feet, tails, neck bones, heart, tongues, etc.), 5 pounds beef (cheeks are preferable, shanks, tails, etc.), ⅓ pound pepper, ½ pound salt, ⅓ ounce all-spice, ⅓ ounce cloves, ½ ounce caraway, 4 pounds soup.

Boil the meat for two or three hours and separate from the bones as in making liver sausage. It is then cut up by hand into quarter or half-inch cubes. Add the seasoning and the four pounds of soup in which the meat was cooked. Onions may be added, but detract from the keeping quality of the meat. Stuff in beef "straights" or spread out in a pan. Press the mass together with a weighted board while it cools. Served cold with vinegar, or fried.

"Liver sausage is made by the following recipe: 35 pounds pork trimmings (head, legs, hearts, tongues, etc.), 15 pounds lean beef (shanks, cheeks, etc.), 7 pounds liver, 7 pounds dry bread, 2 ounces sweet marjoram, 1 pound salt, 1 ounce allspice, 10 pounds soup garlic or onions if desired. Cook the meat two or three hours, or until the meat can easily be picked from the bones. To the meat thus separated add the raw sliced liver. Soak the bread in cold water, squeeze out the surplus water, and grind the meat, liver and bread together. Add the 10 pounds of soup (in which the meat was cooked) and the rest of the seasoning. Onions or garlic, if used, should be chopped fine. The shole mass should then be worked vigorously with hands or paddle for about 15 minutes. This mixes the spices and the water. Stuff in beef "straights" or "rounds" which have been soaked in warm water both inside and out.

"The sausages, when stuffed, are cooked in water just a little below boiling until they float. Plunge into cold water to set the grease on the outside. A weak brine made of four pounds salt to three gallons water will keep the sausage in warm weather."

HORSE FEEDING IS SYSTEMATIC

Animals Eat According to the Amount of Work They Do.

GENERAL RULES

The quantity of feed for the work horse depends on the amount of work to be done and on the speed at which it is performed; a horse requires considerably more feed when working at a trot than at a walk. Following are general rules for average horses:

Allow 1 1-10 pounds of grain and 1 1-5 pounds of hay per 100 pounds of weight for a horse at moderate work.

Allow 1 1-3 pounds of grain and 1¼ pounds of hay per 100 pounds of weight for a horse at hard work.

As shown in the following rations, the kinds of grain and hay should govern the quantities used.

For 1,000-Pound Idle Horse.

Ear corn	5	Cowpea hay	5
Alfalfa hay	3	Corn silage	5
Corn stover	9	Timothy hay	10

Pinfeathers

The dirty egg is more or less an outcast, with no hope of improving its status. No matter how fresh and attractive it may be in other respects, it is in bad repute with the local buyer, and the stigma holds fast all along the line.

The mongrel is a haphazard combination, neither one thing nor the other. It is a weed on the poultry farm.

Cull out the "robber hens." The trapnest is a sure method for detecting them.

Artificial light in the hen-house is not a new idea. Early in the nineteenth century Spanish farmers tried lantern-light to increase egg production, a New Jersey writer found by digging into an old Spanish book on poultry-keeping.

I provide greens for hens in winter, by putting about one peck of oats into a coarse-mesh sack, add an equal quantity of sand, and moisten well with hot water. Then I place sack and contents in a large splint basket and set in a warm place where the sunlight can reach it sometime during the day. In a short time the oats will send out green shoots, pushing their way through the sack the same as if it were soil. The basket becomes filled with a mass of green, and is ready to set before the hens.

WHAT IS THE FARMER ENTITLED TO?

What is a farmer entitled to as the result of his labor? Is there any standard by which a farmer can teil whether he is a success or a failure?

An attempt has been made to define exactly what any capable farmer is entitled, by justice and reason, to receive as a return on his efforts. We do not try to figure what an average farmer ae-received, or what an unusually good or lucky farmer might receive These are different questions.

The result of a study of the question in United States and here is seen in the coining of the phrase, "A good living and 10%."

Here is the case:

(a) A Good Living: A farmer and his family should live comfortably, and certainly not less well than a family of equal social standing in a town or city. The manager of a city business expects to provide this living from his salary. Farmers receive no salary, and the members of the farm family contribute much labor for which they receive no wages. We hold that this unpaid labor, together with the responsibilities of management, are only fairly compensated by "A Good Living."

(b) And 10%: In addition to this good living, a farmer is entitled to 10 per cent on his investment. Five per cent of this is for nterest on cap tal, which it would earn in safe securities, with no business to worry about. But in orde rthat farmers in debt may have a chance to pay out, and in order that renters may eventually get farms of their own, there must be a profit over and above interest. This profit we place at 5 per cent.

(c) Farmer: The term "farmer" as used here means one who is engaged in any branch of agriculture as his chief means of livelihood.

The following assumptions are made:

ASSUMPTIONS.

(a) That the farm is large enough to require the entire attention of at least one man.

(b) That the farmer possesses average ability and gumption, together with enough stick-to-it-iveness to carrry through his undertakings.

(c) That the family is of average size.

(d) That only such buildings and equipment as are adequate and necessary shall be on the farm—in other words, plain not fancy farming.

WHAT THE FARM INCOME IS.

Farmers do not get salaries. Their income is partly in what the farm furnishes toward the family living, and partly in the income of the farm.

(a) The farm furnishes directly:
(1) a house to live in,
(2) usually most of the fuel needed, and
(3) most of the food of the farm family.

(b) The remaining income consists of:
(1) income from sales, and
(2) increase in inventory, other than mere increases in price of land, improvements and equipment.

(a) Hired labor and the cost of boarding same:
(b) materials purchased, such as feed, seed and fertilizer;
(c) repairs to fences, buildings and machinery;
(d) miscellaneous, such as taxes, insurance, depreciation on buildings, stock and equipment, bad debts, and losses from fire, disease, hail, pests, etc., not fully covered by insurance.

A normal farm family must also buy food, clothing, schooling, life insurance, doctor, dentist, as well as traveling, recreation, and charities. Most of these expenses may be considered a part of the Good Living to which the family is entitled, and the others must come out of the 10%. The responsibility for using surplus income rests with the farmer and his family; it may be spent or invested, wisely or foolishly.

This gives us the following equation, which will be clear to everybody on a little study:

		—	All normal farm
What the farm furnishes—		—	expenses
fuel, shelter, food, etc.—	should	—	+
+	—	—	A Good Living
Cash income and in-	equal	—	+
crease in inventories.—		—	investment.

The farm enterprise should produce a return of 10% on all the capital invested in it, besides the Good Living for the farm operator and his family. But where the farm is a rented one, or carries a mortgage, the landlord or mortgagor has supplied a part of the capital, and therefore must receive a share of the 10% as rent or as interest. Just what proportion he will get is a matter for bargaining between the farmer and the landlord or mortgagor, and depends on the farmer's ability as a bargainer. A good bargainer will pay a low rent or interest rate; a poor bargainer will pay more.

Now there is the whole subject, explained as clearly as we know how. Needless to say, we believe it worth while to set up such a standard, or measuring stick, for the farming business. Some may believe, or pretend to believe, that a capable farmer should make a million dollars on 160 acres. Others may believe that a farmer should make just enough to keep him on the farm, squeezing out a miserable existence by the hardest kind of self-denial. We believe both these extremes entirely wrong, but we admit that everybody is entitled to his or her own opinion and standard.

Please notice these two very essential points:

First, that "A Good Living" is an indefinite and flexible thing. Neither The Examiner nor any one else can say exactly what it includes, because it is partly a matter of geography, and partly a matter of opinion. On the other hand, everybody knows, closely enough, what "A Good Living" is FOR HIMSELF AND HIS FAMILY, in comparison with his friends and relatives who live and carry on their businesses in towns and cities. Indefinite in theory, "A Good Living" is precise in practise.

Second, that we hold that "A Good Living and 10%" is the right and due of every CAPABLE farmer. We do not expect or desire that the shiftless and lazy shall receive the same rewards as the intelligent and energetic. For the good of farming and the community at large, the incapable and indolent must and will fail, or at least fall short of the standard.

One important question remains, and every reader who is a good economist will already have thought of it in reading this page: At what price is the land to be figured.

Should it be the cost price of the farm? In that case, what becomes of land which originally was homesteaded and has never been bought or sold? It has no cost price. A 10 per cent. profit on zero is zero.

Again, what of land which was bought at an inflated price such as was the rule during the land boom of 1919? It is not reasonable to expect to earn 10 per cent on such fictitious value.

It is a knotty problem, to be sure—a problem to which we have no satisfactory solution at the present time.

GRAPE PRUNING.

Grape pruning in late winter or early spring has been found to produce best results on the average. This is

SEED POTATOES.

Seed potatoes should be kept free from extreme chilling but stored at as low a temperature as possible to keep them dormant until plantingo time. About 36 degrees is satisfactory.

FEEDING ROASTERS.

Nearly a half-pound can be placed on heavy roasters in 10 days through the use of semi-solid buttermilk with a mash high in corn meal content. The roaster is confined, starved for 24 hours and kept from exercise during during the feeding.

LONG-LEGGED HOGS.

Hog raisers are becoming partial to the long-legged type of hogs, contending a greater economy in feed.

A LOGGING BEE WAS IMPORTANT ON EARLY FARM

News of Big Event Soon Spread and Help Was Plentiful.

FIRST GRIST MILL.

Early History of Haldimand and District Gives Interesting Details.

COBOURG, Jan. 7.—Reuben Bedell opened a store at or near Slay Bay in 1797. Very early in the 19 century, Sheriff Ruttan opened a store at Grafton. This building is still standing on the property owned by Mrs. Thos. Heenan, and is used as a driving shed. At the time of the war of 1812-15 this was the only store in the Township of Haldimand. It was a departmental store on a small scale. Sheriff Ruttan kept a small stock of drygoods. It is said that he used to exchange a yard of calico for a bushel of wheat. He also carried a stock of rum, as was the custom, which he retailed at one dollar a quart. Upon a hill about a mile east of Benlock, in Haldimand Township, the late Baige M. Eddy in the year 1810 built a frame barn. It is said that he went to Kingston on horseback to get the nails, paid a quarter of a pound, put half in each end of a bag, put them across his horse and returned in four days, averag'ng forty-five miles per day. Grafton was first called Haldimand Post Office, and there was quite a settlement in the vicinity of that place, before there were many homes erected where the town of Cobourg now stands.

The Old-time Logging Bee.

All that was necessary in getting up an old-time logging bee was to tell one or two of the neighbors and the news soon spread through the surrounding country. Every person who could possibly do so, came whether invited or not. There were no cliques of any kind in those days. Old residents, in deseribing their logging bees, state the first thing was to divide the loggers into gangs, and to lay out the fallow in trees, that is to divide it into sections and give one section to each gang. There was then a race between the gangs to see which could get through first. One man went ahead of each gang to locate where the logs were to be piled, and another drove the oxen. The driver had need to be quick in his movements, as the oxen were so well trained that the moment they heard the click of the chain as it was hooked to the log, they were off, and if a hand or foot were in the way it was in grave danger of being injured. Sometimes the logging was not finished in the one day, in which case the loggers remained all night sleeping on the floor of the shanty or log barn.

Taking Wheat to Miff.

An early grist mill brought into this section is stated to have had a capacity of about forty-eight barrels for the twenty-four hours. Small as it was, it proved a great boon to the early settlers in this locality. In those days when a farmer journeyed many miles to mill, ten bushels of wheat hauled on a jumper was considered a good-sized grist to take with a span of oxen. Often this meant a three or four days' trip and quite a quantity of hay was required to feed the oxen en route. Arrived at the mill each man had to wait his turn, which sometimes necessitated spending a night there. On one occasion a man and his neighbor threshed out two or three bags of grain by flail and started with jumpers for the mill. When he arrived at the lake shore, one of them relates, he found a boat run up on the beach, and concluding that this would be an easier way of reaching his destination than with a jumper, tied the oxen to a tree, gave them some grain, and speedily transferring the grist to the boat, were soon off. Fortunately we got our grain ground promptly and started on our return journey. It was quite dark, however, when we beached the boat at a point where we thought we left the oxen. We found that we had mistaken the spot and that they were a mile further on. We eventually located them, and leaving the boat as we found it, started through the bush for home. "However," he would often conclude, "I do not think the owner would have put us in jail had he discovered us. It would have been more trouble than the thing was worth."

Talked Across the Bay."

One of the early representatives of Northumberland and Durham Counties in the Parliament of Upper Canada was the late Sheriff Ruttan. It was related of him and of other members of his family that they had powerful voices, and that after they came to Canada with the U.E. Loyalists and settled in the Bay of Quinte district, that members of the family living on opposite sides of the bay had been known to "talk across it," making themselves heard to the party on the other side.

Changing Work.

The pioneer farmer was always ready to help a neighbor and "changing work" was quite the order of the times. Sometimes one farmer would own a plow and his neighbors a little farther on might not. An instance occurred in this locality of a farmer setting out to go several miles to plow a small piec land for a new settler. He had not gone far before he found the corduroy road afloat and made the last lap of the journey carry in his plow on his back.

HEALTHY POULTRY.

The health of your poultry flock depends on the condition of its home, especially in winter. Draughts and damp poultry litter are especially to be guarded against.

EGG PRODUCTION.

Pedigree breeding has shown that high egg production is inherited. The tendency toward high egg production is transmitted by the male as well as the female.

FIRST THREE WEEKS.

The first three weeks in a chick's life need vigilance. Most fatalities occur during this time.

JUNIOR PETES DEFEAT GROVE 'PREP' SCHOLARS

Walter Jackson's Squad Handed Lakefield 12-2 Beating.

VISITORS GAME.

Were Outweighed and Outplayed, But They Hung On All the Way.

Peterborough fans were introduced to one of the sweetest little junior teams that has been turned out by this city in a good many years last night, when the kids made their debut at the Brock Street Rink and skated the Lakefield Grove School team off their feet, winning easily by the score of 12 goals to 2, after sixty minutes of hockey that was crammed full of beautiful stick-handling and back-checking on the part of the Petes.

The blue and white were never headed, leading at the end of the first period by 5 goals to 0, at the end of the second by 6 to 0, and at the end of the third by 12 to 2.

Petes Superior.

Although much superior to their rivals in both weight, speed, and experience, the Petes were foiled several times by the plucky little Northerners, who never gave up hope and put every bit of punch into the game that they had.

On the attack the black and white were never very dangerous, most of their rushes being of the one-man style, while on the defence they checked doggedly and hung to the Petes so that even the local fans encouraged them on.

Salmon Scors First.

The first period opened up slowly with neither team showing any spurt of life for the first couple of minutes. After four minutes of play, Russel Salmon, the former Bracebridge boy, hung up the first tally after a combined rush withh McDougal. This advance on the part of the Petes livened up the game considerably, but the Lakefielders could not keep up to the pace set by the Petes, and eight minutes later McDougal put the Petes another notch ahead when he slipped the puck past Griffiths after a lone effort.

When Cheu was penalised for tripping, Lakefield forced the play, and for a few minutes they penned the Petes in their own end of the rink and buzzed around like hornets. One minute after Cheu came back on the ice Salmon got away for another charge down the ice. He stick-handler through the whole team, drew Griffiths out of the nets and slipped a nice one in the corner of the net for the Petes' third counter.

Northerners Were Game.

The students had not yet given up hope, and for a few minutes they gave Lebarr in the Petes' nets a busy time. Ridpath finally made the count four for the Petes when he riped a hot one from ustide the defence past the Lakefield net guardian, after nineteen minutes.

Milloy wound up the period when he scored on a pass from Ridpath, thirty seconds before the gong sounded.

Visitors Dangerous.

The second period was the only one in which the Northerners were really dangerous, and although they had several chances to score Lebarr in the nets was unbeatable. He handled everything the black and white threw at him, in a cool manner, and the visitors were still scoreless when the period ended, while Salmon had done the trick once more for the Petes when he scored on a lone effort after fourteen minutes of the stanza had slipped by.

Lakefield threw everything they had into the first ten minutes of this stanza, wearing themselves out, and in the last ten minutes the locals carried the play once more to the visitors. The blue and white missed a dozen chances in this period to register, but lack of combination and eagerness spoiled their chances, both Salmon and McDougal missing the open net several times, while on numerous other occasions the Lakefield goalie beat the Petes' attackers on close in shots.

Fawcett Scored Twice.

The last period was jammed full of scoring, eight goals being hung up, the Petes getting six and the visitors two.

Although Lebarr was beaten twice in the last frame, it was not his fault that the Northerners scored, for on both occasions the puck was slipped past him by Fawcett when his whole team were around the goal mouth, giving him no chance to see the puck let alone stop it.

A Bad Habit.

Salmon and McDougal both have a bad habit of crossing in front of the goal, only to lose it, and Fawcett swooped in and slapped it past the Peterborough net guardian.

Fawcett also accounted for Lakefield's second counter when he recovered a loose puck at the goal mouth and batter it into the corner of the net.

McDougal Was Good.

McDougal was apparently out to break all records in the last stanza, for he never stopped trying, and before the period had ended he had bulged the twine behind Griffiths three times. Salmon brought his list to five and Collins registered his first marker of the game.

"Sailor" Maudsley and Harry Cheu were the only two on the Petes firing line who did not figure in the scoring column, and although twelve different times the puck was landed behind the Lakefield goalie, both deserved to be credited with a goal, for they had plenty of chances to score.

Cheu was the only man for the blue and white who was apparently off colour last night, all the rest of the boys giving a good account of themselves, and the fans all went away pleased with their 1925 youngsters.

Fawcett, Christmas, and Rainnie were the most effective players for the losers, while the whole team deserve credit for the game fight they handed the Petes.

The teams lined up as follows:

Peterborough — Goal, J. Lebarr; defence, Cheu and Collins; centre, McDougal; right wing, Ridpath; left wing, Salmon; subs., Maudsley and Milloy.

BENNY LEONARD GIVES UP TITLE

World's Lightweight Championship Placed on Market for Open Competition.

TITLE TOURNAMENT.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17. — The world's lightweight championship vacated by Benny Leonard Thursday, after a seven-year reign, will be placed on the market for open competition by the New York State Athletic Commission in an elimination test similar to that conducted recently to determine a feather-weight titleholder.

Leonard to-day addressed a letter to the commission formally relinquishing his crown. At the same time he indicated a desire to have an elimination title tournament conducted to select his successor and George Brower, chairman of the commission intimated this body's willingness to go ahead with such a project as soon as official word is received of Leonard's retirement.

Brower was reluctant to discuss the matter inasmuch as he has not been officially notified of Leonard's action, but he said the matter would be discussed at the commission's meeting Wednesday and the course of action determined.

Tex Rickard, Madison Square Garden promoter, has placed a diamond studded belt at the disposition of the New York Commission to give to the winner of the tournament.

WRIGHTSTONE MADE CREDITABLE RECORD

Philadelphia National League Third Sacker Had Batting Average of .307.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—Russell Wrightstone, Philadelphia National League third baseman, finished the 1924 season with a batting average of .307, a mark which was bettered by only seven other National League infielders— Hornsby, Frisch, Kelly, Fournier, Grantham, Critz and High Playing with a cellar team, in a so-called weak infield, Wrightstone's work during the 1924 season stamps him as one of the hightlights in National League infielding. While never a star of the first magnitude, Wrightstone is a plugger. His name is never mentioned in connection with an "all' 'team. Nor is he considered a particular star with the Phillies, but the records reveal that he is one of the most dependable third baseman in the National League and a hitting star of .300 caliber.

Wrightstone is just an average baseball player. There is nothing flashy about his play. He never seeks the limelight of public praise, but day after day he is in there, knocking down hits and getting his share of bingles without the usual ballyhoo which comes to those who stand out in the world of baseball.

But from experience, pitchers are beginning to figure on him when he steps to the plate. His quiet way is deceiving. The fans take him for granted. He never gets the applause of the multitude when he delivers, because he is supposed to deliver, but let him slip and the censure of the mob falls upon his head. His work is evidently appreciated by few, but the fans in Philadelphia are slowly beginning to realize why Manager Arthur Fletcher keeps Wrightstone in there day after day. Fletcher calls him a diamond in the rough with the wearing quality but without the glitter.

HOCKEY MATCH CAMPBELLFORD

Home Team Defeated Deseronto in a Good Game of Hockey.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 17. — In the Intercollegiate hockey match played at Covert's Arena last night, the home team defeated Deseronto High School 3 goals to 2 in a very even and exciting game, in which both goal-minders starred. Fox, in the home nets, made some grand saves, and Haig at the other end was equally as good.

The Deseronto team seemed rather awkward on their skates, but they got there just the same. They also roamed all over the ice, but the local kids failed to take advantage of this to pass the puck in the first two periods. When they did in the last period, they were all over the visitors, and had three shots to Deseronto's one on goal. Perry, the big boy on the Deseronto team, was probably the best on the ice. He has size and speed, and can carry a puck. His rushes caused the locals a lot of worry, and generally ended with a shot on goal. He got both of Deseronto's goals, and with a less capable net guardian, would have had more. Detlor got a nasty slam in the face when he collided with McDonald before the game started.

Ward Baker played a nice game for Principal Greig's boys. He had more speed than anybody, and also proved a better puck carrier. It was his brilliant rushes in the last period that enabled the local kids to tie the score, and eventually win the game.

Teddy Blute at centre also played nice hockey. He was in every play, and back-checked persistently. He broke fast, and carried the puck well but had hard luck around the goal.

Cliff Baker had lots of speed while he lasted, but tired easily. He was also inclined to swing from his wing, when carrying the puck.

Reynolds held his end up on the left wing, and kept pecking away at the Deseronto net all night.

B. Scriver led the High School rooters' club and entertained the fans between periods.

Charlie Holmes handled the game in an impartial manner and kept it clean, handing out 8 penalties to the Deseronto team and four to Campbellford players. Big boy Perry committed the only serious offence when he tossed Thomas into the boards.

Both teams had numerous chances to score in the first period, but the goalkeepers turned them all back but one. Perry shot and grabbed the rebound at the side, circled the net, and slinned it in the other side. Teddy Blute had a good chance to even it up, but Haig was too good for him, and the period ended with Deseronto one up.

Second Period.

Play was up and down the ice, both goals having narrow escapes. Half-way through Blute carried the puck down and shot, and Reynolds grabbed the rebound and tipped it into the net, evening the score. Neither team had much on the other. Perry was going great in this period, confining his efforts to the offence, while he let his teammates do the defensive stuff.

Third Period.

Campbellford kids commenced to play some combination and had a shade the better of the play, but Perry put Deseronto in the lead when he got by everybody and right in on top of Fox. With the period half gone, Perry drew a penalty for tripping, and Campbellford evened the score again when Ward Baker carried the puck from end to end and gave Blute a pass right at the goal mouth. Ward kept up his rushes, and was again successful, giving Cliff. Baker a nice pass for the winning goal. With just a few minutes to go, Perry slammed Thomas into the boards and drew another penalty and when he came back the locals checked him close. The game ended with Campbellford attacking.

The teams:

Referee—C. Holmes, Campbellford.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Peterboro—Toronto Montreal—Winnipeg

Press). — Correspondents in Great Britain report that owing to the extremely bad weather in England and Ireland, with torrential rains and heavy snow in places, heavy production has been curtailed and it is possible there will be a scarcity of best quality eggs during the present month. This together with the depletion of the stocks, points to a firmer market during the next few weeks, particularly so if the weather keeps cold.

The stocks of eggs in storage in Canada on January first last amounted to 76,896 cases, which is 15,426 above the five-year average as on that date. Storage stocks of poultry amounted to 7,301,463 pounds on January first, which is 1,823,277 pounds over the five-year average.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Jan. 16. — (Canadian Press).—Big European buying gave a substantial lift to wheat values today after the market had suffered a sharp set-back early. July delivery of wheat sold at a new high price record for the season. Wheat closed firm, 7-8 cent to 1 3-8 cents net higher, May 1.85 to 1.85¼, and July 1.59¼ to 1.60 5-8, with corn 1 to 1¼ cents up; oats 1-8 to ¼ cent off, and provisions unchanged to 22 cents lower.

MONTREAL GRAIN.

MONTREAL, Jan. 16.—(Canadian Press).—The export trade in Canadian grain in the Montreal market to-day was again reported quiet. A few sales of odd loads of Canadian Western oats were made to London and Avonmouth for near-by shipment. The cables on barley were weaker, and as the prices bid were out of line no further business resulted. The domestic demand for grain was limited, the only sale of importance being 10,000 bushels of No. 2 Canadian Western oats at 72¼ cents per bushel, c.i.f. bay ports. Ontario No. 2 white oats were quoted at 66 cents, No. 3 grade at 64 cents, and No. 4 grade at 62 cents.

The egg market was active and prices remained firm at the recent changes noted. An easier tone developed in butter and prices were reduced another ½ cent per pound on all grades. The cheese situation was quiet. Prices for current receipts of fodder made goods were unchanged at 19½ to 20 cents per pound for No. 1 grade, and at 18½ to 19 cents per pound for No. 2 grade.

Heavy exporting of Canadian beans continues to the United States and prices were firm at $2.90 per bushel.

STERLING RATES.

MONTREAL, Jan. 16.—(Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here to-dav as follows:

Sterling demand, $4.78½.
Sterling cables, $4.78 5-8.

Bowling

BELLEVILLE LADY BOWLERS WON LAST NIGHT.

The Belleville lady bowlers have come, seen and conquered, both in bowling and all around fellowship and good sportsmanship. Even though they conquered in bowling, as was expected, and redeemed Belleville's defeat in hockey from the night before, they have only strengthened the good opinion that the Peterboro teams had gained from their association with them last spring.

The party, who were in charge of Mr. Alexander, were too strong and included Mrs. Lee, Mrs. Bottum, Mrs Strachan, Mrs. Goyer, and the Misses Athchinson, Lafferty, Whalen. Goyer, Rainhard, Blakely. They arrived on the 5.30 train via Port Hope, and bowled three games before the banquet, which the Peterboro Ladies League and the Y.M.C.A. co-operated to give them. Then after the banquet the remaining three games were rolled off. These were followed by a few good games for about an hour, after which coffee and doughnuts were served to those present, which was followed by the breaking up of the party at about midnight, for the Belleville visitors were leaving on the early train this morning.

The members of the executive, also team captains, and others, who labored to make the whole entertainment the great success it was, were as follows: The Misses Grace Evans, A. Davidson, A. Ryley, D. Burgess, S. Bennett, M. Walker, Marjory Evans, H. Crowe, M. Ross and H. Henry. All the bowlers of this Ladies' League however helped to put over one of the brighest features of the bowling life in Peterboro.

Miss A. Lafferty and Mr. J. Alexander replying to the toast of the Visitors, as proposed by M. Ross, expressed a fervent wish that the Peterboro ladies would soon pay a visit to Belleville. This wish was fervently re-echoed by all from Peterboro who took in the trip to the Quinte town last spring, and so the return-games may be looked forward to in about three weeks.

The bowling between this season and last shows a marked improvement in the Peterboro scores, even though Belleville won by a wide margin, but if the Peterboro teams keep on they will be able in time to cope with teams who have a score of 918 for a game and singles of 246, 227, 221 and 222, etc., on strange alleys.

Miss Rae was high for Peterboro with 510 for the three games, while Miss Doris Burgess had the high single with 201. Some of the Peterboro ladies plainly showed the effects of nervousness, but as time goes on in the competition playing this will undoubtedly disappear.

The scores of the games were as follows:

DISCORDANT SOUND WILL BE MASTERED

New Invention May Adust Sounds to an Individual's Aesthetic Taste.

IOWA CITY, Ia., Jan. 17.—By causing successive waves of sound to interfere with each other's transmission, Dr. W. G. Stewart, a professor of physics at the University of Iowa, has perfected a device which he believes in time may be used to eliminate undesirable noises and to adjust sounds "to an individuals aesthetic taste."

The establishment of quiet zones for hospitals and the requirement of mufflers for automobiles testify to the penetrating nature of sound waves. They will pass, Dr. Stewart says, through the most minute crack, and even through an apparently solid wall. With the theory that sound waves would expend themselves were they placed in conflict with one another, Dr. Stewart worked out his device, which he calls an acoustic wave filter.

The results are obtained, Dr. Stewart explains, not by placing obstructions in the path of sound, but by setting up a sort of battle between the various waves, thus causing a disordered transmission.

A brass cylinder tube one-half inch in diameter and six inches long, containing nothing but air and open at both ends, is caused to transmit all tones of a piano up to a certain note and above this to transmit no audible sound. With another and slightly different tube, the tones below this same, or any other note, will be refused transmission, whereas all higher tones pass freely.

"Other equally remarkable results of a similar nature can be obtained," said Dr. Stewart in explaining his device. "The tubes, while entirely open and free from obstructions, have, at regular intervals, branching tubes and chambers. At each branching point waves are reflected backward through the tube. The design of the branches can be made in such a manner as to produce a backward reflection and an interference of almost any group of tones."

Dr. Stewart explained that he considered the device truly a filter. It is a new basic method of manipulating sound waves and may find application in many acoustic devices in use today.

"The telephone, the phonograph and even musical instruments themselves may sooner or later profit by this new device," Dr. Stewart said "In fact, there is opened to the imagination the possibility of the elimination of undesirable noises and the enjoyment of sounds adjusted to an individual aesthetic taste."

Breaks Another Record.

Paavo Nurmi Breaks His Former Record by One Second.

CHICAGO, January 17 (Canadian Press). — Paavo Nurmi, in a hurry to catch a train back to New York, for his third successive night's performance, ran a mile and three-quarters in 7.55 2-5, one-fifth of a second better than his previous world's record, in a special race with Joe Ray last night at the Illinois Athletic Club's indoor games.

The wonderful Finn showed no ill effects of his all-night and day ride from New York undertaken just after he had smashed Ray's old record on Thursday night.

He ran with his usual stride, judged the pace perfectly, and left Ray half a lap behind as he flashed across the finishing mark..

RYDER SCORES 201 RUNS.

English Team Leading With Score of 489 Runs to 275.

ADELAIDE, Australia, Jan. 17.—(Canadian Press).—Wonderful batting by Ryder, who scored 201 runs, not out, featured the second day's play in the third cricket Test match between England and Australia today. The home players made a remarkable recovery, and carried an overnight score of 275 for 7 wickets to 489 before the last batsman was disposed of. In the closing minutes of the day England fared badly, losing two wickets for 36 runs before the close of play.

WORKERS LEAVE 'ANTI' CHURCHES

Difficulties Face Congregations That Vote Out of Union.

CASES CITED.

Unionists contend that when a unionist minority of considerable sizes leaves a church which has voted out that church loses its main strength in working and giving. This argument they back by citing a number of churches where the antis triumphed and where the minority goes out.

In Central church Hamilton, it is said that nine-tenths of the workers in practically all departments are going out, and have already made arrangements for a hall in which they will hold services. This minority is said to have raised 75 per cent. of the budget of the church in the past.

In Knox church, Ottawa, 11 of the 12 elders are to resign and the superintendent of the Sunday school and eight teachers have already resigned. The minority will withdraw and go to some unionist congregation.

In Parry Sound 4 out of 6 elders, most of the church managers, most of the W.M.S. workers, and all but six of the Sunday school staff will go out. Last year, it is asserted, the minority raised 80 per cent. of the budget and gave 90 per cent. of the mission givings.

In Stratford the Knox church minority will take out 20 of the 25 elders, 8 of the 12 managers, most of the W.M.S. workers, and practically all the Sunday school.

Seek Union Minister, Can't Have Them.

TARA, Ont., Jan. 16.— The congregation of Knox church, Tara, extended a unanimous call to Rev. John Richardson, of Chalmers church, London, but he has declined to accept the call owing to this being a non-Union church.

AT THE GRAND.

"THE WORLD OF PASSION."

This evening affords the last chance to Peterboro theatre goers to see "The World of Passion" at the Grand Opera House. Possibly not at any future time will one of the most interesting characters in all of history, a character, who, although mythical, has aroused interest among men since the beginning of the Christian era, the Wandering Jew, ever be presented on the silver sheet. The story of the man who wandered down through the centuries seeking peace, and finding only passion, is too stupendous a one for the average producer. Oswald Stoll, in "The World of Passion," makes him a real, living personality. This picture, which commanded high prices of admission wherever shown, is given in Peterboro at a popular scale.

The prologue, designed and produced by Mrs. W. McKee Bingham, who also takes the principal role throughout, is very entertaining.

Enthusiastic applause followed the presentation of its two sections last evening. The conception of Woman, as presented in "The World of Passion," is carried out in the four sections of the prologue, showing her in turn as Pleasure, Religion, Art and Passion. The songs by Mrs. Bingham are appropriate and beautifully rendered, and the dances by her talented corps of assistants, the Misses May Perry, Martha Kirn, Jessie Hodgson and Helen Ross form the final note, with very pretty costuming, to an elaborate prologue which alone is worth the small admission price.

AT THE ROYAL.

MILTON SILLS OF "SEA HAWK" FAME AT ROYAL THURSDAY

Milton Sills, featured player in many productions directed by C. B. DeMille, and known as an actor with a tremendous fan following, plays the leading role of "Legally Dead," the Universal all-star production coming to the Royal Theatre next Thursday. Adrenalin, the magic drug with which the scientists to-day are restoring life, motivates the plot, and the leading character is a man hanged for a murder of which he was not guilty and brought back to life with adrenalin.

SPECIAL MUSIC AT ROYAL ON MONDAY.

The overture announced for Monday next at the Royal will be selections from "Flora Dora." Many of the late popular numbers will be introduced during the programme.

BETTY BALFOUR LEAVES TO-NIGHT.

After playing to big crowds at the Royal, England's dainty little comedienne, Betty Balfour, will close the local engagement of "Mary Finds the Gold," tonight. This production, while not having as many laughs as some of her former ones, shows "Squibs" to be just as talented as a dramatic actress. Everybody we speak to praises the film highly. Tonight is the last opportunity.

WEAKER SEX INVADE MAN'S LAST STRONGHOLD, BIG RANCH IN WEST

New Field for Women Shown in "Tiger Thompson," Carey's Latest — Star Says It's a Good One—Harry Carey Thinks There's No Reason Why Fair Ones Shouldn't Boss Men.

With the modern American women clamoring for "equal rights," it is not surprising that the business world is being invaded by members of the fair sex. Nearly every field of industry is beginning to show the effect of the feminine touch.

There's one branch of business, however, that women do not hasten to enter. You seldom hear of lady ranchers.

By "Tiger Thompson," Hunt Stromberg's third Harry Carey production, which comes to the Royal Theatre for a three-day run beginning Monday, the world will be well informed on this subject, for the heroine, instead of being the usual school teacher or debutante from the East, is "boss of the Square Bar X."

In the picture she gets into all sorts of trouble and is rescued each time by the stalwart Carey. But personally, the star with his customery tolerance, doesn't see any reason why a bright girl cannot run a ranch as capably as she runs a typewriter.

"Naturally, a good-looking girl shouldn't be expected to rope any bucking bronchos or to plough a few acres of hillside for her morning's exercise," opines Harry. "But there's no reason why she can't do the light work—like bossing around all the men on the place. That ought to come easy to her!"

Whether Harry's advice on the matter will influence his feminine fans or not remains to be seen. Certainly Marguerite Clayton, heroine to "Tiger Thompson," seemingly makes a very captivating and capable ranch boss.

AT THE CAPITOL.

8 LEADING MEN AND 2 HEROINES

"Wine of Youth" Boasts Record Number of "Lovers"

King Vidor's Metro-Goldwyn production, "Wine of Youth," which opens an engagement at the Capitol Theatre on Monday and Tuesday next boasts what is possibly the most unusual cast of any motion picture.

The players include eight popular young screen leading men, any one of whom would suffice an ordinary picture.

Six of these heroes make love to one of the heroines, which seems rather unfair, but is necessary for the needs of the story.

The leading men are Ben Lyon, William Collier, Jr., Bobby Agnew, William Haines, Creighton Hale, Niles Welch, Johnnie Walker, James Morrison.

The heroines are Eleanor Boardman and Pauline Garon.

Story in Three Periods.

This unusual collection of leading men may be explained by the story, "Wine of Youth," adapted from Rachel Crothers' stage play, "Mary the Third," which takes place in three different periods.

As the story opens, Mary, the first, is being wooed by Johnnie Walker and James Morrison. The year is 1870. A brief flash of this courtship is shown, and the scene shifts to 1897, when Mary the Second is being courted by Creighton Hale and Niles Welch.

The third, and main episode of the story opens in 1924, with Mary the Third, daughter of the second and granddaughter of the first toying with the affections of Ben Lyon and William Haines.

All three Marys in their youth are played by Eleanor Boardman. In the modern episode Eulalie Jensen plays the mother and Gertrude Claire the grandmother.

The Demon Brother.

Bobby Agnew is the inevitable younger brother, and E. J. Ratcliffe is cast in the role of Mary's father, incidentally, playing the role of Niles Welch in middle-age. Pauline Garon adds to her notable collection of flapper roles as Tish, Mary's closest friend, and William Collier, Jr., is Tish's sheik.

Virginia Lee Corbin, the baby film star who has grown up and become a flapper beauty, Gloria Heller, Lucille Hutton and Sydney de Grey complete the cast.

A real "flapper party" more or less wild, is one of the interesting features of this picture. Mr. Vidor wanted to make "Wine of Youth" a real picture of real modern youth, and he decided that a party was the best way to do it. So he spent several days selecting typical flappers and "cake-eaters" to play in the scenes.

THE LITTLE OLD TUB

'Tis the middle of the morning and the house is all ahum, as the dishes and the kitchen work are dropped. From a tiny baby's nursery little wails and hollers come. It's no wonder that all other things are stopped.

Mother rushes in to get him and he gurgles loud with glee 'cause he knows that she will lift him from his bed. Soon he's yawning and he's stretching and he's happy as can be. Then he's snuggled in his baby cart and fed.

While the youngster drains his bottle mother fixes up his tub. It's a portion of the routine of the day. Fuzzy towels are hanging handy for the tot must have its rub after splashing half an hour or so away.

Now the morning bath is ready and the youngster takes its plunge and perhaps some soapsuds get into its eyes. Water trickles down its shoulders from a fluffy, squeezy sponge. Now and then the tot is startled and it cries.

Years may pass but Mom remembers 'bout the tub that used to be; the tub that used to sit upon a chair. It recalls the baby's play days as a tiny tot, you see, and the memory's one of sentiment that's rare.

QUICK-CHANGE ARTISTE

By Cynthia Grey.

One of the few simple requirements for a wife is the speed of a lightning-change artist.

At breakfast time she must be spick-and-span as the man who flips flapjacks in the window of a white-tile restaurant.

At 10 she must be a woman of fashion on her way to the market-house.

At lunch time she must be as spotless-aproned as the head cook in a rotisserie.

At 4 she must be a lady of leisure, dressed for callers.

At dinner-time she must be in her kitchen as immaculate as a Delmonico chef in his!

And at 8, her job is to emerge like a vogue pattern, a siren, and a credit to her husband—to go with him to the theatre, the movies, or the eternal bridge club.

TIRELESS WIRELESS.

(Hal Cochran's Daily Poem.)

What's the use of real statistics on the static of the air? What's the diff'rence what is floating through the space? Just as long as we are positive that something's really there, let's be satisfied to let it have its place.

Since the tireless wireless doings have been part of daily life, all the world has turned to gently tuning in.. And we listen, scared of missin' things of gladness or of strife, and we share the tireless wireless with our kin.

Mother, Aunt and Sister Mary stay at home most every night. They are harking to an opera far away. Father, Uncle, Brother Harry get the progress of a fight, and the tireless wireless works both night and day.

Music comes and fills the household and there's cheerfulness galore and it makes you kinda glad that you were born. Goodness knows what's in the future and what wonders are in store when, to-day, they take the air sounds from a horn.

Lots of credit's due the wireless that's as tireless as can be, for it picks up sounds that far and wide are hurled. Reaching out and getting something, when there's nothing we can see; it is just another wonder of the world.

REDS HIRED THEATRE.

Planned Memorial Service in London for Lenin.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—When the stockholders of the new Oxford theatre learned that a meeting next Sunday for which the theatre had been engaged was to take the form of a memorial service for Vladimir Lenin, late president of the people's commissaries, Russia, they insisted upon the cancelling of the contract. It is asserted that the Reds who hired the theatre for Sunday did not reveal the object of the gathering until after they had secured the use of the building.

'FRISCO FLAPPER WILL ESCAPE GALLOWS FOR MURDER OF MOTHER

California Law Suspends Extreme Penalty for Persons Under Eighteen—Board of Five Alienists to Determine Dorothy Ellingson's Sanity.

MAY BE COMMITTED TO AN ASYLUM

Girl Lured by Bright Lights Burns in Their Flame—Four of Her Men Associate Arrested — 13 Others Wanted.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 19,—Though she killed her mother in cold blood by her own confession, sixteen-year-old Dorothy Ellingson will not hang.

Furthermore, she has a better than even chance of going to an asylum instead of to prison. A board of five alienists is to be appointed to observe her. A woman will prosecute her.

These, and Dorothy's remarkable behavior, were the outstanding features Saturday in San Francisco's most unusual murder case. The girl, apparently, has not yet realized her situation.

Dorothy slept late. The prison officials had pity on her. She had withstood twelve hours of pitiless grilling after having been routed out of bed at 4 o'clock in the morning when she was arrested.

Policewoman Sullivan, in whose charge she is, says the girl did not go to sleep until after midnight. she adedd:

"She remained calm until she went to sleep, but she was less talkative. She seemed to be thinking, but gave no signs of breaking down.

Mrs. Sullivan for once dispensed with the prison routine and declined to waken her charge at the usual hour..

But on awakening Dorothy was refreshed and gave every evidence of that same careless, thoughtless buoyancy she has shown from the first.

Eager To Pose.

The girl was ready, even anxious to be interviewed and to pose for photographs. The police, however, held there had been enough of that and forbade further interviews.

Jurisdiction over the case of Dorothy has been retained by the Superior Court. She will not, therefore, benefit by her youth and be dealt with by the juvenile authorities.

Cannot Be Hanged.

But she will not hang, because the State law provides that the extreme penalty may not be imposed on persons under eighteen. The prosecution is likely to ask that Dorothy be given life imprisonment, providing she is found sane.

Of the five alienists who are to examine the girl two will be appointed by the prosecution, two by the defense, and the fifth member of the board will be the city physician.

District Attorney Matthew Brady is at his wits' ends over the case. He said:

"It is the first case of its kind on record in this case. The girl's youth, every circumstance of the killing, is unusual."

Brady announced that he had selected Mrs. Theresta Meikle to handle the case for the State. Mrs. Meikle is Mr. Brady's only woman assistant..

U. S. Takes a Hand.

A sweeping Federal inquiry into the places where Dorothy and her male friends indulged in liquor parites is to be made. Prohibition authorities have asked the police for information as to the places the girl frequented in Jazzland, and the names of her male associates.

Getting into action quickly the police have begun a round up of the young "sheiks" with whom the girl spent the night hours. Warrants have been issued for seventeen young men, and have been arrested. Dorothy was told of this. She snapped back:

"They are just as guilty as I am. They started me and kept me going on the way to this."

She indicated the walls of her cell. Then she asked the names of those arested. For one, she had a good word:

"Keith was a gentleman. He was different from the rest."

Shemeant Keith Lord, a popular young banjoist, now in Los Angeles. He, Dave Stein, who was with her on the night of the day on which she killed her mother, and Harry Chinitz, are the three under arrest.

At first, all were charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor, but later Chinitz was charged with a statutory offense.

Wish To Avoid Scene.

The police court arraignment of the girl has been set for January 22.

As a precaution against the possibility of the girl attempting suicide, Policewoman Sullivan spends the night in the cell with Dorothy.

Wisdom Too Late.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Jan. 19.—"Marry Young."

That's paragraph one of the creed for girls which Dorothy Ellingson laid down yesterday.

Dorothy, tall, slender, red haired and 16, is in jail here charged with the cold blooded murder of her mother. Anna Ellingson, quiet Swedish woman, who was bewildered by the wild whirl of life which her only daughter entered at the age of 12.

Dorothy admitted she killed because she was scolded for staying out on all night parties with shiny haired shieks, who played banjos in or chestras of Chinatown cafes.

But Yesterday, remorseful drawn and haggard, she talked thoughtfully of the things which had wrecked her life and gave an exclusive interview, elaborating seven points of advice to other girls as follows:

Seven Points of Advice.

"Marry young."

"Obey your parents;

"Have your mother always accompany you to parties, dances or the theatre;

"Never touch liquor;

"Avoid suggestive movies;

"Learn a trade in your last few years at school;

"And avoid the automobile shick;

"Not one of these things have I done," said Dorothy, "and now I am here."

"The ambition of every girl should be to get an affectionate husband and have children. I know that now. A week ago I didn't. Had I done that my mind would have been occupied and I would have had no thoughts for the cabarets.

She choked a little.

"If I could only live my life over—and have my dear mother back again, I would be so different.

"I have learned everything—suddenly, but too late."

San Francisco was aroused to-day as it seldom has been ,over the case of Dorothy Ellingson.

Action thus far has consisted of the arrest of four of Dorothy's "shieks," issuance of warrants for thirteen others; arrest of May Fitzgerald, her companion; a plan for a general round-up of juvenile court wards who are on probation; and rigid investigation of sale of liquor in out-of-the-way all-night cafes.

No steps whatsoever have been taken to defend the girl. Her father and brother have refused to take the initiative.

"Let her hang," her brother still declares.

"I can't help her— I wish I could said her father.

Loved "Bright Lights."

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 19—"Bright lights."

That was the creed of Dorothy Ellingson, according to Keith Lord, cafe banjo player, formerly of San Francisco, who told what he knew of the girl known here as Dorothy Rousse.

Lord appeared anything but excited when the news of the girl's confession was given to him. He said:

"She told them she did the shooting, did she? Well, it's too bad. I knew her in San Francisco and knew that she liked wild parties and night life, but I never knew she was the kind to do any shootting.

I met her when I was working at the New Shanghai Cafe, just on the border of Chinatown. She told me she was nineteen and she looked it. Sophistication was written all over her.

"We went out to places several times, she and I, and I learned very soon her idea of life was the bright lights and plenty of liquor. She told me her mother was dead and that she live with friends by the name of Ellingson.

"It is true that the police found a letter from me in which I offered to send her money for her fare to Los Angeles and I wrote it because she wrote first and said she was going to leave San Francisco and come here.

"As far as any love affair is concerned, there's nothing to that, in fact, we weren't even good friends. I knew her, that's all."

THORNTON ENDS RUMOR OF SELLING U. S. LINES

C.N.R. System Across Border Finds Authorities Friendly.

MONTREAL, January 19. — The following official announcement was made here last evening by Sir Henry W. Thornton, chairman and president of the Canadian National Railways:

"Rumors have been current from time to time that the Canadian National Railways intend to dispose of their mileage in the United States and that various forms of pressure are being applied to bring this about. All such rumors are totally without foundation. The relation of the Canadian National System as a railway with the railways of the United States, and the authorities in that country are most friendly and agreeable. Should any disposition of lines come about in the future it would be an amicable arrangement satisfactory to all."

WRECK KILLS TWO.

Train Broke Through Trestle Undermined by Flood.

SELMA, Alabama, Jan. 19.—Two persons were killed and two injured on Sunday morning, when Southern passenger train No. 28 crashed through a trestle over Mulberry Creek at Freemont, 25 miles north of here. The trestle is said to have been undermined as a result of the flooded condition of the creek due to the recent heavy rains.

AUTOS CHASE RUM ICEBOATS.

Liquor Runners Speed Back to Canadian Side and Escape.

MT. CLEMENS, Mich., Jan. 19.—Hundreds of cases of whisky and beer have come across Lake St. Clair on the wings of iceboats. Twelve minutes is the average time required for the trip, according to members of the State police and Federal "dry navy."

For several nights the phantom smugglers baffled the dry agents. Lately, however, the authorities have attempted to check the traffic by using automobiles, and the smugglers in some cases have tacked sharply and returned to the Canadian side, avoiding capture.

FRANCE MAY PROTECT LACE BUYERS.

PARIS, Jan. 17.—It is the opinion of French experts that the hand-made laces of France cannot compete against lace woven by loom, particularly as the latter is often sold upon representation that it is hand-made.

Consequently, a bill has been introduced in the Chamber of Deputies providing that all mechanically-made lace bear a tag clearly setting forth that it is not hand-made.

RADIO BISHOP.

The favorable impression created among churchmen by the radio broadcasting of his sermons has caused the Rev. Warren L. Rogers, dean of St. Paul's' Cathedral, Detroit, to be named bishop coadjutor of the Episcopal Diocese of Ohio. He has been using the radio every Sunday for two years.

VERIGIN'S SON REURNS TO LEAD COLONY THAT DROVE MOTHER AWAY; MAY ABOLISH COMMUNITY SYSTEM AMONG CANADIAN DOUKHOBORS

Peter Verigin's Processions With Singing Girls Drove Mother Back to Russia.

WEALTHY ESTATE

Young Verigin Elected Leader of Sect at Brilliant, B. C. —His Cousin a Rival.

NELSON, B. C., Jan. 19.—From out of Russia comes a man to rule a people whose gossip drove him and his mother from their midst 18 years ago.

He is Peter Verigin, Jr., eldest son of the late Peter Verigin, who for more than 20 years ruled the Doukhobors, a strange sect of religious communists of Russian birth now living in Western Canada.

The elder Verigin, though an able ruler, was indifferent to conventions.

It was no unusual sight to see him driving from one village to another in a large rubber-tired carriage, preceded by mounted outriders and accompanied by six or eight young Doukhobor maidens, singing the quaint folk songs of their native land.

Even though she was the wife of a king, prophet, high priest, Mrs. Verigin could not tolerate this and other things which became matters of common talk among the colonists.

So she returned to Russia, accompanied by Peter, Jr. The next year Peter, Jr., came back to Canada alone, but evidently disapproving of his father's manner of living, returned to Russia.

Will Direct Estate Worth Millions.

Now he is returning to Canada accompanied by two members of the Christian Community of Universal Brotherhood, having been overwhelmingly elected to rule this organization.

A vast estate, great responsibilities, profound homage and great power await him.

Will he measure up to the responsibilities entailed in the management of an estate valued at five or more millions of dollars, involving lumber mills, jam factories, huge fruit-growing areas and wide farming tracts?

The Doukhobors believe that he will. In fact he was chosen after a report had gained wide credence that Anastasis Verigin, niece of Peter, would be named.

Anastasis is one of the outstanding women of the colony and enjoyed the confidence of her uncle over a period of years.

Peter, Jr., is at present head of the Community Doukhobors still living in Russia. There are from 15,000 to 20,000 remaining in the land of their birth.

May Abolish Community System.

He is expected to do away with the old community system—so necessary in Russia for mutual protection and unnecessary in Canada, under a government which guarantees freedom of religious beliefs, and which granted exemption from military service to the Doukhobors.

The name "Doukhobors" means "Spirit-wrestlers" and was given them in the early part of the eighteenth century by the Bishop of Russia.

They came to Canada from Russia in 1898, fleeing the persecution of the czarist government because of their objection to military service.

About 7,000 crossed the ocean and settled on land given them by the Canadian government near Yorktown, in Northern Saskatchewan.

They lived in communities, had communal but no private property, did not care about education and remained aloof from their neighbors.

Refused to Send Children to School.

Their first clash with government authorities came when they objected to sending their children to public schools. For the schools, they claimed, teach children to "make war—to kill"—

And the schools taught their boys and girls "city ways"—to "leave the farms and go into the cities and stay out late at nights."

A number of parents were hailed into court. They refused to pay fines and their property was seized.

Then came a strategic move. Men and women staged a nude parade from Outlook to Grand Forks where the court-house is located.

There, after lively tussles, they were placed in trucks and shipped back to the colony. School fires followed and several of the colonists were adjudged insane. There were several other conflicts, too, over taxes.

To-day the Doukhobors own 15,000 acres in British Columbia, with headquarters at Brilliant.

They have transformed it into a garden spot and shown place for all interested in the sciences of agriculture and horticulture.

BILL HART AND WIFE IN COURT

Versions of Movie Stars on Marital Disagreement Differ.

WIFE NEEDS MONEY.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 19.—William S. Hart, "Two-gun Bill" of the moving pictures, and his wife, Winifred Westover Hart, from whom he is separated, in superior court here gave their first authenticated version of what killed the home fires on the family hearth on May Day, 1922.

The stories of the two failed to tally in many respects.

The occasion was the court's demand for testimony to decide whether the separation agreement which bars Mrs. Hart from the screen, and which she is seeking to break, was an agreement in restraint of trade."

Mrs. Hart said their first difference occurred May 1, 1922, following a disagreement between herself and Mr. Hart's sister, Mary, while Mr. Hart admitted that his first intimation of trouble came on that date, but flatly denied knowledge of a disagreement between his wife and his sister.

Mrs. Hart testified that Mr. Hart frequently importuned her to go to Reno and get a divorce. Mr. Hart denied it. Although she wept occasionally during her examination and cross-examiantion, Mrs. Hart was generally composed.

Her husband, on the other hand, appeared ill at ease, unaccustomed to "appearing in public" and frequently found his legs too long to cross comfortably as he gave his version of family affairs in a drawling monotone.

Bill, junior, for the most part slumbered blissfully in the lap of his nurse or his mother, and did not even awaken when his father kissed him as he left the witness stand.

Mr. Hart told the court that on one occasion prior to the separation when Mrs. Hart had asked him for more money, he expressed surprise and told her that she was spending his money at the rate of $50,000 a year.

Mrs. Hart declared— and this her husband corroborated—that she did not believe in divorce and would not attempt to obtain one, whereat he replied that if she did not seek a divorce he would settle a trust fund on her and one on the baby, with the provision that she should not return to the screen and "commercialize" his name.

The trust fund, according to its custodian, James Stuart, banker, yields the little boy a monthly income of $735 and his mother $387.50. This, Mrs. Hart contends, in her effort to break the agreement and resume acting, is not sufficient to support her.

From May 1 to May 10, 1922, according to Mr. Hart, terms of the proposed separation settlement were discussed every night between husband and wife, after which Mrs. Hart reported her progress to her lawyers, friends and mother.

Examination developed from Mrs. Hart that she and her mother were out of funds when she married he gave her $5,000 and a few days later $7,000.

BIG SHIPMENT GOLD.

Steamer George Washington Unloaded Bullion Yesterday.

PLYMOUTH, Eng., Jan. 19. — Sunday strollers along the docks yesterday experienced a thrill when they witnessed the unloading from the steamer George Washington of a shipment of gold bars. The gold was in kegs and was shipped by New York bankers.

In the ninety six kegs there was gold of a value approximately of $1,200,000. There also came from the vessel a shipment of silver valued at $27,000. About one half of the bullion will go to London and the remainder to Bombay.

OBITUARY.

MRS. WM. EVANS.

NORHAM, Ont., Jan. 19. — The sudden death of Mrs. Wm. Evans, which occurred Jan. 15th, was a shock to the whole community. Mrs. Evans was apparently in her usual health until about an hour before her death, but her heart was so affected that she died before a physician could reach her home.

The deceased, who was a lifelong resident of this vicinity, was of a cheery disposition, and had many loyal friends.

Mrs. Evans leaves to mourn her loss, besides her husband, three sons and one daughter, namely: F. V. Evans, Oshawa; Ray A. Evans, North Portal, Sask.; David Evans, Norham, and Mrs. J. H. Isaac, Montverdi, Florida.

LEADING SECTS ARE UNCHANGED

Peterboro's Principal Religious Parties Maintain Relative Positions.

LATEST FIGURES

That religious sects in Peterboro are maintaing their relative standing is shown by a comparison of an old religious census of 72 years ago with the latest census made. This is the record:

	1852	1924
Anglicans	540	5,047
Roman Catholics	565	4,960
Methodists	494	4,909
Presbyterians	463	4,054

On a percentage basis according to the population, which was 2,191 in 1852 and 21,000 in 1924, the Anglican Church had 24 per cent. of the population in both years; the Methodist Church had 23 per cent. in 1924 against 22 per cent. in 1852; the Roman Catholic Church had 24 per cent. in 1924 as compared with 25 per cent. in 1852 and the Presbyterians dropped from 21 per cent. in 1852 to 19 per cent. last year. The only important newcomers in the field are the Baptists, who are credited with 1,105 members.

At the other extreme, with few members, is the Swedenborgian (New Church) with one member; Friends 2; Confucians 2; Noncomformists Mennonites (including Hutteries) 5; and Church of God (New Dunker) 6. Peterborough has no Agnostis, Athiests, Buddhists or Mormons, although these are found in many Ontario cities and towns. There is one Athiest listed in Peterborough East, and one Theosophist in the sam district.

Other figures in Peterborough city are: Adventists 4; Brethren 78; Christian Allianc 75; Christians 29; Christian Science 14; Congregationalists 24; Gospel People 34; Greek Church 27; Intetrnational Bible Association 29; Jews 136; Lutherans 9; Mission 22; Nonsectarian 3; No Religion 6; Plymouth Brethren 11; Salvation Army 339; Unitarian 10; Various sects and no religion given 24.

THE WEATHER

Those who were out early this morning do not need to be told that it was a sharp morning. At six o'clock the temperature was 26 degrees below zero, much the lowest for this winter up to the present time. Fortunately there was little wind. What there was came directly from the north, and any one with a lively imagination might possibly have distinguished the odor of musk ox, polar bear, and perchance Eskimo. Sunday was also cold. In the morning the thermometer was down to 5 below zero. The highest was 11 degrees above. During the last six Sundays, five of them have been very cold. Fortunately this winter our cold dips are not prolonged and do not generally last more than a day or two.—W. P.

MINSTER QUITS ANTI - UNIONISTS OF BROCKVILLE

First Presbyterian Church Recently Voted by 274-236 Against Union.

HIS VALEDICTORY

Leaves Those "Who Delight in the Division of the People of God."

BROCKVILLE, Jan. 19.—Developments in the local Church Union situation Sunday included the presentation of his resignation as minister of the First Presbyterian Church, possibly the most influential congregation in the Brockville Presbytery, by Rev. R. M. Hamilton, the chairman of the Presbytery's Committee on Church Union.

First Church voted 274 to 236 last week to remain out of the United Church.

In presenting his resignation to Judge J. K. Dowsley, Clerk of the Session, Rev. Mr. Hamilton said that he did so on the ground that "I believe in Union of the family of God and I cannot remain the minister of a congregation that refuses to enter into fellowship even with Christians of a kindred faith and policy with ourselves. I think that the time has come to separate those who believe in the Union of Christians from those who delight in the division of the people of God."

He asked that his resignation become effective at the close of January.

The Unionist minority of this congregation, in session Sunday afternoon, decided unanimously to become attendants of the Methodist Church from the time of the withdrawal of Rev. Mr. Hamilton until the United Church is formally brought into being, it being understood that Rev. Mr. Hamilton is to act as an associate pastor of the Methodist Church with Rev. Frank M. Wooton. The committee of elders which conducted the negotiation, stated that two other sources of action were open—the erection of a new church which was held to be impracticable, or affiliation with St. John's Presbyterian Church, which voted in favor of Union, the seating capacity of which was declared to be inadequate to accommodate the First Church Unionists.

RUSSIAN TREND TOWARD GRANTING COMMISSIONS TO FOREIGN CAPITAL

Head of the Supreme Economic Council of the Soviet Explains Development Plans Are Rarely Based on Foreign Loans.

By FREDERICK KUH.

MOSCOW, Jan. 19 (United Press).—An important statement of the economic position of the Soviet Union has just been delivered to the Supreme Economic Council by its president, M. Dzerjinski. At the same time, Dzerjinski revealed certain significant departures in trade and financial policy, which the Soviet government intends to put into effect in 1925.

That the granting of concessions to foreign capital may be a more favorable method of developing Soviet industry than foreign loans, was the prophetic declaration of Dzerjinski. His view, however, is avowedly predicated upon the continued authority of the Soviets to formulate the terms on which concessions will be granted.

Although he did not elaborate further upon this proposal, Dzerjinski's assertion, coming only a few weeks after the collapse of the negotiations for a British government guaranteed loan, may presage a new method of attracting necessary foreign capital to the Soviet Union. Moreover, the coincidence of this statement with the resumption of relations with France may be taken to indicate that French co-operation in the development of Soviet resources is to be secured through the granting of valuable commercial and industrial concessions to French bankers and industrialists.

Government Subsidies.

Another vital change in policy discussed by Dzerjinski is the reduction of state subsidies for Soviet industries and the substitution of credits for subventions as the means for bringing production and marketing of industrial goods back to normal. In fact, the Soviets have already advanced along the road to minimizing the evil of state gratuities to industry. During the fiscal year 1922-23, Soviet industries received government subsidies amounting to $76,000,000; in 1923-24 the subsidies were decreased to $66,000,000, and according to present plans, subsidies during the year 1924-25 will be diminished further to about $50,000,000. For the same three years, the sum of state bank credits advanced to industries shows a constant rise, the amounts unfsbeing $81,000,000, $200,000,000 and $340,000,000 respectively.

Dzerjinski appealed for unification of industry throughout the Soviet Union. He condemned the tendency to regard industry in any single affiliated state as in independent unit.

"The purpose of our industries is not to amass private profit," he declared, "but to ameliorate the conditions of the laboring classes as a whole."

Pointing out the strides which have been made toward economic recovery, he reviewed the developments before the introduction of the New Economic Policy in 1921. He described the crisis which then arose, recalling the difficulty of marketing industrial goods, owing to high production costs and lack of contact between city and countryside, with the resultant unavailability of manufactured wares, except in urban districts. Even during 1922, he said, industrial production reached only 30 per cent., while agricultural output rose to 75 per cent. of pre-war standards.

Power of Consumption.

Dzerjinski then traced the rising power of individual consumption under the Soviets. Sugar, salt, matches, cotton cloth and cast iron, representing agriculture, light and heavy industries were taken as typical commodities, showing a notable increase in consumption between 1921 and 1924. Consumption of these articles is still decidedly subnormal, being, in the order named, 35 per cent., 64 per cent., 56 per cent., 40 per cent. and 20 per cent. of the pre-war quantities. But the increase in consumption during the past three years brought about by a drop in prices and a rise in production, is an encouraging prophecy of the revival of Soviet markets.

The campaign for increasing production is to be carried on in full swing, according to Dzerjinski. During the coming year, it is intended to augment the output of metal 40 per cent., textiles 64 per cent., wool 21 per cent., flax 10 per cent., granulated sugar 21 per cent., paper 49.5 per cent., chemicals 52 per cent. and tobacco 49 per cent. Owing to the large stores of coal on hand and the difficulties of transport and marketing, no attempt will be made to increase the coal output in 1925. If this schedule is fulfilled, production in Soviet industries, now about 48 per cent. of pre-war, will be raised to about 83 per cent. of the 1913 level.

Dzerjinski stresses the fact that the government's power to regulate and notably to reduce prices, is a weapon of the greatest economic importance, enabling the state to surmount serious crisis. Hitherto, however, one of the gravest problems with which the Economic Council has had to cope is the excessive margin—averaging 30 per cent.—between production costs and retail prices. Dzerjinski ascribes this "price gap" to the excess of demand over supply and to the inability of the co-operatives to capture the domestic markets.

While he cited various advances toward increased efficiency in Soviet industries, Dzerjinski pointed out that organization is still frequently inadequate. Thus in machine factories, the number of workmen employed is only 20 per cent. less than in 1913, but production has fallen off by 66 per cent.

In connection with the attitude of the government toward private enterprise, he declared that the policy of the state bank and Soviet credit institutions must henceforth be to attract capital into socialized enterprises, rather than to permit private commerce to attract state capital.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE ADDS NEW MEMBERS

Cavan Ladies Held Successful Meeting—New Plan of Serving Refreshments.

CAVAN, Jan. 19.—Mrs. D. J. Hunter entertained Cavan Women's Institute on Thursday afternoon. There was a good attendance. Mrs. Hunter's pretty rooms were well filled, there being between twenty-five and thirty ladies present.

The members were pleased to have their president—Miss B. McNeil—again present to conduct the meeting. She had been absent for a time on account of the illness and death of her father.

One interesting feature of the meeting was the roll-call, which was responded to by the members each telling of some means used in her home to save time and make the work easier. Many time-saving wrinkles were told and discussed.

Mrs. Loyd Sutton had prepared an excellent paper on "Courtesy and Good Manners. She was unable to be present, but sent her paper, which was read by Mrs. Staples. Discussion followed.

It was decided that a new plan for entertaining the Society will be adopted, beginning with the February meeting. The person who offers her home for the meeting will not serve the refreshments. These will be furnished and served by four other ladies, named inn turn, for each meeting.

Miss McNeil invited the Institute to meet at her home for the February meeting.

Mrs. D. J. Hunter, Mrs. H. Tinney, Mrs. G. Sisson and Mrs. A. Elliott were named to contribute and serve the refreshments.

Mrs. Matchett and Mrs. Carr were appointed to take charge of the programme.

After the meeting adjourned, Mrs. Hunter assisted by other ladies, served lunch, and a very enjoyable social time was spent.

Among those present were:—Mrs. W. Pritchard, Mrs. C. Carr, Mrs. Sisson, Mrs. M. Carr, Mrs. R. Matchett, Miss J. Shaffer, Miss E. Hunter, Mrs. H. Tinney, Miss F. Hunter, Mrs. J. Swain, Mrs. F. M. AYRSHIRE BREEDERS HAD GOOD MEETING

Mr. David Hunter, of Grimsby Gave a Talk to Burnbrae Farmers.

BURNBRAE, Jan. 19.—The Menie Ayrshire Breeders' Club held a judging class on the farm of Mr. Alex. Hume. The snowstorm kept many away, but what was lacking in numbers was made up in interest and enthusiasm. Mr. Dave Hunter, of Grimsby, Ayrshire field man, was present, and his remarks were given close attention. After discussing the possible market for Ayrshires in the Western provinces, Mr. Hunter asked Mr. Hume to bring out some classes for judging. Three classes of young cows and heifers were brought out, and after a short demonstration by Mr. Hunter, those present proceeded to inspect the cattle and were called upon to give placings and reasons for same. In most of the cases the placings of the local men corresponded to Mr. Hunter's ideas.

One of the classes included the good heifer which won at the Royal last fall against a class of thirty-three. She is an animal of outstanding quality and, although Mr. Stewart, the veteran breeder of Menie, and Mr. Hunter, in the course of the demonstration showed that she was not perfect, yet it is not hard to see why she was placed first. There is no doubt that every one present benefited by the demonstration on one of the finest herds of dairy cattle in the district.

Annual Meeting.

The annual business meeting of St. Andrew's congregation was held in the basement of the church on Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock. A considerable number of the members were present to hear the various reports. Each branch of the work reported favorable progress during the past year. The total money received from all sources amounted to about $4,035. The manse debt was lowered considerably, this being due to the efforts of the Ladies' Aid who contributed $415 to this cause. A good balance to be carried forward shows careful management by the officers of the church.

The managers for 1925 are as follows: Messrs. Wm. Bennett, John Murray, W. H. Little, Thos. Watson, Victor Taylor, Lindsay Watson and Percy Oddie, the last three being the newly-elected members of the board.

During the year the congregation lost its pastor of the past six years, Rve. J. J. Black, who resigned in June to take up work in Orillia. After a short vacancy a call was extended to Rev. D. A. McKenzie, of Gamebridge, who, to the great pleasure of the congregation, accepted the invitation, and has been minister for the past three months.

Discuss Church Union.

Following the business meeting, the matter of Church Union was discussed, prior to the taking of the vote on the question. Mr. McKenzie, as chairman, answered a number of questions which had been asked regarding the effect of Union on different organizations and activities of the church, and on the holding of property, etc. Mr. McKenzie explained all these matters in a clear and concise manner, showing clearly where a congregation stood whether it voted for Union or against.

In the course of his remarks, Mr. McKenzie said he hoped that whatever the result of the vote might be, there would be no split in the congregation. He thought it would be wrong for an old congregation with such an honorable history to be divided on this question, and he hoped that the minority would follow the majority, whatever the result. There was something greater than the Methodist, Presbyterian, Congregational and even United Church and that was the Kingdom of God, and only by the congregation working harmoniously together could the kingdom be promoted in this district.

Mrs. Geo. Craighead was apointed poll-clerk, and the poll will be open at her home from 1.30 to 2.30 p.m. until Thursday, Jan. 29. The congregation will meet at 11 a.m. on Friday, Jan. 30, to hear the result of the vote. A large number who were present on Thursday cast their votes before leaving.

Held Oyster Supper.

The Ladies' Aid held an oyster supper in the basement of the church on Tuesday evening last. In spite of bad roads, the event was quite successful, the proceeds amounting to $60.00. A miscellaneous programme was presented by local and visiting talent. Spencer's orchestra furnished music between other programme numbers. The oysters seemed to be the most popular part of the entertainment.

TEA SUPPLY INADEQUATE. PRICES HIGHER.

Tea prices are going up mainly because tea is being demanded by millions more people. Tea is the cheapest and certainly one of the most palatable and satisfying beverages known. But the tea growers have been unable to meet the tremendous demand. It takes three years for a tea bush to mature to the plucking stage.

The father sometimes becomes indifferent or even embittered towards his children, but a mother's love stands the acid test of sickness, sorrow or even sin.

Refreshments were served and the meeting adjourned after singing the national anthem.

ANNUA LREPORT OF FRASER AUXILIARY

Secretary's Record of Activities Shows Growth Under Mrs. Duncan Drummond.

The following report of the Fraser Auxiliary of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church is presented by the secretary, Isabel Le Clair:

During the year meetings were held each month, with the exception of July and August, with an average attendance of 16.

Our study for the year was based on the book "The Isle Beautiful," each meeting being taken charge of by two of the members.

Funds were raised in various ways. Mrs. W. E. Armstrong, wife of the assistant secretary to Dr. R. P. McKay, gave an illustrated lecture on India, in March. This lecture was most helpful and instructive and enjoyed by all present.

In February the Jessie Alexander Concert was held in the Church, which was well attended, and from which $152.30 was realized.

On May 10th a Rummage Sale was held, proceeds amounting to $70.45.

A bale of clothing was packed for a girl of 14 years stationed at the Eethelbert School. The bale being valued at $11.75.

Our Thanksgiving Meeting held November 4, was addressed by Mrs. MacKinnon of Knox Church. The Thankoffering collection amounted to $81.20.

In December the Auxiliary held a tea and sale of Christmas novelties from which $158 was realized. Monthly collection, etc., amounted to $59.05.

In June, the Auxiliary were compelled to accept, with regret, the resignation of a much-loved president, Mrs. Adam Hall, who left Peterboro to make her home in Preston, accompanied by Miss Cameron, who was one of our valued members. Since that time the first vice-president, Mrs. Duncan Drummond, has very capably filled the chair as acting president.

We close our year with a substantial sum of $430 to be sent to the Prsbyterial treasurer.

Several Members of Family Had a Narrow Escape.

(Special to The Examiner)

KINGSTON, Jan. 19.—Prompt action on the part of neighbors undoubtedly saved the lives of a number of children who were endangered when fire broke out in the home of Mrs. M. Guige, at Crow Lake. A daughter of Mrs. Guige, who had a ten-day-old baby in the house at the time also had a miraculous escape from death. The sufferers were given assistance at the home of neighbors. It is stated that fourteen people are homeless as a result of the fire. It is not known for sure, but it is thought that the fire broke out in the attic probably from a defective chimney and had made good headway before being noticed. The neighbors who responded did good work.

"I'm Putting my Family on a 1925 Basis"
—John Byrne

"Back in 1913, $3,000 life insurance seemed ample protection for my wife and kiddies," declared John Byrne. "According to 1913 standards they were well provided for."

"But to-day!

"My $3,000 policy looks mighty small when I think of how the cost of living has gone up since 1913 and picture Marjorie and the children trying to get along if I were suddenly taken from them.

"Obviously I have not been keeping abreast of the times. My insurance, ample in 1913, is entirely inadequate in 1925."

Is your family insured according to 1913 standards? If so, you require more insurance to properly provide for them to-day.

A North American Whole Life Policy will enable you to increase your protection to 1925 standards. Its extremely low annual premium and other definite advantages will interest you.

We will be glad to give you complete particulars on this form of policy.

To Merchants and Salesmen

"The Problem we Worry about Most"

A big manufacturer says: — "If a customer needs goods between our salesmen's visits, and a salesman for a competing line calls on him, he is apt to get the order.

"That is why our salesmen and I worry most about how to keep dealers thinking of us and our goods when we are not there to remind them."

Many salesmen call up customers by Long Distance between visits. They tell us it enables them to hold the business — absolutely solves that problem 100%.

The really economical salesman, therefore, is the one who uses Long Distance frequently.

TOO MUCH BOOKKEEPING.

An investigation by the Montreal Board of Trade into the national debt of the Dominion in its findings sets forth the statement that the per capita debt of every man, woman and child in Canada so far as the nation is concerned amounts to $3.87, and the total indebtedness of the Dominion exceeds three and a half billions.

The point that strikes the Examiner is that there should be no necessity of the Montreal Board of Trade or any other body having to probe into the financial condition of the country.

The annual presentation of the public accounts in Parliament should show the people clearly where they stand.

Unfortunately, however, it is true that both in the Federal arena and in the Provincial Legislatures there has been on the part of all political parties such a tendency to juggle with and play with the figures that it is difficult for the public to get any clear idea of the financial status of Dominion or Province as the case may be.

The annual statement should be as accurate and as easy to read as the statement of any business firm, and the same method should be followed year after year, instead of a continual shifting about to make the best possible showing.

No business house worthy of the name would dream of carrying on business without an accurate statement of its liabilities.

No legislative body, if it is as fully aware of its duty to the people as it is of its obligations to its own members, should fail to take the people into its confidence as to the extent of their obligations.

SPORT AND PUBLICITY.

With some possibility of the re-appearance of Peterborough into professional baseball, there will be a revival of interest on the part of those who appreciate the value of sport as a medium of securing publicity.

In the success of the Peterborough Hockey Club this season a practical demonstration of the advertising value of such an organization has been given.

The operation of a professional baseball club is necessarily a publicity-gainer of great importance, inasmuch as the scores of all games played in a league of that nature are carried by the big press associations and the names of the cities concerned are daily before the public.

Such publicity is undoubtedly of value.

The manufacturer looking for a site for a factory usually does not fail to survey the sporting activities of the cities he is studying.

He wants his plant in a centre where his employees will be glad to live, and he knows, if he knows his business at all, that a city that is very much on the sporting map is the kind of city where the average worker likes to make his home.

Thus the launching of Peterborough into professional baseball would do much to attract attention to this city among United States manufacturers contemplating the establishment of Canadian branches.

To such firms the presence of a professional baseball club would appear as a very potent argument in favour of Peterborough as a site for their business.

This is an angle of the question that is far away from the sporting side of the matter and yet is not without its appeal.

THAT PULPWOOD EMBARGO.

One of the matters to be discussed at the next session of the Quebec Legislature is the question of an embargo on pulpwood, though just why this matter should occupy the time of the Provincial Government is not quite clear.

The whole field has already been thoroughly covered—in fact, all the necessary information had been collected even before the commission appointed by the Federal Government compiled its evidence.

The concensus of opinion, judging from newspaper comment, is that there should be an embargo, and that instead of Canada's raw material being shipped over the border and there made into paper in United States mills by United States labour, that the finishing be done on this side of the line by Canadian labour.

The Quebec Legislature long ago emphasized the soundness of this policy by placing an embargo on the export of all pulpwood cut on Crown lands in that Province.

If it is good business in the case of pulpwood cut on Government land, it is equally good business in the case of pulpwood generally.

The statement that for every car-load of Canadian pulpwood that goes to the United States a good Canadian has to follow in search of a job, is not far off the mark.

As to the argument that the settlers who have pulpwood to sell would be at the mercy of the Canadian companies in the matter of price, there is not so very much in that after all.

As the Montreal Star points out it would not be a difficult matter to see that the settlers suffered no hardship.

The paper companies could be compelled to purchase the raw material at a price fixed by the Government and in accordance with the ruling market price, with special compensation for abnormal conditions of logging.

SOME BRIGHT SPOTS.

In spite of continued unemployment, trade depression and crushing taxation, things are beginning to look up in Britain, says the Hamilton Herald. H. N. Casson, the Wall Street Journal's London correspondent, writes that the outlook is brighter than it was a year ago. He testifies that "there has not been for ten years as much confidence and optimism as there is today."

Here are some of the reasons for confidence: Last year Britain had a larger percentage of foreign trade than she had before the war. In 1912 the British share of the world's exports was 14 per cent.; last year it was 18 per cent. Sterling is steadily rising to par, and gold is beginning to flow back to London. There were increases both in exports and imports in 1924. The average price of stocks is five points higher than it was a year ago. Capital is abundant; the recent Greek loan was subscribed 17 times over. There is universal confidence in the Baldwin Cabinet, from which stable and practical government is expected. Last year the railways made a net profit of $400,000,000. Nearly all lines of retail business are doing well; no large retailing firm failed last year, and most of the big department stores in London are enlarging their premises.

For these and other reasons the British people are confident that both their own affairs and the affairs of the world are on the up-grade, and that the year 1925 will be "a year of improvement and opportunities."

And it is believed to be the opening year of an era of general prosperity. Edgar Crammond, the British economist and financier, predicts that "the economic development of the world in the next 40 years will surpass that of the 40 years before the war."

All of which is very welcome information for us in Canada, for the industrial and commercial depression here has been produced by world conditions and will pass away when world conditions improve.

BUILD UP CANADA.

The case of a farmer in Mosa Township, Middlesex, was cited on this page a few days ago to show the small return that was left to him after making a shipment of carrots to a commission firm in Toronto. After taking out express charges, commission and cartage the farmer had ten cents left to show for 26 bags of carrots.

Two farmers in the West have cases somewhat similar relating to the sale of turkeys. One sold 566 pounds for $1.4 68; from that there was deducted storage, commission, express, stamps, etc., in all $73.65, leaving the farmer with $28.32 for his turkeys, or almost exactly five cents per pound.

The second Western farmer sold 287 pounds for $54.98, and the deductions amounted to $38.67, leaving a net total of $15.41, or a trifle over five cents per pound.

It is not to be supposed that these three farmers, one here in Middlesex, and the other two in Western Canada, are the only ones who have had such experiences. There must be many others in all parts of the country, and it is little wonder that the statement is made that there is no money in farming.

It is impossible to state definitely what would be the cure for these conditions. It is possible, though, to suggest certain things that would have a very direct bearing on the case. The farmer who finds it necessary to ship his produce to distant markets does so because there are not enough home markets to buy his offerings. There are certain farm products, such as wheat, cattle and some of the dairy products, that naturally seek a world market; there are others that should be able to find a market closer home, where the farmer could come into direct contact with his customer and secure for himself the proper price, instead of being made the victim of a tantalizing process that makes it dwindle down to next to nothing while he is powerless to do anything about it.

The Advertiser believes that the policy it has so frequently advocated of Canadian natural products turned into the finished article by Canadian workmen in Canadian factories has a very direct bearing on the supplying of a home market for the farmers.

If Canadian pulpwood, for instance, were all manufactured into the finished product in Canada, and released to the world as the finished product, it would provide a great deal of employment in some Canadian centres. The building and equipping of the mills, their maintenance and development, would mean more work for the factories in Brantford, London, Galt, and all the metal-working centres of Western Ontario. This would make better home markets, more people to buy what the farmer had to sell, and more money to pay for it.

If our No. 1 wheat were made into flour in this country, and not allowed to drift over to United States in just sufficient quantities to tone up their poor wheat into shape where it could compete with us in the world markets, it would make more work in Canada; there would be a greater supply of bran, shorts, things that have a very direct bearing on the live stock and dairying industries of the country. This great national undertaking would create more employment, more ability to buy the produce of the farms.

If we were using Canadian coal in Canada, there would be built up in the West a great, wealth-producing industry. The mining centres there would provide markets for Western-grown produce. The keeping of the money in Canada that now goes out of the country for our coal bill at the rate of $100,000,000 per year would put that much more money in circulation in this country.

Co-operative marketing might help the farmer to solve his problem, but the first consideration is to increase the buying power of the home market, for if that home market is not good enough or rich enough, the co-operative scheme is handicapped from the very outset.

A Canadian policy that sets as its goal Canadian natural products turned into the finished article by Canadian workers in Canadian factories has a much more direct bearing on the problem of the farmer who is getting a ridiculous price for his produce than many people have yet imagined.—London Advertiser.

A THOUGHT.

A recent article in the American Magazine contains a story which embodies a pretty wholesome attitude to some things life brings the most of us. A merchant in a small town ran for office and was overwhelmingly defeated. He polled so few votes that he appeared ridiculous in the eyes of his neighbours, and both his social and business standing were in danger. But this merchant was a good sport. He beat the town to the laugh by putting a sign in his window the morning after election, — "$25.00 reward for the name of the man who cast that vote for me." As the writer personal triumph by proving that, however, ineffective he was as a candidate for office, he was the town's best loser.

MANNING SUBMARINES.

Owing to the difficulty of raising volunteer crews as hitherto for submarine service, the Admiralty has decided that the complements of these crafts must be made up by drafting as occasion arises. Dislike of this branch of naval work does not lie in any feeling of added danger, for the submarine is well past experimental days, and the average mishaps are now no greater in this than in any other branch while on active service. It may be safer than in some of the lighter surface warships. The great objection is that quarters are cramped and entirely bottled up, and that it is impossible in anything but calm weather to get a "breather." It takes a lot of "hard lying" money to compensate for the discomforts of a submarine commission, and there is nothing to choose between the large and small types of this class of vessel—one is just as uncomfortable as the other.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Mon., Jan. 18 — Reflecting an extremely "bullish" tone throughout the session here on Saturday morning, and after opening from 1 1-2 cents to 1 cent higher, the advance continued with the May future reaction developed shortly before the market closed with May at $1.94 7-8 and July $1.91 3-4.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Jan. 17— With indications pointing to likelihood of a decided falling off in the United States visible supply total on Monday and with foreign buying of futures deliveries here much in evidence, wheat jumped to-day to the highest prices yet this season. Corn as well as wheat established a new all-round top record. Wheat closed strong at 3 to 4 cents, a bushel net advance, May 1.88 1-4 to 1.88 1-2 and July 1.63 1-8 to 1.63 1-4. Corn finished at 3-4 to 1 3-4 cents gain, oats 7-8 to 1 3-8 cents up and provisions varying from 2 cents decline to a rise of 32 cents.

STERLING RATES.

MONTREAL, Jan. 18. — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here on Saturday as follows:

Sterling demand $4.79.

Sterling cables $4.79 3-8.

MONTREAL GRAIN.

MONTREAL, Jan. 18. — Little improvement was noted in the foreign demand for Canadian grain here on Saturday and business generally for export account was reported dull. The trade with domestic buyers was also slow, but the tone of the market was strong in sympathy with the course of prices at other grain centres. Car lots of No. 2 Ontario white oats were quoted at 66 cents, No. 3 grade at 64 cents, and No. 4 at 62 cents per bushel.

The trade in eggs in a wholesale jobbing way was good and prices ruled steady. Prices of butter were reduced another 1 1-2 cents per lb. which was attributed to the dullness of the market. The tone of the cheese market continues strong with sales of fodder made goods being reported at 19 1-2 to 20 cents per pound for No. 1 grade, and 18 1-2 to 19 cents per pound for No. 2 grade.

Canadian beans were quoted at $2.90 per bushel.

NEWS OF DUNSFORD.

Ladies' Auxiliary Held a Meeting—Personal Mention.

DUNSFORD, January 19. — On Thursday, the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Methodist Church held their monthly meeting at the parsonage. It was a splendid meeting, being the most inspiring of the whole year..

The Bible lesson, which was taken by Mrs. W. F. Thurston, showed that a considerable amount of time had been spent in preparing it.

Mrs. Courley read a portion of the Study Book, which was quite interesting.

A number of fees was paid in for the ensuing year, and preparations made for the quilting of four quilts which the ladies of the Auxiliary have patched. The quilting is to take place towrads the last of February.

Rev. Mrs. Carmichael served the luncheon.

The net meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Robert Brein.

Personal Mention.

Mr. Walter Brein returned on Friday after having been confied to the Lindsay Hospital for several weeks..

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Thurston of Toronto, is spending a few days in the village visiting old acquaintances.

Mr. and Mrs. Carmichael (nee Miss Sarah Mairs) visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mairs.

Little Kathleen Thurston has had a very hard time in her recent illness.

RECKLESS DRIVING WILL BE STOPPED IN ENGLAND

LONDON, Jan. 19 (Associated Press). —The increasing number of accidents, fatal and otherwise to pedestrians as a result of careless motor driving has caused the authorities seriously to consider framing new laws for the protection of the general public.

The bill has not yet been drafted, but the motoring authorities anticipate that it will contain recommendations set down in the departmental committees report of 1922 which included abolition of the speed limit of 20 miles an hour but initiating rigid enforcement of regulations against dangerous driving, abolition of fixed reduced speed limits in populous areas and heavier and sharper maximum penalties including prison for second offences.

Further regulations are expected to include a declaration in regard to physical fitness from each applicant for a driving license.

TAKE SALTS IF STOMACH ISN'T ACTING RIGHT

Says Indigestion Results from an Excess of Hydrochloric Acid.

Undigested food delayed in the stomach decays, or rather ferments, the same as food left in the open air, says a noted authority. He also tells us that Indigestion is caused by Hyperacidity meaning there is an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach which prevents complete digestion and starts fermentation. Thus everything eaten sours in the stomach much like garbarge sours in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. Then we feel a heavy, lumpy misery in the chest; we belch up gas; we eructate sour food or have heartburn, flatulence, waterbrash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tabuespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and drink it while it is effervescing, and furthermore, to continue this for a week. While relief often follows the first dose, it is important to help neutralizez the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimlate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts, is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmlesssalts is used for many stomach disorders with excellent results.

Peeping Down From the Golden Bar of Heaven At Old Mother Earth As Moon Casts Its Shade

The Story of the Superstitions, the Tragedies, the Beauties and the Discoveries of Science Brought About by an Eclipse of the Sun.

TORONTO IN ITS PATH—PETERBORO AT FRINGE.

By GEORGE BRITT.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—From the golden bar of heaven, even as from your own doorstep, the grandest and most fascinating view of earth comes during a total eclipse of the sun.

Imagine yourself at the celestial parapet, gazing down through swirling star dust at the sphere of our familiar world, spotted by the shading of the moon.

Have you stood on a hilltop in the country and seen a buzzard gliding low, casting his swift black shadow across sunlit pastures? An eclipse is exactly the same, with the moon sailing between sun and earth and casting her own black shadow.

Once In 350 Years.

No shiftings of night and day, storm and smile, war and industry can dress the earth in the vast, weird, varied fastasy crayoned by an eclipse. From your viewpoint in the sky, eclipses can be seen at least twice every year and some years five times. But in any one terrestrial locality, the grand spectacle is visible on an average of but once in 350 years, the sight of seven lifetimes.

It is the morning of January 24, 1925. The eclipse meets the sunrise about 120 miles northwest of Duluth, Minn. You see it as a round spot of blackness about 100 miles in diameter, moving at the terrific spead of a moonbeam. The shadow sweeps the length of the Great Lakes in an hour, shrouds mighty Niagara in insignificance, blots light from Toronto, New York, New Haven and the homes of 10,000,000 people, shadows the Atlantic steamship lanes and is at length overtaken by night's darkness in the waters north of Scotland.

Scarlet Flames Ring the Moon.

Dwellers in the path of this black circle each may see the moon's disc gradually veil the sun, the deepening twilight, the dancing approach of the "shadow bands," mysterious forerunners of the dark. Then comes the sudden overwhelming of light and the eerie blue blackness of total eclipse, the marvelous scarlet flames of the sun's "corona" ringing the edge of the moon, the passage of the brief night-in-day and the relief of returning life.

From the edges of the round black shadow on the earth extends in lessening density the darkness of partial eclipse. The thick shade near the edge of totality fades into complete daylight at its farthest imaginable edges in Greenland and south to the Amazon.

Lean out from heaven's pinnacle now and see at close range how earth through the ages responds to eclipses. An uncanny chill pervades the atmosphere. Dew falls. Sensitive flowers fold their petals and the thrush pipes his evensong before noon. Bewildered hens and roosters take to their roosts and owls open their eyes in the forests.

Men's faces take on a livid, unearthly hue. Countrymen cease plowing and until the end of their lives tell with awe of a certain "Black Saturday" or "Murk Monday." Pious Hindoos destroy all food in their homes as having been made unclean. The Chinese beat drums and discharge firecrackers to rescue the sun from the devouring dragon. Savages grovel and bewail the loss of their god and their life's source. They blow trumpets and shout prayers. Some bury torches to save the vital spark, and others fire arrows skyward to drive off the sun's attacker.

Beheaded For Failure.

Behold the Mongol Emperor Chung K'ang beheading his court astronomers, Hi and Hsi. They were charged with getting drunk and failing to predict the eclipse of October 22, 2136 B.C. Consequently proper precautions could not be taken nor ceremonial rites performed.

Chaldean wise men make records on tablets of the "saros" or 18-year cycle in which eclipses repeat themselves—knowledge which science 3000 years later can only confirm. The early Romans see them as divine portents and punish for blasphemy anyone who says they are of natural causation. Hebrew prophets give them as signs to their people, saying, "I will make the sun to go down at noon, and I will darken the earth in the clear day."

The Greek astronomer Thales of Miletus, predicts an eclipse for the year 585 B.C. It occurs while the Medes and Lydians are in battle, and Herodotus writes that "when they saw day turned into night, they ceased from fighting and both sides were desirous of peace."

Behold man ever bowing to this grandeur. He connects it with plagues, earthquakes, persecutions. He sees significance in its appearance when Romulus is dying, when the invading army of Xerxes approaches the Hellespont, when Caesar crosses the Rubicon. The brilliant Pericles calms the fears of his navy and pushes on to fight the enemies of Athens in spite of an eclipse.

Helium Found in Sun's Corona.

Now with Galileo's telescope man continues his studies. In 1851 he begins taking photographs of eclipses. In the sun's corona he discovers helium and later uses it on earth to lift airsh!.... The French astronomer Jansen during the siege of Paris in 1870 goes up in a balloon during an eclipse, seizing the double chance to escape and to study the corona above the clouds.

So appears the moon-shadowed earth from the heavens. There, the learned Chaldeans and Egyptians copying the darkened sun and its corona into their winged circle, symbolic of divinity. Yonder a pious peasant kneeling in fear, seeing the corona as a halo such as crowns the madonna. America in 1925, hailing majesty with the honking of auto horns.

After two minutes at most the blotted-out sun reappears. Blot it out two weeks and what becomes of earthly life?

We know a man whose home would be much happier if she hadn't married such a cross husband.

FOREST MENACED ONCE EACH YEAR

One Million Christmas Trees Are Cut Annually to Accommodate Santa.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Jan. 19.—With commercial cutters taking an estimated toll of 1,000,000 Christmas trees annually from privately-owned logged-off lands in the state of Washington, their activities are becoming an important factor in the already serious problem of reforestation, according to Fred E. Pape, state supervisor of forestry. The Christmas tree cut, he declared, now equals the number of mature trees ordinarily felled each year in lumbering operations.

"The menace of the annual holiday onslaught is all the more serious," Supervisor Pape stated, "when the class of trees selected and the manner in which the cutters proceed is taken into consideration. If they followed a thinning-out process, their activities might even be beneficial, but, because of the economic problems involved, the method followed by the cutters is one which is most destructive to the growing timber.

"Purchasers demand trees which are well formed, and this kind can be secured in large quantities only where the growth is rather scattered and needs no artificial thinning. In order to render their operations profitable, the cutters select such tracts and then make a clean sweep, as their ratio of profits is increased largely by the number of marketable trees taken from a given acreage. State laws prevent the cutting of Christmas trees on state property."

There is now, however, a growing belief on the part of some legal authorities, Supervisor Pape said, that such cuttings on privately-owned lands can be prevented on the general principle that private interests must always be subservient to public welfare.

In addition to supplying Yuletide decorations for state residents, Washington Christmas trees are now being shipped to many other states, and even to the American island possessions.

BACK TO OXEN

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., Jan. 19 (United Press).—Milo J. Robinson of Long Lake, who has tried all the modern methods of delivering heavy loads to his customers during the winter months, has found them not so good. In fact he has found them so poor he is going back to the methods of the Adirondack pioneers. He is buying a yoke of oxen.

Bad roads and huge snow drifts will have no terrors for them. Bright and Star will be slow, but they will be as sure as taxes. Blizzards may rage and the mercury drop out of the tube, but the place they start for they will reach.

SPEEDER OFFERS CAR FOR $33 FINE.

PASADENA, Cal., Jan. 17.—When a fine of $33 was levied against George Urborn on a charge of speeding in Pasadena, he pleaded:

"Judge, won't you please take the car instead? I paid only $40 for it."

The court thereupon remitted $25 of the $33 fine. Urborn decided the car was worth $8, so he paid up and drove away.

ENGLISH WOMEN'S TASTE FOR POLITICS IS KEENER THAN U. S.

Subject More Fashionable There Than in the United States.

MORE INDEPENDENT.

Mary Borden Tells How Women of Two Countries Compare.

By R. le CLERC PHILLIPS.

Miss Mary Borden, the American novelist, recently gave an interview to the press during which she made several piquant observations in comparing English and American husbands and English, French, and American women. Her remarks attracted wide attention at the time, but further elaboration on her part was cut short by the general election in England, she and her husband, General Spears, being obliged to hurry home to take part in his electioneering campaign. Miss Borden has, however, just returned to her native country to complete her interrupted visit, and with the object of obtaining a fuller expression of her views I called on her and asked for an interview.

"When you were here before," I began, "you commented on the wide interests of the English woman. I should like you to tell me how the American woman in political life compares with the English woman."

"I really know far less about the American woman in politics than I do about the English woman," replied Miss Borden. "But I have an impression that certain groups of women in America are interested in certain special questions, but that they do not take an interest in politics as a whole as the women in England do. I mean that certain American women are interested in the question of prohibition, for instance, or the white slave traffic, or child labor, and that they are interested in politics to the extent that these particular questions are political. In short, politics with the American woman is more or less of a special and acquired taste; in England politics is, so to speak, part of the day's work to an English woman.

"English women and, indeed, the English race as a whole, are essentially politically minded; I believe that they are the most politically minded people in the world, and they live in an atmosphere of politics. Politics touches them intimately and in the most personal way. In America the attitude is more of the 'It isn't our business' type, and there is a tendency to relegate politics to the background as being the province of the Treasury, the Navy Office or any other Government department. I will give you an instance of this indifference. Not long ago an American friend of mine was visiting England. It was just after Mr. Baldwin's visit to the United States to settle the debt question. Everywhere my friend went she was met with the remark from her English acquaintances, 'I suppose you'll like us a little better now.' She had not the least idea what was meant; and when the remark was at last explained to her she replied, 'Why, we never bother about that; it's not our business.' Again, it must be remembered that politics is fashionable in England and it is not here. It is the English tradition that a man of means should take up politics as a career."

A Negative Election.

I asked Miss Borden if she thought that the return of Mr. Baldwin to power was a part of world-wide reaction against the forces of socialism and radicalism.

"I think it is. My husband says that English voters are always willing to give a flat 'No,' and I believe that Mr. Baldwin's return to power was their way of saying 'No to socialism. In the division that my husband stood for—he was the Liberal candidate—some 3,000 Liberal voters gave their votes to the Conservative candidate because they felt that a Conservative Government would have no dealings with Bolshevism. Nevertheless, although Labor was defeated at the election, it must not be forgotten that it polled a million more votes than at the previous election. You ask me if I think the Liberal Party is likely to disappear in the course of time. It will be a pity if it does, for it is safer for the country to have a third party that is a constitutional party. But things work out so slowly, so imperceptibly, in England that when a change does come it is not noticed. For this reason I have little fear of socialism in England. If it ever does arrive there as practical politics, it will be so changed, so watered down by compromise that it will no longer be recognized as socialism."

"The American newspapers have taken a certain amount of interest in the incident of Lady Astor's portrait in the House of Commons," I remarked. "What is your opinion of that episode?"

"Lady Astor is extremely popular, but she is much more important as a personality than as a politician. Women members of Parliament are not taken seriously in the House of Commons. Lady Astor is not taken very seriously there, and there was a strong feeling in that body against the acceptance of her portrait. You see, the members were not consulted about it, and that, I think, was unfortunate. But Lady Astor does endless good work. She is very philanthropic and interested in a wide variety of questions. She has given dinner parties at which various Labor leaders were invited to meet the King and Queen. But in the matter of the portrait I think that it would have been best to have consulted the House of Commons before the portrait was accepted and then the contretemps would not have arisen. As a matter of fact, she was not technically the first woman member of Parliament. This distinction belongs to the Irish Countess Markievicz, who was elected some time before Lady Astor, but refused to take her seat there. However, the incident aroused little comment in London, although the felling in the House of Commons was strong. I think that probably the presentation of the portrait was a mistake."

"Do you think that the shortage of men caused by war losses in England has had any noticable effect on English women from the moral or professional point of view?"

Girls More Independent.

"The shortage itself hardly seems noticeable. War activities started a lot of girls in professional life, and English girls have now much more independence than formerly. Impoverishment caused by the war has certainly made a great many English women take up work who otherwise would have stayed at home and led secluded lives. London is now full of small shops run by ladies. As to the moral effects, I see no change. I am not inclined to believe that there has been the marked deterioration that some people fancy they have noticed."

"But has not the husband hunt been intensified as a result of the shortage of eligible men?" I asked.

"On the contrary, I believe that is has slackened and not been intensified, for the very reason that English women have to-day, in a much greater degree than formerly, professional interests to occupy their minds."

"Let us return to the question of international marriages," I said. "What do you think of Anglo-American marriages?"

"I think they are a great success," replied Miss Borden. "I think the Englishman makes a marvellous husband; he is dependable and is there when he is wanted. When American women marry Englishmen they marry England also. That is what appeals to them so much. They love the old houses, the gardens, the quaint customs, the whole atmosphere and glamour of it all. But an Englishman coming to America to settle here would probably be refused by any American girl to whom he proposed. At least he would stand no better chance than any young Harvard man, for example. What an American woman likes is the glamour of English life, and this glamour lasts. Of course, there is no similar appeal in American life. I feel, too, that people in England are contented with far fewer material pleasures than people in the United States. They seem to be able to get along and be happy without them. Another point in favor of the English husband is that he expects his wife to share his activities and his interests, whether they be political, sporting or anything else. I do not think that American men take the same interest in women that European men do. The American woman is pampered and indulged, but that is not the same thing."

"In your last novel, 'Three Pilgrims and a Tinker,' you have drawn a picture of English life in the hunting counties. Some one remarked to me that you had made these sport-loving men and women a rather hard lot, although it certainly did not strike me that way," I remarked.

"My hunting friends have found no fault at all with the picture, and that is the best reply," answered Miss Borden.

"The heorine did not strike me as a particularly pleasant person," I said.

"I regard her as woman herself. After all, there are a tremendous number of that kind of woman in the world, so why pretend there are not? And as to the question of the hardness of these hunting people, Englishmen are not emotional."

"I had an interview with wo Mell-known psychoanalysts the other day on this question of emotionalism and they both asserted that an Englishman had the same emotions as any other man, but had trained himself to hide them," I interposed.

"They may say what they like, but I, personally, do not believe that the well-bred Englishman is emotional, in spite of anything neurologists may say to the contrary. The Englishman is very shy and sensitive; he always thinks of good form and of other people. An Eton boy is a work of art, but he is not an individual. His whole efforts are in the direction of making himself true to type. He is absolutely standardized on the lines of good form; but when he does happen to break through the type, he shows a stronger individuality than is to be found anywhere else."

Prevalence of Betting.

"You depict English people as having what practically amounts to a mania for horses."

"English people are obsessed by horses," Miss Borden said. "One of the curses of England is the wide prevalence of betting. Working-class women in England complain far more about their husbands' betting than about their drinking. There are races every day in England the year round, so that the amount of betting that goes on is enormous."

I asked Miss Borden if she had had the usual struggles in obtaining recognition.

"Yes, I had been writing for years. I have written four novels altogether. The first, 'The Romantic Woman,' was written before I was married. I am now at work on my fifth novel."

"Do you write short stories at all?"

"Yes; I have written some. But the stories in demand in this country are all standardized to a formula. It is always the King Cophetua and the beggar maid theme; or the woman who is on the point of leaving her husband, but doesn't; or the smart young man who 'pulls off' a big business deal and as a reward marries his employer's daughter. They do not seem to want anything different. Some time ago I sent a story to one of the magazines here and the editor returned it, saying that he recognized the fine quality of the story, but he did not dare publish it, since if he did, half his subscribers would cancel their subscriptions. Later I sent the same story to The Royal Magazine in London. It was accepted, although the editor said that many of his readers would not like it."

"PROTESTANT CHURCHES SUFFERING FROM LACK OF CHURCH CONSCIOUSNESS," SAYS DR. CADMAN

Famour Brooklyn Congregationalist Preacher Says Men Rush to Defense of State if it is in Danger, but are Unconcerned About Church—Distinction Lies in Depth of Belief—Democracy is Modern God.

By GEORGE BRITT.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—"Humanism is more important than patriotism.

"The essence of religion is in life, not in doctrine."

These disconnected sentences uttered in conversation by Dr. S. Parkes Cadman reveal his faith in a brotherhood of all men which is a basic element of his personality and his philosophy. This faith, perhaps, is an explanation of the power which makes him the predominating religious leader he is and which is recognized by his recent election to be president of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

Dr. Cadman began close to human ity as a lad in an English coal mine. He has retained the sympathetic touch during his quarter of a century as pastor of Central Congregational Church, Brooklyn. The visitor soon gets this impression in watching the burly figure with the shaggy hair and keen eyes. The millions who hear him over the radio on Sunday afternoons get it in his reverberating tones.

"The fact that the church is bound to be universal has never dawned on millions of Protestant Christians," Dr. Cadman says.

"The church was in existence long before our modern states, and I venture the prophecy that it will be here long after they have fallen. The point of synchronization for nations and for humanity is in their common ideals.

"Nationalism cannot be the last phase of human society. Yet men attribute to democracy a virtue almost talismanic. Democracy is the modern God.

"If you tell 500 men that the church is in danger, they are no more concerned than if you said it was going to rain. If you tell them the state is in danger, you see them rushing to arms in its defence. The distinction is in what men actually believe, and not in what they believe they believe.

"The state cannot produce morality and spirituality. It lives on the morality fostered by religion. Men are always critical of the church. They forget that it is the only organization pledged to morality and spirituality.

"Our Protestant churches are suffering from their lack of a true church consciousness. It is their great defect. We have an unbounded individualism which holds that men may believe what they like about religion. They are admired for having what church consciousness they please. But they cannot believe what they like about chemistry. Not unless they wish to risk being poisoned.

"Whether our liberty can be used to promote unity and not disintegration is a problem for statesmen in both church and nation. It is not proved yet that liberty is successful. Perhaps men still need the rule of a single strong man, such as Mussolini. Perhaps we are moving toward a despotism of the working masses.

"No age can write the religion of a succeeding age. But it is Protestantism's great task to produce a type of universality of religion which does not sacrifice the freedom of the individual or of the local church.

"This task will take time unless the Lord intervenes. I see no indication that he is so disposed. We can only work with patience and without pessimism. There are encouraging signs."

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

LOSE WEIGHT.

One baked apple, 1 cup consomme, 6 radishes, 3 ounces lean broiled ham, 1 small baked potato, 1 cup spinach with ½ hard boiled egg and 3 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 cup combination salad, 2 tablespoons cream, 1 pint skimmed milk, 2 crisp pieces gluten toast, 1 toasted bran roll, 1 head lettuce, 4 tablespoons fresh strawberries, 2 slices gluten or whole wheat bread.

Total calories, 1201. Protein, 257: fat, 360: carbohydrate, 584. Iron, .0248 gram.

The cream is planned for the baked apple.

One small pat of butter could be included in this menu for the potato and toasted bran roll.

If fresh strawberries are not available two tablespoons canned ones can be substituted. The canned berries will contain more calories of carbohydrate as they were undoubtedly canned with sugar.

The salad is dressed with lemon juice.

If an even scantier diet is desired half the bread and toast can be omitted.

Whole wheat bread is richer in carbohydrates than pure gluten bread, but if you are sure your whole wheat flour is pure and really "whole" wheat and you are doubtful about your gluten flour the entire wheat is preferable.

GAIN WEIGHT.

One baked apple, 1 cup rolled oats, 2 eggs scrambled with 2 tablespoons milk on toast, 1 cup consomme, 4 tablespoons creamed dried beef, 2 rice croquettes, 6 radishes, 4 ounces broiled ham, 1 large baked potato, 1 cup spinach with ¼ cup cream sauce and ½ hard boiled egg, 1 cup combination salad, ½ head lettuce, 2 tablespoons mayonnaise, 1-6 old-fashioned strawberry shortcake, 1 cup cream, 1 cup whole milk, 1 toasted bran roll, 2 slices rye bread, ¼ cup sugar, 4 tablespoons butter.

Total calories, 3921. Protein, 411: fat, 1596: carbohydrate, 1914. Iron, .0210 gram.

The strawberry shortcake is made with a baking-powder biscuit dough slightly sweetened. The berries are crushed and sweetened with sugar and the cake is put together with a generous spreading of softened butter. The whole is served warm with sugar and cream.

As so much cream is used in the menu the amount of milk has been reduced to one cup. Hot water should be used with meals.

This offers a suggestion for the person who does not like milk to drink. Plenty of cream with the cereal or a dessert helps to lessen the necessary milk. However, whole milk contains more protein than the same amount of cream.

The entire family will like the spinach with a cream sauce and chopped hard boiled egg over it.

STEEL HOUSES IN BRITAIN TO ASSIST MASSES

Overcrowding in Glasgow and London Menace to Nation's Health.

SERIOUS PROBLEM.

Live Issue Since Lloyd George Promised Fit Homes for Heroes.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—Steel houses may offer the solution of England's perplexing housing problem.

The squalid surroundings in which the submerged classes of the great English cities are living has forced government action to provide proper housing facilities, and speed in the provision of these houses is an essential. Therefore the Government has cast about for a type of house than can be quickly and strongly erected.

Lord Weir has devised a steel house, and is now manufacturing these 'residences" in factories in Glasgow. The house is constructed upon a timber framework, with steel plates outside, and lined inside with material composed of compressed wood pulp which appears very much like a thick, smooth-surfaced cardboard.

To Grant Subsidies.

The Government is prepared to grant subsidies for the erection of these houses, and the cost will depend largely upon the number that are erected. The production is multiple and materials for the houses are easily obtainable.

The Labor Party has bitterly attacked the Government for not carrying out a programme which depends almost entirely on the Government for erection of houses. The Baldwin Government, however, is of the opinion that private enterprise is the best way in which to cope with the problem, and exhibits statistics to show that private enterprise last year erected 95,352 houses, a figure, however, which is about 35,000 below the average of the pre-war years.

While the housing question is being dealt with there is a considerable amount of inquiry being made as to actual living conditions in the more congested areas in England. In Glasgow, conditions are such that the slums there have been called 'the cancer of the Empire." In London conditions are little better, if any. In the Lambeth region it is very easy to find innumerable families living in two rooms, with nine people sleeping in two small rooms. Many of the houses have been condemned, but despite condemnation they are still rented to people who have no other shelter. The sanitary accommodations in some of the better class tenements are deplorable.

Overcrowding

The shortage of housing has given rise to overcrowding that threatens to become a menace to the health of the nation. There are many who have no permanent homes at all, but who wander about at night sleeping in hallways and under arches.

Some working men have been driven in desperation to living in tents in the suburbs, while others have erected small huts for their families out of corrugated iron.

This question has been a live issue ever since Lloyd George promised 'homes fit for heroes to live in" to the men who fought in France, but as yet no government—Coalition, Tory or Labor—has succeeded in alleviating the discomfort of insufficient housing.

MUSICIANS PLAY IN HARD LUCK.

BERLIN, Jan. 19.—The Berlin philharmonic orchestra is having a hard winter. The public is not patronizing it. If a singer desires the support of the orchestra in a concert, he has to pay the organization $1,000, and, in addition, meet the expenses of hall rent and advertising. The box office receipts, even with soloists of standing, have not infrequently been less than $100.

INFANTILE ECZEMA IS CURED SLOWLY

So Says Physician of Children's Ward, Wesley Memorial Hospital, Chicago.

By DR. STANLEY GIBSON.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—Because of the delicacy of the infant's skin, a variety of inflammatory conditions are frequently seen.

Crading about the diaper region is common. Where the skin lies in folds, as in the groin and the arm pits, intense redness may occur. In hot weather, or even in winter, if the clothing is sufficiently warm to produce excessive sweating, prickly heat often develops.

The entrance of germs into the skin may produce a series of boils. Fortunately the majority of these skin disturbances of infants yield quickly to treatment.

There is, however, an important disease of the skin in infancy which is an exception to the above rule. That disease is eczema.

The mother is distressed both on account of the baby's unsightly appearance and because of his very evident discomfort. The physician realizes that the condition is a chronic one, and often yields slowly to treatment.

Cause Not Understood.

The cause of eczema is imperfectly understood. Irritation of the skin from external causes is undoubtedly an important factor.

The irritation may be due to exposure, to marked changes of temperature, excessive use of water and strong soaps, clothing, want of cleanliness, or discharges from the ears or nose. In many cases it is definitely proven that the skin eruption occurs because of a sensitiveness of the infant to the protein of the milk which it receives.

Whether the baby is getting mtoher's milk or cow's milk seems to make relatively little difference, for eczema is seen frequeitly both in breast and bottle-fed infants. It appears most frequently during the first year, with a tendency to spontaneous recovery during the second year.

Infantile eczema usually begins upon the cheeks. In the milder cases there may be nothing more than redness and roughness of the skin. In the severer cases the skin cracks, tiny drops of serum ooze out, and a little later thick crusts are formed.

The intolerable itching causes the baby to scratch the inflamed areas, so that bleeding and scab formation make the picture even more disheartening. After the condition has been present for some time, the affected skin may become dry, thick and leathery. Though the process may be limited to the cheeks, it not infrequently extends to the forehead, scalp, ears and neck. In rarer cases the body and extremities may also be involved.

Supervise Diet.

When eczema appears, the mother quite often assumes that the food is to blame. If the baby is on the breast, she concludes that her milk is at fault. If the baby is bottle fed, she suspects that the formula should be changed.

It is certainly true that the diet should be carefully supervised, for overfeeding with milk frequently aggravates the symptoms. Yet it is not advisable to reduce the food below the baby's requirements, for by so doing malnutrition will result.

As the infant grows older, and other foods can partially replace milk in the diet, improvement usually occurs.

Local treatment is always beneficial.

Protection of the skin from irritation is the keynote of the treatment. First of all it is absolutely essential that the baby's hand be restrained so that he is unable to scratch the affected parts. The too frequent use of water and soap, exposure to wind or sudden changes of temperature are to be avoided. Soothing lotions and ointments aid in protecting the inflamed skin. In the severer cases use of badnages or the wearing of a face mask is often necessary.

Although improvement is to be expected from such measures, the treatment is tedious, and a complete cure often requires weeks or months. The mother should be encouraged by the fact that when the eczema is finally cleared up, the skin will again be clear and soft.

PETERBOROUGH THIRD HIGHEST BUILDING GAIN

Only Two Cities in Ontario Advanced More in Year 1924.

SPLENDID RECORD.

City is One of the 21 in All Canada Showing an Increase.

Despite he "hard times" cry that was common here in 1924, Peterboro stands out in Ontario as having the third highest gain in building permits for the year. Only Kingston and Sault Ste. Marie had higher advances over 1923 than Peterborough. In the list just issued 'Border Cities' is given credit for a larger advance, but this includes Windsor, Walkerville, Ford, Sandwich, and Riverside, the last four adding as gr at a population to Windsor as the total population of Peterborough.

Only eight cities in Ontario, and only 21 cities in all of Canada show an advance over 1923, while 16 cities in Ontario and 29 cities in all of Canaad show an advnce over 1923, while 16 cities in Ontario and 29 cities in Canada show decreases ranging from a few thousand dollars to six million dollars.

The figures are:

Peterborough, 1924, $437,510. 1923, $295,447; increase $142,063.

Border Cities gain was $194,950; Chatham, $89,462; Kingston, $386,387; Niagara Falls, $44,109; Sarnia, $49,333; Sault Ste. Marie, $158,213, and Stratford, $132,602.

In all Canada.

In all Canada the drop in 1924 from 1923, was $7,195,844, of which Toronto bore the brunt, with a decrease of $6,683,199. Hamilton dropped $2,143,000, while London, Oshawa and Port Arthur each dropped a million, with Ottawa just under the mark.

Western Canada stood up well during 1924, showing a fair increase in building right up to the last quarter when there was a falling off. The prairies and British Columbia cities, 18 in all, show a decline for the month of December. Winnipeg was the only western city to drop a million dollars, while Edmonton led with a gain of $816,000.

KINGSTON MAN SLAIN.

Calvin J. Palmer Said to Have Been Victim of Bootleggers.

KINGSTON, Jan. 19.—(Special to The Examiner). — Word has been received in the city to the effect that a former Kingstonian, Calvin J. Palmer, was murdered a few days ago at Miami, Florida. His body was found in a shack, and it is believed that he was beaten to death. The report states that a "falling out" of bootleggers was responsible for the former Kingston man's death. The Palmers left Kingston about six years ago, just two years after their marriage.

A report from Miami states that an iron bar, apparently blood-stained, was found under a mattress of a bed in a room where the body was discovered. Besides the skull fractures, there was a cut extending from the upper of the forehead to the base of the skull. A striped shirt had been wedged into Palmer's mouth, and there was evidence of strangulation. The body was fully dressed and the coat was buttoned.

Palmer was employed as an automobile mechanic, and a driver at different places. Besides his widow, three small children survive.

SINN FEINERS ARRESTED.

Five Men and a Woman Alleged to Have Been Plotting Against Britain.

LONDON, Jan. 19. — (United Press). —Five men and a woman, charged with being Sinn Fein Extremists, and involved in a plot to blow up British battleships at Portsmouth, were under arrest and were questioned here to-day. All will probably be charged under the Official Secrets Acts motive for the alleged plot is believed to have been the stirring up of trouble between Great Britain and the Irish Free State. The arrests followed the interception of letters which passed between the various suspects. Two of the men are petty officers at the Portsmouth dockyard. The remainder of the conspirators were apprehended in sudden raids by Scotland Yard men in Hanwell, Woolwich and Stockwell.

CHAPTER HELD MEETING.

Peter Robinson Chapter Nominate Officers—Three New Members.

An exceptionally large attendance, with about fifty of the members present, marked the meeting on Saturday at the Y.W.C.A. green-room, of the Peter Robinson Chapter, I.O.D.E. The Regent, Mrs. F. C. Webber, presided. Nominations of officers for the coming year took place, elections to be held at the next regular meeting.

The society acknowledged the receipt of a Christmas gift photograph from the Armenian Home where the Chapter's ward, Peter Robinson, Junior, is being cared for, showing the entire group of boys.

It was decided to give a donation of $10 to the Protestant Home, towards the equipment of a small diet kitchen which is being fitted up for the use at odd hours of the inmates desiring hot drinks or light foods.

Miss Esther Wilkes, of Toronto, in the city in the interests of sailors and returned soldiers in institutions, spoke to the Chapter and asked for a donation towards the literature and libraries which are maintained for the use of these men. The sum of $10 was donated.

Three new members were welcomed to the Chapter: the Misses Jeffries, Jean Eagleson and Ellen Eagleson.

At the conclusion of the business session, tea was served by Mrs. Fred. Hooper and Miss Geraldine Glover, from a table prettily decorated in green and yellow.

COMMUNISTS ACCEPTED TROTSKY RESIGNATION

Trotsky's Fall is a Notable Incident in the Russian Revolution.

LONDON, Jan. 19. — (United Press).—The Daily Herald (Labor) learns from Moscow that the executive of the Communist party has accepted Leon Trotsky's resignation from the War and Naval Ministries and warned Trotsky that any further opposition to the party's policies will lead to his removal from the executive.

Trotsky wrote the executive announcing his readiness to submit to party discipline but in its order removing the War Minister, the executive declares that despite promises he has not admitted his errors.

The Evening Star to-day said:

"Trotsky's fall is a notable incident in the Russian revolution which, like the French revolution, is devouring its children."

The Star forecasts a Republic or a Constitutional Monarchy eventually will replace the Soviet regime.

CITY OFFICIALS ATTEND CHURCH

George Street Church Was Scene of Annual Civic Service Yesterday.

URGE TO SERVICE.

The story of the un-named woman who broke her most precious gift, an alabaster box of ointment, and anointed Jesus' feet in appreciation of His grace, was told yesterday evening in an inspiring sermon in which Rev. W. Harold Young of George Street Methodist Church urged public servants and private citizens to adopt the highest ideals of public service.

The occasion was the annual civic church service, attended on invitation of the church by the city council and city officials, and there were present Mayor J. J. Turner, Aldermen Nagle Phelan, Joseph Crowe, E. M. Turner, Walter Stocker, Malcolm McIntyre J. W. Myers, J. O. Fife, Robert N. Jones J. M. Greene and Roland Denne; City and County Police Magistrate O. A. Langley, City Solicitor Joseph Wearing; City Treasurer Frank Adams; City Clerk S. R. Armstrong; City Tax Collector William J. Green; City Relief Officer F. W. Miller and Assistant City Clerk Charles E. Curtis. G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., and W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., were present on invitation of the Mayor.

"God of Our Fathers" was rendered as an anthem by the choir, and a male quartette composed of E. Jones, C. Thorpe, J. F. W. Renwick and A. V. Lillow rendered "Blue Galilee," both appropriate to the occasion.

In greeting the Mayor and City Council and the members of the Federal and Provincial parliaments, the pastor assured them of the loyalty and support of the members of George Street Church in making 1925 the best year in the history of Peterborough.

"The Higher Compulsion."

Re-telling the story of the woman who had been passed by sneering and complacent women as unworthy of their company until Jesus came and spoke the words that gave her a new chance in life, Rev. Mr. Young pointed to the overflowing gratitude that sent her hurrying with her best gift to Jesus' feet. Before passing judgment on a person the motives which prompted his action should be considered, since the compulsions of the heart are more important than the action they prompt. If this were done, fully ninety per cent. of the world's unhappiness and ninety-five per cent. of the world's complacency would be done away with.

There are four dominant classes of motives in every life, the speaker said. They are fear, self-interest, necessitiy and service. People fear the punishment that will follow failure to do certain things; the stone-age man made weapons to defend himself against the animals and enemies he feared; the great wall of China was built in fear of invasion; the Kaiser skulked across the Dutch border in fear; and those in public life may act in fear that they may not be re-elected when the next 1st of January comes along. "Fear can never elevate a man; it can never raise him to the heights of life. When you find a man who is true to his trust in his service to his country and to God, you have a man who is not held by fear."

Self-interest is a second compulsion that animates men. In some cases it operates for the good of mankind, when a man dispenses largesse from the store he has accumulated in his selfish aims, but vast chapters are unwritten of the men who have pursued self-interest until it took the finest things of life and crushed them. The political life of Ontario in the past year is an example of the lengths to which self-interest will compel men, when their unchecked ambitions bring them to the place where discovery means sentence to jail or the jail farm.

Stern necessity, under various classes such as social necessity, economic necessity and legal necessity sometime breeds a virtue that is boasted but does not avail much. People are just as good as they have to be. "It is a hollow kind of virtue," the speaker said, "and in the ledgers of God all too scant credit is given the man who is what he is because he has to be."

The compulsion of service is oceans apart from these smaller motives. The triumphs of life fade before the satisfaction of a deed done without thought of reward to serve the humble. There is no satisfaction in the declining days of the public servant's life like that which comes from a knowledge of having sought to discharge the duties of public life well. Wherever men are in need there is nothing so close to God as the enthronement of the spirit that prompted Jesus to wash the disciples' feet and later to the sacrifice on Calvary. The spirit of those in public life should be one of surrender to God and service to men.

CODE FOR CITIZENS.

Justice Staley Outlines "Nine Commandments' as He Naturalizes 108.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 19. A citizen is good or bad as he is able to keep his house in order, Supreme Court Justice Ellis J. Staley told 108 men and women he recently admitted to citizenship. The individual is recognized as a sovereign and not a subject, the Justice said, and the family is regarded as the essential to a strong and vigorous country. He then laid down nine commandments to guide American citizens. They follow:

"Employ and devote yourself to your own improvement and advancement in mind, morals, understanding of things and affairs and in efficient performance of the duties of your labour and employment.

"Found a family ,and have peace love and good-will among the family.

"Be neighbourly with neighbours.

"Have friends and friendships.

"Respect your father and mother.

"Provide for and be loyal to your wife.

"Maintain, educate and rear your children as useful citizens who will be a pride in your old age and declining years.

"Be thrifty, acquire the saving habit and guard your savings with great care.

"Beware of the man who wants to sell you a gold brick"

CATHOLICS PROTEST.

National Catholic Federation Followers and Communists Clash.

PARIS, Jan. 19. — (Canadian Press.)—Catholic meetings throughout France in protest against the Government's religious policy were continued yesterday and at Aix-en-Provance, a clash occurred between adherents of the General Decastlena and the National Catholic Federation on one hand and the Communists on the other.

The Catholics held a procession and chanted anthems, while the Communists also paraded singing the "Internationale" and other revolutionary songs. The two factions came to fisticuffs as the Catholics were approaching the cathedral, but police reinforcements prevented the clashes from becoming serious. The Catholics also held a demonstration at Nancy.

NOTORIOUS ROBBER ARRESTED SUNDAY

Gerald Chapman Taken Into Custody After Gun Battle With Police.

MUNCIE, Ind., Jan. 19.—(Canadian Press)—Gerald Chapman, notorious robber and prison breaker, for whom a nation-wide search has been made, was captured here yesterday afternoon by Muncie police after a pistol battle. Chapman, who escaped from the Atlanta penitentiary while serving a 25-year sentence for participation in a $2,000,000 mail robbery at New York, was seen walking near the traction station by four detectives who were passing in an automobile.

Detective Fred. Plunkett accosted the fugitive, who immediately opened fire. The bullet went wild, and the officers overpowered him before he could shoot again. At police headquarters Chapman admitted his identity, but otherwise would make no statement. When searched he was found to be in possession of two bottles of nitro-glycerine, a pistol and $4,963 in cash. Chapman was taken to Indianapolis last night under guard, where he was turned over to the Federal authorities.

ALL SAINTS' CHURCH.

Rev. Canon J. O. Troop Was the Special Preacher Yesterday.

The anniversary services at All Saints' Church yesterday were marked by the presence as preacher at both morning and evening services, of Rev. Canon J. O. Troop, formerly of Montreal. There were large congregations both morning and evening, and the sermons of the Canon, impressive, spiritual and earnest, delivered with the sincerity of a venerable preacher whose experience of life had whittled it down to the main essentials were listened to with profound attention.

In the morning, Canon Troop took his text from the last verses of the Gospel of St. Matthew: "At that time, Jesus answered and said, I thank Thee, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth because Thou hast hid these things from the wise and prudent and hast revealed them unto babes. All things are delivered unto Me of My Father; and no man knoweth the Son, but the Father; neither knoweth any man the Father, save the Son, and him to whomsoever the Son will reveal him—Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart; and ye shall find rest unto your souls. For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light."

"No man can have life eternal unless he knows personally the one true God and it is that knowledge which involves eternal life that is hidden from the wise and prudent and revealed unto babes. God is no respecter of persons. The learned and the rich and the powerful have no advantages over the ignorant and the poor and the lowly. All are on a level. All the wisdom in the world cannot bring to man that knowledge of Christ which is life eternal. It is revealed only to the babes. And who are the babes? "Whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child shall in no wise enter therein." It is only to those who become as little children that God reveals Himself."

"God brings us as beggars before Him, to receive from his hands as a free gift—His eternal light. I love Him when He speaks like that, when He puts me flat on my back and then stretches out those glorious hands of His, to lift me to the bosom of my Father."

"Christ says: 'Come unto Me ,and I will give you rest. He does not promise us wealth or honor or pleasur, but rather, the greatest gift of all—rest. Money and honor are nothing but a fraud and a deception. When a man comes to die, and has not rest in his heart, God help him. It is a terrible thing to live with a heart not at rest, but it is an awful thing to die that way."

"'Take My yoke upon you and learn of Me, for I am meek and lowly of heart.' The word "yoke" as the Saviour said it, means two. Sometimes you see a lone yoked ox, but he is a strange and lonely creature. God is on the other side of the yoke, and we may find strength and rest, bearing the burden with Him. He is with me all the way, all home."

"'For I am meek and lowly in heart.' 'Meek' here does not mean weak. Christ was not weak. He fought magnificently. According to the Bishop of London, "meek" here means "a true gentleman." This is the idea of the Greek. Jesus was a true gentleman and every true Christian, high or low, should strive to be a true gentleman or a true lady. We should learn of Him and we will find rest indeed for our souls."

"Christ said, 'Come unto Me.' He did not say, 'Come to Church,' nor 'Come to religion,' but rather 'Come unto Me, and rest.' He says, 'Behold, I come' and He teaches us by St. John to cry in response, 'Even so come Lord Jesus.' When He cries, 'Come unto Me,' let us cry, 'Come unto us.' When He wants us and we want Him supremely, heaven has indeed begun.

SELLING.

Mail order houses and retail merchants for years have fought each other. Two distinct methods of salesmanship have been involved in the struggle. The ultimate outcome apparently is going to be a consolidation of the rival sales systems. That is often the case—opposing forces meet each other half way.

Sears, Roebuck & Co. will open a chain of retail stores in leading cities. It already has nine million customers and expects the stores to attract three million more.

'THEY SAY'—TWO TINY WORDS WHICH PREFACE SCANDAL IN ALL SOCIETY

The Stock Phrase of the Gossip Whose Tongue Wags at Both Ends.

MAY WRECK HOMES.

"They say—"

Two tiny words.

But they have made more mischief than any others in any language from English to Esperanto.

For they are the smoke screen behind which the scandal-monger hides when she tells her gossipy stories.

I say "she" from habit, for women are usually credited with being the gossips. As a matter of fact, just as many whispered stories have their origin with men as with women!

One of the most famous scandals the United States has ever known swept over it a few years ago. It concerned one of our greatest presidents and a woman who had been a very good friend of his wife.

The tale, sordid but spicy, started with men—politicians who had built what Rudyard Kipling calls a "water-tight ,iron-bound lie." The story could not be traced to anyone. It had started with "They say."

Not that men have cornered the gossip market. Not at all. There are countless women who haven't an ounce of malice in their hearts, but whose tongues are "hung in the middle and wag at both ends."

These are the most dangerous types of gossip. They tell a bit of scandal for the joy of telling. They love the look of interest in the face of their listener and the dramatic effect of the climax.

"Don't you ever tell who told you," they will say and trot cheerfully away to the next good listener, leaving behind them enough conversational gun powder to blow up many a reputation.

We all love to hear gossip. The woman who walks in to an afternoon tea with a thrilling story about Jane, June or Jean holds the attention of every other woman within ear-shot. The story may be true, but all truth is not beauty. Much of it would better be left unsaid.

As well might a sun-bird pipe his song to the desert sands as the loyal friend who defends the person under discussion. For there is something perverse in all of us that helps us to believe evil things of one another.

A woman I know is living in loneliness in California, and the husband whom she adores is in New York. They are separated by the width of a continent because an anonymous 'poison pen' letter which some enterprising gossip sent to the wife.

Too proud to explain, as most men are when it comes to jealous accusation from their wives, the husband is waiting for his wife to come to her senses and come home.

The most famous writer of poison pen letters who ever lived was Sheridan, the man who wrote "The School for Scandal," the great play about gossip.

Sheridan had a love affair with a Lady Bessborough, and after it was over he left half the people in England know about it by unsigned letters. Gallant of him, wasn't it?

But this is the kind of gossip that is almost unheard of. Most talk about people is intended to be harmless. It probably starts that way—as an amusing little anecdote.

But by the time half a dozen people have repeated it and colored it with their imaginations and their sense of drama, it's like a five-reel movie—full of thrills and situations.

This world woud be more comfortable place to live in if some of us would occasionally open that page in the Bible where it says: "A word fitly spoken is like apples of gold in pictures of silver."

His intentions were to open up a grocery in Glen Falls, N. J., Now he is glad to wash dishes in Broadway restaurant at twenty cents an hour. While coming down on the Montreal express, Bertellin, met two suave strangers. They engaged him in conversation gained his confidence and learned his plans.: They knew of better schemes than grocery. "He might buy up surplus stocks of army shoes and clean up a fortune in Glen Falls.' Bertellin agreed to let them show him how. He accompanied them to handsomely furnished apartments, police said, and January 15th handded over his $18.000. The strangers departed.

INAUGURATING HOLY YEAR

FLU

France has a new kind of flu that puzzles the doctors. It winds up with a badly swollen leg.

Medical specialists, as usual, will search for the "new" microbe responsible for this ailment. Maybe they'll find it. Maybe they'll discover how to checkmate it. Then a new microscopic pest will come prancing along.

It would be more effective to search for the thing that causes these innovations in the way of disease. Is it in improper living? Or are the bacteria unknowingly cultured in laboratories along with the bacteria of serums for other maladies?

RECORDS FALL TO TWO FINNS

Nurmi and Ritola Set Up New Indoor Marks in New York. HANDICAP RACE

NEW YORK, Jauary 19. — The flying feet of Paavo Nurmi, peerless Finn, middle distance star, stretched their way to a world's indoor record in the 2000 metre special, the feature of the Fordham University A.A. games in the 102nd Regiment Armoury on Saturday night. Nurmi's mark of 5.33 will decorate the record books of world's marks together with the other epoch-making records he has established and broken during his American campaign.

This was Nurmi's third successive race in as many nights, starting on Thursday in New York, on Friday at Chicago, and back in New York on Saturday.

But Willie Ritola, Finnish teammate of the peerless Paavo forced his rival to split honors with him for the evening when Ritola raced a crack field of distance stars into the ground and broke the world's record for the five mile race, negotiating the distance in 24.21 4-5, beating Hannes Kolehmainen's mark of 24.29 1-5, established at Madison Square Garden, February 12, 1913, by a goodly margin.

Promoters of the meet in an endeavor to force Nurmi to exert himself to his fullest extent, handicapped the field up to 150 yards and forced Nurmia to start from scratch. His three rivals were given 75, 125 and 150 yards, respectively, but Nurmi ran them all down and then threw his heels at the field in a lead of 25 yards at the finish.

For the first time during his American campaign Nurmi carried his own watch and kept a mental record of his time at the end of each lap. He was shooting for a low mark and when he saw that he would establish it, he put on more speed, and crossed the line still running easily.

MEN'S EMOTIONS STRONG AS EVER BUT SUPPRESSED

Some Say Human Nature is Changing for the Worse.

GIRL NOT HARD.

Art Dealing With Love Should be Healthy and Natural.

By R. LE CLERC PHILLIPS.

A group of people were discussing the tendencies of the modern age. Views were both pessimistic and optimistic. Then one man declared that human nature itself was changing—for the worse. 'We are," he said, 'harder than our grandparents. We are less emotional, for our finer emotions are being sapped, warped and stifled by all the cheap rubbish, the false sentimentality, the trashy romance of the average modern novel, play and movie. We expend so many maudlin tears over the absurd sentimentalities of the movies that when we come up against the big things of life—things like birth, death and marriage—we have no feelings left."

I determined to seek expert opinion. The first call was to see the Rev. Randolph Ray, the rector of the Little Church Around the Corner, who is in touch with many sections of New York life.

'I have not noticed any drying up of the emotional qualities at all," replied Dr. Ray. 'I find that people are just as much upset over death, for example, and just as responsive to life as they ever seem to have been. But it must be remembered that the exhibition of emotion is largely a question of training. Take the average Englishman and the average Italian. The one is carefully trained from earliest childhood to repress the expression of his emotions and the other has never been so trained. I think that climate may possibly have something to do with the matter, but remember that I am expressing myself purely in my capacity of priest and in no sense as a psychologist, or scientist of any kind. At any rate, it is curious that Southern people express themselves even in their religious services with far more emotion than do the people of Northern countries. Southern negroes are intensely emotional, and even the Southerners of the United States are far more emotional than, for example, the New Englanders, and express themselves with much more ardour.

Schooled Against Emotion.

'People to-day are being more and more schooled against showing their emotions. I might even mention that the rage for etiquette books is having considerable influence in this direction, since people, through them, are learning that it is not considered good form to give public display of their feelings. The spirit of imitation is very strong, and as soon as people learn that such and such a manifestation is not socially desirable, they hasten to check it or try to check it. Thus, I should say that there is no less emotion to-day than ever there was, but that the ideals of good form are slowly permeating many sections of society.

'However, I do think there is just a possibility that continuous doses of false sentimentality may have a tendency to break down morale, so to speak, and to make people watery-eyed over all kinds of entirely false emotion."

I asked Dr. Ray if he had found that actors were less emotional in private life than other people.

'Theatrical people are, beyond question, more emotional than others," Dr. Ray replied. 'They have to be in order to be good actors. An actor must be sensitive: a stoic could only be a very poor player. Actors have the artistic temperament very strongly developed, and people of the artistic temperament are unquestionably more emotional than the ordinary run of people."

Dr. A. A. Brill, the psychiatrist, translator of Freud in this country and lecturer at New York University, made some interesting observations in reply to my questions.

'You ask me if we are less emotional than our grandparents," he said. 'I answer that any change there is more apparent than real. Civilization is characterized by emotional control. The child knows nothing of emotional control, but as it grows older it is taught to hide its feelings. In the same way those races which have learned to control their feelings are undoubtedly of a higher type of civilization than those which have not. The races which are most successful in this are the northern European races: but if we take into account Orientals as well the Japanese may be said to stand highest in this regard. The idea of emotional control as a standard of civilization has always been recognized. The Romans, for instance, used to boast that, unlike the savages with whom they used to fight, they did not enter a battle with noise, but with restraint and dignity.

'Nevertheless, the ability to control emotions can sometimes be carried too far, as is shown by the fact that there are more neurotics among the self-contained races of the north—that is, among the Anglo-Saxons—than there are among southern European or primitive races, which make little attempt at restraint. In England, for instance, the standard for emotional control is seen in the fact that the average Englishman is able not only to control his voice as well as other forms of expression, but to wear evening dress on a hot summer night without even knowing that it is hot—a thing quite impossible for any other race. In other words, the habit has become a sort of second nature to him.

Masking the Emotions.

'People can stifle emotions, but they always try to create by-ways or substitutes for them. In no countries is there so much resort to movies, prize fights, trashy novels, and so on, as in the northern countries, where men and women are most given to hiding or masking their feelings: and it is these movies, prize fights, trashy novels, etc., that act as a vicarious outlet and substitute for the emotions of the people. You asked me a little while ago if people's emotions could become blunted. There is no such thing as a real blunted emotion, though there is marked emotional control which is sometimes displayed in all sorts of hypocrisies often called good manners. We teach our children that they must tell the truth when we ourselves act lies, but the main thing is to hide the emotions. However, emotions cannot be destroyed.

'The actor is by nature emotional and has the capacity of acting the chameleon. He can make himself into MORE different persons, but he has no fixed personality of his own. The emotional transference of the actor is more or less inhibited, so that he is unable to develop fixed characteristics. Actors remain more or less infantile and are, therefore, able to identify themselves with the great characters they represent on the stage. They are still moldable, as it were. This accounts for some of the characteristic traits of the actor I refer to the sexual maladjustment as evinced in uninhabjted morality and marital unsteadiness which have been attributed to stage folks in all lands and at all ages. I do not wish to imply that the actor is to be considered inferior because he manifests this maladjustment of his love life; on the contrary, he had the courage to put into operation what the average person secretly desires. That is why we admire the actor, and that accounts for the popularity of plays which deal with primitive desires."

"The modern girl is said to be a much harder sort of person than her grandmother was at the same age," I remarked. "Do you believe that this s true?"

Modern Girl Not "Hard."

"The modern girl is not harder than her grandmother," Dr. Brill replied. "Possibly she is a little harder on the surface, but this is probably because standards change. But she is not harder under the surface, since feelings and emotions must be given vent to in some form just as one must breathe. Forms of emotion change, but the sum totall must find an outlet. The modern girl gives vent to her emotions, but she does it in a different way, just as she dresses in a different way."

Another well-known neurologist of wide experience answered: "We are just as emotional as our grandparents, but we have different ways of expressing our feelings. The expression of emotion in society depends very largely on the point of view, and the point of view changes in each generation. There is in our generation a more healthy emotional expression than there was in the previous one. Yet the amount of emotion in human beings was just the same then as now. The higher and the more complex society becomes, the greater are the restraints imposed upon the emotions, but men find ways of expressing them in higher and more acceptable forms.

"In other words, the more one has been denied the normal expression of love, or the longer it has been postponed, the more natural it is to find acceptable and interesting substitutions in literature, the drama or even in the movies. Nevertheless, I consider that people go too much to the movies today and that, as a consequence, they are reading less. Reading is also a very acceptable form of sublimating the emotions. Neither form of amusement blunts the emotions; people merely give vent to the pressure of their emotions in these ways, since they cannot be expressed through other channels. Suppose, for instance, that a girl does not follow the emotional trend which every woman has. In order to be happy she must find other pathways in the intellectual and esthetic fields that will drain off some of those emotions."

I asked if the false sentimentality of the moving pictures was not harmful in one way or another.

"It is very desirable that any art dealing with the manifestations of love should be healthy and natural, since these furnish an outlet for the emotions of so many people. It is an unwise policy to train people in abnormalities of emotion of any kind, and this is of course true of the higher expressions of emotions in the drama, in art and in literature. For this reason a rational and competent supervision of the entertainments offered to the public is a desirable thing."

KING OF SPAIN MOST POPULAR

U. S. Ambassador Denies Reports of Internal Trouble and Unrest.

JUST "SHEER TALK."

NEW YORK, Jan. 19. — Cabled reports of alleged internal differences in Spain were branded as "sheer talk" by Alexander P. Moore, United States Ambassador to Spain, when he returned by the Mauretania for a vacation.

He summed up reports of strife in Spain thus:

'Recently the Spanish papers carried a story that New York had been buried under a snowstorm and that people were only able to enter their homes through the second-story windows.

''What has been printed about Spain carries about the same truth."

King Most Popular.

King Alfonso is beloved by the Spanish people, the Ambassador said, and always goes about unburdened by a bodyguard. He added:

'The King is, of all men I have met, one of the most popular. No one speaks against him in Spain. To the Spanish people he is not only a ruler, but an idol.

'There has been much propaganda against Spain. It has been unfair and unjust. The fact is that Spain is one of the most peaceful countries in the world to-day. Madrid is a city of 1,000,000 persons, yet in two years there has been only one murder.

Robberies Prevented.

'One never hears of robberies in Madrid. To every block there is an official called a serano, who has a key to all the places on his block. When three robberies occur on his post he loses his job and no member of his family can ever be a serano."

The aerial campaign of Ibanez, who is reported to have dropped circulars attacking King Alfonso, the Ambassador said, was 'sheer talk."

RECOGNITION FOR WOMEN.

LONDON, Jan. 19.— (Canadian Press.) — Bishop of Chester, Dr. Henry Luke Paget, has accorded permission to women to speak and lead in prayer in the church, providing they conduct devotions only from chancel steps.

The only man who can say your head is dirty and get away with it is the barber.

NEW ECONOMIC POLICY.

Russian Ambassadors and Chief Trade Representatives Abroad Have Been Summoned to Moscow.

BERLIN, Jan. 19. — (Canadian Press).—Soviet Triumvirate Kameneff, Stalin and Zinovieff, according to a well-founded report, have drawn up a new comprehensive plan for world-wide financial readjustment with which they hope to win the approval of the Allied Powers as well as that of the United States.

Russian Ambassadors and chief trade representatives abroad have been summoned to Moscow to discuss the proposed scheme and to lay it subsequently before the governments to which they are accredited. Details are as yet not known here, but it is understood the proposition calls for reorganization of Russia's economic basis to an extent far beyond that carried out under the new economic policy three years ago. The plan could offer ways and means for the payment of Russia's debts and would seek to re-establish her credit to foreign markets.

SILVER WEDDING SURPRISE PARTY AT MILLBROOK

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Byam Presented With Silver Service and Tray by Friends.

ADDRESS READ

Occasion Was 65th Anniversary of Wedding of Mr. Byam's Parents.

MILLBROOD, Jan. 17.—A surprise party visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Byam, Bank Street, on Friday evening, over forty of their friends from Millbrook and vicinity gathering for the observance of the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding.

It was also the sixty-fifth anniversary of Mr. Byam's mother's wedding-day (Mrs. W. H. Byam), Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Byam having been married on the fortieth anniversary of the day when his parents went to the marriage altar. This latter fact was not generally known by the guests until after their arrival, and added much to the pleasure and interest of the occasion.

The "bride" and "groom" had planned a quiet observance of the silver anniversary, inviting the immediate relatives of both families, and also Rev. F. W. and Mrs. Howard, who were once stationed on the Cambray circuit where the Byam family at that time resided. The home was appropriately decorated for the occasion, and at one o'clock dinner was served. The guests from outside points included: Mrs. Byam's sister, Mrs. J. Graham, and daughter; Miss Francis, of Port Perry; and his brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Byam, of Lindsay; Mrs. Byam's mother, Mrs. Shay, sen.; the minister (Rev. P. Snowden) who performed the marriage ceremony a quarter of a century ago; the groomsman, and a number of other relatives who had been expected, were prevented by illness and other causes from accepting the invitation to be present.

The self-invited "guests" arrived about 7.30 p.m. and were warmly welcomed, though they took the host and hostess completely by surprise. A very enjoyable time was spent with games, contests, and the singing of old-time songs, the well-known musical ability of the Byam family making any evening spent in their home incomplete unless this form of entertainment was included in some way. Miss Estelle Hetherington presided at the piano.

Mr. A. J. Brown was asked to take the chair, and Messrs. J. Steele and Offa Williamson, on behalf of those present, presented Mr. and Mrs. Byam with a silver service and tray, the following address being read by Miss Pearl Burnham:—

To Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Byam,
Millbrook.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Byam:

Your friends of this community have gathered at your home this evening to join with you in celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of your wedding-day.

"Nothing circulates so rapidly as a secret," so, although you have made no public announcement of your "Silver Anniversary," the surprise of our coming may perhaps be readily explained.

Looking forward, from the threshold of the marriage altar to the twenty-five years now in retrospect, the unforseen twistings and turnings of the path of life bring the consciousness that "the veil which covers futurity is woven by the Hand of Mercy." And yet, looking backward over the quarter of a century of merried life together, doubtless the span of years seem but a brief one, and as the mind's treasury brings to light its store of memories you realize how chequered the interval has been with sunshine and shadow. There have been bright days and occasionally dark days, but with others who have reached a similar milestone on lifess journey you will rejoice that "the glad times have far outnumbered the sad times."

During the years you have resided in Millbrook you have been intimately associated with its business life, with church activities, particularly with the Sunday school and Young Peoples' Associations with more than one fraternal organization, with the musical ambitions, and the social gatherings of the community. Your family has grown to young womanhood and manhood among us, and the hospitality of your home we have all many times enjoyed.

Your many friends felt they could not let this happy occasion pass without expressing in some way their esteem and affection, and we ask you to accept this silver service as a tangible token of the place you hold in the community's regard.

Signed on behalf of your friends in Millbrook and vicinity, and at outside points.

J. Steele.
P. Stinson.
A. J. Brown.
O. Williamson.

Millbrook, January 16th, 1925.

Mr. Byam Replied.

Considerably affected, Mr. Byam made suitable reply on behalf of his wife and himself, expressing appreciation of the gift, but particularly of the kind words spoken and the spirit of true friendship manifested.

Mr. P. Stinson was then called upon for an address, and in concluding his remarks, gave the information as to "Grandma Byam's" sixty-fifth wedding anniversary, and called upon her youngest grandson, "Baby Jack in long pants," to present her with a beautiful bouquet of flowers, tied with long white satin streamers, as evidence of the loving esteem accorded her by the community. Mrs. Byam's surprise was most genuine, and her few words of thanks of heartfelt significance. Necessarily, for yer the occasion had its tinge of sadness, since it is eighteen years since her husband was "called to that better clime where the Son of Righteousness reigns supreme."

Others who spoke were Mr. W. H. Coombe, Mr. G. W. Sayles, whose humorous reading "A Henpecked Husband created much merriment. Mr. W. Fred Fallis, and Rev. F. W. Howard. The singing of "Auld Lang Syne" concluded this part of the evenings programme.

Cut Wedding Cake.

A handsome wedding cake, bearing the dates 1900—1925, was brought in and the "bride" asked to make the first cut, the silver cake knife used being the gift of Rev. George and Miss Lazelle Brown, of Belleville, warm friends of the Byam family since the A number of other beautiful gifts wrro received from relatives residing in thi community and at outside points, in- "Grandmother and Family."

Suppe wM Merved, Miss May Byam the daughter of the home, and the three boys—Lloyd, Billy and Jack—filling the position of hostess and hosts most capably, and giving ready assistance to the committee in charge.

The singing of "Blest be the tie that binds" brought a most enjoyable occasion to a fitting close.

INDIAN PRINCES ARE EASY PREY FOR SWINDLERS

British Government Tells Why It Hid Mr. A's Identity Recently.

RAJAHS WATCHED.

Subject to Blackmail for Slightest Deviation From Caste.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—The India Office has given exclusively to the International News Service the reason why it was so anxious to keep secret the name of Rajah Sir Hari Singh in the recent famous blackmailing case.

It is because the native princes of India are more subjected to blackmail than any other class of rich men in the world. Most of them are enormously wealthy; they are brought up in the narrowest and most circumscribed circles, and when they grow to manhood they are so ruled by tinge of caste that the smallest deviation from the prescribed code can bring them into utter disrepute.

The great aim of the British Government is to keep these rajahs at peace with one another and preserve them in the straight and narrow path of rectitude. If the ordinary East Indian gets mixed up in a scandal with a white woman it is a regrettable incident, but it is not a criminal offence.

Hard to Keep Secrets.

On the other hand, if a native ruler is concerned in such a matter it might mean a disturbance in his territory, with all the risk of bloodshed.

In India it is hard to keep secrets. Every rajah is watched by thousands of eyes. His smallest peccadillo is instantly noted down and reported. The tiniest offence he commits is reported immediately in the bazaars, even if it is not also telegraphed to the headquarters of the British Government.

There is only one way of preventing these disclosures. That is by payment. Consequently, Indian rajahs now, and for a century and a half in the past, have become accustomed to paying heavily for any indiscretions they may have committed. Any payment rather than exposure has been their motto, and they have lived up to it.

Aware of the Practice.

The British Government is only too well aware of this practice, and for years has done its best to suppress it. But the Government is powerless. The ease with which Sir Hari Singh was robbed of $750,000 shows the susceptibility of the native mind to the evil. The success of the blackmailers in his case is certain to be an encouragement to others in similar cases.

This is the real reason why the British Government tried so hard to keep his name secret and why, for so many days he was known only as "Mr. A." In the end the name had to be divulged because of the protests from other native princes who were innocently and erroneously connected with the case and who, probably, were also liable to blackmail. But for this the name would have remined unpublished to this day, and in similar circumstances, the British Government probably would take a similar line of action. And its policy would receive support both in Britain and India.

Enjoyable Social Friday Night—Chancel Guild Officers.

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 19.—The Holy Name Society had a very enjoyable At Home in the Lakefield House on Friday evening. There was a large attendance, which included many from Young's Point, Douro, Ennismore and Peterboro. A good orchestra supplied music for the dancing, and in the card-room were ten tables of progressive euchre which engrossed the attention of those who preferred cards to dancing. The time passed quickly in the pleasant surroundings till midnight, when dainty refreshments were served by the gentlemen, assisted by a committee of ladies of the parish. Prizes for euchre were won by Mrs. Bruce Preston and Mr. Walter Gillespie, and the consolation prizes by Miss Loretta Harrington and Capt. Johnston.

This is the first At Home of the season given by the Holy Name Society, and it is fully up to the high standard of previous festivities; in fact, it is probably the most successful. The large attendance, in spite of numerous counter attractions, was gratifying to Rev. J. J. Garvey and the Society.

Class Distinctions Strict Among Seals The Hoods and Harps Never Mix

A Male Hood Is An Ideal Family Man—Defends His Young and Takes Any Punishment—Harps Have Queer Ways of Their Own and Are Vastly Numerous.

By A NEWFOUNDLANDER

THE seals which the Newfoundland fishermen risk their lives each year to hunt, are divided into two species, separate and distinct, the hoods and the harps. Although they resemble each other in many ways: they make their home on ice floes, they live on fish, their young are born within a week of each other and may be found on the same floe, though ten or twenty miles apart—yet they never mix. I have never seen a hood seal and a harp on the same ice pan unless it was more than a mile wide.

The hood or hooded seal is so called because the male carries a large bag of loose skin like a monk's cowl on the top part of its head. When he is enraged he can swell this bag to the size of a football. This hood is so thick that buckshot unless fired at extremely close range will not penetrate it. It is thus a protection for the head and may be used to impress and frighten an opponent in private quarrels. The sealer with his iron shod club may hammer as hard as he likes at the hood without hurting the seal much. In the meantime he will be in danger himself from the bellicose animal, for the seal, though clumsy in appearance and action, is really remarkably quick and can twist and scramble over the hummocks in unbelievably fast style.

Killing an old hood without a rifle has some of the thrills of bullfighting. The usual method is for three or four sealers to surround him. One will strike at his hind flappers and jump aside as the old warrior swings round with bristling teeth, while the others rain blows on his neck and the side of his head. Even with the odds four to one, it is a highly exciting and dangerous job thus to kill an old hood.

The hood never appears on the female and does not come to the male until his third year when he reaches maturity and seeks a mate.

In his family relations the hood is an admirable animal. He is a model husband. Once paired, he regards the knot as tied for life. If hoods are met between the 10th and 20th of March when the young are being born they will always be in pairs. Kill a female and the male, if absent at the time, will invariably return to the spot to seek her. After the young are born and on the ice, the male becomes even more devoted to his family. For the first week of the young hood's life his parents seldom if ever leave him. Little families of hoods, male, female and young, may be found housekeeping on their own ice pan. Another family may be within ten yards on another pan. A hundred families may be within half a mile, many on the same pan if it is a big one, but they do not mix. Each family is a sedate, self-contained unit.

If the sealer seeks hoods now, and he usually does, he must reckon on the fighting male. The defenseless mother may be killed with a stroke of the club as easily as her young, but at the first sign of danger, be it man or polar bear, the male hood shuffles swiftly across the ice to meet it. He might easily slip into the safety of the water, usually within a few feet, but he prefers to die in defense of his family. In animal life, the mother is usually ready to defend her young, but the hood seal is the only male I have ever heard of who will do so. I will say, however, that the motive in his case is probably not so much affection as his pugnacious nature. The young male will show the same spirit when only a week old, snapping savagely at the club which kills him.

If not killed, the young hood is left to look after himself when two weeks old. But in this time he has grown enormously on his mother's rich milk, his pelt increasing from ten to sixty pounds in weight. He has a layer of clear fat an inch and a half thick, all over his body between his flesh and his skin. This keeps him warm and helps him to float, for it takes at least another month to learn to swim and dive properly, and to catch fish. In the meantime he lives on his fat. If he met his parents he would not know them or they him.

Pelt Weighs 200 Pounds

HE has usually by this time been carried far south over the banks of Newfoundland. His instinct tells him to strike north. He does so. He travels alone at this time, though less than two months old, voyaging north. He is now dark grey on the back and sides with white underneath. He leads this lonely life until his third year, when he becomes an adult and assumes a family.

The harp seal is different entirely from the hood. The experienced sealer can tell the difference even when the seal is far away. The harps are much more numerous and it is the patch of harps that is the objective of every sealing steamer. Their name comes from a black band that runs from a point at the back of the neck down each side, somewhat resembling a harp. The pelt—that is the fat and skin of an old harp—will weigh from 150 to 200 pounds; that of a hood nearly 100 pounds more. The adult male hood is considerably larger than the female, while the male and female harps are about the same size.

The harps appear to like company and during March and April will be found in immense companies of tens and even hundreds of thousands. Their young, born during the last week of February and the first of March, are perfectly white. They lie so closely together that a steamer's crew have often gathered up 25,000 or 30,000 within a space of eight or ten miles.

Unlike the hood, the male harp takes no responsibility whatever in family matters, while the female seems continually consumed with anxiety about her beautiful white baby. She is apparently never at rest, one moment diving into the water, the next bobbing up to look at her offspring on the pan, and then climbing out and waddling over to it. I have often heard experienced sealers remark on the amazing instinct of the mother seal. She will dive through a small hole in moving ice, swim far in the dark waters, and yet come back unerringly to her own young. Mother seals have been met in the waters eight and ten miles from their young.

The mother knows her young by her sense of smell. There is no other way, for young seals of the same age are exactly alike. I had a good opportunity to observe this once when our steamer lay one Sunday in a patch of ice surrounded by seals. We were waiting for Monday morning to commence the slaughter, for the Newfoundland law does not permit it on Sunday. On a pan about 200 feet away lay three white coats, baby seals. Presently an old female crawled on the pan and waddled towards them. The three babies, scenting breakfast, immediately made towards her. She put her nose to the first one, snapped angrily and shuffled on to the next. Again she sniffed and again she snapped and shuffled on. The third was evidently her own, and in a very short time was enjoying a hearty breakfast. I am quite sure she knew her own baby, and I am equally sure any one of the three would have claimed her as mother and never known the difference.

Another case on the same day showed that the mother seal has considerable shrewdness or intelligence, call it what you will. A young seal was crawling about on a pan not more than fifty feet from the steamer's side. It appeared hungry and kept up a continuous wailing. The mother kept bobbing up in the water, flopping on the ice, and then, frightened at the proximity of the steamer, plunging overboard again, repeating the whole maneuver again and again. I watched intently to see what she would do. After half an hour of such fruitless attempts she evidently made up her mind that the young one must be fed. She scrambled over the ice directly away from the steamer, brushing by him on the way. He immediately followed her but proved a very slow traveler. She would go about ten feet ahead, wait until he had crawled close, then wriggle forward again, in spite of the wailing of her offspring to be fed. She kept this up until she was at least three hundred feet from the steamer, which she evidently considered a safe distance, as she then settled down and let him have a full meal.

Killing an old hood without a rifle has some of the thrills of bull-fighting. The usual method is for three or four sealers to surround him. One will strike at his hind flappers, while the others rain blows on his neck and the side of his head.

Seals Hard to Shoot

BUT in spite of their very evident affection for their young, it is safety first with the harp seals every time. Unlike the hood which will die for her young on every occasion the harp on the first sign of a hunter's approach will look for a chance to slip into the water and leave her young to its fate.

The young harp, like the hood, puts on fat very fast. A baby which a sealer would pass as too small to kill will be considered a good pelt two days later. When the young harp is a month old he loses his white fur and dons a coat of coarse hair, dark grey with black spots. Like the young hood, as soon as he takes to the water he keeps going north, and attains maturity in his third year.

Where has the male harp been during the infancy of his offspring? He [illegible] outskirts of the herd of yo[ung] company of the flappers and [illegible] of the seal tribe. He shows no [interest] about his family. There must [be] preponderance of males among [the] female is constantly exposed to [danger] in vast numbers, for the sealer [kills] and all is seal that comes to [hand] the female can slip to safety [with] her with her young.

When the young harps h[ave] water the elders, male and [female] immense herds again. There [is] as among the hoods.

Shooting seals in the water [is] it is slow business and not [worth] unless the steamer is jammed [in] take a rifle and tramp off to [the] likely. It may be a hundred [yards] smaller. Here you build a shelter of ice, sit down and wait with [rifle] watching the surface of the water. [If] there is a seal there. You did not [hear] come. There was not a ripple. There [was] warning. He will not be there long. [He] go as suddenly and as swiftly as he came. [You] have to get a bead on him in a few, a [few] seconds.

If the seal is a harp he emerges to [the] some eighteen inches, takes a quick [look] draws down quickly to the tip of [his] rises a second time. He will come [up] times out of ten unless he sees you. [He] ened. In fact, he will occasionally [come] third time.

The first time he comes up you [see] his nose. The second time is the [only] chance. When he rises over your sights. If you hit him fairly, his body will [take] position for a few seconds, and then [falls] on its side. There is always fat enough [on] body to keep it afloat, although more than [half] of them will sink before being retrieved [late] the middle of April.

You must shoot when the seal is rising. If you are a second late and fire when his head is drawing down you will likely miss, for the bullet itself is not quicker than the seal. It is good sport, far superior to ordinary target shooting. A marksman accustomed to make 95 out of a possible 100 at an ordinary target would likely disgrace himself if given the task of shooting at a seal's head.

In locating yourself at the hole you have no doubt selected the windward edge of the ice, with the cold wind blowing on your back instead of in your face. You shoot and kill. Your dead seal floats on the water fifty yards away. You expect to see him drive with the wind to the other side of the hole. Instead, he comes drifting steadily towards you against the wind. In a short while you are able to hook your gaff in his body and pull him out. The fact is that the ice is really drifting with the wind and the seal, low in the water, is not affected, and [is] still till you reach it. You did not notice the motion of the ice until you saw the seal coming towards it.

If, as sometimes happens, it is a calm day and the ice and seal are moving equally with the tide, the sealer will have to break up a piece of ice, use it as a raft, and his gaff as a paddle, and float out to secure his seal in that way.

The Forehanded Finches

—By Edith G. Bayne

ILLUSTRATION BY J. L. FRISE

"WE regret to report that Mrs. Sam Whiffle, one of our social leaders here in Mud Center, tripped over a rug while chasing the cat yesterday, landing on her nose and badly damaging the organ."

This item from the Mud Center Jottings in the Orillia Packet was of such an arresting nature as to cause the Old Timer to neglect the rest of the column and allow the paper to drop unheeded to his knees.

"Well, well! I s'pose it's that same organ they bought at 'Bijah Finch's auction," he observed as a wave of reminiscence enveloped him. "I mind me an' Sarah was bidding on it, too. Sam Whiffel's right handy with carpentry tools, though, an' I guess he'll soon patch her up. That organ's seen a lot o' wear and tear in its day, what with revival meetin's an' Mrs. Finch usin' it for keepin' her preserves in an' all . . ."

Outside the winter wind whistled round and round the little station. The blackboard announced that the train to Toronto was forty minutes late. Inside, half-a-dozen prospective passengers huddled about the fat and glowing little stove and paid the Old Timer the homage of an attentive silence. So he continued:

"The Finches had the biggest auction sale ever known in this neck o' the woods, an' it was the first one that poor 'Bijah ever missed—him bein' dead an' so unable t' be among those present. 'Bijah had the auction sale craze. It kep' comin' back on him at reg'lar intervals, like malaria or the harvest itch, till if he couldn't find a sale in the district he'd hitch up an' go an' hunt for one all over the country. An' the junk that man'd come home with—stuff that nobody else had any use for or ever would!"

This obsession of Mr. Finch's, it appeared, was all of a piece with his native, ingrained forehandedness. Mr. and Mrs. Finch were models of thrift and foresight. They had a reputation far and wide for these excellent virtues and practised them unceasingly. In the spring they began to get ready for winter and in the winter they started odd jobs that really belonged to the following autumn. They lived about nine months ahead of the almanac, and their barns and storehouses were always full to bursting, while every available nook and receptacle in and about the house was crowded with canned fruit and vegetables.

Mrs. Finch had a mania for preserving and pickling. It just seemed as though she couldn't bear to see a berry unless it were in a glass jar, and the grocer at Mud Center used to order several extra cases of jars every season just on her account.

'Bijah went to a sale in town at a marble-cutter's and bid on two blank gravestones and brought them home.

"Never can tell when they'll come in handy," he said, cheerfully. "Keep a thing seven years, y' know—"

Mrs. Finch, though momentarily shocked, couldn't dispute this philosophy. They spent the evenings of that next winter thinking up suitable mottoes and carving them on the stones. Mrs. Finch did most of the thinking and 'Bijah executed the carving. There were their names and birth-dates with verses of scripture or poetry, everything in fact but the dates of death. The mottoes insinuated that 'Bijah and his wife were resting in peace in heaven and soon—which made the neighbors sniff and remark that this was a pretty cocksure kind of foresightedness.

Then, strangely enough, shortly after the purchase of the stones there was a big fire sale in town in a block where an undertaker's stock had been damaged, and Mr. and Mrs. Finch bid on a couple of scorched coffins.

"Scorched coffins are not to be picked up every day," they said to each other.

Mrs. Finch did most of the thinking and 'Bijah executed the carving.

The coffins were exactly alike, and a good thing, too, as 'Bijah said, for then there could be no hard feelings. They put them in the parlor and covered them with Navajo blankets and some cushions, and they made fairly good sofas, though there wasn't much "give" to them, to be sure.

"I'll store my peaches in one," Mrs. Finch said, "an' my huckleberries in the other. Being nice an' dark in them coffins the fruit won't work."

She'd already filled the organ with jelly and canned plums, and it was so crowded that when the missionary circle met at 'Bijah's they had to cut out the hymns because the pedals wouldn't work.

Mrs. Finch had fruit stored everywhere on the premises and some of it in places she'd forgotten all about. One night they were awakened out of a deep sleep by bearing a couple of shots fired somewhere in the house—or what sounded like shots. Mr. Finch thought he was back in the Boer War again till he was roused by his trembling wife and ordered to take the shotgun and go and look for the burglars or chicken-thieves or whatever they were. 'Bijah traced the disturbance to the spare bedroom off the parlor, where on opening the door a renewed fusillade greeted him.

"Hands up!" he squeaked, as he shakingly lifted the shotgun and took determined, if blind, aim, into the gloom.

Something struck him in the eye and he fell where he stood. But when his wife rushed up with a lamp he was still alive.

"I could'a' got them if they hadn't got me first!" he declared. "I guess I've lost a lot o' blood——" he groaned and closed his eyes again.

But it wasn't a bullet that had hit him and the sanguinary fluid running down his face and over his nightshirt was merely five-year-old tomato ketchup.

The Old Timer paused midway in his tale and took a fresh grip on his pipe. He stretched out his legs to the footrest of the stove, leaned back and blew a long smoke spiral aloft.

"Mebbe you think I'm exaggeratin'," he said, "when I tell you that 'Bijah had filled the hopper of his grain-seeder one fall so's he'd have it all ready for the spring planting an' he drove out into the field one fine April morning, without takin' a look into that there hopper an' when he'd gone halfway across the field he happened t' look back an' what he saw made his eyes stick out. Mrs. Finch, it seems, had stored a lot of her fruit in the hopper and most o' the cans had bust. 'Bijah was sowin' raspberry jam all over his nice plowed furrers!"

But in due time Mrs. Finch's canning and other operations ceased. An epidemic of something came round and Mrs. Finch was "took down." The doctor said it was her stomach and that she'd been eating too much canned fruit.

"Oh doctor," she moaned, "I only et it to save it!" But the doc looked stern and shook his head.

Mr. Finch had laid in supplies of medicines of various sorts throughout the years—he had everything from dandruff remedy to spavin cure—and he dismissed the doctor and set out to prescribe for Mrs. Finch himself. He dosed her religiously, reminding her of how much they were saving, and assuring her that she'd soon be feeling chipper again.

But the poor soul just wouldn't cheer up.

"No 'Bijah, I aint long for this world," she said, prophetically. "Take the huckleberries outa the coffin an' make ready. Nothin' like bein' forehanded! But don't mourn too much, partner; keep your thoughts on how much we saved by buyin' them there coffins—remember that Perkins an' Green would've charged us fifteen dollars more if they'd been reg'lar stock."

And she passed on to her reward.

The funeral was well attended. 'Bijah fed the folks before and after, mostly on huckleberry preserves. There was such a crowd that there weren't seats enough to go round and they had to take the two chairs from under the coffin and lower it to the floor. The pall-bearers, who had been out in the kitchen eating a snack, were late getting back to the parlor and when they went to get the coffin they found the rooms deserted and all the folks out front in the yard or around the hearse. So they hurried a little and thus missed an invitation to come back and eat canned gooseberries.

'Bijah said when everything was over that it was a comfort to know every little thing had been arranged for beforehand and that there was no hitch or confusion. He bragged quite a bit about his besetting virtue and advised all his friends to practise foresight.

"Most people think we caught it from each other," he said, "but it was her taught me. She was the longsightedest woman on earth. She never forgot nothin'. Everything's all ready for me when my time comes—'cept the grave dug. But I don't hardly know what t' do 'bout all this here fruit an' stuff. Guess I'd oughta will it to an asylum or some place."

Three days later 'Bijah came down with the same illness and in a week he was dead.

"Who says forehandedness don't pay!" said all the neighbors at last willing now to give him his due.

"Clear them pickled peaches outen his coffin," ordered his lifelong friend—none other than he who was telling the tale—"an' notify the pall-bearers t' be ready; call up the preacher an' see that Bill Whiffle gits the grave dug. Oh my friends, no matter how forehanded a man may be there's always a few last little chores he jist natchurly can't do for hisself!"

But a grim surprise awaited them, for when 'Bijah's mortal remains were ready for his casket it was found to be already pre-empted. They had buried the wrong coffin a week before. Mrs. Finch was still in the parlor, and resting under the gravestone beneath the cypress in the churchyard were Mrs. Finch's pickled peaches.

From far away in the frosty distance came the whistle of the train and the Old Timer sat up and knocked the ashes from his pipe.

"If so be any o' you folks might happen round agin some time," he said cordially, "I might mebbe tell a better one than that."

My Diary

I ALWAYS start my diary
On January one,
And enter there religiously
The things that I have done.
I note down all the money spent,
The balance in my cash,
And finish up the day content
I have done nothing rash.

The book of books is going strong
On January two,
The notes are only half as long
But still—that half will do.
On January three I find
The entry very poor,
And there is nothing underlined
On January four.

Bear with me but a little bit
And, though a trifle terse,
I'll try to cram the rest of it
Into a single verse.
On January five appears:
"An overdraft at bank,"
And so—at once dispel your fears—
The other days are blank!

Financial Method.

Speaking to The Examiner, Mr. Page expressed no doubt as to the financial success of a league team in Peterboro, inasmuch as the Que- bec-Ontario League operates on a different basis in regard to guar- antees to visiting clubs than any other professional organization. It is run on the principle that as the smaller towns are necessary to com- plete the circuit it is up to the larger ones to help in the financing, so that the arrangement is that the visiting club shall have the option of taking a daily guarantee of $125 or 40 per cent. of the home club's gen- eral admission receipts as it sees fit. In the case of games played in the Quebec end of the circuit, especially on Sundays, the 50 per cent. clause proves of great assistance to the teams of the smaller cities.

Salary Limit $3,000.

The Quebec-Ontario is a Class B league, with a salary limit of $3,000 a month and a playing schedule be- ginning May 15th and winding up shortly after Labor Day, giving the teams 126 games, 63 at home. Sun- day ball is played each week in Quebec, Montreal and Hull, where the Ottawa club plays its Sunday games.

$3,500 capital would be required to start the Peterboro Club on the way and Mr. Page is optimistic as to the outlook. From his experience as president of the league he is confi- dent that the proposition can be made a success in Peterboro, Belle- ville and Kingston, pointing out that the 50 per cent. guarantee feature and the advent of the motor car bringing fans from scores of out- side points has utterly changed the situation from the old Canadian League days.

A Story of Dan McCabe.

Mr. Page has been engaged in baseball for many years, and once upon a time was catcher for Dan McCabe, the local baseball veteran when the two were members of the Farnham, Que., Club.

Incidentally he tells the story of two wonderful catches made by the local player, who in those days was known to his team mates as "Peter- boro Dan." He had been pitching a close game for Farnham against Hull, after working in the box the afternoon before and finally about the sixth inning with the score 5 to 4 for Farnham, his arm went "dead." The Farnham team was shorthanded that day, and the only way to change pitchers was to put McCabe in the outfield and switch the team around. around.

Centre garden did not look a very suitable sport for a one-armed bare- handed player, but all was quiet until the ninth inning, when one of the Hull batters leaned on a fast one.

Dan Saved the Game.

"I can see that ball going yet," Page tells the story. "It shot out on a line between right and centre and it had 'home run' written all over it. I said to myself, 'The game's tie up,' but McCabe ran fully 75 feet to his left and away from the plate and made a back-handed, bare-handed catch that took the crowd's breath away. And right after that the next batter hit a ball a mile high to deep centre and Danny ran back and gathered that one in too."

Mr. Page left for Montreal last night, but will be back in the near future to go more fully into the proposition.

Nearly every Ottawa foray into Boston territory was met with bodily resistance dur- ing the first two periods, and while this took a bit of the zest out of the locals' play, it also affected the visi- tors', as the result that their re- serve strength was pretty well sapped when the big test came in the last frame.

Clint Smeaton, in the role of referee, had a great deal get by on the part of both teams, with the re- sult that what excitement was lack- ing in spectacular hockey, was made up in the various tilts that occurred throughout the contest. The deliberate rough work, however, was strenuous enough to mar the game.

The Huddersfield Twon-West Ham game belonged entirely to the Hammers, who had the Yorkshiremen pinned down in every department of the game. They were two up until the last minute of the game, when the Town managed in some way to shoot in a counter that divided their defeat in two.

Wanderers Win.

Ominous for those clubs who have ridden roughshod over all their rivals this season was the victory of Bolton Wanderers over Notts County, an orphan goal told the story of the game, but when all the factors that have contributed to Notts County's record are taken into consideration, the Wanderers' win is noteworthy. The game was on the County's ground, and the result served to knock them entirely out of the run- ning for the honors, which they have been seeking—and looking as likely to succeed—for several weeks. The County have now dropped from first place in the league, held just prior to the Christmas holidays, to tenth, and are nine points behind West Bromwich. Bolton Wanderers, on the other hand, have been slowly and laboriously climbing the ladder. Robber of a chance for the Cup by virtue of their trimming from Hud- dersfield Town in the first round. the Wanderers are endeavoring to console themselves with the league title, and they have installed them- selves in a position that brings the honor very near. They are second to the Bromwich and only a couple of points behind in the aggregate.

Newcastle owed their win at High- bury to the determination of their forwards, coupled with an assidious feeding on the part of the halves. They trounced Arsenal by a couple of goals and showed that their period of vaccilation and uncertainty is about over.

Five-Goal Margin.

Manchester City's five goals against Liverpool effectively settled any dispute as to which was the bet- ter team. Roberts secured four of the quintet. Incidentally they gave the city a total score of 55 for—the largest number of tallies in the league.

Cardiff City are now coming along much better than their early season form would indicate, and their one to nothing win over Birmingham was a praiseworthy effort.

FIRE.

Tremendous quantities of gasoline are being used. It will surprise many to learn that the oil industry is selling more fuel oils than gasoline.

Coal men need search no further for what has put such a big crimp in their sales. Oil is increasingly taking the place of coal. One reason for this is the instability of the coal industry, due to strife between miners and operators.

HOCKEY AND DANCE.

Tweed High School Won in Marmora by 1-0.

MARMORA, Jan. 19.—On Thurs- day evening a friendly game of hockey was played in Marmora be- tween Tweed High School and Mar- mora High School. The score was 1-0 in favor of Tweed. After the game all the home High School students entertained the Tweed boys at the Maloney and Forestell block. Lunch of pork and beans, coffee, bread and butter, and cake was served. After that dancing was the main thing on the programme. At twelve o'clock the boys had to leave to catch the midnight train at Bonar- law.

CONFIDENCE OF PETES FEATURE TO BELLEVILLE

Convinced Crowd They Are of "Dominion Championship Calibre."

PARKER STARRED

Exhibition Game May Help Quinte Team in Remaining Scheduled Games.

(From Belleville Intelligencer)

Belleville fans who witnessed the exhibition affair between Belleville Intermediates and Peterboro Sen- iors in the Arnott arena last night are ready to hand the palm to the visitors. Belleville lost by the score of 8 to 2 and helped boost the rec- ord of the Liftlock bunch for the season. They have not been de- feated this season and have nine wins hanging on their belts.

Peterboro has a team about as sweet as they make them. Although they were not forced to deliver everything they had last night, they had to travel fast enough to show their style and to convince the spec- tators that they are of Dominion championship calibre.

If you were to ask us, we'l say that one thing that is playing an important part in the record of the visiting senior crew is a fine spirit of confidence. And by that we don't mean cockiness.

Every regular and sub played a careful game. They handled all sit- uations without getting excited.

Dwyer, in goal gidded the Belle- ville men, whom he knows well. He lolled around the goal posts as if he were watching the game instead of playing in it. But it was to be noticed that when the intermediates became dangerous he was Johnny- on-the-spot.

The two goals that beat him dur- ing the evening were cleverly earn- ed by Belleville men. The first was a neat bit of play by Hagerman and Whalen, Stan flipping the rubber across to Whalen squarely in front of the Peterboro net. The second was the prettiest goal of the night, when Gil Goyer gave a mighty fine ehibition of stickhandling around the famous Peterboro defence and fool- ed Dwyer in masterly fashion.

Were Not Gifts.

Don't forget, however, that prac- tically all Peterboro's goals were not gifts. It had to be a hard and close shot to beat Nurse, who made many a clever save in the three periods.

The game was a splendid work out for Belleville. The entire crew took to the fast going and didn't leave all the combination to Peter- boro either. It was one of the nicest games of the season for the local crowd in point of passing, stickhandling and checking.

Most of the visitors packed wicked shots. They were bullet-like and dead on. Belleville lost several good chances by weak liwts and hurried in- accurate shooting.

Parker Twinkles.

Parker, the husky defence man for the visitors, stood out as the big cheese in last nights game. He scor- ed two of the eight goals and was always on top of the play. He has a sweeping style that proved effec- tive in circling Green and Finkle.

Peterboro kept their word in send- ing along their regular team, and these men were used extensively throughout, though they were sub- bed freely by Rose, Burgess, Foley and Halpin.

After securing a lead of three to one in the first spasm, the visitors took things easier. For a consider- able part of the second, they played a three man defense, which gave Belleville a chance to get in some real offensive work. It gave Dwyer some real practice, too, for Belle- ville was not slow in boring in and many times evaded the defence men.

The referee, Walter Jackson, a Peterboro man, was lax on offsides and let a couple dozen get by. But the fans didnt kick much and it gave them more fun for their money.

One noticeable feature of the Pete's play was their locking at the boards. Weir and Green, who us- ually have an easy time down the board route found it hard going last night. The visiting wing men made it hard to squeeze through and prov- ed experts in trapping the puck.

The game was something Belle- ville needed and may have a decided influence on the forthcoming games with Brockville and Kingston. On last night's going, they will certainly make it more interesting for the others in the Big Three group.

(Belleville Ontario).

Where does this Pete team get its strength? Perfect balance is the answer. Last year they had a fine Intermediate team and with the ad- dition of Bailey and McLeod, the present squad was complete. They seem to know where the other fellow is going to be all the time; they all skate about equal and have devised a system quite their own, which may not be orthodox but it gets goals and that's what counts in a hockey game. At all times are there three men on the defence with a quick passing two man combination in front. The third defence man is a sort of trailer to pick up loose pucks and when the play goes through and is foiled they all wheel and present a six man team for the opposition to overcome. That pro- bably is the reason why no team they have played this year has been able to score more goals against them than two.

Parker and McLeod make a bril- liant defence. Both are husky and strong and block with telling effect. They both use a long poke check that works havoc with incoming for- wards, but on Thursday night's ex- hibition their chief strength is on the attacking end with plenty of zip in their skating, they go fast and straight up the centre and it is hard to steer them into the corners. Their stick-handling may be said to be nearly perfect while each pack a very wicked shot and they are al- ways looking for the exposed part of the nets. On the line Collins, Ranger and Bailey form the attack- ing division and few have seen a nicer front line than that one. All have speed, can manipulate a stick, pack them in from any angle and they use their heads looking for every opening and once found they send home a thrusting attack that has a sting, also can they look after themselves and they revel in the going whether it be heavy or light.

Their combination was nearly a minus quantity Thursday night but what they did show was nearly per- fect and always resulted in getting a bang at the goalie. And wow! how they drive them home while they go popping in to take a peck at the rebound should the net minder be a little lax in clearing!

The subs were all used and Bur- gess and Rose especially who by the way are regulars, do not weaken the strength to the naked eye.

What of Belleville?

All this time what were the Red Shirts doing? Nurse played back to the form of the Kingston game and the eight that beat him were well earned. Finkle and Green carried the burden on the defence and were up to their form. Possibly on a couple of occasions they spread, but beautiful stick - handling by the opposition was possibly accountable for that. Both rushed tellingly and gave Dwyer some real ones to handle. The regular forward line gave their best and Daw Whalen gave Bailey an interesting go over on the left boards and honors there were even. The goal he got was a beauty and was accomplished by giving a pass to Hagerman and get- ting it back right at the goal mouth, completely fooling Dwyer. Every game sees an improvement in him and somebody in this local group is going to have a real night keeping him in tow. Weir and Ranger re- sumed where they left off last win- ter, and there was not much to choose. Ranger only could get one counter and he is the sharp shooter of the Pete brigade. Hagerman and Collins teamed up in centre and the northern boy had it on him in speed, both were kept off the score sheet.

ST. PATS LOST TO MONTREAL

Toronto Team Had Edge in Play, But Benedict Held Them Out.

WORK WAS WASTED

MONTREAL, Jan. 19. — "Dutch" Cain has qualified as the pinch hit- ter of the Montreal pro hockey team. With forty seconds to go in the game against the Toronto St. Pat- ricks here on Saturday night, and the score deadlocked at 1-1, Cain rushed from the defence, tricked his way to the St. Patrick outer guard, eluded big "Toots" Holway, and then coasted around Roach to whip in the goal which gave Montreal the vic- tory to to 1.

Twice this season Cain has come to the rescue of Cecil Hart's squad in the final period with the goal which brought the honors, and on both occasions he was unaided.

St. Patrick's were unfortunate to lose. The Irish had the edge of the play for the greater part of the game, but Benedict was the stumb- ling block in their hunt for goals.

In spite of their handicap the visi- tors showed fight. "Happy" Day was a marvel of speed and gave Punch Broadbent one of the busiest evenings the veteran has had in some time. Day was boring drives in on Benedict all night but he was directing the puck too frequently where Benedict was instead of at the opposite corner, with the result that he failed to count. McCaffrey worked better at centre than he has done previously on the wing. Babe Dye was indefatigable, but was close- ly marked. When Louis Berlinquette was skated out by the rugged star "Chuck" Dinsmore was sent in to alternate with Sammy Rothschild in holding him, Dinsmore made the best job of it. The scrappy little player was a pest to Dye, with his persis- tent back checking and he showed more confidence in attack than he has done heretofore.

WATER.

California engineers plan to divert part of the mighty Colorado river and make it flow westward to the Pacific. The water, needed in Los Angeles and along the way, will obey man's orders and travel across mountains and deserts. It is a great undertaking, and civiliza- tion is proud of its power to do it.

If Yuan, ancient Chinese emperor, could speak from the grave, he would say: "I did a greater job than that shortly after the Noah's Ark flood. I shifted the entire watershed of China, in some places as much as 600 miles."

Nurmi Strides 7 ft. 4¼ In. When Going at Top Speed

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—A point of interest for track fol- lowers was divulged at the Municipal Games, when Pete Hegelman, veteran trainer of athletes, announced that by ac- tual measurement the racing stride of Paavo Nurmi is 7 feet 4¼ inches in the extreme, about the average stride for distance runners, according to the veteran trainer. This is the length of the Finn's stride in his sprint... Nor- mally, Nurmi's stride measures 6 feet 7 inches, according to the measurements of Hegelman made during a training race of three miles in which the Finn's stride was carefully checked.

COUTOU CHASED BY TIGER FANS

Crowd Vaulted Boards When Canadien Player Clouted Langlois.

HIT RANDALL, TOO

HAMILTON, Ont., Jan. 19. — Hamilton strengthened their hold on first place in the national hockey league on Saturday night when they defeated Canadiens 4 to 2 in a game that for a time threatened to break up in a riot. Only prompt action on the part of the police and arena offi- cials prevented serious trouble, after Coutu had hit Langlois across the head with his stick, his second of- fense of a similar nature during the sixty minutes of play.

Coutu was the only member of the Canadian team who appeared to go into action with a chip on his should er. The other members of the squad had forgotten the gruelling handed out here two weeks ago, and paid strict attention to the puck. But not so with Coutu. He Started to "rough" it early in the opening ses- sion, and just after the second ses- sion started. He laid Ken Randall low with a clip over the left ear with his stick. For this he received a major penalty, and when he re- turned to the ice he received such a razzing from the fans that he forgot the puck entirely and went after the man. His next choice was Langlois, and as this happened in front of the penalty box, the fans sitting near there jumped to the ice and went after the Frenchman. Several police- men standing nearby also rushed on the ice and grabbed the trouble maker. For a time it looked as if he would spend the night in the cells, but he was allowed to go with a warning.

Won In The First Period.

The hockey dished up did not com- pare with that seen in other games on local ice, the game had its bright spots, but at times was also listless, especially in the final period when the Hamilton squad laid back to defend their goal lead. Hamilton played all their hockey in the open- ing session. Their three man rushes were pretty to watch and had the much touted Canadien defense all at sea. The Green brothers and Roach were in on Vezina repeatedly and be fore the rest period was reached they had scored four counters.

"Shorty" Green, fresh from a weeks rest at his home in Sudbury, opened the scoring on a long shot from outside the Canadien defense. The puck on its journey goalward struck Cleghorn and bounded into the net past Vezina, seven minutes later, Ken Randall waltzed right through Coutu and Cleghorn for goal number two. The third coun- ter was scored by Eddie Bouchard, after Mickely Roach had paved the way for the counter, Mickey made Coutu look funny by waltzing right around him and in on top of Vez- ina. His shot hit Vezina's pads but before the Chicoutimi icicle could clear, "Red" Green and Ken Randall accounted for Hamilton's fourth and last counter. The two experienced little trouble beating Cleghorn and Coutu, and Randall when in a scoring position, crossed Vezina up by pass- ing the puck across to Green and "Red" batted it into the open cor- ner of the net.

The Canadien team lacked the dash they have shown in other games on the Hamilton ice, during the first twenty minutes of play. Their snap- py combination play was conspicu- ous by its absence and for the most part of the period Forbes had noth- ing but long shots to handle. In the second session they returned to form and succeeded in scoring two coun- ters. Boucher got the first five min- utes after the period opened and Joliat got goal number two ten min- utes later when he evaded Spring and bore down on Forbes, giving the goalie no chance to save.

Green in form.

The play of "Mickey" Roach, Ken Randall and "Shorty" Green featur- ed the Hamilton attack. The form- er's exhibition of stick handling and checking was the best witnessed here this year and it was only wonder- ful work on the part of Vezina that held him scoreless. Roach went a- round the Canadien defense on sev- eral occasions but found Vezina his stumbling block. Green turned in one of his best performances. His one week of rest was conspicuous in his play. He checked well, paid strict- attention to the puck and for the first time this season went through a game without a penalty. Randall was good defensively and offensively. The clout he received across the head from Coutu was enough to make any man stop but after a short rest he came back on the ice and turned in a sterling performance until chased in the last five minutes of play for punching Coutu in the scramble near the penalty box.

OVERTIME WIN BY TWEED TEAM

Trounced Havelock by 3-1 in Trent Valley League Game.

WAS EXCITING

HAVELOCK, Jan. 17. —Have- lock journeyed to Tweed by special train on Friday evening to battle for points in the Trent Valley League, and were defeated by the score of 3 to 1. About a hundred fans accompanied them, so they had good support. It had been snow- ing all day and that made it bad for the game and it was still snow- ing when the teams took the ice. The game opened up fast, Havelock doing all the pressing, and after ten or fifteen minutes Doug. Brennan came away from his end of the ice and rushed through all the team and scored a goal that the Tweed goalie did not see. This ended the first period. The second period was just as fast as the first, but there was no score, although Havelock claimed the puck was driven into the net and rebounded. The goal umpire did not allow it, so they changed umpires, but there were no more exciting moments in the period.

The third period opened up with both teams out to score and after ten or fifteen minutes Tweed were awarded a goal from a long shot by B. Geraldi. Now both teams went for all that was left in them to se- cure the winning tally, but failed to do so, and at the end of time the score was 1-1, so it was decided to play an extra ten minutes, five each way. The first five was fast and furious but scoreless. Changing over, Tweed soon broke the tie by a long shot which again beat the Havelock goalie. This made things very lively and both teams were up and down the ice in great style. Then Tweed's right wing man got in another long shot which scored again, and with five seconds to go the game finished with Tweed win- ning a hard game by the score of 3-1.

This is Havelock's first defeat in Tweed in three years, so the Tweed players are to be congratulated on lowering the Havelock colors. Last season Havelock went through the League games without losing one and it was their second year of winning the cup, and if they can manage to win out this year it will remain in Havelock for the rest of its days.

F. Pollock, as Havelock's centre player, was a tower of strength. His back-checking and poke-checking were marvellous and at the finish of the game some one asked him how many miles he had skated in the hour and ten minutes.

PARKDALE HERE FRIDAY NIGHT

Petes Have Strenuous Week Ahead—Clash With Varsity Tomorrow in Toronto.

PADDLERS SECOND

The Peterboro Hockey Club Seniors have two very important battles this week and are looking forward to a tough argument in both fixtures.

Tomorrow night they tackle Uni- versity of Toronto at the Arena, and the Petes expect the Varsity squad in spite of the loss of several play- ers, to prove formidable opposition. The Collegians will battle until the final gong, but the local team in their seventh appearance of the season in Toronto hope to keep up their win- ning streak. Lou Marsh will referee the struggle.

On Friday night Parkdale, mad all over at the trimming they received last week, will be here to try to get revenge and Harry Watson and com- pany can be counted upon to give the Petes a real busy night. It should be the big fixture of the season as far as local games are concerned and the crowd promises to break all records.

Parkdale's win over Aura Lee on Saturday night puts the Paddlers in second place and sends the Marsden squad down to fourth. Varsity are in third place. The group standing.

TORONTO PRESS CALLS VARSITY TO STOP PETES

Peterboro's Final Engage- ment at Arena in First Round Tomorrow Night.

TEAM BALANCED

Toronto Star Says Forward Line Not Outbalanced by Defence.

(From Toronto Star Weekly)

Local fandom will have its last chance for at least a month to wit- ness the invincible Petes on Tuesday night when the unbeaten O.H.A. leaders tackle Varsity at the Mutual street ice palace.

Peterboro have already disposed of Aura Lee and Parkdale, and when they get through with the students will have completed their local sche- dule. They still have to meet the three Toronto teams in the Lift Lock City but Tuesday night's game will be their last local performance until they return in the group play- offwhich they are sure to do unless they meet with a severe attack of overconfidence.

Will Be Hard to Beat.

It is up to Varsity to maintain the amateur hockey reputation of the Queen City and after their triumph with a patched up team in Hamil- ton the students will be all pepped to give the Petes a merry old battle. Anyone who thought that the S.P.A. holders were but a flash in the pan were forced to revise their opinion after witnessing the blue shirts wal- lop Parkdale. With a team of play- ers who stand out both individually and in team play and with a couple of good subs who are just as good as the regulars the flying Petes have a sextet that could give any team in the country a battle.

Petes Good Forward Lines.

The Petes defense has come in for the most of the economiums but while they appear to be stronger than any other in their group they do not overshadow their own for- ward line Collins, the little centre man, looks to be about the best ama- teur player in that position seen here this season, while Bailey, the Toron- to product, has developed into a real star, with Ranger, Burgess and Rose able to take their share of the lime- light at any time.

Varsity's Unexpected Strength

The Rowinug Club game gave Conny Smythe a chance to see that he had more good material than he possibly imagined. Hugh Platon, Devins aind Richards got a chance to show their wares and came through with flying colors, while Mackenzie King went better than he has at any time this season and his unfortunate injury removes a real good little player.

In Sullivan, Porter and Taylor the students have a read good defence and with Hudson back on the for- ward line and playing at the top of his form the rejuvenated Queen's Park squad may give the leaders their first bump of the season.

Return Game With Parkdale

The Petes have a busy week with Parkdale as treir guests at home on Friday night. The Paddlers will be in fighting trim after last week's re- versal and with the necessity of turning in a win to keep up with the leaders should play their best game to date. The Peterboro rink is much smaller than the arena and local teams are under a big handicap, as usually before they get going they find themselves minus the puck.

A Singular Coincidence.

That good intermediate teams have little to fear from seniors is indicated by what Peterboro and Niagara Falls are doing in their re- spective groups, and would be a singular coincidence if last year's intermediate finalists were to be the finalists again, but in the higher series.

London Returns to Form.

The Falls appear quite capable of maintaining a killing pace at the top of their group, but they will step into a tough battle when they go into Preston on Friday night. Last year's runners-up have been playing at a great gait, and are again strong contenders to figure in the play-off. With Bellefeuille on the line-up Lon- don should be once more in the con- tention. All the teams in the Big Six are fairly evenly matched, and nothing is certain about the outcome of any of the games.

CHAINS.

It looks as if chain stores are destined to dominate the retail merchandising of all leading commodities, such as food, clothing, tobacco, candy, drugs, fuel, and so on.

The individual retailer each year finds it more difficult to survive the competition of big combines.

This is a definite evolutionary move- ment in our economics. The period of consolidations, which began about a quarter of a centruy ago in manufac- turing, is now expanding with a ven- geance. How long until the business system will be monopolized by two or three rival corporations—or by one alone?

BABEL.

A lot of money—30 million dollars. That will be the cost of the biggest building in the world—Chicago's forth- coming Temple of Agriculture. A skyscraper, of course, is chiefly a monument to high land values which force tenants up into the air.

The great Huxley, half a century ago, said of America: "I cannot say that I am in the slightest degree impressed by your bigness, or your material resources as such. Size is not gran- deur, and territory does not make a nation. The great issue about which hangs a true sublimity and the terror of overhanging fate is, What are you going to do with all these things?"

PETERBORO FANS IN SASKATCHEWAN PULL FOR PETES

From Peterboro fans living in Lang, Sask., The Examiner has received a copy of the Regina Leader containing a picture labelled "St. Mary's Junior O.H.A. Club," but really the Peterboro Seniors. The following letter accompanied the paper:

Lang, Sask., Jan. 15, 1925.
Peterboro Examiner, Peterboro, Ont.
Sporting Editor.

Dear Sir,—I am enclosing herewith the sport page of the Regina Leader of Jan. 14, 1925, and wish you to examine closely the picture thereon. Very good of the Leader to print the photo of the St. Mary's Junior O.H.A. Club, but some one went wrong as it happens to be the good Senior O.H.A. team from Peterboro. The names are all strange, but the faces are good to look at, as we have watched them perform in the old Brock Street Rink many a time. You may suit yourself about printing this, as it may give some of the fans a good hearty laugh.

Give our best wishes to the team for this season and many more to come. They are doing wonderful. May say we get The Examiner regular, and sure are watching the sport news for anything about the team. All we hope is, that they will keep up the good work and pull a championship into Peterboro this year. We should have had it last year.

Would appreciate it very much and also thank you if we could secure a real good photo of this year's team, the same as this one. Don't ask it for nothing, but am willing to pay for it.

With best regards to each member of the team, and especially Joe ("Pork") Dwyer. Sincerely yours,
Peterboro Hockey Fans and Old Boys, Lang, Sask.

BASKETBALL GAMES

Friday night the final schedule of the Girls' Basketball League were played at the Y.W.C.A. There was great excitement among the spectators and every player was keen to play her best for her team.

The first game was between the Y.W.C.A. and De Laval, and resulted in a score of 34 to 5 in favor of the "Y" team. The following girls formed the line-up:

Y.W.C.A.—G. Gimblett, D. Graham, M. Pulkinghorn, M. Turner, I. Chambers, V. Graham; N. Francis, sub.; P. Turner, sub.; H. Jackson.

De Laval—G. Kirn, B. Sloan, B. Conroy, H. Resko, M. Archambault, J. Mervin.

The second game between the Westclox and Otonabees was exciting right to the last minute. In the first half the Westclox scored 5 points and the Otonabees 8, but in the second half the Westclox made 2 baskets to the Otonabees' 1, leaving the final score 10 to 9 in favor of Otonabees.

Westclox.—M. Merrit, G. McIlwain, B. Scott, G. Northcott, J. McIlwain, A. Fitzgerald, B. Clare.

Otonabees.—M. Connors, R. Jay, A. Constable, G. Foster, V. Ferguson, V. Peryer, A. Evans.

The game between the Bell Telephone and the Normals was an easy one for the Normal team, the score being 30 to 2. The Telephone team area new team this year and last night were drawn against one of the strongest teams.

Telephone.—A. Elcombe, G. Chambers, B. Garside, M. Green, L. Hamilton, E. Worrell.

Normals.—E. Jones, N. Tett, S. Byers, O. McMullen, I. Nichols, B. Craigen.

The game scheduled between the Buffs and the Quakers was won by the Buffs by default.

Miss McIntosh and Mr. Scott were the referees.

The game Friday night brought the schedule to a close. General regret was expressed by the girls who have enjoyed the games very much. Several of the teams are arranging now to challenge other teams to friendly games for the rest of the season.

The final results of the season's games are:

	Lost	Won
Y.W.C.A.	0	7
Normals	1	6
De Laval	2	5
Buffs	3	4
Otonabees	5	2
Westclox	5	2
Quakers	6	1
Bell Telephone	6	1

This makes the "Y" team the winners of the Gordon cup and the Normal team the winners of the Harvey cup. These have both been strong teams and both have held cups in former years. The Y.W.C.A. team is being congratulated on not having lost a game this year and on being winners of the league the last two years.

The Otonabees and Westclox, and the Quakers and Bell Telephone teams are a tie and so games between these teams will be played off.

An executive meeting of the league was held and it was decided to choose an all-star team from the league with the intention of having the girls play several games with teams from other cities.

DEATH PENALTY BY LETHAL GAS, NEVADA METHOD

Legislature Will Not Act Despite Cry of "Barbarians" By Critics.

ONE EXECUTION

Chinese Tong Slayer Executed in Lethal Chamber Year Ago.

CARSON CITY, Nevada, Jan. 19.—Lethal gassing will remain the means of execution in Nevada.

That death by this method is the most humane inflicted to-day seems to be the contention of the majority of the Nevada State Senators and Assemblymen. Nevada, pioneer in an untried method of imposing the age-old penalty of a "tooth for a tooth," executed a Chinese tong slayer with the deadly hydrocyyanic acid gas in Februray last year.

Ever since other States have watched with interest to see if the law calling for death by gas would be repelled by the State Legislature.

John L. Peterson ,State Senator, said:

"Nevada, so far as I know, has no intention of striking out the law that made the world gasp last year. Although capital punishment in any form seems horrible, it is necessary and it is my opinion that the lethal-humaneness of the problem.

Will Stick To Gas.

Many other members of the Senate are of the same opinion. They denounce electrocution, hanging and shooting, and say that if any bill intended to repeal the lethal-gas law in introduced in the State Legislature they will fight it.

From the medical profession, which was represented by several physicians at the execution last year, only one dissenting voice was heard.

One doctor charged that Gee Jon, the convicted slayer, had died from "cold and exposure' and not from inhalation of the deadly fumes. This was later pointed out to be erroneous by Warden Denver S. Dickerson, who called attention to the three electric heaters in the death-cell and said that the temperature of the room was above 80 degrees Fahrenheit.

Nevada's lethal gas means of capital punishment had its birth when an Assemblyman from Elko County read a novel in which one of the characters committed suicide by the "almond scented gas route." The book described how painless the death was; and a bill to adopt this form of capital punishment, was immediately introduced in the Legislature and passed.

Used Hydrocyanogen.

No certain gas was decided upon, and no provisions for its administration were made. When Gee John, the tongman, was convicted of murder it was found that the execution had to be by gas.

Sanford Dinsmore, State Food and Drug Commissioner, was called into consultation, and hydrocyanogen, a gas derived from hydrocyanic acid, was decided upon. The acid had been in use for several years as a spray for fruit trees, and the gas had been used to rid granaries of vermin.

Preparations were started immediately on a death cell, the building chosen being a ramshackle affair in the prison yard. The interior was covered with plaster and the window edges sealed with paraffin.

Nevada then snuffed out Gee Jon's life amid the cries of "Barbarians!" from other States. The execution was such a success from the humane standpoint, according to medical authorities, that it seems the State will cling to the method and fight any attempt to repeal the law.

G. N. GORDON IS FIRM CHAMPION REAL OPTIMISM

Tells Favorable Condition of Canada to West York Convention.

EXPENDITURE CUT.

Canada Can Count on Business Going Steadily Forward.

MOUNT DENNIS, Jan. 19. — Uniting in one of the largest and most enthusiastic conventions ever held in the constituency, Liberals of West York on Saturday, gathered in the cafeteria of the Canadian Kodak plant here for the annual meeting of the West York Liberal Association since the riding's enlargement under the recent distribution bill. More than 300 men and women were present and they formed a crowd truly representative of the population of the constituency—a number of business and professional men, not a few farmers, but perhaps a majority of the ordinary wage-earners, with a fair percentage of the wives of all.

A Reorganization Meeting.

Since the meeting was of a reorganization character the afternoon session, which commenced shortly after three o'clock, was devoted mainly to the election of officers. This was followed in the evening by a banquet at which the programme of speakers included included Hon. Geo. N. Gordon, M.P., Peterboro, Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons; W. G. Raymond, M.P., for Brantford, and Charles Hanna, M.P., the recent victor in West Hastings. The crowd was generous with its applause to each of the speakers.

The main speech of the evening was made by Mr. Gordon, who dealt with the pessimistic statements concerning the country's condition which he said are at present emanating from the Conservative press. One of the most recent proofs of the better conditions which were now appearing throughout the country, he claimed, was the amount of new business shown in the statements for the past year, which the insurance companies had lately published. Another argument he used was the premium the Canadan dollar was now selling at in the New York market which he attributed in part to the inroads made on the national debt by the present government, and the upward movement of the trade balances. Bank deposits had swelled, too, he declared in the past year—an index of the improving financial condition of the working man.

Expenditure Reduced.

Since the advent of the Mackenzie King government, Mr. Gordon declared, national expenditures had dropped from $51 per capita in Mr. Meighen's time to $39 during 1923. Naturally this lowered taxation had left the consumer more money. He read from the statements of the Canadian National Railways, which showed a decrease in the deficits from $74,000,000 in 1920, to $52,000,000 in 1924, up to Oct. 1. Canada, he said, could now count upon business going steadily forward.

Mr. Gordon also devoted some time to a reiteration of Premier King's statement that the "wings of the Senate should be cut," which was met with a strong demonstration of approval by the audience.

"What we want," he declared, "is a representative body to govern Canada. If ever there was a time when it was expedient to curtail the powers of the Senate, that time is now, and I hope you will stand behind the men who want a representative body, in fact, to govern Canada."

ELECTIONS POSTPONED.

BILL BOARDS NO LONGER RIGHT USE PANEL NOW

Mrs. F. A. Hodgson Tells Rotarians About Poster Advertising.

PROTECT THE CLIENT.

National Association Lays Down a Code Covering Country.

The members of the Peterboro Rotary Club heard some very interesting information in regard to poster advertising at their weekly luncheon at the Empress today, when Mrs. F. A. Hodgson gave a splendid address on the subject, and Mrs. Hodgson's husband, the late F. A. Hodgson had held the classification of poster advertisers in the local Rotary club, and she has always taken a keen interest in the organization and assisted it in every way possible.

Mrs. Hodgson began her paper by showing the antiques of the poster form of advertising, showing that it had been carried on by the people of many lands many hundreds of years ago.

Discussing the modern development of the business, the speaker explained the code under which the Poster Advertising Association operated in the interest of national advertisers. Local advertisers also sharing in the benefit of the organization. She explained how the uniformity of panels and neat and artistic arrangement were insisted upon and pointed out how the interests of the advertiser were looked after in point of service. One interesting feature was Mrs. Hodgson's statement that a cigarette advertisement was never posted near a school, or a theatrical poster close to a church, while the Association refused to accept liquor or patent miedicine advertising.

Answering criticisms often heard in regard to poster advertising along highways or in residential district, Mrs. Hodgson argued that the panels were really not such an eyesore to the speeding motorist as is sometime suggested, while if they were used judiciously to mask vacant lots they were a service even in residential sections.

The poster advertiser had no quarrel with the newspaper. Each had its field of service, Mrs. Hodgson contended and there was the best of feeling. The newspaper told its story in words, the poster in colors, and between the two there was nothing in the advertising line that could not be put up.

Her address was a clear cut exposition of the development of poster advertising and of the manner in which the service has been improved in the interest of the advertiser. It contained much that was new to Rotarians, and Mrs. Hodgson was warmly thanked for her fine paper.

Inadvertantly the audience learned that it was no longer the thing to speak of billboards, but rather of panels.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

VIDOR'S NEW FILM WITHOUT A VILLAIN

"Wine of Youth" Presents Characters As They Really Are.

King Vidor selected a story without a villiain to film in "Wine of Youth," the Metro-Goldwyn pjicture now showing at the Capitol Theatre The story is adapted from Rachel Crothers' stage success, "Mary the Third."

The popularity of this type of story — in which there is no swaggering "heavy"—is one of the mad, Vidor blivs, and dclars biggest advancements the screen has made, Vidor believes, and déclares that character of the traditional villain, who pursued the girl from the opening title until he had been squelched by the hero just before the final clinch, was responsible for most of the artificialty and unreality of screen storeis.

Now a "Mental Heavy"

Villainy in the form of some one persons has been replaced by the "mental heavy," the director thinks.

"We don't meet, in real life, heavily moustached scoundrels who go about forging wills and attacking womn," he says. "Once in a while, perhaps, some of us do something like that ourselves, but we don't have special characters and costumes for the purpose. Therefore, we're all heroes and heroines, and villians and villainettes at the same time.

Make for Reality.

"When we reach a point where we can create characters of that type in pictures; showing their good points and their bad ones, their worthy actions and unworthy actions at the same time, the screen is making a big step for reality."

"Wine of Youth" tells the story of the romance in three generations of a family —grandma's in 1873, mother's in 1897, and daughter's in 1924. Eleanor Boardman appears as the young girl in each of the episodes, and this young "find" is said to have done her best work in the very trying triple role.

The cast also includes Ben Lyon, William Haines, Pauline Garon William Collier, Jr., Bobby Agnew, Creighton Hale, Eulalie Jensen, Johnnie Walker, Niles Welch, Gertrude Claire and others. Carey Wilson made the film adaptation.

AT THE REGENT.

"BABBITT" IS A STRONG PICTURE.

Willard Louis Heads Cast In Screen Version of Lewis Novel.

"Babbitt," the Warner Brothers picture which opened to-day at the Regent Theatre, proves to be a faithful mirror of Sinclair Lewis' towering novel.

The author himself chose this production company to picturize his book, offering it to them for less than the price made him by another firm, because Sinclair Lewis wanted his biting sarcasm of the average American business man to reach the mass of people without any sugary falsity.

The drab people in "Babbitt," as Mary Alden, who plays Mrs. Babbitt, put it, all have the souls of singing madrigals, until the inner life, suppressed, crushed, denied, screeches. The tragedy is a mental one, yet terribly intense in its simple background of dining-room, real estate office and Tanis' drawing-room. Many a battle scene has stirred you less.

Willard Louis, whose performance of the Prince of Wales in "Beau Brummel" is one of the sensational successes of the year, plays George F. Babbitt with the double psychology Sinclair Lewis gave him. You laugh at him, then a tear comes, for you say, "He's a fool, well, so am I. Here's to both of us!"

Dorothy Farnum has been equally as careful to bring over to the screen every nuance of the book.

Harry Beaumont, the director, too, can face Sinclair Lewis and the big public that already loves the book, unafraid. He has violated nothing. One commonplace scene after another is given with its subtle undercurrent of impending tragedy.

Are the "movies" really advancing to genuine interpretative art away from distortion and destruction of the great classics?

Well, "Babbit" as it reveals itself in production, is at any rate.

"TIGER THOMPSON STRIKES NEW NOTE

Harry Carey Gives Lifelike Characterization in Latest Feature.

HUMAN SIDE IS ALSO THERE.

There Are Thrills Aplenty, But Reality Is Not Sacrificed.

Speaking of motion pictures, exactly what is a "Western"?

"Just a picture with a lot of cowboys running around on horses and bandits and shooting?" No, Sir!

When Hunt Stromberg signed Harry Carey to a long-term contract to star in a series of "Westerns," he decided that he was going to prove to theatregoers in general just how false their general conception of this type of entertainment was.

He discovered that usually in such pictures the "human note" had been lacking, that the love interest was frequently sadly neglected, and that all semblance of reality was often sacrificed for the sake of a thrill. And he set about to remedy these faults.

He knew that Harry Carey was one of the most human actors on the screen. He knew that it was possible, by careful search, to secure Western stories with just as much drama, romance and life as any society drama or costume spectacle. And he also knew that there is a wholesome, rugged appeal about the great open spaces that, properly presented, provides stimultaing entertainment for the jaded picture fan.

His first two Harry Carey features, "The Night Hawk" and "The Lightning Rider" proved that his contentions were correct. But it is in "Tiger Thompson," his new feature, which comes to the Royal Theatre to-day for an engagement of three days, that his ideals have been realized.

"Tiger Thompson" is a life tale of the real west. Its people are real people and act as real people would act. There is a tender romance, and in the development of that romance there are numerous logical thrills. The plot is tense because the drama is sincere. There is action every minute. And, above all, there is the lovable, human cowboy Galahad characterization of Harry Carey, who has you laughing and sympathizing with him one moment and cheering him on to success the next.

"Breezy" Reeves Eason, who directed "Tiger Thompson," has directed many of Carey's best pictures and knows the real West like a book. Markuerite Clayton, Jack Richardson and John W. Dillion in the supporting cast are not only capable players, but also interpreters of genuine people.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Grand Hotel,
Peterboro', January 16, 1925.

Editor, The Examiner,

Dear Sir: In Wednesday night's Examiner I noticed an editorial re the failure of Ald. Stocker to get a chairmanship. Let me say, Mr. Editor, no one knows the reason why better than The Examiner.

In the first place the people of this city do not elect an alderman to run around persistently poking his nose into other people's business, but they elect him to look honestly into the city's affairs and not to be a fault finder of those who do their duty. We all know Mr. Stocker's faults too well, and I disagree entirely with you when you say he serves the city faithfully and well. Evidently he boasts of attending 83 meetings out of a possible total of 90 of the council. A purse-proud Englishman should have done better than that. For my part any of the meetings would be far better without him as also other meetings would. For instance, he styled himself a gentleman of leisure. Let him remain as such as none of the various committees can afford to have a rich idler and time waster sit in the chair of a chairman wasting the time of alderman, who do not belong to the idle and gossiping rich.

The treatment accorded Mr. Stocker will point out to him that it is high time to strictly mind the business he was elected for and not go round as he does from person to person, "they tell me this; did you hear so and so?" quite so much. There are lots of good, upright, honest, would-be-aldermen ready to fill Alderman Stocker's place should he not like the treatment you complain of. It would have been much better had the aldermen last year called Alderman Stocker's bluff and let him resign and Jimmy Gates take his place. But why grumble at this year's council who know the qualifications of Alderman Stocker? They evidently think he is too small and narrow-minded to be a chairman. His views have no doubt been narrowed down according to his late bill sticking profession to the small space taken up by the paste between the bill and the board.

Yours truly,
STANLEY BANKS.

APPEAL ARGUMENT.

W. N. Tilley Replies to Appeal Against Jarvis Sentence.

Toronto, January 19. — W. N. Tilley, K.C., Crown counsel, replied this morning to the argument of I. F. Helmuth in his appeal against the sentence and fine imposed on Aemilius Jarvis, who with Peter Smith, the former Provincial Treasurer, was found guilty of conspiracy to defraud the province. The province is also appealing on behalf of Peter Smith, who declined to take any part in the action.

Mr. Tilley submitted that the trial judge, Chief Justice R. M. Meredith, had imposed a fine af $600,000 on Jarvis, and that it was not jointly imposed on him and Peter Smith.

"The Chief Justice intended that Jarvis should pay that fine," declared Tilley. He added that if the fine were reduced the jail sentences should be increased. At this point discussion arose as to where the fine would go if paid, to the province or the municipality?

Mr. Tilley said he was convinced it would go to the province, but the judges expressed the view that this was a matter which did not concern the court. Mr. Tilley argued that the $600,000 was really imposed on each, according to the wording of the sentence, but that later the Chief Justice had indicated that there was but one fine of $600,000 to be paid The argument will be continued this afternoon.

ONLY ONE CHURCH IN TWENTY 'ANTI'

Hundreds of Churches Enter Union Without Voting—Figures Tell.

The latest official summary shows that that to date the "Anti-Unionists" have secured less than one church for every twenty congregations in the Presbyterian Church in Canada, in those provinces where voting is now going on. The great significance of this is seen when it is remembered that churches do not have to vote on the question and that all congregations which do not vote enter automatically into the United Church. Hundreds of churches are taking this course without any discussions to mar their peace and harmony. They are able to do this because, owing to their strong union sentiment, the "Antis" have been unable to stir up agitation within their bounds.

The following official figures show the real situation:

	Total No. cong'tions	No. of cong. voted out.
Nova Scotia	362	16
Prince Edward Is.	76	4
Quebec	207	13
Ontario	1,275	128
Saskatchewan	881	10
Alberta	575	7
British Columbia	389	3
Total	3,765	181

The above figures show that so far the "Antis" have secured in:
Nova Scotia, less than one in 22.
P. E. Island only one in 19.
Quebec, about one in 16.
Ontario, about one in 10.
Saskatchewan, only one in 88.
Alberta, only one in 82.
British Columbia one in 129.
Manitoba and New Brunswick are not included in these figures as they cannot vote until after June 10th. Both these provinces are pronouncedly Unionist.

MONTREAL, Jan. 19.—The more optimistic reports from Europe regarding the settlement of war claim and the inter-allied debt questions have proven to be bullish arguments for the purchase of French internal securities.
Sterling has been making new highs during the past few weeks and many believe it will not be long before the franc shows a similar improvement. The Franc, as a matter of fact, usually moves in sympathy with sterling and investors seem to be of the opinion that this is the opportune time to buy French Government Bonds hold them for an early rise.
From an investment standpoint, these bonds offer most attractive interest yields. French Government 6's, for instance, at their present price, yield approximately 7¼%.

COMMENT ON PROGRESS CHURCH UNION

adian Press)—In the course of a vigorous editorial, "The Presbyterian Church in Canada makes the following comment on the progress of the voting in certain sections of Canada.

"We believe that the greatest loss in this campaign which has resulted in the defection of so many congregations which have been misled into revolt against the regularly constituted courts of their church will in the end, we are persuaded be the greatest losers by the divisive course which they have chosen and the schism they are causing in the body of Christ. Our sympathy goes out to many sincere men and women in these congregations who have been deceived by a propaganda of misrepresentation and perversion of facts unparallelled in the history of ecclesiastical controversy. Those are the people who are being most cruelly wronged and who will suffer most by being shut out of their rightful inheritance.

"It may not be the worst thing that could befall the slackers who remain when these withdraw to be compelled to take up the burdens it has to be borne by others and put their hands a little more deeply into their pockets in testimony of the sincerety of their professed zeal for the good of the church. Whatever tends to stimulate christian activity and self sacrifice cannot be altogether an evil."

"It may be that one of the greatest gains to the United church of Canada will come through the very upheaval which so many deprecate men have been profoundly stirred by the Church Union controversy which has extended over years.

"The rocks may break the waves, but the tide comes in." Thus runs a brief message flashed to-day to Church Union headquarters in Toronto by Rev. Dr. John Pringle, of Yukon fame, and now of Sydney, N.S.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR.
There are no doubt many leaders and followers in the different religious organizations, who are moving on in the same old rut, and very few halting to see if their faith can be substantiated by the authority of the Scriptures. The great majority apparently are pressing on seemingly as unconcerned as though they had in reality critically examined the tenets of their faith, and found them to be in harmony with the plain statements of Holy Writ. The patrons of the sociables, banquets, bazaars, concerts, lectures, musical festivals, theatrical performances, etc. (that are gotten up by those organizations), seem to be of the same mind to a great extent. When Jesus comes to reign here on this earth, He doubtless will destroy all that obstructs the knowledge of the truth and break up the fabric of false theology and superstition; and put out of existence any orthodox teaching that is contrary to the Scriptures and His Own blessed glorious will.—M. DARING ROBBERY.

Thieves Take $2,200 and Escape Without Single Trace.

NAPANEE Ont., Jan. 19—(Canadian Press).—The most daring robbery that has occurred in Napanee in many years was perpetrated between Saturday night and this morning, when the grocery store of H. N. Chase was entered and $2,200 in cash taken from the safe. There is absolutely no trace of the culprits. The safe was not damaged and the presumption is that the thieves knew the combination of the safe. Mr. Chase drew the money from the bank on Saturday intending to go out of town this morning to complete a business deal.

"Let Justice Be Done" In Spite of 700 Princes Is Demand of Newspaper

LONDON, Jan. 19 — (Canadian Press).—"Let justice be done even though all the 700 native princes of India resent it," said The Daily Herald today, demanding prosecution of the Maharajah of Indore for the murder of Abdul Baula, Bombay merchant, and the attempted kidnapping of Mumtaz Beguf, a beautiful Nautch girl.

Expressing the hope that the law will respect no persons, The Herald said:

"Following so closely upon the "Mr. A." case, in which the heir to a native state of India proud, not merely a debauchee but a dolt, the recent murder in Bombay shows up the system supported by Great Britain in India in a very unpleasant light."

Richard Marshall Dead.

Was to Have Addressed a Meeting Here Last Week.

Citizens of Peterboro who had the opportunity last year of meeting Mr. Richard Marshall, who was here on two occasions during the summer, first as judge of the annual lawn and gorden competition, then as judge of the flower show, will regret to learn of his death.

Mr. Marshall was to speak to the annual meeting of the Peterboro Horticultural Society on Friday last, but was prevented by a sudden attack of illness, which later resulted in pneumonia and his death, from attending.

He was a man of about seventy-five years of age, and had never been ill in his life. He will be remembered as a kindly and interesting old gentleman, whose life was spent in taking care of the flowers he loved so well. For some years past, he had been superintendent of Queen's Park, Toronto, and arrangements were recently made for his superannuation at an early date. He was responsible for the creation of a new type of pink geranium which he used extensively in his borders at the Park. Before coming to Canada, he was gardener for many years on the estate of the Earl of Carlisle, in Yorkshire, his native county.

On the occasion of his visit to Peterboro as judge of the Flower Show, the late Mr. Marshall offered a silver medal for competition at the next annual event.

Fear United States Has Been Badly Fooled

WASHINTON, Jan. 19 (Canadian Press).—Controversy over the agreement reached in Paris between the allied finance ministers and the question whether Ambassador Kellogg and Col. Logan, United States representatives, permitted the United States to become "entangled" in European affairs, became more acute today. Irreconciables in the Senate say the United States was practically bound by the agreement to bolster up the payment of German reparations.

"It is clear that if the Senate should pass on the agreement, it will not be sanctioned, except with reservations. The opponents of the League of Nations in both Senate and the House insist that the United States has been utterly outmanoeuvred by the European diplomats.

LOYALTY TO GERMAN REPUBLIC AVOWED BY CHANCELLOR LUTHER Inaugural Address to Reichstag Conciliatory to Democrat and Socialist Groups.

DESIRE PEACE

Foreign and Domestic Policy of New Government Outlined—No Tax Release.

BERLIN, Jan. 20.—Unequivocal recognition of the Republican constitution of Weimar as legal and as the basis on which his cabinet was founded and reiteration of Germanys intention loyally to fulfil the provisions of the London agreement were the outstanding declarations of Chancellor Hans Luther's inaugural statement to the Reichstag last evening.

The new chancellor announced that any attempt to alter the Republican constitution by force or other illegal weapons would be sternly resisted and dealt with as high treason. Germanys adoption of the Dawes reparations plan and all it implies, the chancellor believed, also entitled Germany to expect a reciprocal measure of loyalty on the part of the other contracting parties to the pact of London.

Referring to the administration of the Dawes plan through Seymour Parker Gilbert, Jr., Dr. Luther informed the Reichstag that the agent general's organization was functioning smoothly and receiving the complete co-operation of German official quarters.

Liberal Gesture.

Both with reference to its position on foreign issues and internal policies, the new cabinet's programme as revealed by Dr. Luther's statement is viewed in the various political camps as an effort to reconcile the acute partisan differences growing out of the recent crisis.

The chancellor found the Reichstag deputies with the exception of the Communists, well behaved auditors, the Nationalists especially expressing approval of the government's stand on Cologne.

The scope of the domestic reforms forecast is also calculated to disarm opposition by the Socialists, particularly since the cabinet's first official action concerned the establishment of an eight-hour day for steel workers and other industries where men are employed under conditions inimical to health.

Tribute to Marx.

The Reichstag was crowded when Dr. Luther introduced his new cabinet. In the course of his statement the chancellor paid tribute to the Marx government, which he said, led the German people along the path towards recovery. It would be the task of the new government to follow this path.

With reference to German's foreign policy, the chancellor declared that his government would strive for a real and permanent peace among all nations. Its policy would be based on the main points, on the London agreement and the laws enforced by reason of this agreement would be loyally carried out.

Dr. Luther reiterated the demand thata the documents bearing on the alleged failures of Germany in the matter of disarmament should be furnished, so as to enable the government to reply.

Respecting Germany's position toward the league of nations, this, he pointed out, had been made clear in the late government's memorandum to the council of the league, and he declared he would continue the previous government's efforts to relieve Germany from the unjustifiable reproach contained in the Versailles Treaty regarding war guilt.

Increase Exports.

Germany's exports, he continued, must be increased in order to improve her buying capacity in the world market. He mentioned the commercial negotiations in progress, saying that he would oppose all measures restricting German commercial freedom and wolud seek solutions giving Germany equal rights with other nations.

Dr. Luther then dealt with internal affairs, such as unemployment, the housing problem and re-valuation. On the last-mentioned point, he explained that bills would shortly be submitted which would take into account the justifiable wishes of those who had suffered through depreciation of the currency. He also foreshadowed simplification of the present taxation system, promising that the government would continue to abolish superfluous taxation. Nevertheless, the tax burden of the German people must remain extraordinarily high.

The chancellor made an appeal for unity as the only means for Germany to recover and to assure a peaceful future.

LONE TRAPPER FOUND FROZEN

Believed to Fallen Ill in Shack and Died in His Helplessness.

FAREWELL NOTE

WINNIPEG, Man., Jan. 20.—Frozen solidly to the dirt floor of a tiny log cabin, more than 200 miles north of Winnipeg, the body of Ernest A. Nelson, 53, was found on Saturday by Provincial Police according to word reaching here yesterday.

In the trapper's hand was found a farewell note to his wife, who resides in Brandon, which had been scribbled on Christmas Day. He was fully clothed, and in one corner of the cabin were the remains of a burned-out camp fire. The body was shrouded with a fine mantle of snow, which had drifted through holes in the cabin roof.

A week's supply of food was found in the shack in addition to a number of skins, which indicated they had been captured a short time before his death.

Nelson had been trapping in the north country for many years, and the theory advanced is that he was taken suddenly ill and was in helpless condition and perished from the extreme cold.

IRISH BANK ROBBED.

Three Masked Youths Rode Away With Thousands of Pounds.

BELFAST, Jan. 20. — (Canadian Press). — Three young men on bicycles rode into the market town of Fethard, County Tipperary, Monday. Donning masks, they entered the Provincial Bank, held up the staff of employees and took all the money they could lay hands on, amounting to many thousands of pounds. Then they calmly rode out of the town.

The mails in the Fethard district also were raided yesterday.

SCIENTIST IS MISSING; POLICE SEARCH FAILS

F. W. Waugh of Ottawa Department Last Seen Four Months Ago.

OTTAWA, Jan. 20 — F. W. Waugh, enthnologist of the Department of Mines, and prominent Canadian scientist, who has not been seen since he saw his son off to Ottawa on the train, saying that he would go to the Caughnawaga Indian Reserve, opposite Lachine, Que., to pursue some investigations, is now missing four and a half months and not a trace of him has been found. Royal Canadian Mounted Police have searched the entire vicinity of the Caughnawaga Reserve and pushed enquiries all the way down the St. Lawrence River in the hope of finding him, but all to no result.

Colonel Cortlandt Starnes, Commissioner of the R.C.M.P., states that after investigation by his men, they have been forced to the conclusion that Mr Waugh must have attempted to walk over the C.P.R. cantilever bridge from Montreal Island to Caughnawaga and had fallen off. In that case he would have been precipitated into the swirling waters of the upper Lachine rapids with no possible chance of ever coming out alive.

TELLER SPIED BOGUS CHEQUE

H. J. Brady Arrested in Cobourg After Being Run Down by Bank Clerks.

WAS IN PETERBORO

LINDSAY, Jan. 20.—H. J. Brady alias L. M. Stanley, of Chatham, who was arrested a few days ago in Cobourg for forgery, and who is said to have issued a "rubber cheque" in Peterboro, also paid Lindsay a visit, but left town rather hurriedly. He called on a newspaper man as well as a member of the legal fraternity whom he had met a couple of years ago, and told a rather smooth story of his activities. He informed the newspaper man he was engaged in the cattle business in the West and had come east on an important business mission. To the lawyer he stated that he had been doing business with a citizen of Omemee, but when asked to describe the Omemeeite, he fell down badly. He registered at the Elsmure while in town, and, it is understood, hesitated about paying his bill.

While in Cobourg Brady is said to have passed two forged cheques on banks and had issued the third one at another bank where he was exposed. He made an attempt to get away, and gave a couple of bank clerks a merry chase before he was captured.

Brady's home is in Chatham, although he declared he was from Simcoe, Ont. According to reports from Western Ontario, it appears that his record of late has not been of the best.

While in Lindsay he stated that he had received some bad beer at Peterboro, and was very anxious to secure a script in order to counteract the bad effects of the Peterboro beverage.

CONTROL ELEVATORS.

Saskatchewan Wheat Pool to Acquire County Depots.

REGINA, Man., Jan. 20.—(Canadian Press).—In a statement given to the head office of the wheat pool organization, it was declared the pool would attempt to acquire elevators at country points.

The statement follows:

"At a meeting of the board of directors of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool, held on Saturday, Jan. 17, the foundation of a policy for acquiring country elevator facilities was laid. It was decided that as a beginning and pending negotiations which will probably be entered into with the Farmers' Elevator Companies operating in Saskatchewan, the policy of the pool will be to acquire control of elevators at points which are not at present served by farmer "owned elevators."

SUPPORT UNION IN KNOX CHURCH BY TWO TO ONE

First Peterboro Congregation Reporting on Union Enters New Church.

SMALL CROWD OUT

Poll Announced by E. Benson Shows 293 in Favor —131 Opposed.

Knox, the first of the three Presbyterian Churches in Peterborough to conclude its vote on the Church Union question, last night announced its entry into the United Church by a majority of 162. Of 524 members on the Church roll, 424 voted, the count being 293 in favor of Union and 131 against. The announcement was made by the returning officer, E. Benson, after Rev. M. C. Mackinnon, pastor of the Church, had read the seventeenth chapter of St. John's Gospel from which the motto of the United Church is taken, "That they all may be one."

Not much interest was manifested in the outcome, only some eighty people being in the Church for the announcement. Voting opened two weeks ago with 213 ballots cast on the first night, and has continued at regular periods since. The officials were: Returning Officer, E. Benson Deputy Returning Officer, R. Mulligan Scrutineers, Mesdames Martin and Pollock, Messrs. Yale, Gillies, A. McLeish, Jr., and J. Anderson; Doorkeepers, Messrs. Clark and Buyers.

No Disturbance.

Appearing at half past nine, after the close of the ballotting at half past eight, Rev. M. C. Mackinnon asked the audience not to applaud or do anything of an unseemly character. "It would be out of place and illegal to disturb a meeting of this kind," he said, "and would not be in keeping with reverence and respect for the Church."

While the majority of the members present had laughed and talked during the period of waiting, a few were quiet and evidently touched by the import of the moment. The vote showed a step in establishing a great United Protestan Church, but at the same time it signalled the cutting off of a minority that chooses not to enter that Church. It meant a severing of their relations with Knox for the earnest adherents of the auld Kirk with its traditions of suffering for its doctrines and its splendid history. Not that the United Church is thrusting these minorities out. It desires that they remain. But they on their part refuse steadfastly to be drawn into the "entanglements" of Union with other Churches, and indications were last night that many will go out immediately or on June 10 to join the ranks of the "Continuing Presbyterian Church".

Church History.

The corner stone for Knox Church, originally a mission under the guidance and financing of St. Pauls' was laid on April 16, 1910, by Lieut. Gov. Colonel Gibson of Ontario. Rev. H. J. Keith was the first pastor of the Church, and remained until 1914, when he accepted a call to Edmonton. Mr. Keith is now in Winnipeg. In January, 1915, Rev. James A. McKenzie was inducted and remained until April 1923 when he accepted a call to Guelph. Rev. M. C. Mackinnon was inducted in September 1923.

All of the ministers of Knox Church have been and are strongly Unionist, and Rev. Mr. McKenzie has announced his intention to resign from his present charge should the congregation vote against the United Church.

SLANDER SUIT FAILS.

Postal Clerk's Action Dismissed by Judge—No Malice Shown.

OTTAWA, Jan. 20. — (Canadian Press).—After taking the case out of the hands of the jury to decide a question of fact as to what constituted malice, Mr. Justice Logie dismissed the $20,000 slander action brought by J. H. Preston, postal clerk against his chiefs, J. F. Gaboury, deputy postmaster-general, and W. J. Glover, financial secretary. His Lordship maintained that in a letter, written by the defendants to the plaintiff complaining about his personal financial affairs, no malice had been shown.

DRIVER LIABLE FOR INJURY TO PERSON IN CAR

Lindsay Woman Awarded $500 and Costs Against Negligent Motorist.

HIS CAR SKIDDED

Woman on Rear Seat Suffered Broken Arm and Nervous Shock.

LINDSAY, Jan. 20.—An interesting judgment in an action for damages in which Lindsay people were involved, has been handed out in the local court by His Honor Judge McGillivray, of Whitby. The claim was for $500 damages sustained by Mrs. Bryan, of Lindsay, while driving in the motor car of the defendant, Arthur Munt, also of this town, on July 26th last. Munt was returning from Toronto with his wife, Mrs. Bryan, her daughter, son-in-law and three children. The defendant came out Queen street from the city and when about a mile from the Woodbine, the car skidded and ran into the curb with such force as to break the right rear wheel. The car swerved and came in contact with a cement Hydro pole along the right of way.

Mrs. Bryan, who was sitting on the right hand side had her arm broken above the wrist and also suffered severe shock. The defendant alleged that Mrs. Bryan had put out her hand and was thus liable for whatever injury she received. His Honor held that Mrs. Bryan had acted in a reasonable way and had done what any other ordinary person would do under similar circumstances. He found that the defendant was negligent in allowing his car to hit the curb and as this was the cause of the injury to Mrs. Bryan, she was entitled to damages for the whole amount claimed together with costs of the action.

The Toronto doctor who attended the plaintiff as well as the police officers who made the investigation, gave evidence for the defence. The officers said they found no reason for laying a complaint against the defendant, but simply took his name, the address of the occupants of the car and reported the accident to police headquarters.

ALBERTA FARMERS REPORT SURPLUS

Total Revenue of Provincial Organization $38,944.12 —Meet To-day.

CALGARY, Alta., aJn. 20.—(Canadian Press).—A total revenue of $38,944.12, with a surplus at the end of last year of $640.52 will be shown in the financial report to be presented today to the United Farmers of Alberta at their annual convention. Dues paid from all branches amounted to $25,968 and $6,319 was received in arrears of dues. There was a grant from the United Grain Growers, Ltd., of $4,772, and sundry receipts from other sources. A total of $11263 was paid out of membership dues towards the maintenance of "The U.F.A." official organ of the Association. Other items of expense included $4,195 for meetings and expenses, $2,595 for organization, $1,073 for committees, $3,676 for central office expense, $4013 for salaries. There is no item for salary for H. M. Wood president, who is also head of the Alberta wheat pool.

The revenue statement of the "U.F.A." paper shows a surplus of $803 after setting aside reserve, of the 24 regular issues. Five special weekly numbers reporting the last session of the Alberta Legislature were published on instructions of the convention at a total cost of $2,280. The paper had total receipts of $44,585, which included $31,051 for subscriptions and $11,867 for advertising.

Many delegates predict that H. W. Wood will be re-elected president, probably by acclamation. George H. Bevington, who opposed him unsuccessfully last year, has announced he will not be a candidate for the president this year, and no other opponent has been publicly suggested.

THE WEATHER

More moderate cond. ons prevailed last night, and the temperature only went down to 3 degrees below zero. This morning it had risen to two above zero, with the prospect of a good fall of snow.—W.P.

COURT HOLDS DIRECTORS RESPONSIBLE FOR THE CONDITION OF THE DEFUNCT HOME BANK

Bail in Case of R. P. Gough Was Renewed Until January 27th—Judge Declared Statements Were False.

TORONTO, Jan. 20.—In court to-day R. P. Gough's bail was renewed until January 27th. As in previous judgment, His Honor found that the statements were false and did not set forth a clear and full statement of affairs of the bank as required by the Act. He pointed out that the defence was that Gough was not responsible for the monthly statement which was prepared by the officials of the bank, and that he was absent from Ontario when the annual report was distributed to the shareholders in June, 1923.

Judgment continued:

"If the directors now say they were depending upon the general manager then why the necessity of the board at all? They were not entitled to delegate their duties to others.

"It is difficult to comprehend why, with so many and repeated warnings before his eyes and ringing in his ears, accused did not glance through the financial statement book or at least demand particulars of large items such as bad debts, profits, reserves, etc., and also have had securities in the Toronto office inspected. Had he done this he would have brought on the crisis years ago. Any ordinarily prudent and judicious business man would have done so and the vice-president and director is one from whom a great deal more might fairly have been expected. Real offence was in causing such a statement to be prepared and given out as clear and full account of the business of the bank."

ANOTHER ELECTION AND LIBEL ACTION STIRS TWEED AFFAIRS

New Slate of Candidates Nominated for 1925 Council at Late Meeting.

THREE RESIGNED

Councillors-Elect Charged by S. G. Way With Having Taxes in Arrears.

TWEED, Jan. 20.—Three candidates for the reeveship and eight for council were nominated last night at one of the largest and most exciting municipal meetings in the history of the village. This belated and special assembly of the ratepayers was occasioned by the resignation of the 1925 Council which was elected by acclamation at the statutory nominations. Charges by S. G. Way that three members of the Council were in arrear of taxes, and his threat of legal action if these members took their seats were promptly followed by the resignation of Councillors J. F. Houston, C. F. Fawcett and W. E. Tremmon. They adopted that course rather than put the village to the expense of a law suit.

With their resignations the new Council was retired, and the clerk advertised for another election.

Those nominated last night were: For Reeve, S. B. Rollins, S. G. Way and Fred B. Foster; for Council, M. McAvoy, D. H. Morrison, E. R. Huycke, S. G. Way, W. E. Trimmon, J. F. Houston, C. F. Fawcett and Robert S. Patterson.

The crowd overflowed the hall which had advertised for the proceedings, and the meeting was transferred to a larger auditorium where the addresses were drawn out until one o'clock this morning. The electors were not disappointed in their expectations of a platform fight, for the issue of the election and its personal phases were warmly discussed.

Mr. Houston declared that the allegations of Mr. Way did not attach to him, that if there were any tax arrears they were not overdue until January 5. Mr. Houston was given a friendly reception by the audience. He has launched a libel action against Mr. Way, and asserts that he will carry it into court.

Four of the eight candidates for Council are to be elected.

Bobcaygeon Stock Farmer's Herd Unexpectedly Increased.

LINDSAY, Jan. 20.—Mr. Garfield Kennedy, of Bobcaygeon, a well-known stock farmer, had his stock increased a few days ago when a Hereford cow gave birth to triplet hiefer calves. The story goes that when Kennedy went to feed his stock one morning there were two calves frisking around. He returned to the house, got a warm drink for the mother cow, and on returning to the stable, was surprised to find the third calf. They are three as prettily and even-marked heifer calves as could be imagined. They are marked alike and even in size. Mr. Kennedy intends exhibiting them at the Royal Fair this fall, and already has been besieged by people who are anxious to see the triplets.

HUGE DEPOSITS WITH BANK FOR DAY, IN REPORT

City of Toronto Account in Home Bank Heavily Increased Only for Day.

WITHDRAWN AGAIN

Extra Deposit Shown in Bank's Statement to the Government.

TORONTO, January 20. — New and detailed evidence concerning the city of Toronto and Provincial deposits in the Home Bank in the years 1922 and 1923, was given on Monday afternoon at the trial of S. Casey Wood, Home Bank director. From the books of the Toronto branch it was shown that the treasury of the province withdrew $150,000 from the Home Bank Toronto branch on August 16, 1923, the day before the bank closed its doors. It was also shown that in 1922 and 1923, the city of Toronto made huge deposits in the bank on May 31st of each year and withdrew on the following day. The fiscal year of the bank ended on May 31st and the extra deposit was shown in the return to the government.

Gordon L. Chapman, who was the assistant manager of the Toronto branch, gave the evidence concerning the deposits. From the books he showed that on May 30, 1922, the city had $28,734 in the Home Bank. On May 31, the deposit amounted to $528,734, and June 1 it was back again to $28,734. On May 30, 1923, the city had $14,391 in the bank; on May 31st the amount was $264,391, and on June 1 back again to $14,391. In 1922, $500,000 was deposited on May 31, and in 1923, $200,000 was deposited.

During the latter part of May, 1922, one million dollars was deposited in the Toronto branch by the Ontario treasury department, and in early June $632,000 was withdawn. On May 26, 1923, there was a deposit of one million. The withdrawals were as follows: Late in June, $100,000; July 12, $300,000; August 13, $400,000; August 16, $150,000. The bank closed its doors on August 17. The meeting at which the directors heard the disastrous reports on the bank's condition was on August 7.

Percy C. R. Travers told of the attempt of the late H. J. Daly to sell the Ottawa Daly Company to the Ogilvie Company of Montreal.

The deal did not go through because R. P. Gough and J. F. M. Stewart, who were Home Bank directors, and also directors of Ogilvie, objected.

Sidney G. Stevens, who was on the inspection staff of the bank, said he made a routine inspection of the Toronto branch in 1920 but did not inspect the liabilities. He was stopped by Colonel Mason from making another inspection.

Voice Of The People

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—I do not care to make use of the public press to write of mattersi which concern specially the interests of one Presbyterian church. But as the subject of controversy is of public interest, and most of the members of this church are readers of your paper, I avail myself of this, my only, means of immediate reply in order that some misrepresentations in a letter which has been mailed to the members, and signed by certain of its members, may be corrected.

I have reason to believe that the compiler of the letter is Mr. H. B. Cowan, and that he is the author of most of the letters appearing in the paper in the name of the Presbyterian Association. With all respect due to Mr. Cowan and some who are associated with him in his propaganda, I resent, in the name of the Presbyterianism of this city, that two men—one of whom was a Congregationalist before he united with St. Paul's, and the other an Anglican—should undertake to interpret for the Presbyterians of this city what Presbyterianism means. What do men, who are brought up outside the Presbyterian fold, know about the genius of true Presbyterianism? The ignorance of Presbyterian rules and procedure and government is shown in almost every letter Mr. Cowan writes. I shall refer to but two matters which reveal this ignorance.

Speaking of the constitution of our General Assembly, and the votes taken there on Church Union, he uses these words: "And where the ministers were generally in a large majority." If Mr. Cowan had been familiar with Presbyterian procedure he never would have penned that statement, for it is not true. The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada is composed of an equal number of elders and ministers. One of the first duties to which the Assembly gives itself immed ately after constituting, is to correct and verify the roll of the Assembly. Before reaching the Assembly, the clerks of Presbytery must see that if an elder, who is a commissioner to the Assembly, cannot accept the appointment, then a substitute must be provided. Then, when the Assembly meets, the clerk calls the roll, and if anyone at the last moment has failed to put in an appearance, a substitute is chosen from the elders of one of the churches of the city in which the Assembly meets. The roll of the Assembly then stands as thus corrected and is composed of an equal number of laymen and ministers. It is not true, therefore, as Mr. Cowan states, that the votes of the Assembly are the votes of a body where the ministers generally were in the majority. An analysis of the voting also consistently shows that there was about an equal number of elders and ministers who voted in favor of union.

Another matter on which Mr. Cowan writes, which shows he is a Congregationalist rather than a Presbyterian, is the relation of the members of the Presbyterian Church to the Church Courts. We have nothing to be ashamed of in the procedure which has been followed in the matter of voting. Twice the people were consulted, and twice, by overwhelming majorities, they expressed themselves in favor of Union. There were expressly told on every ballot paper of the 1915 vote that the vote then being taken was to be the final decision by the people.

Then in the biggest union ever consummated in the Christian Church, in 1900, between the United Presbyterian and the Free Church in Scotland, which is the mother of Assemblies, the people were not consulted at all. I should like to quote here the words of Dr. Sclater, minister of St. Andrew's Church, Toronto, one of the finest gifts from Scotland in a century to our Canadian Presbyterianism. He says: "But what is the Presbyterian Church? The Presbyterian Church is one branch of the great Church Catholic, which, by the will of the people and at their own free choice, has a particular constitution and a particular method of common action. The Presbyterian Church is composed of individuals who have honourably agreed together upon a certain method of ecclesiastical expression; and that method is through Presbyteries. It is this common agreement that makes them Presbyterians and distinguishes them from other branches of the Church, and gives them their splendid tradition of constitutional, but not irresponsible, democracy. Not that their freedom is thereby bound by any outside force—for they themselves, of their fown volition, pledged themselves to each other to act through Presbyteries. And to appeal to the people against their own courts is to put the foolscap on the Presbyterian system, and to turn our Church into whole-hearted and full-blooded Congregationalism. It makes the Scottish Church meaningless and the Revolution Settlement a farce. If this appeal to the people against the constitutional decisions of the Church Courts created by themselves is well founded, then Presbyterianism has been a sham from the beginning. Of course, there has always been the right of dissent; and that right of dissent from the Church has been acted upon time and again in our Scottish history; but those who did so dissent made it perfectly clear that they were dissenting from the action of the Church, and that the Church, with its name and lineage, followed the lines of the constitutional decision of its courts."

That letter of Dr. Sclater makes it perfectly clear that much of what has been written by the Presbyterian Church Association is written from the standpoint of some pure Congregationalism and not that of Presbyterianism.

I could point out many other incorrect statements in the letter and catechism recently mailed to members of St. Paul's Church by Mr. Cowan. But space will not permit. Mr. Cowan has labored hard to influence people with the cry of clerical dictation. Some, unfortunately, may have been influenced by that false cry. It is to be regretted that men who were not brought up in the Presbyterian fold, who have shown a sad ignorance of what Presbyterianism means and a stubborn defiance of Presbyterian courts, should seek to dictate the policy of a great Presbyterian congregation which has attained its greatness through the labors and sacrifices of real Presbyterianism of old Presbyterian stock.

ROBERT POGUE.

VOTE ON CHURCH UNION IN PETERBORO PRESBYTERY.

Peterboro, Ont., Jan. 20, 1925.
Editor, The Examiner.

The votes in the Peterboro Presbytery to date on Church Union, including the vote in Knox Church, Peterboro, last night, give a majority against Union of 42. The vote is as follows:

	For	Against
For Union—
Westwood	45	42
Keene	114	74
Garden Hill	27	8
Knox, Peterboro	293	131
Against Union—
Hastings	8	113
Millbrook	32	96
Warkworth	84	95
Colborne	16	88
Lakeport	6	20
	625	667

Local Presbyterians who are opposed to Church Union claim that the foregoing figures indicate how widespread and strong is the opposition to Church Union. They point out in addition that the total votes cast for and against Church Union in Toronto and Hamilton to date also give a majority against Union, as do the returns from Glengarry and several other Presbyteries.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Allow me space in your valuable paper to say a word in regard to the U.F.Y.P.O. of Douro. Now should anyone doubt what U.F.Y.P.O. means it's simply this—United Farm Young People of Ontario. Now, since we, the older ones of the present generation, know that we have to depend solely on the rising generation to govern and protect this broad country of ours, as they have done in the past great war. It's up to every man, (who is a man) woman and child in our midst to help the young people along, but a certain person in Douro is strongly opposed to the progress the young people are making. It is quite evident it is to further his own ends and to knock the farmer and the farmers' sons and daughters—the people who helped to raise him financially from practically nothing, to what he has today. Now you can fool some of the people all the time and more of them some of the time but you can't fool all the people all the time.

Slogan: Organization, education and co-operation.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor.
A Member of the Douro U.F.Y.P.O.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Seymour West Women's Institute Held a Meeting —Personal Mention.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 20.—The regular meeting of the Seymour West Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. John Fairman, at the usual hour, the president presiding. There were 24 members present. The meeting was opened by singing the Institute ode after which the Lord's prayer was repeated. The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted. Old business was next discussed.

Moved by Mrs. David Stillman and seconded by Mrs. James Watters, that the flowers purchased for the sick be paid for.

Mrs. James Watters then gave a reading entitled "Carrying Sunshine" after which the members engaged in a contest, "An Old-fashioned Dinner," under the direction of Mrs. Reginald McCulloch.

By request of the institute, Mrs. Howard Clark repeated the report of the Institute convention. A dainty lunch was then served. The meeting closed by singing The National Anthem.

At the regular meeting of the Epworth League of the Methodist Church, Monday, January 19th, the programme was under the direction of the Citizenship Department.

After the opening exercises and reading of the Scriptures a piano solo was rendered by Miss Helen Thomas and a vocal solo by Mr. George Lucy. The topic, "The Work of the League," was given by the Rev. C. Daniels.

The League then separated into the four color groups and took part in a contest on "Old Sayings."

At the close of the meeting it was found that the Blues are in the lead this week. The meeting next week will be in charge of the Social and Literary Department.

Mr. L. O. Pearce, local manager of the Bell Telephone Co., is in Norwood, on business.

MAN GETS ALONG WITHOUT STOMACH

Half of Such Operations Have Been Successful Says Surgeon.

BALTIMORE, Mr. Jan. 20 (Canadian Press). — Minus stomach, which was removed a week ago in an operation at the Johns Hopkins Hospital, a man is taking food regularly and apparently is recovering.

It is the first instance of such an operation being performed successfully in Maryland, according to Dr. J. M. T. Finney, surgeon in charge of the case. The operation was found necessary because of tumor. In discussion before the Baltimore City Medical Society, Dr. Finney said that pathological study of dogs' intestines some time after the stomach was removed, showed that the condition of intestines had enlarged to serve as stomach.

Dr. Finney asserted that only 32 such operations ever had been performed, and that of these one-half were successful, the patients developing normal appetites and living for many years.

TRADE INCREASING

Greece is Becoming Bulgaria's Chief Trading Place.

ATHENS, Jan. 20.—Greece is fast becoming Bulgaria's chief medium of communication with most of her foreign markets for grain, tobacco hides and farms products, and as a result the trade between the two countries is steadily increasing.

In 1919, the first year of record, the Bulgarian exports amounted to 7,392,736 drachmae, while her imports were valued at 3,313,490 drachmae. Last year Greece's exports amounted to 40,000,000 drachmae, while Bulgaria's shipments to Greece amounted to 107,000,000 drachmae.

The principal item of Greek export is olive oil, for which Bulgaria is almost wholly dependent upon Greece. However, Italy is making some inroads into the Bulgarian market.

CONSIDER LONGER PRISON TERM IF THE JARVIS FINE IS REDUCED

W. N. Tilley Urges That Both Fine and Imprisonment Should Be Reviewed.

THE COURT'S OPTION.

Crown Tells Justices the Division of Profits Could Not Be Ascertained.

TORONTO, Jan. 20.—If any revision of the Jarvis fine were contemplated by the appellate court, W. N. Tilley, for the crown, yesterday argued at Osgoode Hall that an increase in his term of imprisonment must also be considered.

In resuming his argument for the crown, Mr. Tilley submitted that the court was dealing with the common law practice, which was still the law in England, and which empowered magistrates to commit prisoners until their fines should be paid.

"The court has the option of saying 'you shall pay a fine, and stay in jail until it is paid," or of saying 'you shall pay fine, or in lieu of payment serve a fixed term," counsel pointed out.

If the court has exercised its option under the first option," said Mr. Tilley, "the accused has no option, but if the court exercises the latter option then the accused has an option.

"The code," he added, "in the language it uses in regards to offences points to a separate offence for everyone concerned in the Act. Everyone is guilty and every one is dealt with individuallq. The chief justice imposed a separate fine on Jarvis and not in the nature of a joint fine. That does not go to the root of the matter. It is the language. The learned judge intended to impose a fine of $600,000 on Jarvis."

Remit Fine on Restitution

Mr. Justice Magee: "The learned judge goes on to say that if any one pays his fine, that satisfies the other He also recommends that the fine be remitted if restituttion is made.

Mr. Tilley: "The sentence, according to the authorities I have looked up, is the verbal statement made by the judge in the court."

Mr. Justice Smith: "The learned judge makes clear by subsequent documents that the intentions is a fine on each. It is not clear in the original sentence."

Mr. Tilley: "My point is this, that the sentence is as shown in the evidence on page 245, and if there are words in it that the judge had no authority to use, they should be struck out. It reads, "And the further judgment upon you, Peter Smith, and you, Acmilius Jarvis, and each of you, is that you pay a fine of $600,000."

Mr. Justice Orde: "That would make a total fine of $1,200,00."

Mr. Tilley: "That is my construction of this language."

Mr. Justice Orde: "If each were sentenced two years in jail, then they would each serve two years."

Mr .Tilley: "He contemplated that Jarvis would pay a fine."

Mr. Justice Smith: "If the language, has two fines of 600,000 each he intended something different than he said."

Kindly for Second Man.

Mr. Justice Middleton: "If the sentence was whipping 20 strokes and one prisoner was to be allowed to go without whipping if the other gets his, wouldn't that be a monstrous sentence?"

Mr. Tilley: "It would be very kindly for the second man and that is what this amounts to. The learned judge has since indicated that if one pays that lets the other out. He intended a $600,00 fine on Jarivs, and he intended Jarvis to pay."

Mr. Justice Smith: "He did, in fact, impose a fine of $600,000 on each."

Mr. Tilley: "Smith is not appealing —he is content."

Mr. Tilley submitted that the $600,000 fine had been "properly and validly" imposed on Jarvis.

"We are not conerned here with Smith," he proceeded. "He is content."

"Surely not content with the suggestion that he pay another $600,000? suggested Justice Orde.

"If Smith had appealed, and on some technicality his whole conviction has been reversed, would Jarvis' fine and sentence still remain?" His Lordship further inquired. Mr. Tilley replied in the affirmative.

Counsel argued that in view of the evidence given at the trial, of Jarvis having risked his entire fortune in his transactions with the treasury, the chief justice had regarded the fine as an "easy and perfectly satisfactory sentence," and one well within the prisoner's means. If it had not been imposed, the alternative would have been a penitentiary term.

Where Will Fine Go?

Mr. Justice Magee raised the question of whether the fine would go to the province.

"Or will the fine take away the province's means of civil redress?" his lordship enquired. "Suppose a man defrauds John Jones, and the province imposes a fine of $600,000 on him, and takes away his means of repaying John Jones?" "The case is different, my lord."

"Are you raising an increase in imprisonment?" asked Justice Magee. "It must be raised, if this fine is not to stand," Mr. Tilley rejoined. "The whole matter must be open. What the trial judge has done is, I submit, something very considerate to Jarvis."

Justice Smith: "I understand that this money will not go to the province; that it is conceded—"

Mr. Tilley: "It is not conceded."

Mr. Tilley thought that it was certain that the money would go to the province, "as part of the revenues that arise from the administration and maintenance of courts."

"What have we got to do with what becomes of the money?" asked Mr. Jupstice Hodgins. "That's my sumbission," Mr. Tilley pointed out. "The trial judge was entitled to consider the money that was involved in the financial transactions when he fixed the fine.

Mr. Justice Smith thought the trial judge had specifically said the fine was only so that the province would get the money. "But," said Mr. Tilley, "he does not say that six months is an adequate punishment. He says distinctly that it is not. He says I give less imprisonment and a fine."

Suppose Jarvis Does Not Pay.

"Suppose," said Mr. Justice Middleton, "that Jarvis does not pay the fine. Suppose he died and Smith is left to pay it."

Mr. Tilley pointed out that Jarvis was sentenced first, sent to the reformatory and fined, and then, he continued, Smith was sentenced and told if Jarvis pays that $600,000 you don't have to pay, too.

Mr. Justice Middleton suggested that this was reversed, that it might be meant that Smith pay the fine.

'No," said Mr. Tilley. The trial judge realized Jarvis is an older man, his term will be up two and a half years before Smith. I'm sure he will pay."

Would Make Jarvis Pay.

Mr. Tilley: "My submission is that only so as to make it perfectly clear that there is a sentence of 6 months and $600,000 on Jarvis.'

Mr. Justice Magee pointed out that in his judgment the trial judge had mentioned Smitih first. "He is an ex-minister of the crown," said Mr. Tilley ,saying that Smith had been mentioned first throughout the judgment.

Mr. Justice Smith. "If your argument is right, if Jarvis pays his fine, Smith at the end of his sentence must also pay $600,000 or stay in jail."

Mr. Tilley: " think that is the language of the judgment. I do not see how Smith can be fined conditional on someone else paying a fine."

How Were Spoils Shared?

Mr. Justice Middleton wanted to know how the money from the deals was divided. Mr. Tilley pointed out that the division was not known definitely. He referred to statements by Mr. Hellmuth that Jarvis had only received $155,000 and said that there was no evidence of the correctness of this. There were, he said, no exact figures as to how much money each of those involved got.

Mr. Tilley: "We showed it was arranged that this man, Andrew Pepall, who was the largest sharer in the spoils should go to England with Jarvis, and the government to watch the transactions from the standpoint of Smith in his official capacity. I think he went as watchdog for Pepall and Smith in his private capacity."

Mr. Justice Magee: "Were the bonds purchased in England in Jarvis' name?"

Mr. Tilley: "Lloyd's Bank bought for an undisclosed principal. The account in their books was in the name of Jarvis, but they would not act until they got the government's bond."

Mr. Tilley went on to say that a cheque was made out for $12,500 to Harry Pepall as his commission in the transaction. He deposited this in favor of his brother, Andrew Pepall, who in turn gave a promissory not for $6,250, half of the commission, to Smith.

He continued: "When Jarvis returned, Smith apparently wanted $4,000, and a voucher was made out for that for expenses, advertising in England. That was changed at the department by Matthews, to charges for Pepell going to England, and the bill went through, the cheque being payable to Pepall. Pepall deposited it in the Jarvis office, and Jarvis issued a cheque for $4,000."

"With transactions of that kind going on, it is reasonable to suppose that other transactions are being carried on by underlings," said Mr. Tilley, going on to refer to the sentence of two years imposed on Charles A. Matthews, Smith's former deputy.

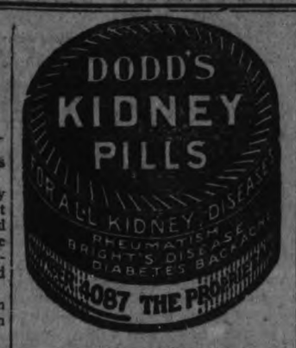
"I thought that was rather a serious sentence, if I may say so," the crown counsel declared. "It was the maximum under one section."

I. F. Hellmuth protested the relevancy of the Matthews case.

Crown Not Able to Learn.

Proceeding Mr. Tilley stated that the crown had been unable to determine the exact proportion in which the profits had been split among Jarvis, Smith and Pepall.

"The exchange was confusing," Mr. Tilley pointed out. "Jarvis got $348,000 from New York in American funds. He got other moneys, Canadian and English funds. You couldn't follow it and prove what each one got without putting someone in the box who had an inference of all the transactions. Every attempt was made to hide it."



GEOGOLIST EXPLORES MADAGASCAR.

PARIS, Jan. 20.—M. Barrabe, a geogolist and member of the French Escole Normale who was sent on an official geological mission to Madagascar, has returned to France after spending three months on the island. The coal beds do not appear as important as those of Indo-China, and it would appear that the bituminous sands and petroleum fields of Madagascar are much more important than the coal beds.

REPORTERS MAY BE BARRED FROM COURT SITTINGS

Some Trials Written Like Theatrical Performances, Says Bar Association.

PUBLIC OPINIONS

Publishing of Court-Room Scenes to be Stopped.

CHICAGO, Jan., 21 (Associated Press)—As a means of eliminating the formulation of public opinion upon matters to be judged by juries alone, under cordination of press and bar, committes of the Chicago Bar Association are planning to recommend two new steps with relation to publicity for courtroom trials. These are the prohibition of the taking of photographs of courtroom scenes and measures to ensure reporting of judicial proceedings as solemn trials rather than theatricals.

The Chicago Bar Association Reord in its last issue says:

"The present-day practice in reporting sensational law-suits in the public press is typified by the publication of photographs of court-room scenes. The attendant stories stress in like fashion those features which excite popular attention. This sating of the public appetite for the unusual not only brings the undesirable results incident to all scandal but is peculiarly harmful in its effect upon the administration of justice.

"Thus we find the presentation of a trial in the light of a theatrical performance rather than a dispassionate inquiry into the merits of the case. This is bound to lessen respect for the law and its instrumentalities.

"Akin to this is the creation of an erroneous conception of the true working of the judical machinery. Frequently there results the formulation of a public opinon upon a matter to be judged by the jury alone. And of course there is the catering to the public appetite for scandal, with the consequent detriment to the public welfare.

"It is believed that a co-ordinated effort on the part of the press and the bar will in time bring about the desired development in this important field of reporting, and that a uniform rule which will place all newspapers upon the same basis in this respect will be welcomed by them as well as by the bar.

"The Chicago Bar Association, through its Committee on Relations of the Press to Judical Proceedings and its Committee on the Judiciary, now has this work in hand, and, as a first concrete measure, will direct its efforts against the publication of photographs of court-room scenes. It is planned to recommend to the courts the adoption of a rule prohibiting absolutely the taking of any photographs in court. Such a rule would eliminate at ouce one of the most potent means of engaging the public. Next will come the proposal of measures to ensure the reporting of court proceedings, not as dramatic or bizarre incidents, but as solemn trials."

THE HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.

The Horticultural Society is to be congratulated—or perhaps it would be more accurate to say that the community in general should be congratulated—upon the enthusiastic coterie of officers whose services it is able to enlist in its important work of making Peterborough a more beautiful city.

Year by year the society has carried on its splendid efforts, and each year has seen concrete results of its planning and labour.

Much of this success has been due to the enthusiasm of the officers who have been associated with the organization, for frankness compels the statement that the society has never had the support from the people of Peterborough that the meri of its aims and objects deserved.

At no time has the membership been as large as it should have been.

The majority of householders in Peterborough should be sufficiently sympathetic with the work of the Horticultural Society to do their part by paying the small membership fee, even without the options that formerly were given as a premium to members.

It is work well worth while, inasmuch as membership not only causes a greater interest in clearing up public places that need attention, but it also has the result of more care being taken in the beautifying of private property, with results that make a lasting impression upon visitors.

ON THE WRONG TRACK.

The outstanding feature of the sessions of the Ontario Municipal Association in Toronto last week was not what the association did, but rather what it failed to do.

The one big problem of civic business at the present time was apparently completely neglected.

That is the vital necessity of reducing the burden of taxation.

There was much talk of new ways of raising revenue—and complete silence in regard to the wisdom of relaxing some of the methods already in use.

What is wanted in most municipalities, and indeed throughout Canada, is not new means of squeezing more money out of the people, but rather a reduction of expenditure that will render it possible to let up a little in the present extortion.

At a meeting of municipal representatives from all over the district it might be expected that the situation would be realized, and the fact that most municipalities had reached the limit of taxation properly appreciated.

But nothing developed along that line.

Nobody suggested that some of the pipe lines leading from the ratepayers' pockets into the public treasury might now be cut off.

In fact, everybody was so busy suggesting or discussing fresh forms of extracting revenue that there was no time to plead for a halt.

Public opinion was not very accurately interpreted at that Toronto gathering.

WEST INDIAN TRADE.

Renewed interest in the subject of Canadian trade with the West Indies is apparent, says the Monetary Times. H. J. Logan, prominent in industrial life in the Maritime Provinces, has been acting as a special emissary of the Dominion Government to see what can be done to further intercourse, while a Parliamentary delegation, headed by Hon. T. A. Low, Minister of Trade and Commerce, is to make a visit to the West Indies. The question of renewing the contract for fortnightly steamship service between Canada and Demerara is also up for settlement. The Halifax Board of Trade has a West Indies' committee, which has drawn up a booklet entitled "Canada's Trade with the West Indies," which presents the views of Maritime interests.

The question of West Indies trade is one of foremost interest to the Maritime Provinces of Canada, largely cut off as they are from the rest of Canada by geographical distance and unable to compete with Quebec and Ontario for western trade in manufactured goods. Having in every Province ocean ports which are open all the year, they naturally look to the south and east for their expansion. United States markets are difficult of access because of the high import duties, South America is far distant, but the British West Indies are convenient and come within the field of British preferential tariffs. Because the Maritime Provinces have not received their share of immigration, and other physical factors have retarded their growth, they deserve constant attention from Ottawa, and the country as a whole is back of any movement for greater trade with the West Indies which will be equitable.

THE MODERN METHOD.

The Sault Ste. Marie Star calls attention to the ineffectual method taken by the Ontario Government and the paper companies to rouse the public to the necessity of saving the forests, and the Examiner believes that our northern contemporary is on sound ground in pointing out the weakness of the present system, which is largely confined to tacking up notices in lumber camps and on trees.

That is a very haphazard and dubious method of getting results.

The only way to reach the public properly is through the columns of the newspapers.

And that plan has been almost entirely neglected.

True, there has been some advertising in trade and pulp and paper journals, but that is carrying coals to Newcastle.

Everybody connected with the pulp and paper business knows the damage done each year by fires caused by carelessness, and there is nothing gained by printing warnings in journals, read only by those who are concerned with the industry itself.

It is the general public that must be reached, and the most satisfactory means of doing that is to utilize the advertising columns of the newspapers.

Surely the success of Government advertising during war years has not been forgotten already by those in authority.

The Government can go on tacking up fire notices indefinitely without getting anywhere, and it is about time it woke up to the necessity of adopting modern means to solve a problem that is becoming each year more serious as over-resources of timber are being steadily depleted.

FACING DEATH FOR NOTHING.

The Examiner has more than once called attention to the fact that the sending in of a false alarm to the Fire Department was a practice that needlessly exposed the firefighters to danger.

The accident in Toronto on Sunday night when five firemen were more or less seriously injured by the upsetting of their sleigh as they were hurrying to answer a call that proved to be a false alarm, confirms what has been said in these columns about the folly of this form of humour.

It may appear to some rattle-brained people that it is a good joke to have the Fire Department travel a mile or two at top speed on a wild goose chase.

Such people do not stop to think of the conditions under which the firemen operate.

When an alarm is sounded they have no means of knowing what they will find when they arrive on the scene.

Human lives may be in danger, valuable property may be threatened.

Much may depend upon the speedy arrival of the fire brigade.

The latter's job is to get to the scene in a hurry.

Motor apparatus has been installed to ensure speed in answering a call, and there is no lagging on the way.

That means, of course, that there is a definite element of danger every time the fire apparatus is sent out.

A collision, a skidding car, half a dozen other contingencies may cause disaster.

The firemen are paid to take these risks, and they accept them as part of their job—when the call for their services is legitimate.

But they should not be asked to face death just because some fool thinks it the height of humour to ring in a false alarm.

THE BANK OF TORONTO.

In the annual report and addresses of the President, Mr. W. G. Gooderham, and General Manager John R. Lamb of the Bank of Toronto, given in Toronto, there is a note of sound optimism for the business of the country during the current year.

At the same time Mr. Gooderham called attention to the taxation, both Government and municipal, as a factor in the cost of living which in turn affects operating costs, resulting in low margins of profit in many lines of business.

"The outstanding feature of the past year is the improved outlook abroad," said Mr. W. G. Gooderham. "While it will be many years before European nations which were engaged in the war show substantial recovery, at least a forward attitude has been taken and a start made. While smooth sailing cannot be expected, we can look forward to a steady, if slow, approach to business and financial stability in Europe." Referring to Canada, he said: "The home situation has also its bright spots, notably the improvement in the position of agriculture. The products of the farm now approach more nearly to an even basis of exchange than has been the case for some years. It is true that the farmer is not spending his gains freely, but a policy of economy is to be commended, and in the end will work out to the advantage of his own and other classes of business." Speaking of the bank, he said: "Our own progress, as you will see from the statement, is steady, if not spectacular. While our dividend is modest, we continue to earn it by a comfortable margin, and it is a pleasure and satisfaction to know that through these difficult times we have been able not only to maintain the strength of our position but to add to it from year to year."

The General Manager, Mr. John R. Lamb, spoke of the satisfactory increase in deposits, that of savings alone being over $4,400,000, the increase of $2,000,000 in current loans which now stand at $50,478,000, and the strong liquid position, the quick assets amounting to over $48,000,000, equal to 52.62 per cent. of the total amount owing the public. Profits, he stated, were satisfactory even if slightly less than last year. The gross was higher, but unfortunately this applies also to expenses. Staff salaries, building costs, rentals, supplies and equipment and taxes are all greatly increased. Our taxes, in fact, other than on premises, including income taxes, increased over six times during the last few years and now amount to over 3 per cent. of our capital. The levies on premises have also increased, and the two together are now over 6 per cent. of our capital. We are, of course, quite prepared to pay our share, but we are afraid that banks are sometimes singled out for special attention by taxation authorities.

Discussing general conditions, Mr. Lamb concluded: "While we ourselves have had a reasonably good year, business conditions in general leave much to be desired. Trade on the whole is not satisfactory. Many industries have been and still are marking time. Even where volume is fair, profits in many lines are inadequate or absent. Yet the present dullness in trade is but the natural aftermath of inflation and over-expansion, and affords no ground for depression or lack of confidence in the future. The favorable factors surely outweigh those that are unfavorable. Although our population is small, our per capita production is high. Waterpower development per capita is the greatest in the world. We are rapidly coming to the front in minerals. We can double our farming population and still have room. Immigration must and will flow to us because no other country offers greater opportunities, and we are still the last West. Unlike older countries, Canada is blessed with a very wide area and great natural resources capable of the production of enormous quantities of raw materials and manufactured products. There can be no doubt that with hard work, accompanied by the resourcefulness and initiative for which Canadian people are noted, Canada will eventually take her place as one of the great and prosperous countries of the world."

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

In last evening's Examiner the Montreal Board of Trade was quoted as stating Canada's National debt was $3.87 per capita. It, of course, should have read $387.00—a very appreciable difference.

With 26 below zero yesterday morning, Peterborough people experienced what White River folks would call nice winter weather.

This fellow Nurmi seems to be about the only man who could safely take a chance on crossing a city street in the middle of a block.

The Tara Town Council wants the following municipal positions filled: Town Clerk, Town Treasurer, Assessor, Tax Collector, Medical Officer of Health and Cemetery Caretaker. It is not quite clear whether one man is expected to look after all these posts.

PREPARING FOR BIG GOLD RUSH

Invasion of New Field in British Columbia to Start in April.

TO USE TRACTOR.

VICTORIA, B.C., Jan. 20.—(Canadian Press). — Extraordinary preparations for the expected gold rush in April to the new Cassiar field in Northern British Columbia, are reported to be under way. The Hudson's Bay Company have announced that a giant caterpillar tractor will be shipped on the first steamer to be used for negotiating the trails east and north from Telegraph Creek, junction point of the Stireen River, where the gold hunters will take breath before plunging into the wilderness.

The Cassiar Gold Mining Company is reported to have arranged for an airplane to be used in communication from the head of navigation to the gold camp and several private groups have announced their intention of carrying radio sets. A branch of the Dominion Government's telegraphs is already operating at Telegraph Creek, and mail will be delivered weekly.

It took from 4 to 13 months for a prospector to reach the Klondike in 1898, depending on whether he went by way of Skagway or Edmonton. In 1925, the miner may make the trip from Victoria in seven days—by way of steamship to Wrangel, Alaska, in three days; in another two days the river boat will have landed him in Telegraph Creek, and by automobile he can cover the remaining distance in forty-eight hours.

60TH ANNIVERSARY OF THEIR WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bouter of Marmora United With Family.

MARMORA, Jan. 20.—A unique event was celebrated on Friday, Jan. 16th, when the sixtieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bonter took place at the home of their youngest daughter, Mrs. Chas. Lumiss.

Sixty years ago, Wm. Bonter and Margaret Plunkett were united in matrimony in the village of Marmora by Rev. J. A. Dowler.. The long years of married life have been spent in and around Marmora, where Mr. Bonter engaged in the pioneer occupations, mining, lumbering and later farming. In these years he also saw many changes take place in the village of Marmora. He saw the first churches built, the growth of industries, its share of destructive fires and the gradual changes that sixty years bring to a small village. He holds the unique position of having lived for the longest period in the village and vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Bonter have nine children living, six reside in the vicinity of Marmora, viz., Mr. Robert Bonter of Crowe Lake, Mr. John Bonter of North Marmora, and Mr. Richard Bonter of town, Mrs. Meehan, Mrs. Airhart, Sr., and Mrs. Lumiss. Three sons in the west, Fred of Saskatoon, George of Biggar and Arthur of Regina. There are also 37 grandchildren and 8 great grandchildren.

On Friday evening, thirty-three of the children and grandchildren had supper at Mr. Lumiss' home to celebrated with Mr. and Mrs. Bonter their anniversary. Unfrotunately three of the children could not be present, George and Arthur from the west and Mrs. Airhart, who was prevented by illness in the home.

In the evening, several more grandchildren and some friends and neighbors arrived to extend congratulations.

During the evening the following address was read:

Dear Father and Mother,— We, your children, have gathered here this evening to celebrate the sixtieth anniversary of your wedding and to rejoice with you that you have been spared to us, till this ripe old age. You have both, always taken a very deep interest in all our plans and in all our joys and sorrows, and as we grow older, with our own families around us, we more fully realize all the sacrifices and struggles you have had to meet. As a slight token of our esteem, we want you to accept this radio set and we hope and pray you may be spared many more years to enjoy it.

Signed on behalf of your children and grandchildren.

R. E. Bonter.
W. F. Bonter.

A very fine radio set had been installed earlier in the evening by Mr. Maloney and was much enjoyed during the evening. Also the violin selections by Mr. Fred Bonter and his daughter, Miss Margaret, of Saskatoon.

About midnight, a dainty lunch was served, after which the guests departed with many wishes of long life and good health to Mr. and Mrs. Bonter. Mr. and Mrs. Bonter have reached the good old ages of 82 and 81.

TUNNEL TO BE DUG UNDER THAMES.

LONDON, Jan. 20.—To relieve the traffic congestion in London, plans have been made for the construction of a dock on the River Thames and a tunnel under the river at a cost of over $30,000,000. CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19. — Hurried by speculative transactions of great volume, wheat and corn rose buoyantly in valueto-day to new record heights for all deliveries here. Number one red wheat, available at once, brought 2.03 1-2 a bushel, and the leading future delivery, May, ascended to 1.90 1-2. A decided fresh upturn in wheat quotations at Liverpool, together with reports of much enlarged demand for breadstuffs throughout Europe, appeared to be chiefly responsible. Chicago closing prices on wheat were firm, 1 5-8 to 3 7-8 cents net higher. May 1.90 1-8 to 1.90 1-4 and July 1.66 7-8 to 1.67. Corn finished at 1 7-8 to 2 3-8 cents up oats showing 1-4 to 3-4 cents gain and provisions at a rise varying from 10 to 67 cents.

STERLING RATES.

MONTREAL, Jan. 19. — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here today as follows:

Sterling demand $4.79 5-8.

Sterling cables $4.80.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Jan. 19. — The export trade in Canadian grain on the Montreal market to-day was again reported quiet, there being little or no demand from the United Kingdom buyer, but there was some enquiry from the continent which resulted in sales of several loads of Canadian spring wheat to Holland and Italy. Outside of a little business in Canadian western oats on C. I. F. basis bay ports the domestic market was quiet, but the undertone was strong and prices for oats were advanced 1 cent per bushel for Canadian western. Ontario grades were firm and unchanged, No. 2 white being quoted at 66 ments, No. 3 grade at 64 cents, and No 4. grade at 62 cents per bushel ex store.

Prices for all grades of spring wheat flour were advanced 10 cents per barrel but the volume of business was small. Owing to the high prices ruling frontier wheat in Ontario a much stronger feeling prevailed in the local market for these grades of flour and prices were advanced 30 cents per barrel with the indication of their going higher in the near future.

A very firm feeling developed in the local market for storage eggs and wholesome jobbing prices were advanced 2 to 3 cents per dozen. There was no change in strictly fresh eggs. Prices for butter were steady at the recent changes noted. The cheese trade was quiet but the tone of the market was firm with fodder made No. 1 goods at 19 1-2 to 20 cents per pound, and No. 2 grade at 18 1-2 to 19 cents per pound.

Crop beans were unchanged at $2.90 per bushel.

BAY OF QUINTE WINTER SCHOOL

Rev. Harold Young Gave a Good Address at One of the Meetings.

COBOURG, January 17. (Special.) —The sessions of the Bay of Quinte Conference winter school are increasing in interest and profit, and also the attendance. Between 120 and 130 are now registered.

On Tuesday morning Rev. W. Harold Young, of Peterborough, gave an especially good inspiritional talk and this has been followed up each morning since, and at the evening vesper services, with something equally as good.

Rev. F. J. Horwood, Mus. Bac., gave a fine address on "The Beginnings of Music," in which he traced the development of music from its earliest days up to the present.

Rev. Frank Langford, general secretary of Sunday schools, and Young People's Societies, speaks every morning on the work of the Young People's League. In their addresses he dwells upon the relationship existing between the church and the League. The business of the church is to stand in the community as the representative of God, as revealed in His word. The business of the church is to lead the community in development of the knowledge of God.

The business of the Young People's League is the same as the business of the church, functioning among the young people.

Among the leaders and well known workers who are at the Winter School, are Miss Nina Yeomans, of Toronto, Girls' Work Secretary of the Religious Educational Council; Mr. Taylor Statten, secretary of the National Boys' Work Board. It is hoped that Mr. C. Pleuman will be able to come down in a day or so before the school breaks up. These leaders are doing a fine work among the young people.

Rev. J. W. Mortimer, missionary on furlough, and secretary of West China missions, is conducting the studies on Foreign Missionary work. Rev. W. R. Tanton of Napanee is conducting the studies on Home Missions. Rev. Prof. Waine, of Albert College, Belleville, is taking up ably the theme of Religious Education.

Others who are conducting studies and classes are Rev. J. S. T. Wilson, President of the Bay of Quinte conference; Rev. E. Harston, Woodville, the indefatigable president of the Bay of Quinte Winter School, and Rev. H. A. Bart Carton, the efficient secretary, Rev. Roy Rickard, Northport, as song leader, and physical director, has a big work to do, and is a host in himself. Also Rev. R. T. Richards, Cavan, Rev. E. C. Belknap, of Enniskillen, Rev. Andren McLauchlin of Keene, Rev. D. M. Stenson of Wilfrid.

Rev. H. B. Kenny, Belleville, was a visitor to the school on Tuesday and Wednesday, and will also give a lecture this evening.

The Evening Entertainments.

The evening entertainments arranged for are proving to be occasions of rare delight. On Tuesday night the Cobourg Young People's League gave a reception to the delegates. There were contests, readings, songs, original stories, orchestral music, and at the close dainty refreshments were served by the Cobourg League.

On Wednesday evening the Cambourne Young People's League put on the play, "We are Coming," in fine style. Among those taking part were Messrs. Douglas, Redpath, Wm. Wildy, Melville Sandercock, Clifford Wilkinson, George Ford, Olaf Snelgrove; Misses Sweetman, Norah Harper, Mavis Sandercock, Gertie Williamson, Evelyn Orr and Gertie Brown. All took their parts with much excellence.

Impromptu Concert.

Last night an impromptu concert was held when a large number of the delegates took part by readings, recitations, songs, etc. It passed off very pleasantly.

This is the fourth annual Conference Winter School to be held here, and the president and officers are being congratulated upon its success.

As Rev. Harold Young was called to Peterborough yesterday, Rev. W. H. A. Smythe, M. A., Wellington, gave the address at last night's vesper service. Mr. Smythe resided formerly in Omemee. He is a very able speaker.

A THOUGHT.

Life is a challenge to the bold,
It flings its gauntlet down
And bids us, if we seek for gold
And glory and renown,
To come and take them from its store—
It will not meekly hand them o'er.

Life is a challenge all must meet,
And nobly we must dare;
Its gold is tawdry when we cheat,
Its fame a bitter snare
If it be stolen from life's clutch;
Men must be true to prosper much.

Life is a challenge and its laws
Are rigid ones and stern;
The splendid joy of real applause
Each man must nobly earn.
It makes us win its jewels rare,
But gives us paste if we're unfair.

—Edgar Guest.

"I Suffered Terribly With Sore, Aching Back"

Mrs. Roland Ferguson, 194 Lake St., Peterboro, Ont., writes:

"For over two years I suffered terribly with sore back. I was almost mad with the pain, and had doctored with it until I was discouraged. Then my father, who is a firm believer in Dr. Chase's Medicines, advised me to try Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I followed his advice, and am glad to say I was completely relieved of that torturing pain in my back. It is over a year since I used these pills, and I have had no return of the trouble, but always keep them in the house."

U. S. DELEGATES SCORED BRITISH OPIUM PROGRAM

Suppression in Fifteen Years If China Sets Example by That Time.

AVOID SMUGGLING

Cecil Denies Pecuniary Motive in British Police—Americans Not Practicable.

GENEVA, Jan. 20. — (Canadian Press). — "Quite unacceptable," were the words used by Stephen G. Porter, head of the United States delegation last night in commenting on the British proposal submitted by Lord Cecil of Chelwood yesterday at the re-opening of the International Opium Conference as a possible solution of the Far Eastern opium problem. This problem is one of bringing about the gradual suppression of opium smoking in the Far East in fulfillment of the terms of the famous Hague Opium Convention.

Great Britain, through Lord Cecil, announced that she stands ready to stop it in fifteen years, but upon a condition.

Great Britain's condition is that the fifteen years will begin to run only from the time when China shall have suppressed her growth of opium to that stage, "which will remove the danger of opium smuggling from China into other Far Eastern territories."

The United States position is that danger of crime generally may be always said to exist, hence, the likelihood that the danger of the crime of smuggling may continue to exist indefinitely, thus postponing for ever the inauguration of the British suggestion.

Opposed United States.

Next to the presentation of the British suggestion, which was officially labelled "a declaration" and not a proposal, the outstanding feature of Monday's session was the lining up of Great Britain, France and Holland against the United motion to resume the work of the first opium conference and thereby take up at the present conference the question of opium smoking.

Lord Cecil, M. Daladier and Dr. Loudon all declared that the first conference alone was entitled to discuss opium smoking. The conference has concluded its labors, but no Power has signed the convention drawn up by it. Lord Cecil, however, coupled his disavowal of the present conference's incompetency by introducing the new British declaration on the opium smoking question, and British spokesmen explained last night that Lord Cecil's idea is that the British suggestion might be added as a protocol to the convention elaborated by the first conference which was restricted to that country having Far Eastern possessions.

Lord Cecil spoke for almost two hours yesterday, reviewing the entire problem of drug addiction and the opium evil generally.

Favors Abolition.

He eloquently pictured a Britain sincerely desirous of, and unalterably determined upon, abolishing opium smoking totally in all her territories, but argued that the ten-year limit proposed by the United States delegation was impracticable because of the heavy illicit production in China and unrestricted smuggling, which would only fatten the purses of those engaged in contraband. He scornfully repudiated any insinuation that Great Britain was inspired by pecuniary motives.

Lord Cecil followed up the presentation of his fifteen-year conditional project by saying that Great Britain would welcome the appointment of an impartial commission under an American chairman to proceed to the Far East and study actual conditions on the spot. He argued, however, that the great problem before the world was not opium smoking by the Chinese but drug addiction by human beings world wide, and solemnly urged the delegates to concentrate all their energies to revising a means for curbing this "terrible evil" which is degrading humanity morally and physically.

Lord Cecil made a stirring appeal to the delagates to abandon distrust which had marred the previous negotiations and get down to work.

MORNING C.N.R. TRAIN TO PETERBORO DISCUSSED

Restoration of 7 a.m. Train Proposed at Lindsay Meeting.

LINDSAY, Jan. 20.—At a session of the Lindsay Board of Trade held on Friday last, the question of asking the C.N.R. authorities to restore the 7.00 a.m. Lindsay-Peterboro train was introduced. It was claimed by some present that this train was a great advantage to those who had business to transact at Peterboro, Hastings, etc., by giving them longer time in the different centres. The question was raised as to whether this train did not work to the disadvantage of Lindsay merchants, because of the fact that quite a number of Lindsay people made it a practice of making purchases in the Electric City. It was brought out in the discussion that it was exceedingly difficult to counteract this. If the people did not visit outside centres by train to do their shopping, they would go by auto when the roads were good.

One citizen remarked that this business would increase once the Peterboro-Lindsay road became a Provincial highway. He felt the local merchants would be justified in opposing this project, but his contention met with no support.

SETTLER'S FAMILY BURNED TO DEATH

Mother and Five Children Dead—Two Lost in Boarding House Fire.

COCHRANE, Ont., Jan. 20.—In a disastrous fire which occurred at 3 o'clock Monday morning the Canada Hotel, a boarding house and poolroom situated on Third Avenue at Cochrane, was totally destroyed. Two guests at the hotel were burned alive in the blaze which was completely beyond control when first noticed.

The victims are Edmund Hacquet, about 22 years, of St. Therese, Que., and Ernest Frechette, about 25 years old, of the Province of Quebec. Another guest, George Demeres, a garage mechanic of Cochrane, was severely burned about the back head and hands, and is in hospital here.

One of the guests, apparently Hacquet, retired to his room about two o'clock, and must have thrown a lighted match or cigarette carelessly. About 3 o'clock he rushed out of his room, his clothing on fire. His room was then a mass of flames. The fire spread with such rapidity that other guests and inmates of the building barely had time to make their escape, while the flames were raging in the building.

Demers suddenly discovered that the proprietor's child was absent. It was in the act of rushing upstairs to save the child that Demers was severely burned. The building is a total loss.

Six Burned to Death.

Six lives were lost when the cabin of N. Bedour, a Northern Ontario homesteader, was destroyed by fire during the night of Friday, January 16, it became known Monday. The victims were Mrs. Bedour and her five little children.

During Friday night Bedour, who lives in the Township of Brower, a few miles east of here, awoke only just in time to see the blazing roof of his settler's cabin fall in on the beds in which rested his wife and five children.

An overheated stove set too close to the beds had evidently started the blaze that took the toll of six lives.

Barely escaping himself out of the cabin which in an instant was a roaring furnace, severely burned about the head and body and scantily clother, Bedour, dazed by the horror of the tragedy, walked more than a mile, barefooted, through the deep snow to the nearest neighbor.

The temperature was 20 below zero. Bedour was brought to the Lady Minto Hospital in Cochrane.

COLLIDED IN FOG.

The Deutschland and Two Other Vessels Damaged.

LONDON, Jan. 20.— Despatches to Lloyd's from Hamburg last evening stated that the German steamship Deutschland was slightly damaged in a collision during the fog in the River Elbe Sunday. It was added that the vessel was proceeding to Hamburg.

Later advices announced the arrival of the Deutschland at Hamburg.

The trouble occurred during a fog near the Elbe Lightship No. 4, when the Hamburg-American liner, which was bound from New York for Hamburg, collided with two steamers, the Wildenfels, on a voyage from Hamburg for Bombay, and the Mont Blanc on the way from Hamburg for England.

The Deutschland hit the Wildenfels on the bow and damaged the vessel to such an extent that she returned to Hamburg. The Mont Blanc, which was damaged at the stern and also lost her anchor and 80 fathoms of chain, proceeded for England.

Centennial of the Steam Railway

1925 marks two important anniversaries—the hundredth of the steam railway—the 40th of the Canadian Pacific. Just one hundred years ago, according to the scribe on the spot, a "great concourse" of people witnessed the first trial of the steam railway. The locomotive (inset above) and thirty-eight "waggons" made the run from Brusselton to Stockton.

To quote the local Chronicler: "Such was its velocity that in some parts the speed was frequently twelve miles an hour."

George Stephenson, the engineering genius back of this epoch-making enterprise, ventured this prophecy: "You will live to see the day, though I may not live so long, when railways will come to supersede almost all other methods of conveyance in this country—when mail coaches will go by railway, and railroads will become the great High Way for the King and his subjects. The time is coming when it will be cheaper for a working man to travel by railway than to walk on foot."

It was not until 1885—when the last spike was driven in the Canadian Pacific—that "the Great High Way for the King and his subjects" became a transcontinental reality in Canada. Not only were Canada's scattered provinces united into one great nation—but the most difficult and most important link created in what was to become the World's Greatest Highway!

Many Car Drivers Are Menace To Pedestrians

TORONTO, Jan. 20.—(Canadian Press).—Taking the report as a whole and considering it in the light of modern travelling conditions, we find there are many driving motor vehicles who are a menace to themselves, to other drivers and to pedestrians. It shows the necessity for some plan of action to make those who drive cars probe they are qualified to do so before they are allowed to endanger the lives of others.

So declared J. G. Collinson before the members of the Optometrical Association of Ontario, at the opening session of the 11th annual convention of the organization yesterday. Mr. Collinson said the foregoing conclusion had been reached as a result of the joint test made by the Ontario Optometrical Association and the Canadian National Safety League of vision tests for motor vehicle drivers.

DIES AFTER BURGLAR SCARE

Merchant Made Ill by Shock of Discovering Safe Robbers.

PEEKSKILL, Jan. 20. —Leverett Kilmer, 44, a Peekskill merchant, died at his home on South Street, as a result, according to the police, of the fright he received when he caught two burglars trying to open his safe a month ago. Kilmer had been in poor health since the shock of his encounter with the burglars.

The robbers fled, leaving $1,800 intact and Kilmer tried to tell Chief of Police Henry Burke what had happened, but had to stop frequently between words to get his breath. The trouble continued although Kilmer had been in good health up to that time. He leaves a wife and three children.

THE DRIFTING PROBLEM.

Canadians Who Go to U. S. and Return Are Treated as Immigrants.

OTTAWA, Jan. 20 (Canadian Press).—Repatriation of Canadians who have become citizens of another country presents a problem which the department of the secretary of state finds it difficult to solve. Former Canadians who have become citizens of the United States are drifting back and find themselves subject to the same regulations and restrictions as any other alien immigrant. To meet their case, it has been suggested that the immigration laws should be amended to provide automatic admission as British subjects to Canadians returning to the country, even though they have taken out naturalization papers elsewhere.

Her Trouble Started From a Bad Cold

Ontario Lady's Little Daughter Suffered from Headaches and Was Relieved by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are a kidney remedy and can be taken by young and old.

Williamstown, Ont., Jan. 19.—(Special).—We have a testimonial from Mrs. L. Stanley, a well-known resident of this place. She writes to us because she feels that she owes it to other mothers, who have children suffering from weak kidneys, to tell them the relief afforded her little girl. She states:—

"I must write to you regarding your Dodd's Kidney Pills. I have been giving them to my child. She has been suffering from headaches, broken sleep, fitfull appetite, and was always tired and nervous. I have found your pills very satisfactory and am going to keep on using them."

Dodd's Kidney Pills have become a family remedy because people have tried them and found them good. They help Rheumatism, Lumbago, Lame Back, Heart Disease, Headaches and Urinary troubles, because all these are Kidney Diseases, or are caused by the Kidneys failing to do their work.

Unusual Incident at Sunday Service—Minister Invited to Follow.

A splendid fellowship meeting was held. Mr. Jas. A. Of the thirty, twenty-five signed he declaration, including two elders, one manager, Sunday School superintendent, all the Sunday School taff with the exception of two teachers, the organist and the majority of the choir. Others have expressed their intention to do likewise, but owing to the stormy weather were prevented from being out.

The minister tenders his resignation as a pastor of St. Andrew's Church because of the fact that he is a staunch Unionist, and that the church voted anti by a majority of eleven.

THE LONDON LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY

The London Life Insurance Company is celebrating the results of its Jubilee Year, and in every department these give cause for the greatest satisfaction. The new business reached the splendid total of $53,500,00. The net amount of business in force was over $178,000,000, and the surplus earnings were the highest in the company's history.

On investments totalling $27,000,000, the very excellent rate of 6.96 per cent. was earned. The company's record for careful investment has been splendidly maintained, the overdue interest at the end of the year actually showing a lower relative amount than for the year 1923. In spite of the large investment in new business, the company's surplus earnings are reported as much the best in its history, which means that the very liberal scale of profits to policyholders will be maintained and the various additional funds for protection of policyholders are materially strengthened.

The whole report is a most gratifying one to all interested in the company's progress and makes a fitting climax to the company's half century of public service.—Advt.

GROCER'S HEAVY LOSS.

Kingston Store Robbed of $2,000 in Cash and $100 Cheque.

KINGSTON, Jan. 20.—(Canadian Press).—Further details to hand regarding the rifling of the safe in the grocery store of H. N. Case at Napanee some time between Saturday night and Monday morning are to the effect that the amount taken consisted of two thousand dollars in cash, which Mr. Chase had drawn from the bank on Saturday and a cheque for one hundred dollars, payable to the Belleville Creameries. The cash was composed of twelve bills of fifty-dollar denomination and seventy twenty-dollar bills. The burglars, after opening the safe and taking the money and cheque, had closed it again, for it was found locked yesterday morning by Mr. Chase. The Napanee police report progress, but so far no arrests have been made.

Resignation of Leon Trotsky Was Accepted

MOSCOW, Jan. 20.— (Canadian Press.)— Leon Trotsky yesterday was relieved of his duties as chairman of the Revolutionary War Council by the Central Executive committee of Communist Party, the most powerful political body in Russia. The retiring war minister also is threatened with expulsion from the Communists' party and from membership in all important political bureas unless he conforms to party discipline and renounces his attacks upon the principles enunciated by the late Nikolai Lenine.

The once powerful war chief has bowed to this severe edict of party in a strikingly humble and apologetic letter in which he virtually invests the Central committee to relieve himof his duties at the war department and pledges himself to work loyally "at any work, in any place, and under the full control of the committee." The letter was written from the seclusion of his room in the village of Archangel Skoye, a suburb of Moscow.

MAY RETURN CREST.

Souvenir of 1763 Taken From Quebec, Held by Hastings, England.

QUEBEC, Jan. 20. — (Canadian Press).—If the city of Quebec will send a formal letter of request to the town of Hastings, England, the Corporation of that town may forward to the ancient capital the coat-of-arms that was taken from the city gates in 1759 by General Murray. This is the news contained in a letter received by Mayor Samson on Monday morning. A short time ago news despatches carried word to the effect that the Corporation of Hastings had decided to retain the shield but the letter received yesterday from C. B. Gabb, a Fellow of the Royal Society, and a resident of Hastings, expresses the belief that the Council of Hastings would surrender the shield on request in recognition of the services rendered by soldiers during the war.

SWEDEN IS WEALTHY

If Money Was Divided Each Resident Would Have $1,431.

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 20.—(Associated Press.)—An average of $1,431 for every man, woman and child, or a total of $8,576,000,000, is the amount of Sweden's taxable wealth, according to an estimate by a leading financial expert, recently published here. (In the United States the per capita wealth is estimated at $2,800.) The total taxable income of the Swedish people during the year 1924 rose to $1,152,400,000, and the total revenue of the Swedish government for the budget year 1925-26 is estimated at $170,000,000, the last two items being disclosed in official estimates.

Sweden's national wealth is growing at the rate of 7.35 per cent. a year. The taxable income of the Swedish people nets the government nearly $29,000,000 this year, which happens to be equal to the amount of revenue which the state expects to collect during the next budget year on the manufacture and distribution of liquor. It is calculated that the tobacco monopoly will yield a revenue of $13,400,000 and the automobile taxes $4,020,000.

BOSTON "BOBS" 75 CENTS.

Barbers Anger Women by Keeping Male Hair Cuts at 40.

BOSTON, Jan. 20. —Great is the ire of hob-haired woman. Local barbers have jumped the price of "bobs" to 75 cents, leaving the cost of a man's haircut where it was, 40 cents.

It is possible that the barbers here got thir inpiration from London, where the price was increased recently.

The charge for "bobing" has been 40 cents at most of the shops here, although recently some increased the rate to 50 cents. The jump to 75 cents throughout the city is a simultaneous one.

LESS DRINKING IN GERMANY

Alcohol Use, Once 100,000,000 Gallons, Drops to 25,000,000 in 1924.

BERLIN, Jan. 20.—Germany has beaten all records of abstinence since, in the year 1924, 60,000,000 Germans used only 25,000,000 gallons of alcohol and much of this was for industrial purposes, while the pre-war years saw a consumption sometimes of 100,000,000 gallons.

Alcohol statistics have been kept in Germany since 1828, when 30,000,000 Germans consumed 30,000,000 gallons yearly.

The Nationalist paper, Deutsche Tages Zeitung, seriously bewails the decrease in the consumption of alcohol and intimates that the decrease illustrates the downfall of the country.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Nobody Can Tell When You Darken Gray, Faded Hair With Sage Tea.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

Well-known druggists say everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.

HEAVY FLOOD LOSS.

Clearing Weather Brings Relief in Southern States.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 20.—(Canadian Press.)— Dead and missing listed as ten, railroad and motor traffic demoralized and heavy property damage, was the flood record in several Southern States to-day as the clearing weather brought relief from the situation acute since Saturday night. In Southern Georgia, where damage probably was the greatest, and in Mississippi, Alabama, South Carolina and Louisiana, streams were returning slowly to their beds and fair weather was forecast.

The south was flood-swept to-day, continuing rains sending rivers and streams on fresh rampages in half a dozen States. More than a score of villages were inundated and other towns and cities isolated by the flood waters which have taken a toll of ten lives.

Property damages mounted hourly and the number of refugees increased as the river bottom homes were flooded or swept away by the rising waters.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

TO the Editor, Examiner.

Will you please run the following report from today's Mail and Empire, of a sermon delivered by Rev. T. T. Shields in Toronto, Sunday, on Church Union.

READER

"I doubt if even an astronomer with all his skill at measuring space, could find the distance between Church Union and the real spirit of Christ, which is the regeneration of man. They are too many million miles apart to be measured. The foundation of Church Union is not Christian; it is essentially pagan; and the movement is a part of the general apostasy of the age."

The above are a few of the scattered phrases taken from the address of Rev. T. T. Shields in Jarvis Street Baptist Church last night, the topic of his address being "The Baptist Church and Church Union."

In addition to a general and broad condemnation of the spirit which was being displayed by the "so-called" Church Unionists, Dr. Shields congratulated those members of the Presbyterian Church who were holding out against the movement. He recognized that some of them might suffer in the process, that they "may be turned into the streets without a church home, in spite of the fact that they have contributed their thousands towards the unbuilding of the churches from which they are now being ejected," but at the same time he felt that they were to be congratulated, and not to be commiserated, for they were the ones among the Presbyterian body who represented the true spirit of Christ. Thir reward, he assured, would come from God.

Ignore the Basic Spirit.

As a basis for condemning the spirit of Church Union, Dr. Shields remarked that while there might be many names for the various churches among the Protestant body, there was but one spirit, or there should be but the one spirit, and that was the regeneration of man. All those who were sincere workers in that cause, and who had been admitted to the real Church of God, were in reality but one; already they were united in the real service, and it could not matter what was the name under which they were known, whether Methodist, Presbyterian, Anglican, Unitarian, Baptist or United. If the spirit was there, they were already united, and he felt that too much attention was being paid to the mere nomenclature of the church, and too little attention was being paid to the spirit of the church and its real work.

As to the Baptist Church, his remark was that they had too much home-cleaning to do to give any of their attention to the weaknesses of other denominations. And, personally, he had gained much greater happiness in the presence of some non-Baptised Presbyterians" than he had in the fellowship of "some Baptised pagans who call themselves Baptists." So the Baptist Church should confine its attention to the cleansing of its own household rather than adopting the controversy of Church Union, which, he believed, would bring 'great joy to the devil."

Aims at Monopoly.

The foundation stones of the Church Union movement," he added, "as I understand them from my own observation of certain sessions which I have attended, are laid upon the word economy'; but while the foundation stones are economy, you will find that in this, as in all other bodies which set out to form similar amalgamations, whether in business circles or elsewhere, the top stone is 'monopoly.' And I think it will rejoice the heart of the devil to find such a big organization growing up under one leadership, and I believe I could name the individual who will sit at the top and have his hand upon the controlling level."

"Dr. Chown of the Methodist Church recently remarked that the united force of the church would work for godly legislation," Dr. Shields went on, "and I name Dr. Chown because when I do not name them they say I talk in generalities. And when I do name them, they say I talk in personalities. So I may as well shoot straight at the mark. Dr. Chown says the power of a United Church will bring about godly legislation; but I do not know what godly legislation is. The work of the church is not to interfere in politics; and no church body has the right to go to the legislators of the land and ask for legislation, godly or otherwise. The part of the church is not reform. For reform is but building whited sepulchres which are filled with the bones of dead men. It is all very well to have the O.T.A. on the statute books of the Province; but it would be much better to have it written on the hearts of the people. A United Church may succeed in having other Acts such as the O.T.A. written upon the statute books of the land; but while they are having them written upon the statute books they are forgetting the hearts of the people; and so they bring great joy to the devil."

Dr. Shields concluded with the remark that if all the members of the Methodist and Presbyterian Churches within a half-mile radius of the Jarvis Street Baptist Church were to go to their business today with the spirit of Christ in their hearts, and were to apply it all through their daily lives, there would shortly be no such thing as a need or a call for Church Union.

Mothers especially like it for children as it takes the place of internal medicines.

Local Druggists Have Modern Remedy for Colds

A Vaporizing Salve which is Rubbed Over Throat and Chest for Colds.

When Vicks VapoRub, the "external 'method of treating sore throat, bronchitis, deep chest colds, or croup, is applied over throat or chest, the ingredients are released as vapors by the body heat.

These vapor, inhaled with each breath carry the medication directly to the affected air passages, loosening the phlegm and relieving the congestion.

At the same time Vicks acts as a counter-irritant, stimulating the skin, and thus helps the vapors inhaled to break up the inflammation.

Colds are usually relieved over night.

TROTSKY INCIDENT NOW A CLOSED BOOK

Action of Central Committee Not Questioned By Loyal Communists.

MOSCOW, Jan. 20. — (United Press). — The Trotsky incident is officially closed. This is the verdict of the Central Committee of the Communist party, after which no good Communist would consider raising the question under penalty of offending party discipline.

The Central and Control Committees removed the Commissiar of War and the navy by instructing him to send in his resignation and accepting the same. Official Russian newspapers print news of the resignation on their inside pages, without editorial comment.

Leon Trotsky, shorn of much of his power, is now expected to go south, for his health, as soon as he desires.

PIANOFORTE RECITAL AT CONSERVATORY

(By Jeannette).

Ernest Seitz made his premier bow to Peterboro audiences last night, when he appeared in a pianoforte recital at the Conservatory of Music Hall, attended by nearly three hundred people. Mr. Seitz, who is an artist of outstanding brilliance, had no assisting artists on his programme, and the fact that applause for his final number was repeated and insistent enough to bring him back for an encore is probably sufficient evidence of the impression he made on his hearers.

Mr. Seitz is a young musician whose intricate and difficult programme was executed in a manner that left little to be desired. He plays with the ease and fluency of one who has mastered the piano. A long and varied list of selections, ranging from the opening numbers of Bach-Liszt and Beethoven, a preliminary arrangement that seems to be a favorite with many pianists, to a lengthy Carnival selection by Schumann, a quintette of Chopin's studies and valses, on to a half-dozen of selections by modern composers, was played entirely from memory. Mr. Seitz' music is marked by a wonderfully virile tone, firm, sure and clear. His music is of the broadly smooth, swinging variety, not at all temperamental, but adequate at all times to the demands of different composers. Clarity and fluency, with limpid intonations, characterized his rendition in particular of the Chopin group. His music last night showed him to be a master of technique, with versatile expression and fine sense of rhythmical balance. He plays in the intellectual manner, with interpretations controlled at all times by a trained mind. And he does not allow mannerisms to mar the excellence of his work.

The opening selection, the Prelude and Fugue in A minor of Bach-Liszt, was a brilliant example of the scope of the musician's powers. Bach's earnest and lofty tone, which predominates in this impressive number, seems eminently suited to the temperament of the musician.

The Andante in F major of Beethoven followed, a type of the thematic music of the great composer, spiritual in its atmosphere, with rippling chords played with almost feminine lightness of touch.

"Ecossaises," the "Scotch" music of Beethoven-Busoni, was a brilliant number, swift in tempo and spirit, with an odd, abrupt ending. It was followed by a lengthy rendition of a dozen or more movements from Schumann's "Carnaval," Opus 9. In the nobly fantastic music of this lighter-tempered composer, the artist seemed to become absorbed. The original and romantic measures of the often inconsequent harmonies were drawn from the piano in liquid, flowing tones, the firm beat of hammered fingers alternating with the smooth, velvety touch of softly modulated melody.

The intricate demands of the music of Chopin, who has been termed a master of "chromatic sinuosities," held no terrors for Mr. Seitz. He played six of the compositions of the great Pole, three Etudes, a valse and the Ballade in G minor, and ended with an encore in the Black-key etude. The Slavonic character of this music was finely portrayed. The extension of chords and the arpeggios, in batteries, the little groups of delicate, super-added notes which distinguish the compositions of Chopin, were adequately met. Applause followed the rendition of the Etude in G sharp minor, a delicate bit with cascades of tiny beaten notes, the Etude in F minor, with its sudden finale, and the lovely, dreamy Ballade, marked by sudden transitions of tempo and mood.

The modern group included three selections by Palmgren; "The Swan," an odd morsel of music, "Rococo," a charming, tuneful number, and "Valse Mignonne," daintily sweet. The delightful music of Debussy was heard in the graceful "Claire de Lune," and two compositions by Moszkowski as final numbers, with a brilliant encore, formed what to many of the audience were two of the loveliest portions of a thoroughly satisfying programme. Moszkowski's "Barcarolle," with the rippling of moonlit water in its tinkling cadences, and the "Caprice Espagnol," gay, vibrant, whimsical, were followed by insistent applause which brought a double encore.

STORM IN NEW YORK.

Railway Lines Badly Handicapped and Shipping Delayed.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—(United Press.)— New York wallowed through the most uncomfortable snow storm of the winter to-day, the driving wind piling drifts inside the street and making the work of shovellers difficult. It was the second severe storm of the New Year and came just as an over-worked street cleaning department was clearing away the last of the blizzard which swept the city early in the month.

Surface lines were handicapped and thousands of workers were late to their posts.

Traffic in the harbor was delayed, ships fighting their way through the snow and heavy seas.

The weather bureau promised warmer weather during the day and it was hoped that rain would aid the snow shovellers in their task of clearing away the drifts.

M. McINTYRE IS CHAIRMAN LOCAL BOARD HEALTH

First Meeting Saw Much Constructive Business Transacted To-day.

MILK TEST AGAIN.

A Dozen Citizens Ordered to Connect Houses With Sewers Promptly.

The new Board of Health for 1925 held its first meeting this morning, appointing Alderman Malcolm McIntyre chairman. A big slate of business was cleaned off in good time, and several progressive measures were adopted.

The annual discussion on the advisability of publishing the milk tests took place, and, on motion of Claude Rogers and Mayor Turner, the tabulation made by the Provincial Laboratory was handed to the press.

Isolation Hospital.

There were five patients in Queen Mary Hospital at the beginning of December, three were admitted during the month and six discharged.

Payments on behalf of the hospital for the year amounted to $9,157.24. This was considered very satisfactory in view of the extensive repairs and improvements made at the hospital. The appropriation for the year was $10,000.

W. A. Fife criticized the sanitary inspector for alleged failure to report or remove a nuisance at 610½ Bethune Street. In his opinion, the inspector was not earning his salary since he omitted inspecting back yards. The complaint will be investigated.

No Relief Here.

Nicholls Hospital Board regretted its inability to agree with the Mayor's suggestion that the Isolation Hospital be taken over by the Nicholls Hospital and St. Joseph's Hospital.

Must Install Sewer.

About a dozen citizens were given warning that unless sewer connections are made at their houses before March 1, the Board will take action against them. These connections were ordered many months ago as a health measure, and the requirements of the Board have not been met.

Recommend Installations.

The Board recommended to the City Council the construction of a sewer on Bethune Street, between Wolfe and Dalhousie Streets, as a health measure.

An application from "A Resident" on Euclid Avenue for water facilities was recommended to the Utilities Commission for action. The sewer has been laid there, it is said, and the water should be put there as a health measure, the Board said.

There were present Chairman Malcolm McIntyre, Dr. T. W. H. Young, M.O.H., Mayor J. J. Turner, C. H. Rogers and Dr. J. M. O'Brien.

PASTOR PLEASED WITH KNOX VOTE

Rev. M. C. MacKinnon Hopes That All Dissenters Will Remain.

Rev. M. C. Mackinnon to-day expressed satisfaction with the result of the vote on the Church Union question in Knox Church, of which he is pastor.

"In view of the fact that the 'Presbyterian Church Association' reported Knox Church to the Private Bills Committees at Toronto and Ottawa," he said, "as being two-thirds opposed to union, it is interesting to note that out of a total voting strength of 524, there were only 131 ballots cast against entering the United Church.

"The finest spirit prevailed during the voting. A pleasing indication of this was given on Saturday evening after the poll had closed, when the officials sat down together to an oyster supper and an hour of pleasant fellowship.

Will Carry On.

"Knox Church will continue to function as at present," Mr. Mackinnon said, "carrying all its organization and practices as it does with the Presbyterian Church into the United Church. It is the earnest desire of the church officers that those who from honest convictions voted against union may feel that their sense of ownership, their rights, their fellowship and their justifiable pride in Knox church continue undisturbed, as indeed they do, and that in the unity of the Spirit and the bond of peace, all may continue to worship and serve as one family in their home church."

Alcohol was produced to the amount of 31,184,000 gallons in 1921. French fisheries are important, the value of their products in 1919 being 447,647,000. In Alsace, France has acquired first grade potash mines. The area of the potash basin, which was discovered in 1904, is from 200 to 250 square kilometres; its contents are estimated at 2,000,000,000 tons of salts of potash of 2.10 density, yielding about 400,000,000 tons of pure potash. The output in 1913 was 1,167,000 tons of which 331,000 was exported. During 1922 there was a record output of potash salts by the mines in Alsace, amounting to 1,326,727 tons as compared with 905,136 tons in 1921, 1,222,370 tons in 1920 and 592,365 tons in 1919.

Foreign Trade. France commands a great export market. Her exports are destined chiefly for Great Britain, Belgium-Luxemburg, the United States, Switzerland, Italy, Germany, Argentine. They consist largely of silkent goods, cottons, clothing, chemicals, wine, lace, automobiles, and hewn timber. French imports are coal and coke cereals, raw cotton, cast iron and steel, wool and machinery, and come in great quantity from the United States, Great Britain, Belgium, Argentina, Italy and Germany. Exports aggregated 19,187,000 tons in the first ten months of the past year as compared with 18,212,000 tons in 1922 and 17,846,000 tons in 1913.

Transportation. France has 25,766 miles of railway. The principal lines include the Northern Railway, the Eastern, the Paris-Lyons-Mediterranean, the Paris-orleans, the Southern (Midi) and the State Railway. The aggregate surplus of all lines amounted to Fcs. 403,300,000 for 1922 as compared with a deficit of Fcs. 2,084,000,000 in 1921, and 3,012,000,000 in 1920. During 1923 the railways did decidedly better than during the preceding year. Gross receipts for the period January 1-November 11, 1923 aggregated Fcs. 6,166,804,900 as compared with Fcs. 5,858,784,800 for the corresponding period in 1922.

Navigable rivers total 4,512 miles and canals 3,031 miles. In 1914 there were 23,918 miles of national roads.

National wealth and resources. The national wealth of France was estimated in March 1922 as being about Fcs. 770,000,000,000 as compared with Fcs. 300,000,000,000 in 1913 and 190,000,000,000 prior to the Franco-Prussian war. The national income is estimated at Fcs. 82,000,000,000 as compared with 37,000,000,000 in 1914, while the value of foreign investments (largely reduced since the war) is placed at from Fcs. 17,500,000,000 to 21,000,000,000 (gold). In 1914 it was estimated at 42,000,000,000. French capital before the war had gone considerably into her colonies but in much larger amounts into older and larger foreign countries. The French investments in the United States, in Canada, South America, the Near East and the Far East were important factors, and the revenue from these foreign holdings probably aggregated about $400,000,000 per annum. The total debt of the Russian Government to the French Government was given as of January 1, 1923 at Fcs. 6,040,000,000 (gold) inclusive of Fcs. 995,000,000 (gold) charge by the Bank of France for discounting Russian Government obligations. Advances to other countries amounted on January 1, 1923 to Fcs. 9,275,500,000, viz., Rumania, Fcs. 1,181,500,000. Jugo-Slavia Fcs. 1,703,000,000; Greece Fcs. 861,000,000; Poland Fcs. 1,056,000,000. Czecho-Slovakia, Fcs. 576,000,000; Belgium Fcs. 3,684,000,000; Italy Fcs. 49,000,000; exclusive of Fcs. 800,000,000 (gold) in supplies of materials to be covered to indefinite extent by value of Italian supplies of materials, Esthonia; Fcs. 10,500,000; Montenegro Fcs. 13,000,000. Lithuania Fcs. 6,000,000; Hungary Fcs. 1,000,000; Austria Fcs. 500,000; and Latvia Fcs. 11,000,000.

Reparations. France is to receive large sums on her reparation account from Germany which will greatly enhance her treasury. The Ministry of Finance has issued a statement outlining the economic and financial situation. As it contains much information of interest to Canadian investors in French Government 6% Bonds our correspondent has summarized the statement as follows:—

The Government will shortly be in a position to increase its reimbursements to the Bank of France which will do away with the menace of inflation, while it will also help to stabilize the value of the franc in relation with foreign exchanges. The franc as a result, will then start to gain in value and so cause the cost of living to decrease.

The budgetary situation shows a steady improvement. In 1919 national expenditure exceeded revenue by nearly 24 billion francs; in 1923, the general budget, which included all expenditure of government departments balanced; in 1924, the general budget will show an excess of revenue over expenditure; while the ordinary expenditures under the Special Budget for reconstruction of the devastated regions; in 1925, for the first time in eleven years, according to the present official estimates, all expenditures will be met by normal revenue.

The general economic situation shows a similar improvement. The uninterrupted development of France's foreign trade, the constant increase in revenue from all sources of taxation, the reconstruction of the devastated regions and the new wealth brought to the country by the return of Alsace Lorraine are all factors of prime importance to the nation's economic balance sheet.

In 1920 France's imports exceeded exports by 24 billion francs, today the situation is reversed and France is selling abroad more than she is buying. On the basis of the figures for the first six months of last year, the trade balance, for 1924, will be in France's favor to the extent of 5 billion francs.

Seventy-five per cent. of the total damage done by the German armies in the devastated regions of Northern France has now been made good and this remarkable result has been achieved by France alone. The provinces of the north have recovered their entire pre-war population of 4,278,000 inhabitants and the terrible ravages of war will soon be wiped out.

Most important of all, in concluding this statement of France's economic and financial condition, the French Minister of Finance points out that Germany has now declared herself willing to make reparations payments and that under the provisions of the Dawes plan 52 per cent. of these payments will be credited to France. These monies will be of material help in enabling the French Government to speed up the execution of its financial program which includes provision for the amortization of the public debt.

Refunding External Debt. Latest reports indicate that France is ready to proceed with the refunding of her loan to Great Britain and the United States. This step, in the opinion of international bankers, will prove a powerful impetus in the rise of the franc. The aftermath of the refundment can best be gauged by the behaviour of the British pound sterling, which has recently scored a new high since the war of $4.80 per pound, or, within 6 cents of its par value. The Franc, during the early part of January showed its strength and the movement, we believe, is but precursory, in view of the recent better tone of exchange, to a rise of greater proportions. As the current rate of exchange enhances the future value of these high grade French Government 6% Bonds, investment users of these securities will have some splendid profits to show within the next few months.

FRANCE!

"France, the worker, has before her, a magnificent future which will demonstrate to the world that it was not wrong in displaying confidence in her."

M. CLEMENTEL, Minister of Finance, in a recent address.

French Government 6% Bonds Provide the Investment Opportunity of the Present Generation

PRESENT PRICE YIELDS ABOUT 7¾% And Yield increases as Franc Rises

Funding of France's External Debt to Great Britain and the United States will serve as a powerful impetus in driving the value of French Government 6% bonds rapidly upwards.

EXCEPTIONAL PROFITS FOR ASTUTE INVESTORS

WE BELIEVE that an investment made today in French Government 6% Bonds (issued Dec. 16th, 1920—Redeemable on or after January 1st, 1931), presents an exceptional opportunity for profit on any material advance in the value of French money (francs).

Due to the depreciation of French francs, a French Government 6% Bond can now be bought for approximately $45.00; with French Exchange at normal (19.3c per franc) these same bonds would have a value of $193.00 each.

International bankers believe that French francs will sell above 10c per franc before very long. Just think what it means to French Government securities; when the franc touches 10c, each bond of 1,000 francs would have a value of $100.00—a rise of over 125% or a profit of $55.00 for every $45.00 invested. With the franc selling at 15c per franc or $150.00 per 1,000 francs your profit will be $105.00 for every bond of 1,000 francs or for every $45.00 invested.

We made a thorough investigation to determine the best way to buy French francs for maximum profits. We believe that the French Government 6% Bonds, maturing after 1931, afford the best medium, for they represent to French Investors precisely what the high grade British Government Consols and our own Canadian Government Victory Bonds represent to us, being legal investments for every institution, Trust Fund and Savings Bank in France and constitute a strictly high-grade gilt-edged government investment. They may be sold again instantly, being listed on the Paris Stock Exchange (Bourse). The interest coupons have always been paid promptly on the dot and can be cashed in Montreal, New York, London and the principal financial centres of the world at the current rate for francs.

French Government Bonds will unquestionably come back to normal ($193.00 per 1,000 francs). The United States were financially bankrupt after the Civil War. Their securities could be bought for a song, yet in a few years the Americans were on their feet financially again, and today are considered the richest nation in the world.

England, too, once faced what seemed to be financial disaster. With Napoleon virtually pounding at her gates, British Bonds went next to nothing, but the victory at Waterloo sent them skyrocketing. The Rothschild family accumulated the major portion of its wealth by investing in British Bonds and selling them when Wellington's victory became known.

The experience of France, bankrupt at the hands of Bismark, is within the memory of living man. Her bonds sold down to 7% of their normal value after the Franco-Prussian war. They appeared hopeless, yet in two years they had recovered 95% of their normal value, making fortunes for those who had the courage to invest in them. When millions of men and populations of nations lend their collective efforts to the task—nothing is impossible. The French Franc will undoubtedly come back to normal.

A study of history convinces one forcibly that the most difficult thing in the world to destroy is national existence. History will repeat itself. We believe that the opportunity of a lifetime, to make remarkable profits, exists today for our clients, through the purchase of these high-grade government securities. They rank as the highest-grade French Government bonds, and are virtually a first mortgage on the entire assets and resources of the Republic of France. The bonds are valid for thirty years after maturity and the interest coupons for five years after redemption date, thus enabling you to cash them at any time the exchange rates are favorable.

France ranks as a first-class military, naval and commercial power of the world. French industries are thriving and working overtime. France is exporting goods to every country of the globe; her shipping is crowding the seas and the nation shows every evidence of industrial and economic progress. Reparation payments from Germany are further enhancing her treasury. These conditions should be quickly reflected in a rapid rise in the French franc, which would in turn increase the value of her Government bonds. That is why we urge you to buy French Government bonds now while they are on the bargain counter.

As the franc rises, the value of these bonds will increase as follows:

FRANCS	Present Price	With Franc At 10 cents	With Franc At 15 cents	With Franc At Par (19c)
1,000 French Government 6% Bonds	$45	$100	$150	$193
2,000 French Government 6% Bonds	90	200	300	386
5,000 French Government 6% Bonds	225	500	750	965
10,000 French Government 6% Bonds	450	1000	1500	1930
25,000 French Government 6% Bonds	1125	2500	3750	4825
50,000 French Government 6% Bonds	2250	5000	7500	9650

We handle all kinds of foreign government and municipal bonds and it is vitally important to us to have our clients select those which will make the most money for them and make it most quickly. Our interest does not cease after a sale, for it is our constant aim to keep in touch with our clients, to render them service, posting them when the bonds rise in market value, and advising them whether or not we deem it advisable to sell. This service is expensive to ourselves but its value to our clients is incalculable. Use the order form below.

J. Pierpont Morgan, probably the greatest financier the world has ever known, is recently quoted as saying:

"We have absolute confidence not only in the resources of France, but even more in the intelligent and industrious population...

"France, soon will be invincible, in the economic domain. In any case, we shall always be at her side and sustain her when necessary...

"Before two years have elapsed, France will have reconquered, from the economic viewpoint, the prepondering situation she enjoyed before the war."

After having exhaustively studied the sound financial condition of France, we believe that purchasing her high grade government bonds at present prices is an opportunity one cannot afford to miss, as the profits will be large and very rapid.

French Government 6% Bonds, which are described in these columns are purchased by French citizens, not only for the safety of the principal, but also because of their never failing, tax-exempt, interest income. In purchasing these bonds at the actual market price, the client makes his investment at rock-bottom prices.

It is our opinion that the present rate of exchange of the French franc is inconsistent with the financial and potential natural resources of the Republic of France.

We momentarily anticipate a sharp upward movement in the franc. In fact we believe that it will sell at 10c per franc, or $100.00 per 1,000 francs before very long. We are convinced our clients will double, if not treble their money within a remarkably short time.

Not only does the principal increase in value as the franc advances but the interest income becomes automatically augmented. For instance, each bond of 10,000 francs yields an income of 600 francs per annum.

At the present rate of the franc holders of French Government 6% bonds receive interest at the rate of about 7¾%. As the franc rises the interest or return on the principal, automatically increases.

With the franc quoted only at 8 cents, the holder of these bonds would receive $48.00 in Canadian money for each 600 francs yearly interest income. This is a good return on an original outlay of $450.00, representing as it does, an interest rate of about 11 per cent instead of 6%. With the franc at 10 cents, or $100.00 per 1,000 francs, the interest income converted into Canadian currency would amount to $60.00, equivalent to an income return of 14% on the principal invested.

When the franc is quoted at 15c or $150.00 per 1,000 francs, every 600 francs will be worth $90.00 in Canadian money; this return represents an interest rate of over 19% on an investment of $450.00. When the franc reaches par, the annual interest in Canadian currency will be $115.60 for every 600 francs, this return is equivalent to an interest rate of over 25 per cent on $450.00.

As remarked elsewhere, you do not have to cash your interest coupons as soon as they become due. You can hold each interest coupon for five years after redemption date. This will permit you to dispose of them at materially higher rates than at the present time.

The important fact to remember, however, is that your principal increases in value as the franc rises.

Rarely has the investment public been offered an investment that returns such an attractive yield with absolute guaranty of both principal and interest.

Thousands of our clients in Canada and the United States have purchased these sound, high-grade, French Government Bonds. They have placed their money where it will return them a handsome income together with a unique opportunity of reaping a liberal profit.

As the security is unequalled—and the investment thoroughly safe, we advise clients to buy as many of these bonds as they may possibly find it convenient to invest in. Immediate action must be taken if real profits are to be made.

As the largest dealers in Canada specialising exclusively in foreign government and municipal bonds, it is only after we have sounded exhaustively the merits of an investment that we recommend it to our clients. Being in constant touch with the foreign markets of the world, we offer our clients the benefits of a reliable service and efficient organisation.

Our past record stands out as testimony to our ability to make money for all who deal with us. In November of 1923 we urged investors to make immediate substantial investments in German Government 5% bonds. We sold those bonds at $39.00 per one million marks. Nine months later those same bonds rose to $2,800.00 returning a profit of about five thousand per cent. for every $39.00 invested. One of our customers who made an investment of $1,140.00 in November, 1923, was offered $320,000.00 for the same bonds on September 18th, 1924.

On August 2nd of this year we sold to some of our clients City of Hamburg 4½% Bonds, 1919 issue, at the price of $345.00 per bond of one million marks' denomination. On September 10th—in less than one month's time—we bought back the same bonds at a price of $1,150.00 returning a profit of $805.00 for every $345.00 invested.

Thousands of C. M. Cordasco & Company's clients, scattered throughout the length and breadth of Canada have become comparatively wealthy by investments made in selected securities upon our recommendation.

Fortunes are earned every day by far-sighted investors in selected foreign government and municipal bonds which we recommend.

Many investors, heretofore compelled to be satisfied with 3 and 4% interest on their principal have liquidated their former holdings and purchased French Government 6% Bonds.

They are, as a result, in great demand and it is not at all unlikely that the decreased floating supply alone will cause them to rise in value. We believe present purchasers will receive handsome profits during 1925. French Government 6% Bonds will rapidly increase in value.

ORDERS FILLED IN ROTATION

Owing to the great demand for these bonds and their present scarcity our staff is taxed to the utmost. While we give each investor the same attention and service, and care is always given to individual requirements, in justice to all we are compelled to fill orders in the rotation in which they are received.

MAY DISCIPLINE JOHNNY DUNDEE

French Boxing Confederation Complain That He Broke His Contract.

ON WAY HOME.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19. — Johnny Dundee may face disciplinary action in this country at the hands of the New York State Athletic Commission as a result of his hasty departure from Paris without fulfilling a contract to fight Brettonel, French light- weight.

This was indicated yesterday by George E. Brower, chairman of the commission who declined in the absence of official information to predict what action might be taken but said his organizaiton would act promptly on any recommendations made to it by the French Boxing Federation.

PARIS, Jan. 20. — Formal complaint against Johnny Dundee and his manager, Jimmy Johnston, for failure to carry out the Dundee-Bretonnel fight, which was to have been held here on January 27th, has been lodged with the French Boxing Federation by Promotor Boyar and in addition a suit for 75,00 francs damages was filed to-day in the French civil courts against both the fighter and his manager.

The "affaire Dundee" as it is known here, is attracting much interest in sporting circles. The promoters decided to file the suit and complaint against Dundee and his advisor only after they had received a wireless from the captain of the liner Paris, two hours out of Plymouth bound for New York, saying that Dundee was aboard. There was also a message from Johnny himself saying he was sorry that illness in his family made it imperative for him to return to the United States, but that he would come back to fight Bretonnel or anybody else.

AMATEUR SOCCER CLUBS BAR PROS.

All Canadian Provinces Uphold Regulation of D. F. A.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 19 — John Easton, president of the Dominion Football Association, announces that all the Provinces of Canada have voted against the proposal to allow a professional soccer player to play with an amateur team. Mr. Easton explains that the vote could not have gone any other way, because of the rule.

The suggestion came in the first place, from Montreal, and was discussed at the D. F. A. annual meeting held in that city last fall, but it was deemed advisable to give the various Provinces time to think it over. This they have done with a negative vote as the result. This means no old country professional players can sign for a team in Canada until the whitewash brush has been applied to him through the proper channels.

There is certain to be an influx of players from the motherland in the Spring, and unless they carry with them the proper credentials, they are sure to be kept out of the game until such times as they can be obtained. This means delay, which the Montreal people sought to avoid.

PETES AND VARSITY AT ARENA TO-NIGHT

Toronto Hoping Collegians Will Stop Group Leaders.

The Toronto Star last night referred to the Peterboro-Varsity game tonight as follows:

Torontos O.H.A. card this week is mighty interesting—one senior, three intermediate, and five junior games.

The card opens up with Richmond Hill intermediates playing North Toronto tonight up in Willowvale rink. To-morrow night the crack Peterboro team steps into town to take a whirl at Varsity. Varsity gave them a tidy argument down in Peterboro, but the Petes, figuring themselves a big ice team, think that they will run up a score here. Maybe they will, but just the same Varsity always fields a team of stubborn triers. Saturdays game against McGill was just a nice work-out for the college team, and they will be right on edge for tomorrow nights game. Peterboro is about due for a bump. Just in case tomorrow night is the night the boys better cancel all other dates and drop down to the Arena to see the blow-off come off. Anyway if Varsity cannot stop the rush of the Petes the net guarding of Joe Dwyer is well worth the price of admission alone to say nothing of the tireless display of those Nurmis on skates up on the forward line, Bailey, Collins, Ranger, Burgess and Rose. This Peterboro team is just about the best balanced team Toronto has seen since the Granites "cleaned the works in 1923.

NEW FEATHER CHAMPION SMILES AS HE PUNCHES

Kaplan's Boyish Enthusiasm For His Work Makes Him Popular Battler.

HA KAPLAN OBJECTED TO BOX-FIGHTING AND HE FOUGHT UNDER NAME OF BENNY MILLER

BY JOE WILLIAMS

This writer saw Louis Kid Kaplan win the featherweight championship in Madison Square Garden recently and is persuaded to rank the Russian-American at a top-notch, high-class, A-No. 1 battler. And yet Kaplan has no genuinely outstanding fistic characterization. He does not possess the all-round efficiency of or the destructive hitting power or McGovern or the combined punching skill of Kilbane.

But he has something few fighters show today—a spirited enthusiasm for the game. Kaplan likes to fight! Perhaps he hasn't been in the ring long enough to become hardened or calloused, being but 23 years old. At any rate he gets more sheer, unalloyed joy out of flinging punches in the general direction of an opponent's noodle than any boxer we have seen in 10 years.

Throughout the title-winning fight with Danny Kramer, Philadelphia southpaw, Kaplan wore a confident radiant smile, which widened as he warmed to his task. It seemed to annoy him somewhat when Kramer's handlers tossed in the towel in the ninth round, betokening defeat.

Kaplan Has the Savage Instict

There is something of the "killer" instinct in Kaplan and ringsiders got the impression he would have preferred to keep hammering away until the man in front of him dropped helpless.

This smacks of brutality but the professional fighting man must have a bit of the savage in him. Dempsey, Leonard and Walker have the savage instinct, and they are the three outstanding fighters of the present day.

It's a good sign to find the same instinct in the new featherweight champion, even if he does smile when denting an enemy jaw.

Kaplan tells you his best punch is his left hook to the body. However, how he arrives at this conclusion is mystifying. The truth is Kaplan hits so fast and so frequently with both hands it is impossible to tell which is the more effective.

I would not call him a great hitter, though he did the unexpected and stopped Kramer, an admittedly superior puncher. Kaplan's ceaseless punching simply wore Kramer down, even as drops of water will wear out stone.

In one round, the seventh, Kaplan hit Kramer 28 times by actual count without a return. A great puncher does not need to hit you that often to score a knockout. And Kramer at no time was even knocked off his feet.

Just the same Kaplan is a remarkable little fighting man and he'll be a popular champion. Perhaps it doesn't make much difference how to bring your man down as long as you ultimately turn the trick, and Kaplan, with his relentless drum fire of short lefts and rights to the body, with an occasional over-hand swing, seems to have a winning formula.

We found him much easier to watch than sluggers of the George Chaney-Charley White type, who fiddle around, round after round, waiting for an opening.

He Used to Be "Benny Miller."

Kaplan is a product of the amateur rings of Meriden, Conn. His first fights as a professional were conducted under the name of Benny Miller. This because Ma Kaplan would have no box-fighting in her family.

Pa Kaplan, a gifted junk dealer, looked upon the profession with more tolerant eyes, and in due time Benny Miller became Louis Kid Kapplan and as such proceeded to win the featherweight and junior lightweight titles of New England.

Kaplan has had about 100 fights and has been a consistent winner. He has two brothers, Noah and Israel, who are following his steps in the ring.

Kaplan has the build of a wrestler from the chest up. His forearms are unusually large. This gives him great hitting power, and is the secret of the astonishing success he gets with a short jolting blow.

The NUT CRACKER BY JOE WILLIAMS

MR. BIG MUNN

For the first time in the flop-eared, non-skid history of wrestling the game has a Big Munn instead of a Big Bum as its champion.

Big Munn is a large, muscular product of the wide-open collegiate spaces of Nebraska where men are men and, oddly enough, so are the wrestlers.

The new ace in the flop-'em-and-hop-'em deck is a highbrow who has the low down on the gentle science of bone-crushing.

Big Munn is very collegiate and always wears his half Nelson at a rakish angle. The class of '22 still talk about how he shocked the junior prom by appearing in a double-breasted head lock and a bright red scissors hold.

The Man Mountain is the only guy known to the Academy of Higher Arts who ever threw a champion out of the ring, his senses, his title and a European tour, all with one delicate gesture of the micrometer.

When Mr. Lewis regained consciousness he wanted to know if the women and children had been saved and if the interne would kindly lift that locomotive off his left ear, please.

The catch-as-catch-can Colosseum used to play football. He picked Strangler up and ran the length the field twice for touchdowns. On another occasion he threw him for a 40-yard pass which was grounded. If there had been a fourth quarter he'd probably drop-kicked him from the 65-yard line.

The Grappling Gibraltar was a six-pointed star with the Nebraska eleven, but Walter Camp ignored him. Walter had more brains than the Strangler.

Arthur Brisbane asks what is courage .....This makes it clear Arthur has never been the first to drink from a strange bottle.

Strangler Lewis announces he will take a long rest, and he can't make it too long to suit most wrestling fans.

It surprises us to hear that Tex Rickard wants Nurmi to turn professional .....We thought he had enough professional runners around the Garden already.

We agree with the U.S.G.A. it is a problem to eliminate bugs from the putting greens .....Perhaps stricter membership regulation would help.

Whenever we read that a golf player is well fixed we [illegible] wondering if old man [illegible] oughn't to investigate

[illegible]ber way for a college to get [illegible]city is to offer Knute Rockne a $50,000 contract for ten years ..... It costs nothing to offer that much.

Times do change. In the old days if you tried to crash the gate you were just a bum. Now you are a sport celebrity, worthy of eight-column headlines.

 Tex Rickard has made an official ranking of the fighters of the country, the emphasis being on the rank. **

Up to the time of Camel-walking to press neither Bill Johnston nor Vincent Richards has made any move to keep Bill Tilden from carrying on his threat to retire.

"ALL-BLACKS" TO TOUR CANADA

THE world-famous "All-Blacks" Rugby Team of New Zealand will tour Canada shortly, having made arrangements to sail from Liverpool on January 24th, aboard the Canadian Pacific Steamship "Montlaurier." The team will visit Toronto, Niagara Falls, the Canadian Pacific Experimental Farm at Strathmore, Banff, Vancouver and Victoria. They will play in these last two cities. The photograph above was taken when they played Ireland during their sensational tour of the British Isles and France, in which they never lost a match, and gives an excellent idea of their fine team-work.

MIDGET CHURCH LEAGUE.

Twelve Teams Entered—Shortage of Rinks Holding Up Games.

The church league have lined up twelve teams in their midget series but are faced with the problem of not being able to get a rink for these games, or if they can obtain in the charge of two dollars is too steep for the games. This means with ten players on each team about 120 youngsters under the age of thirteen who are eager to play hockey will be kept out of their first opportunity to play in the organized sport.

The teams might be able to play on one of the "poverty ponds" if one could be secured for their games.

ARE PLEASED

Local Presbyterians are much pleased over today's returns on the Church Union question. Out of 14 churches reported, in the telegraphic news as having voted on Church Union, 10 voted to continue Presbyterian and only 4 in favor of Union. This, it is said, bears out what the Presbyterians have been claiming that the tide has definitely set in against Church Union and that an increasingly large percentage of Presbyterians will vote in favor of continuing their church.

An outstanding feature of today's returns was the vote of the congregation of St. Andrew's and St. Paul's of Montreal where only 81 votes were cast for the Union and 586 against it. This church is one of the outstanding Presbyterian Churches in Canada. In 1923 it had 1293 members and contributed $14,584 for missionary purposes.

In addition to the reports in today's telegraphic news, it is announced by the Local Association that another congregation in the Peterboro Presbytery, the one at Warkworth, has voted against Union, the vote being 95 to 84, with six ballots not counted which were claimed by the Presbyterians. This makes the fourth good sized congregation Union. Presbyterians contri- which has voted against Union.

Presbyterians object strenuously to the claim that has been advanced on behalf of the Unionists lately in The Examiner that the Unionists were the largest givers to the missions. This is a claim which is utterly impossible of proof. Givings, by the different congregation vary and in the congregations voted to enter Union Presbyterians contributed their full share as well as the Unionists. The large anti-Union vote by the congregation of St. Andrew's and St. Paul's of Montreal, and the vote of Knox Church, Toronto, are typical of anti-union congregations which are liberal givers to missionary purposes. Already three men, who are in favor of continuing the Presbyterian Church have subscribed among them $45,000 as a nucleus for the missionary funds of the continuing Presbyterian Church.

A very successful dance was held at the Armouries on Friday evening for the benefit of the Cobourg Hockey Club. Mr. W. G. Scopis made the arrangements and spared no pains to make it successful. There was a good attendance, and Ben Hokea's orchestra supplied excellent music.

The Charity Situation.

A meeting of the Town Council and of the women's organizations who assist in charity work in the town, was held here during the week to discuss the question of relief work, so that there may not be overlapping. After some discussion, a committee of ladies from the King's Daughters was appointed to carry on for a time. There are more families than usual who require help in Cobourg this winter owing to the seriousness of the employment situation. Two local industries here closed down, and there is practically no work at the building trades.

CRETE PALACE BUILT IN ANCIENT TIMES

Six Thousand-Year-Old Palace is One of the World's Wonders.

By C. T. HALLINAN

LONDON, Jan. 20. — (United Press).—Dispatches from Crete announce that the archeologists have now completed the excavations of a building which, though dating back to 4,000 B.C., is described as the "most modern building of the ancient world.

It is the palace of Knossos, the home of the Minoan sea kings, whose vessels, half naval, half pirate, dominated the Eastern Mediterranean during the Neolothic age.

Archeologisis have been working slowly, painfully, at this excavation for many years, marvelling at the modern drainage system revealed, the facilities for "hot and cold water," the spacious, dignified halls, the imposing stairways. Now the long task is done and the palace Knossos stands revealed in its main outline on the brow of a hill overlooking the blue Mediterranean.

And the local museum at Canada is crowded to bursting with the remarkable articles found in the palace, every one of which dates back at least to 3,000 B.C.

Archeologists say that the palace would make a sensitive plumber burst into tears.

By the time he had traced with professional skill the drainage system of the palace, he would be so ashamed of having progressed so little since 3,000 or 4,000 B.C. that he would retire permianently from his profession and nevermore wipe a joint.

For example, the modern "trap" upon which the plumber prides himself was "old stuff" to the clever Minoans when they built this palace. So was the ventilating shaft. So were the separate conduits for hot and cold water. They were pleasure-loving, those Minoan men and women, and their customs were much too free and easy for modern tastes, but it is clear from the remains of this palace that the Romans, three or four thousand years later, had not surpassed them in all that makes for luxury.

What makes the thing even more remarkable, according to the archeologists who are studying the palace, is that the Minoans [illegible]ed this palace within a few [illegible]red years after they ascended from a state of barbarism.

It is as though the American Indians, left entirely to themselves had within a few hundred years been able to erect a stone sky-scraper with all modern improvements.

While many questions about this Minoan civilization remain to be answered, the experts feel very strongly that these non-moral, pleasure-loving, adventurous people traveled farther in a few centuries than any other people before or since.

SUICIDE VERDICT IN SMITH DEATH

Raymond Bell Deliberately Drank Poison, Indicated by Coroner's Finding.

"Suicide" is the verdict given to The Examiner today by Dr. T. W. H. Young in the case of Raymond Bell, who died at his home on the fourth line of Smith Township a week ago yesterday. Bell, who was 23 years of age, was first reported to have drunk poison in mistake for medicine, but investigations made by Provincial Constable N. H. Maker and reported to Coroner Dr. Young and Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K.C., indicate, it is said, that death was deliberate. The evidence was sufficient, the coroner found, to warrant his issuing this finding without the formality of an inquest.

Bell was of a nervous disposition and had suffered intermittently for years, his mind being affected at times. It is said he took bi-chloride of mercury, used as bed bug poison during one of his nervous seizures.

MORE RESERVED SEATS FOR THE PARKDALE GAME

Unprecedented Demand For Tickets Met by Installation of Opera Chairs.

THE SEASON'S BEST.

Warm Fight With Petes' Nearest Rivals Has Local Fans All Excited.

Friday night's Senior O. H. A. fixture at Brock Street Rink between Parkdale Canoe Club and the Peterboro Hockey Club Seniors has the local fans all excited and the indications point to a huge crowd for what is regarded as the big game of the season.

The Paddlers expect to win here on Friday, counting upon the smaller ice surface to counteract the superior speed of the Petes.

The local crew, however, hope to grab their third victory of the season from the Parkdale squad.

The chance of seeing the Petes clash with their closest rivals and at the same time to see in action that star of the Canadian Olympic team and the most sought after amateur in the game. Harry Watson is regarded by Peterboro fans as too good to miss. The great record away from home of the Petes who have won seven games on the road this season while they have appeared at home but twice has aroused hockey enthusiasm to new heights and a monster crowd will greet the rival teams on Friday.

The reserved seat plan is only open to subscribers on Wednesday at Bond's. On Thursday, the remaining seats of this section and a new block of nearly 200 reserved seats for which new opera chairs have been installed will be placed on sale. This additional section has been arranged to meet the unprecedented demand for reseved seat tickets and the new arrangement will mean that the general admission accommodation on the west side of the rink will be confined to the section at the north end.

UNDERWRITERS IN CONFERENCE HERE

Three Toronto Speakers at Banquet at Empress To-day.

Field men of the Confederation Life Association from various parts of Eastern Ontario are in conference with head office officials at the Empress Hotel to-day. This conference is one of the series which are being held territorially throughout Canada, and will be extended later to Great Britain, Newfoundland, Cuba and other countries in which the Confederation Life Association is doing business.

The head office officials in attendance at the Peterboro conference are C. S. Macdonald, general manager, C. D. Devlin, assistant superintendent for Canada; V. R. Smith, actuary, and William Wallace, inspector. Representatives of the company in attendance include Messrs. Wm. Boulton, divisional manager, Peterboro; A. J. Meiklejohn, district manager, Kingston; Thos. H Gillespie, district manager, Peterboro; M. C. Burgess, district manager, Belleville, and the following general agents. F. C. Bonnycastle, Campbellford; George A. Benor, Peterboro; W. D. Kemp and Angus Mowat, Trenton; J. J. Moore, Barrie; J. D. Haig, Cobourg; Wm. G. Rowland, Millbrook; J. W. Kemp, Port Hope; W. F. Smith, Kingston; Harry Rush, J.P., Peterboro; Geo. A. Baker, Gananoque; Thos. H. McBride, Coldsprings; W. H. Dewart, Indian River; Gilbert Howson, Keene; Norman Sheeny, Little Britain, and Thos. L. Bruce, Peterboro. Mr. C. D. Devlin, assistant superintendent for Canada, is the presiding officer at to-day's meetings.

At this mornings session, Mr. C. S. Macdonald, general manager, delivered the address of welcome, and Mr. V. R. Smith, actuary, spoke on the company's new rate book and new policies, from the actuarial viewpoint. Other subjects discussed at today's meeting were "Salesmanship," by Mr. C. D. Devlin, assistant superintendent for Canada; "Sales Service Helps to Field Men," by William Wallace, inspector; "The Duty of the Salesman to Himself, His Company, and His Client," by T. H. Gillespie, Peterboro; "Prospecting for Prospects," by Geo. A. Benor, Peterboro; "Canvassing and Selling the Farmer," by W. G. Burgess, Belleville; "Making a Success of a Local Agency," by F. C. Bonnycastle, Campbellford, and "Making a Sale," by A. A. Perrin, Peterboro.

At a joint luncheon to-day of the Life Underwriters' Association and the Confederation Life representatives, at the Empress Hotel, the speakers were C. D. Delvin, Superintendent of the Confederation Life, Toronto, V. R. Smith of Toronto, and William Wallace, also of Toronto.

Mr. Devlin, speaking on "The Secret of Salesmanship," had high praise for the Peterborough Senior hockey team, saying that they had won their laurels by hard work and co-operation and that no body of men would become successful without working together. You must endeavour to build up insurance. No man should attempt to sell insurance until he has mastered the rules and regulations of the company he is employed by. If you wait till your prospect comes to you, insurance will be hard to sell. You must see your prospect to make a sale. Obstacles in his mind should easily be overcome when you remind him of his family after he is dead. You should endeavour to create in his mind the necessity of carrying a policy, said the speaker.

Remind your prospect that when the head of the family dies, the father, husband and income dies and that there is his wife and children left behind. Do unto him as you would be done by if you were in his place. If you follow out this scheme you are going to get business and satisfied policy holders. In concluding his address the speaker said, "The secret of success is work. Selling life insurance is easy if you go at it hard and it is hard if you go at it easy.

Mr. William Wallace in speaking on "The New Life Insurance Act," said that every agent of a company should have a good sound knowledge of his business. "We are here to give service to the people and not to merely get his money," he said. Every agent must look after his own clients. The applicant should not be prejudiced in any way when taking out a policy. A new clause in the Act calls for that when a man who carries insurance on himself and made out to his wife are separated the wife is shut out and the man has the control. There are also several other new clauses in the act.

V. R. Smith, also of Toronto, gave an interesting but brief address on "Underwriting from an Actuary's Standpoint." The speaker said that the agent's one aim was to sell insurance and help build up the company. The salesman's main object is to make sales, but he should always make sure that the sales are safe ones. Four years ago in Canada a company was formed which sold insurance without a medical examination. It was through highly trained agents that this company was made such a big success. When the agents are capable and honest men the company is not taking a very big risk. During these four years, said the speaker, these non-medical companies have taken more pains in selling their policies than the companies that demand a medical examination.

During the past year two companies in Hartford have taken over the American scheme and more are falling in line. If the companies discontinue the non-medical business there will be a strong protest from the field men. More co-operation is what is needed in our business today.

I. P. McNabb, president of the Peterboro Underwriters' Association, presided.

A banquet will take place this evening at the Empress Hotel, attended by the Confederation Life field men when Mr. C. S. Macdonald will preside. The toast to "Our President" will be proposed by Mr. Harry Rush, J.P., and responded to by Mr. Macdonald; to "Our Guests," by C. D. Devlin, and responded to by Messrs. Meiklejohn, Gillespie, Burgess, Kemp and Moore; to "Our Hosts," by Wm. Boulton, and responded to by V. R. Smith and William Wallace.

ACID STOMACH IS DANGEROUS
Sufferers From Indigestion or Stomach Trouble CUT THIS OUT
"Stomach trouble, dyspepsia, indigestion, sourness, gas, heartburn, food fermentation, etc., are caused nine times in ten by chronic acid stomach,' says a well know authority.
Burning hydrochloric acid develops in the stomach at an alarming rate. The acid irritates and inflames the delicate stomach lining and often leads to gastritis accompanied by dangerous stomach ulcers. Don't dose an acid stomach with pepsin or artificial digestents that only give temporary relief from pain by driving the sour, fermenting food out of the stomach into the intestines.
Instead, neutralize or sweeten your acid stomach after meals with a little hot water and Bisurated Magnesia and not only will the pain vanish but your meals will digest naturally. There is nothing better than Bisurated Magnesia, to sweeten and settle an acid stomach. It soaks up the harmful excess acid much as a sponge or blotting paper might and your stomach acts and feels fine in just a few minutes. Bisurated Magnesia can be obtained from any reliable druggist in either powder or tablet form. It is safe, reliable, easy and pleasant to use, is not a laxative and is not at all expensive.

NEW SONG CALLED "ELIZA" BECOMES HIT

A prominent New York music publisher, who has been responsible for "picking" a whole string of world-wide songs hits, such as "Over There," "Peggy O'Neil," "Three O'Clock in the Morning," was lunching in a Chicago hotel when he heard the orchestra play a tune that was new to him.

He was informed that the name of this snappy bit of melody was "Eliza." It persisted in his memory and he kept humming it over and over again. Finally, he negotiated with the writers of the song, Gus Kahn and Ted Fiorito, and a royalty contract was arranged. These writers were also responsible for "No No Nora," "Little Old Clock on the Mantel" and "When Lights Are Low."

"Eliza," the new tune now heard so frequently over radio, has a melody with a southern flavor and is in fox trot tempo. The singer of the song is a love-lorn youth whose heart yearnings do not appear to be reciprocated by the dusky object of his affection, Eliza.

These are the words of the chorus:

'Eliza, with those eyes that look so dreamy,
'Liza, do they shine because they see me;
You won't say "yes"—You won't say "no"—
You keep me guessing so.
Eliza, What's the reason you keep teasin'
'Liza, once you're warm and then you're freezin'
My poor heart sighs! For something that lies—
And lies in Eliza's eyes.

AT THE REGENT.

SINCLAIR LEWIS NOVEL FILMED.

Willard Louis Heads Brilliant Cast in "Babbitt," a Warner Picture.

Only such a master of characterization as Sinclair Lewis could have built up a "Babbitt," typical of the American business man of practical exterior, whose heart is young with dreams of romance. And, it is this story of "Babbitt," in all its realism and wistfulness that is being shown at the Regent Theatre to-day.

Sinclair Lewis, in his book, has drawn to the life, the important man of affairs, whose activities in the civic, social and business world of America has made this country what it is. He is hard-headed, shrewd, money-getting and practical, yet there is the side that never appears —that hunger for spring-time with its fragrance of romance.

That is the character that Willard Louis portrays in the Warner Bros. Classic of the Screen, "Babbitt." He is bored with his wife, Myra, as played by Mary Alden; tired of the constant quarreling of his children; weary of the colorless routine of his real estate office. Blindly he is seeking the "something" life is cheating him of.

Life to him seemed just a jumble of meaningless days—one as gray as the other. But it was his inner self that was real to Babbitt. Inarticulate, and not given to self-expression, it was in his thoughts alone that Babbitt lived as he wanted to—surrounded by beauty and color.

Willard Louis, in the leading role, is ably supported by Mary Alden, Carmel Myers, Raymond McKee, Maxine Elliott Hicks, Cissy Fitzgerald, Dale Fuller and others of equal merit. The story is adapted to the screen by Dorothy Farnum, while the camera work was done by David Abel.

FAMOUS DOG ACTOR STARRED IN ANOTHER PHOTOPLAY

Rin-Tin-Tin, Hero of "Where the North Begins," Has Role Written Especially for Him in "The Lighthouse by the Sea."

Rin-Tin-Tin, the famous "wonder dog" of the screen, is back in another picture, "The Lighthouse by the Sea," from the Owen Davis play of the same name. This picture is announced by the Regent Theatre management for a week's engagement beginning Thursday, and all who marvelled at this dog's amazing skill in "Find Your Man" are promised a still better treat in this Warner Bros. Classic of the Screen.

Background and "atmosphere" are always wonderful assets for a human star, oftentimes counting for as much as does his or her ability. The same as does his or her ability. The same rule probably applies in the case of a dog actor and, if it does, Rin-Tin-Tin ought to have the world at his feet. He has already proved that he has marvelous "ability" — and certainly nothing that lives or breathes could be possessed of more interesting background or atmosphere.

Rin-Tin-Tin is owned by Lieut. Lee Duncan, who served as a member of the 135th Aero Squadron, A. E.F., during the World War. He and his sister, Nanette near Metz tured from the Germans near Metz while they were young uppies. The names given them are those of a pair of famous goodluck dolls made and sold by the French during the closing days of the war because of an interesting, if gruesome, incident of the great conflict. For many months they were the pets of the aero outfit, Lieut. Duncan caring for them as their master.

The cast of "humans" is headed by Louise Fazenda, "Buster" Collier, Jr., Mathew Betz, Chas Hill Mailes, and others.

AT THE ROYAL.

HOCKEY RETURNS AT ROYAL.

The hockey returns will be announced at the Royal to-night for the Petes-Varsity game in Toronto. The Royal management are glad to be able to broadcast this information and patrons who can not be at the theatre may get all the details of the game by calling 'phone 1253.

GENUINE DRAMA IN "TIGER THOMPSON"

New Carey Picture Has Great Heart Appeal as Well as Thrills and Hard Riding.

With a picture like "Tiger Thompson," it is easy to understand why Harry Carey is one of the most beloved two gun hero of the films.

At the ROYAL Theatre yesterday, where this famous cowboy star opened a three days' engagement in his new Hunt Stromberg production, the audience discovered that a Western may have all the genuine drama and heart appeal of any other kind of screen entertainment.

Which does not mean, however, that the thrill element is lacking. The blast for the mine, the hair-raising rescue of the heroine from the careening buckboard, thetrain robbery and the trio of fights give "Tiger Thompson" all the punches that the excitement seeker craves.

But as it is not usual with such pictures, there is a logical reason for each thrill and underlying the entire picture is a human story whose leading character tugs mightily at the heart.

"Tiger Thompson" affords Carey his best opportunity at characterization to date. And he makes of the reformed bandit, whose efforts to remain straight keep him constantly in danger, a figure of genuine appeal.

Marguerite Clayton is a winsome and fearless heroine, and John W. Dillion and Jack Richardson prove what capable players they are by making the audience actually hiss them in certain scenes.

"Breezy" Reaves Eason, one of the screen's foremost directors of this type of entertainment, managed to inject numerous clever touches and kept the action moving at a fast clip every moment.

The Benny Leonard "Flying Fists Series" is the best of the six already revived. A Semon Comedy and Sport Review "Self Defense," makes a very good programme.

The music was an outstanding feature at the Royal, last night, with a seven piece orchestra in the pit the whole performance seemed to go with a snap that lifts it away above the ordinary. The overture from Flora Dera was very well rendered, ast also, the popular and incidental music. Music lovers will not regret a visit to the Royal.

AT THE CAPITOL.

King Vidor selected a story without a villain to film in "Wine of Youth," the Metro-Goldwyn picture now showing at the Capitol Theatre. The story is adapted from Rachel Crother's stage success, "Mary the Third."

The popularity of this type of story—in which there is no swaggering "heavy"—is one of the biggest advancements the screen has made, Vidor believes, and declares that character of the traditional villain, who pursued the girl from the opening title until he had been squelched by the hero just before the final clinch, was responsible for most of the artificiality and unreality of screen stories.

Villainy in the form of some one person has been replaced by the "mental heavy," the director thinks.

"We don't meet in real life heavily moustached scoundrels who go about forging wills and attacking women," he says. "Once in a while, perhaps, some of us do something like that ourselves but we don't have special characters and costumes for the purpose. Therefore we are all villains and villainettes at the same time.

"When we reach a point where we can create characters of that type in pictures; showing their good points and their bad ones, their worthy actions and unworthy actions at the same time, the screen is making a big step for reality."

The cast also includes Ben Lyon, William Haines, Pauline Garon, Wm. Collier, Jr., Bobby Agnew, Creighton Hale, Eulalie Jensen, Johnnie Walker, Niles Welch, Gertrude Claire and others. Carey Wilson made the film adaptation.

A very good comedy which completes an excellent programme is a Mack Sennett creation, with Harry Stone, in "Are Blond Men Bashful?"

Hockey results will be announced to-night.

FABLES ON HEALTH

Children's convulsions

One of Mrs. Mann's neighbors was telling her about a child that had convulsions.

"The child became as rigid," she said, "and his eyes were fixed and hands clenched. Why, it just made me feel dreadfully to see it suffer."

None of Mrs. Mann's youngsters had ever had convulsions. Yet, one could never tell. It would be well to know what to do in case any of them should have.

So she asked her doctor, and this is what she learned:

The possible cause should be looked for and remedied, yet there is no cause for immediate alarm.

The child should be placed in a hot bath as soon as possible, and cool cloths should be wrapped around the head.

After the child had been immersed, he should be lifted out, wrapped in a warm blanket and left to sleep.

Convulsions in children often result from a fit of indigestion, or the irritation from cutting teeth may produce them.

JOHN BRIGG DIED IN HOSPITAL TO-DAY

Aged Man Who Was Knocked Down by Team of Horses Succumbs at Noon.

John Brigg, 113 Brock street, who was knocked down on Saturday last when a team of horses driven by William Hutchinson, of R.R. 11, Peterborough, crashed into him at the corner of Water and Simcoe streets, died this morning at 11.45 o'clock.

Mr. Brigg was over eighty years of age. When the accident occurred he was taken to the police station, but was later removed to the Nicholls Hospital, where it was found that he was suffering from concussion of the brain.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

R.R. No. 3, Peterboro, Ont. Jan. 17, 1925.

The Editor, Peterboro Examiner:

Dear Sir,— With further reference to my letter of Jan. 15th on the subject of marketing poultry. I think that the buying public will be satisfied, from the facts given in that letter, that their only safeguard from buying diseased birds is to purchase them undrawn. Mr. Howard in his letter of Jan. 16th avoids this point and stresses the matter of price.

Like many others, who have no knowledge of the raising of poultry, he would leave the impression that chickens simply come home to roost and are to be found there when wanted for market. Those fifty odd (?) people who commended his attitude think the same way. Mr. Howard also states that the farmer has practically no overhead expenses outside of the market free of twenty-five cents. As a matter of fact the fee is only two cents per basket. No doubt those who go to market to buy will be interested in figures taken from an authority on this subject.

In the first place a day old chick sells at from twenty cents up. From 80 to 90 lbs. of grain is consumed by a bird in a year. The interest on original cost, depreciation and insurance on buildings and equipment will amount to about 30 cents per bird per year. Miscellaneous minor expenses should not amount to over 30 cents per bird per year.

The statement, that it is not possible to buy a bird on the Peterborough market without a crop surcharged with grain to the extent of from 1-2 to 3-4 pounds is an absolute mis-statement of fact. There is a Public Health Officer in attendance on every market day, whose business it is to check this up and he does it, as some vendors have known from experience.

If a bird could eat 1-2 a pound of grain per meal that would mean 1 1-2 pounds a day or 547 1-2 pounds per year. Does Mr. Howard care to challenge the official figures given above? If so the poultry divisions of the Agricultural Colleges at Ottawa or Guelph are very obliging with their literature.

In closing I wish to thank the editor of the Examiner for the space he has given to this question and I hope that the true statement of facts may bring about a better understang between the producers and consumers of poultry products. As far as I am concerned the discussion is closed.

Yours truly,
ALLAN R. MacNAB.

VOL. LVI., No. 17 PETERBOROUGH, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 21, 1925 PRICE THREE CENTS

PETERBOROUGH EXHIBITION HAS EXTENDED ITS SEASON ONE DAY; ROLAND DENNE AGAIN PRESIDENT

Past Success Warrants Running Fair Five Days Instead of Four.

ANNUAL MEETING.

Popular President Enters on His Eighth Term—Officers Returned.

Roland Denne was given little opportunity to withdraw from active leadership of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition at the annual meeting yesterday when he was enthusiastically returned for his eighth term as President. His protests were drowned in the applause that followed his nomination by Reg. Turner.

The other officers were also returned by acclamation, with the exception of the Board of Directors, where a few changes were made.

The officers for the year are:

President—Roland Denne.

First Vice-President—Reg. Turner.

Second Vice-President—Tom McIndoo.

Secretary—F. J. A. Hall.

Treasurer—C. S. Cummer.

Superintendent—Tom Brown.

Board of Directors.

Several objections were taken to the proposal that the whole Board of Directors be elected as it stood last year, and finally a ballot was taken in the usual way. The following Directors were elected:

Tom Brown, C. E. Moore, S. A. Oke, J. O. Ball, S. F. Milburn, W. Steinkrauss, W. H. Young, F. Holmes, J. Williams, Thos. Graham, J. Seymour, J. Gillespie, W. Roseborough, C. G. Graham, W. R. Breyfogle, E. F. Mason, C. F. Kitney, W. R. Shields, R. Grandy, W. Jordan, W. S. Merrill, K. Denoon, Geo. Paxman, W. Stewart, R. T. Lillico, Bruce Fowler, Harvey Webber, M. Geary, W. F. Turner, Gordon Matthews, J. W. Fraser, W. J. Nesbitt, T. H. Hooper, Vivian Milburn, T. Cruikshank, R. M. Glover, Geo. H. Duncan, H. Lush, Frank Dawson, J. T. O'Connell, V. Eastwood, W. H. Dunsford, C. H. Westlake, Gus White, T. D. Young, E. W. Wood, C. Hanbridge, W. Fallis, P. Card, Carl McLean.

New nominees for the directorate this year were: Vivian Milburn, C. H. Wesley, George Hooten, Joseph Grierson, Frank Dawson, Gus White, A. E. Prest, Bert Arnott, C. Hanbridge, Carl McLean and Alex. Edmondson.

A dog show committee, composed of Herbert S. Routley, Cecil Wolfe, L. Maguire and James McMartin, was elected on motion of W. S. Merrill, and added to the directorate.

Honorary Directors.

The Honorary Directors, elected by acclamation, are:

G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., G. A. Brethen, M.P., W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., Col. T. D. Johnston, M.P.P., Mayor J. J. Turner, the Warden of the County, George MacDonald, W. G. Morrow, Rev. B. Greatrix, Rev. Father Phelan, H. A. Morrow.

President's Address.

President Denne opened the meeting by presenting the following address:

"As this is the closing of the seventh year I have had the honor of being your President, I wish to thank you all again for your co-operation, also the citizens of this city and county for their financial support, in making the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition one of the best shows in the Province of Ontario. Without exception, I think you will all agree that last year was the best Fair held under our management.

"A few things for the new board to consider are improvements to the grounds, Dog Show building, enlargement to the Poultry Show building, more cattle accommodation, grandstand covered and lavatories for both men and women.

"You are all aware that last year the grounds were used as a community ground—what we have been striving to make them. They were used for the baseball games, football, military camp, Rotary picnic and Liberal picnic. No doubt we were criticized for not allowing cars in the centre field, but after spending the money on levelling the grounds for sports, it was impossible to destroy them, and I am sure it worked out to the advantage of all, as everybody on the grandstand could see all the performances without any confusion.

"I wish to mention that the Dog Show was a new venture and was a great success, due to Mr. Merrill and his committee, who worked hard to make it so.

34 BELOW ZERO OMEMEE RECORD

Village Enveloped in Frosty Mist When Thermometer Fell Heavily.

A WINTER SCENE.

OMEMEE, Jan. 20.—On Monday morning, the little village of Omemee presented an unusual sight from the hilltops, and many residents stuck close by the fireside when the thermometer registered 34 below zero, which was a sudden drop from any preceding day this winter. Many remarks were made by out-of-town residents, who, upon approaching the village, were enveloped in the heavy hoar frost which hung over tre valley. Towards noon, however, the temperature had moderated, and the residents of Cedarville, where the temperature is lowest, wore a more pleasant expression.

Wm. A. Bishop Fatally Injured in Parry Sound Camp.

LINDSAY, Jan. 21. — William Archibald Bishop, a resident of this town, was fatally injured in a lumber camp at Pakseley, Parry Sound district, a few days ago. The deceased, who was employed by the Schroder Lumber Company, was attending to a team of horses when one of the animals kicked him, inflicting such injuries that he passed away in the hospital at Parry Sound a few days afterwards. Bishop is survived by his wife, two children, his parents, three brothers and six sisters.

CHICAGO GRAIN MART SOARED AND SLUMPED

Price Records Broken—May Wheat at $191 1-4.

CHICAGO, Jan. 21. — (Canadian Press). — Wheat, rye and corn all shattered high price records Tuesday, but widespread profit-taking sales wiped out most of the wheat advance and the finish in corn was at some decline. Trading on a big scale, especially in wheat, continued to be the rule, with fluctuations rapid.

May deliveries of wheat reached a new peak at $1.91¼ per bushel, as against $1.90 3-4 yesterday and $1.08 7-8 a year ago. In the day's final dealings, the market was apparently dominated to a considerable extent by a report that Germany was buying Argentine wheat in a large way and preparing to sell flour to Russia.

Estimates were current that imports of European wheat for the month of January would be exceeded by the month of February.

IMPERIAL CONFERENCE FOR LONDON ABANDONED

Dominions Unable to Send Delegates—Discussion by Letter.

LONDON, Jan 21.—(Canadian Press Cable).—The correspondence of the Baldwin government with the governments of the British dominions and India in regard to the possibility of holding a special Imperial conference here in March to discuss the Geneva protocol indicates that the exigencies of parliamentary and other business render it impossible to hold such a representative meeting in London, and that the only possible course under the circumstances seems to be to endeavor by correspondence to reach a common conclusion of the issues involved. The British government has advised the overseas governments accordingly.

OLD FASHIONED MOTHER.

Musical House Takes Advantage of Tragedy to Spring New Song.

Co-incident with press reports of the San Francisco girl of sixteen, who, under the influence of jazz-mania and a set of night-life musical shieks, murdered her mother because the latter was "too old-fashioned," comes an announcement from a New York music publisher of a song prompted by the tragedy.

The song, which, according to the statement, is written in "good old time ballad style," is entitled "Old-Fashioned Mother." Bertrand-Brown is the composer. The chorus goes as follows:

"Old-fashioned ways of loving,
Old-fashioned sympathy,
Old-fashioned kindness, old-fashioned care,
That you tenderly gave to me.
Through ages yet unnumbered,
Down to the end of time,
Your love, I'll always remember,
Old-fashioned mother of mine."

CONFERENCE ON OPIUM TRAFFIC REACHES CRISIS

Disagreement and Disruption Seemed Imminent After Tuesday's Series of Sensations.

FIGHT U. S. PLAN.

Lord Cecil Declares Its Adoption Would Simply Mean Deceiving the World.

GENEVA, Jan. 21. — (Canadian Press).—So serious a situation developed yesterday at the International Opium Conference that many of the delegates walked back to their hotels last night after adjournment, frankly voicing the opinion that a complete breakdown to-day was a regrettable possibility.

Viscount Cecil of Chelmwood, the chief British representative, who is leading the fight against the United States proposals, said tersely:

"Things are critical."

He added dryly that he expected to be the first speaker at to-day's session, and that he would oppose the new suggestion of the United States for the suppression of opium smoking in the Far East within fifteen years, because he was convinced the adoption of any such plan would mean only deceiving the world.

Promote Smuggling.

Viscount Cecil declared it was his judgment that it was impossible to inaugurate now any fixed time limit for the abolition of opium smoking because of the heavy smuggling in the Far East. He added that he would make certain other observations to-day which courtesy to the conference forbade him to disclose last night. He insisted that all parliamentary procedure forbade any extension of the conference's scope, and hence the present conference was not authorized to take up the problem of opium smoking, which belonged in the agenda of the earlier conference, which was confined to countries having Far Eastern possessions.

Asked what he would do if the conference by a majority vote approved the United States motion to review the work of the first opium conference, Viscount Cecil answered that international practice required unanimity in conference of this kind. Certainly, he added, any powers placed in the minority could not be forced to continue their participation in the conference. He declined, however, to say whether he would withdraw if Great Britain found herself in the minority camp when a vote was taken.

Day of Sensations.

Geneva was treated to so much drama and sensation that it had scarcely recovered last night from the experiences. A clash at the forenoon session of the conference between Stephen G. Porter, head of the United States delegation, and Viscount Cecil, was followed in the afternoon by Ireland breaking away from the British lead. Michael Macwhite, the Irish Free State envoy at Geneva, came out flatly for the United States project and flayed the convention drawn up by the first opium conference.

His funeral took place in Toronto on Saturday from the residence of his mother.

FRENCH DEMAND RECOGNITION OF RUSSIAN BONDS

Essential Condition of Resumption of Relations With Soviet Government.

HERRIOT'S STAND.

Premier Also Declares French Ambassador to the Vatican Not Needed.

PARIS, Jan. 21. — (Canadian Press).—Four hours of debate in the Chamber of Deputies Tuesday did not suffice to end the discussion on the resumption of diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia and on the question of breaking relations with the Vatican.

Speaking of relations with Russia, Premier Herriot declared that recognition of the rights of France and French holders of Russian securities was an indispensable condition to resuming intercourse. He said that a French Ambassador at Moscow had been appointed to affirm those rights.

The history of France's relations with the Vatican was gone over when this subject was introduced, but M. Herriot insisted that "there is an enormous difference between former times and now; the Pope was then a temporal sovereign."

M. Simon, reporter for the Foreign Relations Committee of the Chamber, took the stand that the Holy See in modern days was entirely occupied with religious interests and was not concerned with nations; hence an ambassador to the Vatican was not needed.

The Premier paid warm tribute to the work of French missionaries, and said: "In former days, thanks to the wealth of France, Frenchmen were the greatest contributors to propagation of the faith. Nowadays, however, Americans easily bring by far the greater contribution and France's influence at Rome ras declined."

17 Chinese Pirates Captured By Police

HONG KONG, Jan. 21.—(United Press)—British police today assisted the Chinese troops to raid the Bias Bay district and capture seventeen pirates implicated in the recent seizure of the British steamer Honghwa.

The leader of the pirates was killed in a revolver duel with the police, after which his followers surrendered and were handed over to the Chinese authorities.

The pirates boarded the Honghwa as passengers, and overpowered the captain and crew after the steamer had sailed. Disabling its wireless, they forced the officers to navigate the vessel for three days while they robbed all the passengers and looted the safe. They then directed that they be put ashore.

THE WEATHER

The thermometer was again down to zero last night, and in the early part of the evening a strong wind prevailed for a short time. The result was seen this morning in heavy drifts in exposed places. A snow plough which came down from Lindsay this morning bore unmistakable evidence of the extent and depth of the drift in some places.—W.P.

POLICE INVESTIGATE TRAGEDIES OF NORTH

Take Charge of Burial of Mother and Children Burned in Home.

COCHRANE, Jan. 21.—(Canadian Press).—Coroner Graham is conducting an investigation, with the assistance of the Provincial Police, into the Bedour tragedy in Brower Township. N. Bedour is in the local hospital suffering from shock, burns and frostbite, but is in no danger. Provincial police are at the scene of the tragedy, and will take charge of the interment of the remains of Mrs. Bedour and their five children.

An inquest was opened to-day in the death of Ernest Frechette and Edmund Macquet, victims of the Canada Hotel fire here Tuesday morning. The only new development of the day was the discovery that Frechette came here from Windsor, Ont., though he is a native of the Province of Quebec. George Demers, local mechanic, who made a heroic attempt to rescue the proprietor's child not knowing that the latter was already out of the building, was said yesterday afternoon to be in a serious condition, but with every chance of pulling through. He is most badly burned about the head and shoulders.

BANK BRANCHES SHOWED PROFIT

Small Net Gains Wiped Out by Home Bank Head Office Deals.

WOOD ON TRIAL.

TORONTO, Jan. 21.—(Canadian Press). — In the trial of S. Casey Wood, Home Bank director, the evidence Tuesday afternoon was largely a repetition of that of previous trials when Major A. E. Nash, of the accounting firm which conducted an examination of Home Bank affairs after the closing of the bank, testified.

He submitted the usual statements restulting from the investigating detailing the transactions on the big debts and overdrafts which were responsible for the failure. He brought out the new evidence that the losing branches of the bank would have been forty-two instead of 65 if the funds of the various branches had not been taken to the head office and there lent out on losing propositions. The net profits of the branches for 1923 amounted to $15,000, which was swallowed up in the tremendous losses in Toronto and head office transactions. Major Nash said that, if he had excluded capitalized interest, there would have been a loss in the branches as well as a loss in the combined business of the bank.

DEATH SENTENCE PASSED ON PIRIE FOR KILLING WIFE AND CHILDREN

Trial of Ottawa Veteran Concluded in Five Hours —Strangled Three.

PRISONER CALM.

Judge Discourages Hope of Clemency—Jury Rejected Plea of Insanity.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 21. — John Buchannan Pirie, ex-Captain of the Royal Air Force, was sentenced yesterday to hang on March 24, for the murder of his wife and two young daughters. Exactly five hours later the opening of his trial, a jury of his peers found Pirie guilty, rejecting the plea of insanity on which the defense was based.

The ex-soldier, who had sat with bent head throughout the trial, stood quietly to receive sentence, when asked if he had anything to say he replied that there was "one lack in the evidence of one witness. Dr. McNaughton said I told him I took part in the South African war. What I did say so far as I know is that Dr. Argue told me I did. The prosecuting council indicated that I told a lie; that I object to."

The significance was that in a letter to friends, written in the jail, Pirie had said he could not remember his experience in South Africa which Crown Council drew attention to as conflicting statement by the accused.

Pirie some time ago made a confession to effect that he strangled his wife and two daughters. In a letter found on him when he gave himself up, he gave as his reason the fact that he was disabled, out of work, and unable to see his family starve. The letter also indicated that he contemplated suicide.

Before passing sentence, Mr. Justice Logie, remarked: "I don't think, Pirie, that you may sustain yourself with any hope for clemency."

Pirie replied," I don't, my Lord." and when the sentence had been passed, he added: "Thank you, My Lord."

Later, as he passed from the court house to a waiting vehicle, he commented on the weather to the sheriff who conducted him, in shackles, through the waiting crowd.

One alientist, Dr. McNaughton, of Brockville Asylum, for the Crown, stated accused was suffering from psycho-neurosis and not insanity. On the other hand, R A. Olmsted, for accused, placed before the court an unblemished record of service to his King and country that caused fever in India and head injuries in an aeroplane crash in England, which he contended have brought about a severe mental condition.

Pleads Not Guilty.

Pirie appeared almost in a state of collapse as he answered to the charge of murder, "on forethought, not guilty, your Honor." A man of 40, he presented a broken appearance, vacant eyes, under heavy brows, a receding chin, the picture of a broken man. His gaze wandered as the jury was empanelled, and throughout the proceedings accepted the crowded courtroom without interest. Many women were in the audience. War Veterans provided funds for the defence.

A post mortem disclosed, said Dr. Charles MacPherson, death in all three cases was due to strangulation, although the woman had been dealt a blow, causing a fractured skull.

Pirie had been asked by C. R. Woodburn, undertaker, to fill in an official form cause of death, to which he replied: "I don't know how I killed them."

A neighbour of accused said Pirie had always appeared normal, but accused had complained of suffering from headaches and severe pains in the head.

Mrs Lucy Gorman ,at whose home the crime was committed, said the Pirie, had full use of the house but only one bedroom. She knew nothing of the crime until the police arrived at the house. Mrs. Pirie had told her accused suffered from severe headaches.

His Mind Cleared.

Jail Governor Dawson said Pirie had made a statement to him in th jail in which accused said: "It is all clear to me now.. I struck my wife on the head with a stick, stunned her and then strangled her, and Joan and Kathleen came running in and I strangled them."

Dr. Glidden, of the Board of Pension Commissioners, first defense witness produced the military file of ex-Capt. Pirie, late Royal Air Force. Pirie the records showed, enlisted in Edinburgh, Scotland, with the 13th Hussars at the age of nineteen in January, 1900, for period of seven years. His first stripe came in 1903; corporal, 1908; sergeant, 1909; reverted to corporal 1910, and discharged on termination of engagement in 1912. In this period he served in South Africa and India, where he suffered from a heat stroke and fever at Bangor.

In the late war he enlisted with

CANDIDATES IN TWEED CONTEST

Rollins and Foster for Reeveship and Six Stand for Council.

TECHNICAL POINT.

TWEED, Jan. 21.—Two candidates for the reeveship and six for council have qualified for the special elections next Monday. S. B. Rollins and F. B. Foster are the contestants for the chairmanship; S. G. Way having withdrawn from that field to fight for a place at the council board with five other candidates—M. McEvoy, J. F. Houston, E. R. Huycke, C. S. Fawcett and R. S. Patterson.

A technicality in municipal election procedure has developed out of the charge that three of the councillors who had been elected by acclamation for 1925 were in arrears of taxes. It is understood candidates are not validly elected if the tax arrears exist at the time of election, although such candidates are not disqualified as nominees up to the time of election. However, the question has been asked as to how the law applies when nominees are declared elected by acclamation on the day of nominations.

The present bitterness is partly attributed to an alleged attempt to inject politics into the local municipal elections, and questions concerning an overdraft of $2,200 have added fuel to the fire of controversy. Of this sum, $1,400 is said to have been paid to the high school account, but the explanation did not satisfy and evidently did not convince some of the critics of the council.

Monday night's attendance at the nominations in the Opera House was estimated at nearly 800, and many in the audience had driven distances up to ten miles.

BOY ATTEMPTS SUICIDE AFTER MOTHER'S DEATH

Montreal High School Boy May Die from Wound.

MONTREAL, Jan. 21.—(Canadian Press).—Unable to bear separation from his mother, who died recently, Cecil Hill, 16-year-old High School boy, attempted to commit suicide here early Tuesday by shooting himself. A bullet from a 32 calibre pistol is embedded in his chest, near his heart, and he lies at the Montreal General Hospital in a critical condition.

Young Hill was found on the floor of his bedroom by a brother-in-law, who told the police that Cecil declared he had shot himself so that he could join his mother.

STUDY DEEP MINING.

Ontario Mines Are Developing Along Lines of South Africa.

TORONTO, Jan. 21.—(Canadian Press).—The intention of the Provincial Government to investigate deep mining methods in South Africa because of the fact that the Ontario mines are approaching a parallel period of development, was announced by Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines, in the course of an address, which he delivered last evening in the Engineers' Club, where he was the guest of honor at a banquet tendered by the Toronto branch of the Mining Institute. The Government proposed, Hon. Mr. McCrea declared, to send a representative to the World Gold Congress, to be held during the coming summer in Johannesburg, and to have him study conditions and gather data from the Rand Mines, which employ deep mining methods which the Ontario gold mines will soon be adapting.

After the ports were read, the ladies were favored with a vocal solo by Mrs. Johnston, which was much enjoyed by all, as as also a paper given by Mrs. Kerr.

Voice Of The People

ON UNION

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir.—The Rev. R. Pogue has come into print by means of a personal attack, with much fine Christian sweetness and dignity in it, for the reason, he says, that it is a question of general public interest. That being so, it appears to me in the interests of fidelity to truth at any rate that attention should be called to the fact that the Word of God is not mentioned in the basis of Union creating the United Church. The fact that the writers of the doctrine therein set out have skated all around it and have given their confirmation to a lot of high-sounding phrases, but do not refer to the Word of God, leads me at once to suppose that modernism which denies that the Bible is the Word of God is the true basis of union and I believe it so to be. Mr. Pogue will understand that I am making no attack upon him personally, but if he wishes to get back at me personally in the way he has done at Mr. Cowan, I can give him much information that would help him. Why was not Church Union hooked on to the O.T.A. and made compulsory? Surely it is just as important. Then we could have put the thumbscrews on Mr. Cowan or fined him $500 and at the very least shut him in goal.

J. H. BURNHAM.

Editor, The Examiner:

Rev. Robt. Pogue of St. Paul's Church, is strongly in favour of Church Union. This he has a perfect right to be. Many of his friends, however, as well as friends of Miss Maud Ackison, St. Paul's Missionary in Formosa, regretted to notice by last Friday's issue of the Examiner that, in his eagerness to support Church Union, he had used some of the private correspondence of Miss Ackinson to himself, and published it to show that Miss Ackison favoured Church Union.

Miss Ackison is the missionary for the whole of St. Paul's congregation. Members of the congregation who favour the continuing Presbyterian Chruch, as well as those who favour Union, are strong friends of Miss Ackison, and have contributed financially towards her support. Miss Ackison knows this, and while like Rev. Mr. Pogue she has a right to her views on this question, it is not to be presumed that she expected that the portion of her letter to Rev. Mr. Pogue would have been published just at this moment when members of the congregation are divided on the issue and shortly to vote on it. In letters received from Miss Ackison by some of her non-Union friends, she has coinfessed her lack of intimate knowledge of the full facts of the case. It is not to be supposed, therefore, that she desired or expected to be projected into the controversy in the manner Rev. Mr. Pogue has thought fit to adopt. In this connection I am authorized to state that relatives of Miss Ackison in the city, deeply regret the publication of this private correspondence, and believe that Miss Ackison will regret it also. While Rev. Mr. Pogue has published extracts from other of her letters from time to time, they have related to non-controversial matters, and could not be considered as a precedent for his action on this occasion.

Rev. Mr. Pogue further states: "Another feature of the Union movement is its passion for home missions. So oabsorbing is this passion to Unionists that they are willing to brush aside all minor considerations that they might give their entire strength and resources to the work of saving Canada from becoming a pagan country."

This objective is excellent, but we are doubtful if the eagerness referred to, is as intense as Rev. Mr. Pogue seem to think. Every day now we are reading in the daily press of ministers who have supported Church Union and who have resigned their charges, because their congregations have voted against entering the United Church. We have yet to hear, however, of the first case where any of these ministers have offered to go out to some of the mission fields in Western Canada, to carry on the work so much needed. Instead, we have been publicly advised that the new United Church is raising a special fund to provide for such ministers, until congregations can be secured for them. They have also announced in the press (see the Globe of 18th Oct. last) that some congregations are to be asked to take two ministers, and that such an arrangement has already been made at Brockville. If Canada is really in such danger of becoming a pagan country, and if there are such enormous areas in Western Canada, where no Christian services are being conducted, may we not ask if it would not be better if the new United Church, instead of raising a large sum of money to find ministers comfortable positions in Ontario or to settle two minister on one congregation, used these funds and these ministers for mission work in the West where the need evidently is so much greater?

Will they do it?

Sincerely yours,

D. H. MOORE.

ANNUAL MEETING CEMETERY BOARD

Two Hundred and Seventy-Eight Burials Performed During the Past Year.

The superintendent's report, made yesterday at the annual meeting of the Little Lake Cemetery Company, show that during the year 1924, two hundred and seventy-eight burials were performed in this cemetery, 36 foundations for monuments were built, 7 bodies were removed to other cemeteries, and 8 lots were put under perpetual care.

Besides this the report shows that many improvements have been made on the property during the year. A hot water boiler with sufficient capacity to heat all the greenhouses has been installed. A new brick chimney was also built, the cost of the boiler and the chimney was approximately $1,400.

Directors' Report.

The directors have pleasure in submitting to the shareholders their seventy-fourth annual report for the year ending 31st December, 1924, as follows:

Your directors have given every consideration to the matters brought before them during the past year, and the board have been very regular in their attendance at the board meetings of the company, each director doing his best to have the Cemetery kept in the very best possible condition.

During the year, lots were sold to the net value of $3,431.00, while ground was re-purchased from former owners amounting to $143.75, making the total sales for the year $3,287.85.

We received during 1924 from lot owners, $2,360.00, to be held in trust for the perpetual care of their lots, which is the largest amount ever received in any one year. The total receipts, therefore, from the sale of lots, and including the amount received as trust funds, amount to $5,647.85. Of this amount, $5,000.00 has already been invested in debentures, $3,000.00 in City of Peterboro Bonds, yielding 5½ per cent., and $2,000.00 in City of Victoria Bonds, yielding 5.50 per cent. The total amount now held in trust for the perpetual care of lots is $14,391.21, and the amount invested in Government bonds and other like securities is $54,013.41, which yields an annual income of $2,800.15.

The heating of the greenhouses had not been very satisfactory for the last couple of years, and after very careful consideration, your board decided to instal a new hot water boiler of sufficient capacity to take care of both greenhouses. The work has been completed in a very satisfactory maner at a total cost of $1,419.58. This, we think, will enable us to increase our sales from the greenhouse department, and the increased earnings will in a short time pay for the expense incurred.

In the year 1920, your directors decided to make provision for building roads of a more permanent nature in your Cemetery, and authorized the setting apart of 20 per cent. of the amount received from the sale of lots for this purpose. This rebuilding was started in 1922, and each year since, a section has been rebuilt, until we have now completed one road all around the Cemetery with several branch roads leading to the main one. During the past year this account was credited with $1,156.10, while we spent $1,786.07, leaving an overdraft in this account at the present time of $408.69.

During the year, plans were made for the laying out of a plot in the Cemetery for the purpose of private burial vaults. One vault has already been built, and there are some very desirable locations for sale in this section. We expect to build a new road through this section early in the coming summer.

In this connection, your company had a proposal from the Canada Mausoleum Company, Limited, of Toronto, for permission to erect a mausoleum in the Cemetery with 250 or 300 compartments. If at any time there are a sufficient number of citizens willing to purchase compartments in a building of this nature, we will be glad if they will notify the secretary to this effect.

Your directors have not as yet had any requests for such accommodation, but as I said before, if there were a sufficient number, your board would give the matter every consideration.

I would like to impress on the lot-holders in the Little Lake Cemetery, generally, the importance of their making arrangements with the Cemetery Company during their lifetime for the permanent upkeep of their lots and monuments, or leaving a sufficient sum in their wills for that purpose, so that there will be a sufficient sum for the permanent repair and upkeep of the Cemetery as a whole for all time to come.

The officers of the company have performed their duties during the year in a very satisfactory manner, and you will now have the pleasure of listening to the secretary's report and also the superintendent's on the year's work.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

(Sgd.) W. G. Morrow,
President.

Clayton Tucker Succeeds W. H. Heath as President—M. W. Sine, Sec.-Treas.

BALANCE OF $9.33.

STIRLING, January 20. — The Stirling Agricultural Society held their annual meeting on Monday afternoon.

The report of the work for the past season showed that the receipts were $2213.56, and the total expenditure $2204.23, leaving a balance of $9.33 at the close of 1924.

There was a fairly good attendance and those present manifested a deep interest in the work of the society. After routine business a nominating committee for the naming of the officers, composed of Messrs. McGuire, L. Meiklejohn, Cluxton, McGee, C. W. Thompson and William Carlisle retired. They soon returned with the following report:

Honorary Directors: W. S. Mortin, Esq., Ray Atkin, B.S.A., J. D. Mills, Esq., Morden Bird, J. B.

This report was adopted except as to the president named. Mr. Heath not wishing to hold the office for another year, one of the past presidents, Mr. Clayton Tucker, was asked to accept the position. At first he hesitated, but finally was prevailed upon to accept the position for 1925.

Mr. W. H. Heath, who retires from the presidency, was appointed director in place of Mr. Tucker.

Mr. Tucker upon assuming the chair, outlined what should be done during the coming year, and all those present seemed to agree fully with all he said, and the Stirling Agricultural Society expects to go ahead with better results than ever.

Mr. Tucker, who is a director of the Ontario Fairs' Association, was chosen as a delegate to the annual convention of the association which meets at the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, on February 4 and 5.

Messrs. Tucker, McGuire and M. W. Sine were chosen as delegates to attend the meeting of the Central Fairs Association which is to be held in Belleville, on Jan. 28.

The business of the annual meeting finished, a diretors' meeting was convened, and the secretary-treasurer's salary was fixed at $75 for 1925. M. W. Sine, V.S., was re-appointed to that office for the ensuing year.

Several committees were appointed to carry on some of the work and other possibilities were spoken of, which in due time will be made public.

OBITUARY.

JOHN BRIGGS.

The funeral of the late John Briggs will be held at the family residence, 113 Brock Street, Thursday at 1.30 and be conducted by Dr. C. W. Rose. This will be private. Another service will be held at Belleghem's Funeral Chapel at 2.30. The Orangemen, owing to the time of year, will hold their service there instead of in the cemetery.

MRS. ISAIAH FEIR.

OMEMEE, January 20. — After a lingering illness of several years' duration Mrs. Isaiah Feir passed peacefully away on Friday morning at the age of 61 years.

The deceased lady had been an invalid for several years, and had been confined to her bed for the past two years, where she received the patient and loving care of her husband and daughters, the Misses Olive and Ruby.

Mrs. Feir was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Thornton, and spent her girlhood days near Janetville. After her marriage she lived for a time near her present home, now known as "Feir's Mill," later moving to Peterboro, where with her husband and family she lived for many years. A number of years ago the family retired to "Feir's Mill," where they have since resided.

The late Mrs. Feir was a true Christian woman and beloved by all who knew her. She was a staunch supporter of the Presbyterian church.

The funeral service, which was conducted by the Rev. J. A. Black, was very large attended on Sunday afternoon, by many sorrowing neighbors and friends, many beautiful flowers being an evidence of the high esteem in which the deceased lady was held.

The remains were later borne to their last resting place, by two brothers, James and MacIntyre Thornton, of Janetville, John Magee of Janetville, R. H. Johnston, F. G. Sandy of Omemee, and Joseph Best, of Mount Pleasant.

Left to mourn the loss of a loving wife and mother, are the sorrowing husband and four daughters, Mrs. R. H. Johnston, Omemee, Mrs. Harry Feir, Manitoba, and the Misses Olive and Ruby at home; also two brothers, Messrs. James and McIntyre Thornton, of Janetville, to all of whom is extended the sympathy of the whole community.

ALL SAINTS HAD VESTRY MEETING

Canon Troop Took Part in the Meeting—Church Officers Elected.

The annual vestry meeting of All Saint's Church was held Monday night in the Parish Hall. The meeting opened with a hymn and prayer led by Canon Troop. Canon Troop then read a portion of the sermon on the Mount and spoke from the verses "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God" and Owe no man anything save to love one another."

The vestry clerk, Mr. S. T. Harris then read the minutes of the regular and adjourned meetings of 1924 which were adopted as read.

In his address the rector, Rev. J. D. Paterson spoke of the great progress that had been made in the past year. He mentioned the great work that had been done in repairing and renovating the buildings and beautifying the church property. He thanked the wardens, executive and members for unfailing support and the officers and teachers of the Sunday School for their constant efforts. In concluding, he announced that he had chosen as his warden Mr. Charles Lacheur and bespoke for him the same confidence and assistance as had been given the retiring warden, Mr. W. H. Buller.

VERY LIKELY.

It's funny what a difference just a few odd days will make, in the things that brought the kiddies Christmas joys. And it's funny to consider just how little time 'twill take to change the looks of different kinds of toys.

Today, poor little dolly hasn't any hair at all. One little limb is missing at the knee. She'd surely crash to pieces at the slightest little fall. She's as near a wreck as any doll could be.

The long tin horn is still in shape, but simply will not blow. The jumping monk's forgotten how to jump. A little toy, mechanical, refuses, now, to go; the colored molding clay's all in a lump.

Ah, yes, the toys of Christmas morn have met the usual fate. Old Santa Claus must look on in disgust. For all the little playthings that the kiddies thought were great have merely been a lot of things to bust.

At the same time, Commissioner Landis pledged his readiness to co-operate with the District Attorney in obtaining witnesses or in any other way.

Brothers, usually picked to try the most important criminal cases in New York County was assigned immediately by Mr. Banton to take charge of the probe which will be made under the special law branding attempted baseball bribery a fellony punishable by imprisonment of one to five years and a fine of not more than $10,000.

The suddenness of this development in the Dolan-O'Connell case, which came as a surprise to baseball men was coupled significantly with the hasty departure of John A. Heydler, president of the National League for advisory council.

Mr. Heydler gave no intimation of the purpose of the meeting before departing, but baseball generally interpreted it as bearing on the latest development in the bribery case.

This year, however, some public spirited men in Lindsay are going to assist and encourage this very worthy undertaking —the development of rural leaders.
